HOOVER SEEKS $150,000,000 AT ONCE FOR FARM RELIEF

President Announces He Will Request Congress for Appropriation From $500,000,000 Fund.

MANY SEEK PLACES ON NEW BOARD

Executive, After Signing Bill, Indicates He Will Give Major Crops Representation on Body.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 15. — President Hoover this afternoon formally announced his decision to ask Congress for an immediate appropriation of $150,000,000 out of the $500,000,000 authorized for the use of the newly created Federal Farm Board.

That there has been a rush of applicants for places on the board is indicated by the President's statement that he had received "several hundred recommendations." Eight members are to be named, at a salary of $12,000 a year each.

The Secretary of Agriculture will be an additional member, ex-officio. The President will name the chairman of the board and the members themselves will appoint a vice chairman.

Though the farm bill as finally enacted did not require a geographical distribution of the membership, the President in his statement said he would be guided "in a measure" by regional considerations. He indicated his acceptance of the provision carried in the bill that "due consideration" should be given to representation of the major farm crops.

Missourian Mentioned.

One of the names before the President is that of Sherman Housley of Malta Bend, Mo., former president of the Missouri Livestock Association. Houston has been indorsed by Senator Patterson and others of the Missouri delegation in Congress.

The farm board, it is expected, will lose no time in promoting the formation of "farmer-owned and farmer-controlled" stabilization corporations, through which the friends of the relief measure believe that better marketing methods, with resultant better prices for the farmer, will be brought about. How such corporation will be organized for each of the principal farm commodities. Special attention at the start is likely to be given to wheat.

Advocates of the new law have frequently stated that its success or failure will depend in large degree on the character of the administrative board.

Hyde to Ask Farm Organizations to Submit Names.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—President Hoover signed the farm relief bill today, thus making law the major part of his program intended to stabilize agriculture.

Secretary Hyde will request farm organizations and others interested to suggest men for board appointments. Mr. Hoover hopes that within two weeks he can select a board from this personnel and that already proposed to him.

Thus far Mr. Hoover has made no definite selections, but it is known that two being considered seriously are James C. Stone of Lexington, Ky., president of the Burley Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association, and Carl Williams, farm paper publisher of Oklahoma, and formerly a member of the Federal Board of Mediation.

Information available is that Aaron Julius Barnes of New York, former president of the United States Grain Corporation, nor Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, and foremost among the advocates of the equalization fee, will receive offers of places on the board. Both had been mentioned.

SCOUT AND SCOUTMASTER DROWN AT ROCKAWAY BEACH

Spitzer had ventured too far out and in answer to his cries for help Sanbafer swam to his side and began to pull him toward shore, but became exhausted and Sanbafer called for help. Paulina Kahn, residing in a nearby bungalow, swam out to their aid. She became exhausted attempting to tow the boy ashore. Life savers rescued her but both the boy and Sanbafer sank.

PROFESSOR HELD IN CO-ED'S DEATH ADMITS SECRET TRYSTS WITH HER

Confronted by Landlady at Jail, J. M. Snook Confesses Renting Room to Meet Theora K. Hix.

EVIDENCE FOUND IN AUTO AND HOME

Gloves, Hammer, Hair Pins and Hair in Machine of Ohio State University Instructor.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—Confronted at the county jail by a woman who told police she had rented a room to him which he had shared at intervals with Miss Theora Hix, slain Ohio State University co-ed, Prof. James H. Snook admitted to detectives tonight that the woman's story was true.

Snook is professor of veterinary medicine at Ohio State University. Also held is Marion T. Myers, graduate student at the university in the agricultural school.

The woman was Mrs. M. M. Smalley. Detectives questioned her at her rooming house and were told that a man representing himself as Howard Snook of Newark had rented the room in February for himself and "wife." She said he told her he was a demonstrator for a salt company.

He answered Dr. Snook's description and the woman was taken to the jail and Dr. Snook was called from his cell.

Mrs. Smalley greeted him with "Good evening, Mr. Snook," and Dr. Snook returned her salutation.

Thereupon he told detectives that he rented the room and that Miss Hix was the "wife," who shared it with him part of the time.

Left Hat Behind.

Dr Snook said he had turned the room back to Mrs. Smalley yesterday, explaining that he was transferred to Washington Courthouse, O., and that he took his belongings and those of Miss Hix from the place with the exception of a woman's brown felt hat, which was found in the room. He identified the hat as belonging to Miss Hix. He told Mrs. Smalley, according to the story both told police, that his "wife" would remain until Sunday.

He said he had been to the room several times with Miss Hix and Mrs. Smalley said she had seen the girl accompany him to the place three or four times. She said Miss Hix might have been there oftener.

Mrs. Smalley explained that the room occupied by the pair, was at the rear of the building and that they always came and left by a rear entrance, accounting for the fact that she had no more definite knowledge of how many times the girl had been there.

Wore Hat Night of Killing.

Some girls occupying another room in the apartment house identified the hat as belonging to the girl who was with Snook.

Detectives said they had uncovered the fact that Miss Hix wore the hat on the night of the killing and expressed the belief that she had been in the room shortly before she met her death. They refused to reveal the basis of their evidence.

An explanation of the presence of several articles belonging to a woman which were found in the automobile owned by Dr. Snook, was sought by police.

The articles consisted of a man's cap, a pair of women's gloves, both stained, a round-headed hammer, a woman's umbrella, several hair pins and several strands of light brown hair like that of Miss Hix, which were found in Dr. Snook's automobile. In his home detectives found a stained shirt, a man's felt hat, also stained, a jack knife with a smudge on the point and two suits of men's clothing, which had been freshly cleaned and pressed.

Fire in Furnace.

During the search of the Snook home, detectives found a fire in the furnace and prepared for an examination of the ashes.

Miss Hix's battered body was found on a rifle range near here yesterday. Dr. Snook, former holder of the world's record for pistol shooting, was taken into custody at the rifle range. Myers was arrested at a fraternity house after he had called at the undertaking establishment, where the girl's body lay, and had talked to Coroner James Murphy.

The girl's friends had told po-

AIR AND RAIL COAST TO COAST SERVICE STARTS

Passengers From New York Land in Kansas in a Day—Other Airplane Items.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., June 15.—The Cleveland airport was transfer point today for the first party of air-rail passengers traveling from New York to Los Angeles on a regularly scheduled trip, inaugurating a hookup between two railroads and an airplane passenger line in the first system of its kind in the country.

The travelers boarded a train in New York at 5 o'clock last night. The jump to the air here today was the beginning of a flight to Garden City, Kan., on the westward journey. There the passengers were brought back to train travel last evening for a day and night trip to Los Angeles.

Four planes took off today after the transfer of passengers was completed. Three of them were tri-motored 12-passenger ships designed for regular service on the line, and the other a smaller passenger carrier called into service when patronage on the initial flight exceeded the regular accommodations. The first stage of the journey was made over the New York Central Railroad. The Universal Aviation Corporation and the Santa Fe Railroad are the other carriers of the system.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 15.—Mayor F. X. Schwab and hundreds of Buffalo citizens bade farewell to a fleet of eight cabin monoplanes, which took off this afternoon on a 50,000-mile air tour. The planes will make Akron, O., the first stop on their year-long voyage, which will take them to cities of the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

The flyers are seeking to demonstrate the practicability of airplanes for regular commercial transportation.

Aerial Paymaster Carries $1,500,000 to Marine Posts

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The aerial paymaster is the rule in Nicaragua where U. S. Marines are scattered through inaccessible territory. The expeditionary forces recently have completed the payment of more than $1,500,000 to Marines in outlying districts. In many instances the payroll for the local contingent was dropped from the plane.

These payments "without any loss, extended over a great expanse of practically impassable territory and in relatively small amounts, very definitely establishes the success of aircraft deliveries of money," the Navy Department says in a statement.

DAWES TO SPEND FIVE HOURS TODAY WITH MACDONALD

United States Envoy, After Formal Presentation to King George, Leaves London for Scotland.

BRITISH PRESS STIRRED BY EVENTS

Conference Considered as Preliminary to Meeting of Hoover and Prime Minister on Naval Issue.

By John L. BALDERSTON, London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
(Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, June 15.—Charles G. Dawes, American Ambassador to Great Britain, was received by King George at Windsor Castle today, presented his credentials and in a chat of half hour explained to the monarch his instructions from President Hoover and the purport of his mission to Premier Ramsay MacDonald.

Returning to London, the Ambassador left late tonight for Forres, in the North of Scotland, where he will spend five hours tomorrow afternoon with the Premier.

The interview is thought to be fraught with great possibilities for the English-speaking nations.

"Tense expectancy" is the phrase with which J. L. Garvin, in the Observer, characterizes the attitude of the world waiting for the results of this conference.

"Much hangs on his first talk with the Prime Minister," Garvin says. "Its success will prepare the way for a meeting at Washington between MacDonald and Hoover, memorable in the development of the empire and in the organization of a world order. These are strong words, fit for tremendous issues."

A Tri-Partite Conference.

The entire London press shares the sentiments of the Observer that Ambassador Dawes and Premier MacDonald will arrange for the Premier, the American President and Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, to meet for the settlement of the naval controversy.

Public curiosity has been aroused to the highest degree by the unprecedented rush of the new Ambassador almost to the end of the island on his first day of incumbency and by the 30 minutes of conversation with King George, who was the first Englishman to hear the full story of Dawes' plans. It is the longest talk on state affairs the King has had since he became ill.

The ceremony of Dawes' reception at Windsor was stately, in accordance with tradition and custom. Foreign Secretary Henderson, with the Ambassador and Ray Atherton, American Charge d'Affairs, and Mrs. Dawes were met by a marshal of the diplomatic corps. They went up the hill to the castle in royal landaus, with outriders wearing blue and white liveries. But inside the audience chamber formality was cast aside.

All Dawes would say afterward was: "I found the King delightful. I don't know what the usual ceremonial is, but I just presented my credentials to him. After we had finished the ceremonial the King asked me to stay and for half an hour we chatted on various subjects."

Whatever Dawes said to King George—it is etiquette for the King to be informed, when he so desired, on all state matters—the monarch did not talk business with Foreign Secretary Henderson who, on his return to Brighton tonight to resume his interrupted holiday, said: "We did not talk about it. I have no idea what will be discussed between the ambassador and the Prime Minister."

Formal Court Announcement.

The court circular tonight contains the following official announcement:

"Windsor Castle, June 15, 1929. His Excellency, General Charles Gates Dawes was received in audience by the King this morning and presented letters of credence as United States Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the Court of St. James."

"The Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, M. P., Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, was present and had audience of his majesty, and the gentlemen of the household in waiting were in attendance.

"His excellency, the United States Ambassador and Mrs. Charles Gates Dawes subsequently had the honor of being received by the King and Queen."

YELLOW BIRD TO COMPLETE FLIGHT TO PARIS TODAY

Assolant, Le Fevre, Lotti and Schreiber Will Stop at Bordeaux for Refueling.

PILOT SAYS HE IS CONTENT WITH TRIP

"Terribly Hard Journey, but I Was Never in Doubt We Would Get Across," He Declares.

By the Associated Press.

COMILLAS, Spain, June 15.—The three flyers of France, Assolant, Le Fevre and Lotti, remained tonight for another sleep on Spanish soil before going on to Paris, goal of their flight across the Atlantic Ocean from America.

The Yellow Bird is scheduled to soar away from the beach at Oriambe tomorrow, taking up again its journey from the haven where it alighted at the end of its Trans-Atlantic trip last night.

By cutting across a corner of the Bay of Biscay the flyers will be over the soil of France within a little less than an hour after leaving Oriambre.

On their way to Paris they will stop for gasoline at Cazaux flying field near Bordeaux and then continue to Le Bourget field.

Yellow Bird Repaired.

Repairs to the Yellow Bird, which were made by Spanish mechanics this afternoon, were of a minor character but sufficient to delay the departure of the flying Frenchmen. They made one trial flight, which was at first thought to be the real departure for Paris, and returned shortly afterwards.

Arthur Schreiber, American stowaway on the big Bernard monoplane, remained with the French aviators and will be taken by them to Paris.

Comillas could not let the occasion slip by without a celebration and, as there wasn't time to organize a formal one last night, it was decided to have one tonight. The decision was made as soon as the flyers postponed their homeward hop.

Schreiber was invited along with the three aviators who have reconciled themselves to his presence and permit him to tag along as they go from one ovation to another.

Assolant Never in Doubt.

Lotti said that they would take him on to Paris in the airplane, put him up at the hotel of M. Lotti Sr., let him share in whatever festivities awaited them and when all was over they would send him home.

Pilot Assolant declared that he had never had a moment's doubt that he would succeed in the crossing once he had left the American coast. "But it was a terribly hard trip," he acknowledged.

"When we had reached the coast of Europe after having gone through a most violent tempest I thought by following the shore we would be able to get to Biarritz, refuel there and go on to Paris. But a little while before arriving here I noticed the gasoline was going to run out before we could get to France and happily I found this fine beach below me.

Content With Trip.

"I am satisfied with the trip. Naturally we would have been happy to have reached Paris without a stop. But believe me it would have been impossible last night in any case for we would have found ourselves in the center of a depression. That would have been fatal, I am content with the trip. I never doubted for a moment that it would bring us into port. In spite of terrible blows of wind and some mighty rough bumps, I never once had the impression that the machine would fail even in the slightest degree."

Not long after discovering the unwelcome extra passenger, Lotti said that the aviators were forced to go above the clouds. "During the early part of the night there

MORROW CONFERS ON CHURCH CONTROVERSY

Discusses Negotiations for Settlement With Mexican President.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, June 15.—United States Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow conferred today for an hour with President Portes Gil concerning the negotiations now going on for settlement of the controversy with the Catholic church.

While the Ambassador declined to make any statement after the interview, the fact that, after keeping out of the negotiations for a week, he has now taken a hand leads those in close touch with the situation to believe that negotiations may have entered a critical stage.

It was known that Morrow had much to do with bringing about opening of the negotiations for settlement of the dispute. However, he has observed a hands off policy since the arrival of Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz and Bishop Pascual Diaz a week ago. They have talked with the President twice.

Although the general view of the situation is still tinged with optimism, that optimism is less marked than in the early days of the last week. The moderate elements on each side are seeking to bring about a compromise providing for an interpretation of the laws now in effect.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL DAVIS SAILS FOR PHILIPPINES

St. Louisan Tells of Industrial Needs of Islands Before Leaving Seattle.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 15.—Dwight F. Davis, Governor-General of the Philippines and former Secretay of War, sailed from here for Manila today on the President Taft.

"We hope to inaugurate a policy of solid commercial development in the Philippines," Governor-General Davis said. "The Philippines need vocational training schools that will train their young men for important positions in business and industrial life. Their industries need encouragement and additional capital.

"It is hoped, of course, that the industries will be developed as much as possible by Philippine capital, but assistance will have to come from this country. We propose making the conditions of labor and the opportunities for advancement as attractive as possible."

RAYTOWN, Mo., June 15.—Mrs. Evlyn Helms, 29 years old, shot and killed her husband, Frank Helms, here today. She then turned the revolver on herself and pulled the trigger, but the weapon was empty.

MACHINE, LEADING RACE ON ALTOONA TRACK, IS UPSET

Veering to Avoid One That Skidded, It Rolls Down Bowl and Bursts Into Flames.

CLIFF WOODBURY, OF CALIFORNIA, HURT

Two Other Drivers Uninjured—200-Mile Contest Three - Fourths Over When Smashup Occurred.

By the Associated Press.

ALTOONA, Pa., June 15.—Ray Keech, who sprung suddenly from comparative obscurity as a dirt track racing driver to celebrity as holder of the American automobile speed record, was killed on the Altoona speedway at Tipton late today as he gained his last racing triumph.

Driving a brilliant race as he led the field through three-quarters of the 200-mile Flag Day event, the Philadelphian, winner of the Indianapolis race this year, was killed instantly in a four-car smash-up on the east turn of the mile-and-a-quarter board bowl.

Cliff Woodbury, California racing veteran, was injured seriously while Ernest Triplett of Indianapolis and Bob Robinson of Los Angeles, the other drivers involved in the accident, escaped uninjured.

Woodbury was conscious when taken from his wrecked car. Doctors said that he had escaped broken bones and that barring unforeseen developments he would recover.

A crowd of 25,000 at the race-track saw the machines, traveling at 119 miles an hour, smash. Silence settled for a moment, then the infield crowd rushed for the scene.

Keech Ahead for 150 Miles.

Keech had maintained a three-quarters lap lead over Louis Meyer for 150 miles. Bob Robinson, his red racer thundering into the east stretch, led the pack to the turn. His car struck a hole in the boards and the machine, out of control, shot to the top of the saucer, hit the guard rail, perched momentarily and then slid backwards into the infield, undamaged. The car glided out of the way of the oncoming machines. Keech veered slightly to avoid hitting the Robinson car. One of his tires hit an uneven spot and the machine was further deflected by the wreckage of the guard rail. The car upset and rolled down the bowl, crushing the pilot and bursting into flames. Blazing gasoline spread over the track and fire and smoke added to the danger to six other drivers still in the race.

Triplett's racer crashed into the mass of broken wood and careened to the top of the track, shrouded by smoke. The machine seemed to go over the edge of the bowl, but skidded safely to the infield. Triplett was not hurt and the machine was little damaged.

Car Fails to Infield.

Woodbury's car buckled against the wrecked rail and toppled to the infield, where he was trapped. Emergency doctors and nurses got him out.

Keech's skull was fractured, his chest crushed and his left leg severed at the knee. His machine was destroyed by fire.

The other drivers on the track succeeded in passing the barrier of wreckage. They rounded the east turn safely and halted at the judges' stand. Almost without official flagging, the race had ended.

The body of Keech will be removed to Coatesville tomorrow. His widow, who witnessed the tragedy, was in a state of collapse tonight. She was seated in the stands when the racing cars piled up on the speedway, and was among the first to run out on the track.

The speedway officials issued a statement, saying the track had been inspected and found in good condition.

Today's event was the eleventh on the Tipton track which was opened in 1923. In the initial event

When the planes arrived at Tulsa a delegation that had left Sweetwater this morning joined the flyers and continued with them on the last leg of the journey to Sweetwater. Among the delegates from this city were H. M. Colbert, publisher of the Sweetwater Daily Reporter, and Mayor C. W. Bryant. Shortly after arriving here this evening the passengers were guests at a banquet given by the City of Sweetwater.

Those passengers who are traveling to Los Angeles departed for El Paso tonight on the Texas & Pacific Railroad, and tomorrow morning will transfer to a plane of the Standard Air Lines for completion of the journey. After July 1, however, Southwest airplanes will be used on the last leg of the trip.

Advantages of air-rail passenger service were illustrated today by the passengers of the plane that left St. Louis. J. G. Begley of Tulsa had been in Toledo and wanted to return to Tulsa in time for his Saturday afternoon business. By taking the plane at St. Louis he saved 15 hours on his trip.

Dr. Snook was practicing at the rifle range when arrested. He had a bandage on his left hand and told police he had been hurt while repairing his automobile.

His story was that he had been in his office Thursday evening between 7 and 8 o'clock, the approximate time Miss Hix had gone to the university hospital to make arrangements for summer work at a telephone switchboard to help her through medical school. Before she left she said she had to keep a date and would be back at 9 o'clock, according to Miss Bertha Dillon, the girl she was to succeed. That was the last Miss Hix was seen until her body was found.

The girl's head bore marks of what are believed to have been blows from a ball-headed hammer, and cuts from some sharp weapon.

The body lay in the undertaking establishment awaiting the arrival of her parents from Bradenton, Fla.

Text Hoover's Farm Bill Statement

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 15.

PRESIDENT HOOVER issued the following formal statement, several hours after he had signed the farm relief bill:

After many years of contention we have at last made a constructive start at agricultural relief with the most important measure ever passed by Congress in aid of a single industry.

As it would have introduced many cross currents to initiate any movement toward the selection of the farm board until after the legislation was completed, no steps have been taken in this direction beyond the receipt of several hundred recommendations. It will require two or three weeks to make these selections. The choice of the board is not easy, for its members must in a measure be distributed regionally over the country, it must at the same time be chosen so as to represent so far as possible each major branch of agriculture.

Moreover, the board must be made up of men of actual farm experience and inasmuch as its work lies largely in marketing in conjunction with farm cooperatives its membership should be comprised of men who have been actually engaged in directing farmers' marketing organizations. It is desirable that the board should have in its constitution at least one man experienced in general business and one with special experience in finance.

I am asking for a preliminary appropriation of $150,000,000 at once out of the $500,000,000 that has been authorized, and as Congress will be in session except for short periods, the board will be able to present its further requirements at almost any time.

was thick fog and violent rain squalls for four hours, during which we had to make a real fight to hold to our course and there were times when it seemed we were not far from a disaster. But after four hours of bucking the worst sort of weather the depression passed and the night sky cleared. Le Fevre was then able to calculate our latitude again. We turned outhward somewhat and at 7 p. m. the coast of Portugal showed up ahead."

Planes Carry Parts.

Gasoline, spare parts and an electric self-starter were taken to the Yellow Bird today by Spanish airplanes sent from Burgos and Getafe. A thorough inspection in the machine revealed a stoppage in the carburetor and the Spanish mechanics worked for several hours to put it back into good running order.

Assolant, Le Fevre and Lotti spent part of a busy day perspiring over their airplane and its motor, while young Schreiber gave Spain the once-over and regaled the natives with an account of how "we" crossed the Atlantic and how "we" were going on to Paris as soon as the little matter of putting some more gasoline into the tanks had been attended to.

When someone suggested to Schreiber that there might have been enough gasoline to get there without stopping in Spain if he had not hidden in the plane, and pointed out besides that he had endangered the lives of his three hosts, the young man merely remarked that he had wanted to do what Lindbergh did and had just about done it.

They Get Little Sleep.

None of the French flyers got much sleep last night. Hospitable Spanish folk gave them scarcely a moment to themselves and after that they wasted a long time in fruitless attempts to telephone their families in Paris.

They were up early this morning looking over their machine and getting in touch with Spanish officials who promised to do anything possible to help them accomplish their desire to start again soon.

Lotti made arrangements today to hurry on to Paris alone in search of material necessary for the takeoff, but he abandoned the idea when the Spanish mechanics and material arrived.

In the morning the three aviators went to Santander to express their thanks to the civil Governor of the province.

The Governor felt much as the rest of this neighborhood, highly pleased that the French flyers had picked out this part of Spain to land upon after crossing the Atlantic.

Crowds Always With Them.

Crowds cheered them as they drove through the streets of Santander. Hundreds of automobilists and pedestrians visited the Yellow Bird on the beach all during the day.

There was not a moment when a crowd was not standing outside the hotel where the three Frenchmen and Schreiber spent the night.

The aviators had first intended to fly on to Paris late this afternoon and the tank was filled with gasoline for a start. But the work on the carburetor took longer than had been expected, and when there was not enough daylight left for a trip to Paris they decided to postpone their departure until early tomorrow morning. They will profit then by the expanse of beach afforded by low tide.

Vast Crowd Expected to Greet Plane in Paris Today.

PARIS, June 15.—The Yellow Bird, with its three flyers and its stowaway is expected to land at Le Bourget tomorrow and in anticipation of the vast crowds the Paris police by thousands have been ordered to take charge of the road from this city to the field.

Although the flyers acted against the wishes of the Air Minister, Laurent Eynac, he will be there to receive them when they arrive. Acting on a false report, which also deceived thousands of others and set them in motion this afternoon for Le Bourget, the Air Minister who was attending the Rheims aviation meet asked the World Flyer Coste to fly him back to Le Bourget. They arrived early this evening, having made the distance in 27 minutes.

When asked what he thought of the flight, Eynac made a shrugging gesture and said briefly, "They succeeded."

The crowd which meets the Yellow Bird tomorrow will greet Arthur Schreiber with mixed feelings. Rightly or wrongly, he is blamed for the failure of the airmen to reach Paris.

There is lively discussion of Assolant's American bride and every piece of news about her which French newspapers have printed is eagerly read.

The flyers might have made a night flight, arriving here at midnight, but the arrival has been deferred, partly not to disappoint the crowds who have already been twice to Le Bourget to greet them.

Assolant made an arrangement today by which he will talk with his wife in New York by telephone at 5 p. m. tomorrow.

Seville-New York Flight Abandoned.

shores of Moray Firth inside of 24 hours is a far cry for the normal leisurely diplomacy of peace times. In another White House, standing on a headland overlooking the Firth, MacDonald and Dawes will lunch where Prince Charlie stayed on the night before the Battle of Culloden. It belongs to Sir Alexander Grant, Edinburgh biscuit king, and an omen may be found in Grant's coat of arms carved above the stone portals—winged cherubs flanking the dove of peace, with an angel underneath looking at an hour glass through which run the sands of time.

After luncheon tomorrow, MacDonald expects to motor with Ambassador Dawes across the wild glen Furness moor, 40 miles of solitude, to Aviemore Junction, where Dawes will catch the night train back to London.

Thus the interview, including luncheon and motoring, will last barely five hours.

Origin of Conference.

Credit for the prospective British-American-Canadian conference is awarded by the Sunday Express to Edward Price Bell, Chicago newspaper man, who tells his version of his activities as follows:

"I came to London only three months ago and knowing that President Hoover was worried and grieved about the obvious lack of good feeling between Great Britain and America, I determined to do my utmost in a quiet way to secure some redress of the situation.

"Hoover wanted to establish the most favorable sentimental conditions as a preliminary to a policy of reduced armaments and the permanent removal of any idea of war in British-American relations.

"He made no suggestion as to how these ends might be achieved, and he put forward no single intimation on the subject. It occurred to me that only direct consultation between the British Prime Minister, the Canadian Minister and the President of the United States offered a really hopeful method of dissipating misunderstanding, confirming mutual trust, and opening the way to substantial naval cuts based upon the inviolable hypothesis of 'never a British-American war.'

"On my way to England I called upon Mackenzie King, whom I have known for years and he readily accepted the idea. Former Prime Minister Baldwin and Sir Austen Chamberlain accepted it with equal alacrity and expressed their willingness to take part in a talk. They were beaten, however, at general election, and in consequence I immediately sought an interview with Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. He jumped at the idea. Now the stage is set and I have every reason to believe that the conference will take place within a few months."

All the London Sunday papers make the Dawes trip to Scotland their chief news and all comment editorially. Ambassador Dawes receives a hearty welcome to his new post, and the general tenor of the editorials is that the British people are heartily with the idea of Anglo-American friendship.

THINKS TELEVISION WILL CAUSE NEXT MOVIE REVOLUTION

W. S. Paley of Columbia Broadcasting System Pictures Results in Theater and Home.

The perfection of television in broadcasting moving pictures with sound into the home as well as the theater will find the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation and the Columbia Broadcasting System prepared for this foreseen revolution in the two industries, William S. Paley, president of the Columbia system said in addressing the annual Paramount convention which opened yesterday at the Coronado Hotel. Announcement that Paramount had acquired a half-interest in Columbia was made yesterday morning by Paley and Adolph Zukor, president of the Paramount company.

"We hear a lot about television, but not many people know a great deal about it," Paley said. "One thing is certain, however. It is coming. Whether it will be in two years or five, it is sure to come. With our amalgamtion of interests, we are prepared. Columbia can lean on Paramount for the new problems entailing actual stage presentations for broadcasting. And Paramount has an outlet in presenting television to the public.

"It is hard to tell just how television will be handled. Whether it will be confined solely to the home or whether entertainment houses will also show it on the screen is still problematical.

Television and News Reel.

"It looks as though, because of the size of the theater screen and because of the attractiveness of well-rounded programs presented in the theater, television will somehow fit into the scheme of things there.

"Our imagination can run wild if we think of television in the field of the news reel and imagine seeing flashed on the screen with sound a news event of major importance as it is actually taking place."

First results of the amalgamation will be the broadcasting of a new series of programs under the auspices of Paramount and its subsidiary, the Publix Theaters.

Another announcement made yesterday was that Paramount will begin issuing weekly sound news reels. Silent news reels will be continued on the twice-a-week basis of the last two years, Emanuel Cohen, New York, editor of Paramount News Reel, stated. Preparations and experimentation for this project have been under way since last March. With the exception of the presidential inauguration, all the subjects have been shelved during the experimental period.

Machines on 32 Trucks.

In addition to 32 special automobile trucks mounted with sound recording machines, portable sets are being distributed throughout the world for use in circumstances where trucks would be impractical. Cohen said St. Louis, for the present, will be included in the territory "covered" by the Chicago news reel office and equipment. Later, if events justify the move, equipment will be put here and St. Louis will become the center of a territory.

"Paramount News has renewed its contract with the Associated Press, guaranteeing an arrangement whereby we receive first advices on news events throughout the country. By this arrangement, the Associated Press is the first newspaper service to supply its clients with still pictures of these events," Cohen explained.

On Three Special Trains.

Approximately 500 executives and distributing officers of Paramount arrived aboard three special trains Friday for the convention, the trains coming from New York, Chicago and San Francisco. Due to the constant improvements in filming and sound-recording films, the convention is primarily to acquaint distributors with the type of pictures being made or already finished for release during the next 12 months. Seventy foreign countries where Paramount pictures are shown, in many instances with sound or dialogue, are represented at the convention by the distributors in charge of these territories.

In addition to Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president and head of production; S. R. Kent, general manager; Ralph Kohn, treasurer; Sam Katz, president of Publix Theaters; Eugene J. Zukor, Katz's assistant; Sam Dembow, vice president of Publix Theaters, and other officers are here for the meeting which will run through Wednesday. At that time, domestic distributors and officers will entrain for an Eastern conference to be held at Atlantic City, N. J.

Star Rating Given Six.

Rating of the following players as stars, effective for all forthcoming productions, was announced yesterday by Lasky: Gary Cooper, Nancy Carroll, Richard Arlen, Evelyn Brent, Ruth Chatterton and William Powell. By the movie definition, this rating signifies that the stars' names will precede the titles of their plays in all announcements.

Today those attending the convention will be busy with sales policy discussions and the analyzing of new productions in regard to their adaptability to the growing domestic and foreign markets. Screenings of parts of or entire new films to be released shortly are a part of the meetings and serve to familiarize the distributors with the types with which they will have to deal. Screenings are being made at the Midtown Theater, especially prepared for this purpose.

Charles Skouras, Adolph Zukor and other officers of the corporation are to speak at a banquet at the Coronado Hotel Tuesday evening. Bookers and salesmen will be addressed by home office representatives at Wednesday's meeting.

Yellow Bird Crew Accepts Stowaway As Companion, Will Take Him to Paris

However French Flyers Freely Blame Him for Failure to Reach Paris—He Showed Signs of "Cold Feet."

By the Associated Press.

COMILLAS, Spain, June 15.—Whatever young Arthur Schreiber may think of his action in stowing away aboard the French trans-Atlantic monoplane Yellow Bird, the 22-year-old Portland (Me.) youth is getting a good share of the blame for the Yellow Bird's failure at least to reach French soil.

Rene LeFevre, the plane's navigator, was quite definite in thinking that the stowaway was responsible.

"We may consider ourselves very fortunate, although we much regret that we could not reach the goal of our voyage because of the presence of our clandestine passenger. His weight caused a higher consumption of gasoline and forced us to come down still short of Le Bourget," said Le Fevre.

The French aviators were greatly puzzled to know how Schreiber was able to get aboard the plane which was supposed to have been closely watched until the moment of the departure, from Old Orchard.

"On Point of Beating Him."

"When Schreiber's presence was first discovered by us I admit we felt such a wave of anger that we were on the point of beating him," said Le Fevre. "We felt that he had not only jeopardized all our elaborate plans but had even imperiled our lives. Then we began to feel sorry for him and finally simply accepted him as our companion, much as the added burden worried us.

"We had headed toward the ship lane but in the middle of Thursday night a strong wind and rain storm made us change our course. We thought of fighting on through by rising to a great height. We rose in fact up to the 7000-foot level, but the rain and intense cold forced us to come down."

"It was so cold up there that the thermometer showed several degrees below freezing," Lefevre continued.

"Finally 27 hours after we had left Old Orchard, we sighted the Portuguese coast, but what was left of our thousand gallons of gasoline was being rapidly exhausted and we realized then it would be impossible to go as far as Paris.

"It was then that we decided that we must come down. We followed the coast northward, but it was several hours before we discovered the beach which appeared an excellent place to land, so down we came."

Will Take Him to Paris.

Lotti took a more benevolent attitude toward the stowaway.

"No, we won't turn him over to the police," said the sponsor of the flight of the Yellow Bird. "He shared our dangers and now we will try to make come true his dream of visiting Paris. Afterward we will put him on a boat and send him back to New York."

When asked if Schreiber didn't have a touch of cold feet at times, Lotti said, "Yes, a little."

"Don't forget that we ran into some terrible weather, fog, wind and rain. At one time we got into a downward air current and suddenly dropped something like 2000 feet. That was enough to make the bravest man think things over.

Schreiber Became Fearful.

"I remember that once during the flight Schreiber leaned over to me and shouted, 'I don't believe we will ever get out of this.'"

Pilot Jean Assolant also had something to say about the stowaway.

"When Schreiber came out of his hiding place just after we left Old Orchard, our indignation was equaled only by our surprise," Assolant declared.

"We had noticed when taking off, that the tail of the plane seemed heavier than it ought to be. We had to open her up and give her everything we had to get enough speed to get off the ground."

PRIEST SHOT TO DEATH IN ROOMING HOUSE

Proprietor, Wounded, Said to Have Admitted Slaying; His Wife Beaten.

By the Associated Press.

WINONA, Minn., June 15.—Nicholas Brommenschenkel, 60 years old, Roman Catholic priest on leave from the La Crosse diocese, was found shot to death in a rooming house early today after an encounter between him and John Gira, 65 years old, who was wounded in the thigh. Mrs. Gira, 48 years old, had been beaten on the head.

Chief of Police Riebau said Gira, whose wife runs the rooming house, confessed shooting Brommenschenkel and striking his wife with a baseball bat. Gira charged his wife shot him in the thigh, but she said the pistol was accidentally discharged as she tried to wrest it from his hand.

County Attorney Owen said Gira was jealous of his wife's ministrations to the priest, who was ill and had lived at the rooming house for five years. Mr. and Mrs. Gira were married last January. Both were held without charge pending an inquest.

Gira in a statement to the County Attorney, charged that the priest had beaten him twice after his wife had repeated remarks he had made.

RAY KEECH, AUTO RACER, KILLED IN FOUR-CAR CRASH

"Howdy" Wilcox lost his life. In the following year Joe Boyer was killed. Keech was the third to end his career on the speedway.

Keech's death came the only when victory in today's race lay just 50 miles ahead, but shortly after official announcement had been made that he would attempt next year to regain the world's speed record now held by Maj. H. O. D. Seagrave.

Keech, with a record of 207.55 miles an hour at Daytona Beach, held the fastest time ever set by an American.

Race officers announced prizes would be awarded to the drivers in the order of their positions when the race ended. This would give Keech first money of $4500; Meyer, second; Woodbury, third, and Cliff Bergere, fourth. The order of the others was: Ernest Triplett, Fred Winnai, Dave Evans, Bob Robinson and Jimmy Gleason.

Four drivers—Lou Moore, Bill Lindau, Speed Gardner and Chester Gardner—were forced out of the race.

Keech Won Indianapolis Race This Year, Getting $40,000 Prize.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—Ray Keech was 28 years old and began his motoring activities as a truck driver, piloting huge vans up and down the White Horse pike between Atlantic City and Philadelphia.

His record performance was made with the Triplex Special, owned by J. M. White of Philadelphia. He drove the car at a speed of 207.55 miles an hour at Daytona Beach in 1928.

Keech won the Memorial day classic at Indianapolis this year, covering the 500 miles in 5:07:25, which brought him about $40,000 prize money. This contest was his second major competitive race, he having finished fourth in the Indianapolis grind in 1928.

He was born in Coatesville, Pa. When 19 years old he married Miss Sarah Stinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Stinger, who conduct a confectionery store in Phoenixville, Pa.

SLAIN BEER RUNNER WAS SHOT IN THE BACK

District Attorney at Plattsburgh, N. Y., to Question Border Patrol.

By the Associated Press.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 15.—Two unidentified men in the uniform of customs border patrolmen who carried the body of Arthur Gordon, 22 years old, of this city to a local hospital last night, then disappeared, were sought tonight by the Sheriff and District Attorney of Clinton County for questioning.

Gordon, an autopsy showed, was shot down from behind.

District Attorney B. Loyal O'Connell, who is investigating the shooting, with Sheriff George Brunet, said he learned that Gordon the night piled 27 cases of beer in a car at a loading station about a mile north of the Canadian border and started for the New York side.

The nearest customs station is at Mooers, about 20 miles north of here. O'Connell called this station today and was told by one of the officers there that no one at the station knew about any shooting. O'Connell said he intended to subpena all officers stationed at the Mooers office for questioning.

DAYTON POLOISTS VICTORS DESPITE 8-GOAL HANDICAP

Visiting Club Wins 16 to 15 From St. Louis Players—Second Game Today.

OHIOANS WERE BETTER MOUNTED

Seventh Chukker Ends 14-14—Close Contest at the Finish With Ball in Midfield.

The Miami Valley Hunt and Polo Club of Dayton, O., defeated the Redbirds of the St. Louis Country Club here yesterday in a game of polo calculated to prove that icy deliberation and furious speed in combination are possible—and devastating.

St. Louis, under ratings of the American Polo Association, had the advantage of an eight-goal handicap. But the Dayton team overcame the handicap—despite some effective scoring by the local team—smoothly and inexorably.

Until the last tap of the bell St. Louis had a chance to win. The half ended 13 to 9 in favor of St. Louis Country Club, which actually had scored five goals to the visitors' nine. Goal by goal the visitors overhauled the Redbirds. Not until the seventh chukker did they tie the score at 14. Before the period ended Dayton had forged ahead. Dayton scored again after a bitter struggle in the last period. St. Louis retaliated and again had driven the ball to mid-field in a last desperate attack when the bell ended the game at 16-15 in favor of Dayton.

Second Game Today.

The Redbirds have a chance to come back this afternoon, when a second game will be played on the polo field at Price and Ladue roads at 3:30 o'clock. The game is open to the public. Following the tertcity match, a six-chukker game will be played by the American Polo Club and the Bluebirds of the St. Louis Country Club. The players, at positions from No. 1 to No. 4 in the order named will be: John C. Roberts, Barney Benson, Jack Krey and Jules Van Raalte of the American Polo Club and William Goltra, George Niedringhaus Jr. and Clinton Whittemore for the Bluebirds, with the veterans George Simmons and Eugene Williams alternating at No. 4.

Dayton's advantage in mounts was a factor in yesterday's victory. The field was smooth, but decidedly soft after recent downpours. Clouds began appearing in the sky after the start of the game and once an airplane flew above the field.

St. Louis led off with a goal by Mahlon K. Love Jr., paired in 30 seconds by Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., to release the local team's margin of 1 to 0. And then Colin Gardner of Dayton, who was to make seven goals, scored his first. Howell Gerard followed. Actually, each team had scored twice, but, with Gardner's handicap, the period ended at 4 to 2 for the Redbirds.

Visitors Score Steadily.

From then on the visitors forged steadily ahead. The second chukker ended at 5 to 10, the third at 7 to 11, the fourth at 9 to 13, the fifth at 11 to 12, and the sixth at 13 to 14. In the first minute of the seventh chukker, Dayton put down the field to the St. Louis goal. The ball bounced from the goal-post, but Gardner drove it through to tie the score. Six minutes and a half of bitter contest intervened before Gardner got away and scored again just as the bell rang, placing the visitors ahead at 15 to 14.

Dayton made a flashing attempt to head off the last period with a seventh score, but Wallace saved for St. Louis. Once G. Howard Niedringhaus, cool and experienced star for St. Louis, passed through the line of players, but the Dayton men were riding hard and passed the ball back down the field. Twice Niedringhaus saved the goal for St. Louis when the ball was right at the posts.

With three and one-half minutes to play, Dayton flashed down the field with the ball and Mead Wallace scored for St. Louis. Dayton drove out. With 30 seconds to play and one goal needed to tie the score, St. Louis made a heading drive for the goal when time ended the game with the ball in midfield.

Teams:

Dayton—Mead, Miami Valley Hunt and Polo Club, No. 1; E. C. Simmons II, Country Club, C., No. 2; Mahlon B. Talbot, C. J. No. 3; E. C. Love Jr., Howard, J. No. 4; G. Hayward Gardner, Jr., Country Club, C., No. 5; Colin Gardner, Jr., Country Club, C., No. 7. No. 2; Mahlon B. Talbot, C. J. No. 3; E. C. Love Howard, J. No. 4; G. Hayward Gardner, Jr., Country Club, C., No. 5; Colin Gardner, Jr., Country Club, C., No. 7.

St. Louis—No. 1, E. C. Simmons II; No. 2, Mahlon K. Love Jr.; No. 3, Mahlon B. Wallace Jr.; No. 4, G. Howell Gerard; No. 5, G. Howard Niedringhaus; No. 7, Colin Gardner.

Referee—George Simmons and Eugene Williams. Timekeeper — Tom Boulder.

Report Review of the Details of Play.

The visitors displayed somewhat better teamwork and had an occasional advantage in mounts. Most of the St. Louis ponies were tired with them, but one slow period is enough to decide a game. Outstanding among the players of both teams was the Seventh Chukker Ends 14-14—Close Contest at the Finish With Ball in Midfield.

The Miami Valley Hunt and Polo Club of Dayton, O., defeated the Redbirds of the St. Louis Country Club here yesterday in a game of polo calculated to prove that ...ry deliberation and furious ...ed in combination are possible ...and devastating.

...St. Louis, under ratings of the ...merican Polo Association, had ...n advantage of an eight-goal ...andicap. But the Dayton team ...vercame the handicap—despite ...me effective scoring by the local ...en—smoothly and inexorably.

...Until the last tap of the bell St. ...uis had a chance to win. The ...tter ended 13 to 9 in favor of St. ...uis Country Club, which actual... had scored five goals to the ...itors' nine. Goal by goal the ...itors overhauled the Redbirds. ...d until the seventh chukker did ...y tie the score at 14. Before ...e period ended Dayton had ...rged ahead. Dayton scored ...ain after a bitter struggle in ...e last period. St. Louis retal...ted and again had driven the ball ...o mid-field in a last desperate ...ack when the bell ended the ...me at 16-15 in favor of Dayton.

Second Game Today.

The Redbirds have a chance to ...me back this afternoon, when a ...cond game will be played on the ...ub field at Price and Ladue roads ...t 2:30 o'clock. The game will be ...en to the public. Jr. and Clinton Whittemore ...r the Bluebirds, with the ...ames George Simmons and ...ome Williams alternating at ...

...Dayton's advantage in mounts ...as a factor in yesterday's victory. ...The field was smooth, but deeply soft after recent downpours. Clouds began appearing ...n after the start of the game ...nce an airplane flew above the field.

St. Louis led off with a goal by ...Love Jr., paired in 30 seconds by Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., to ...ease the local team's margin to ...2. And then Colin Gardne of ...ton, who was to make seven ...oals, scored his first. Howell ...ollowed followed. Actually, each ...had scored twice, but, with ...handicap, the period ended at ...12 for the Redbirds.

Visitors Score Steadily.

...Dayton then on the visitors forged ...steadily ahead. The second chukker ended at 5 to 10, the third at 11, the fourth at 9 to 13, ...then at 11 to 13, and the sixth at 14 to 14. In the first minute ...of the seventh chukker, Dayton ...drove down the field to the St. ...Louis goal. The ball bounced from ...a hoof, but Gardner drove it ...through to tie the score. Six ...minutes and a half of bitter con...test intervened before Gardner got ...away and scored again just as the ...gong rang, placing the visitors ...ahead at 15 to 14.

...Dayton made a flashing attempt ...to ward off the last period with a ...fourth score, but Wallace saved ...for St. Louis. Once G. ...In the three and one-half minutes of play, Dayton flashed down the field with the ball and Mead ...and Wallace scored for St. ...Louis. Dayton drove out. With ...the ball ready to play and one goal ...apiece to tie the score, St. Louis ...began a headlong drive for the ...goal and when time ended the ...visitors had the ball in midfield.

St. Louis 15. (Dayton ...16 on 8-goal handicap). Fouls ...Howell—George Simmons and ...Goltra. Timekeeper — Tom ...Keller.

Review of the Details of Play.

...Visitors displayed somewhat ...ragged teamwork and had an ...advantage in mounts. ...Against the St. Louis ponies ...mounted with them but one slow ...period is enough to ...tell. Outstanding among ...both teams was the ...bay mare ridden by Mr. Mead of Dayton in the second and seventh chukkers, an Argentine pony which played in last year's internationals.

Mr. Niedringhaus played his defensive game very strongly, but the forwards seemed unable to get on the ball as quickly as they might. Mr. Love played a good game, taking into consideration that this is his first year in match play and he was not as well mounted as he might have been.

All in all it was a very clean and beautiful game to watch. It was played without a foul.

MORE WOMEN THAN MEN ON THE SIDELINES

By MARGARET ALLEN RUHL.

A small but enthusiastic group of polo devotees grouped themselves in comfortable garden chairs on the velvety shaded terrace of the St. Louis Country Club yesterday afternoon and vociferously applauded the unsuccessful efforts of the Red Birds to outplay the Miami Valley Hunt and Polo Club of Dayton, O., in the first match game of the season.

Feminine guests far outnumbered the men, many of whom were busy with games of their own on the tennis courts or golf links and watched the progress of the polo chukkers intermittently. The attractive out-of-doors swimming pool proved popular as a side gallery and certainly a comfortable one, for the swimmers could lounge in their bathing suits at pool-side tables between dips and still have a clear view of the game. Bridge games were in progress there too, a bit desultory perhaps because the interest seemed chiefly to center in acquiring the fashionable sun tan.

Sports Clothes Predominate.

Clothes for the most part were entirely of the sports variety, with a few chiffons and printed silks worn by the older women. Large hats, both of hairbraid and rough straw were much in evidence, and the shoes ranged in color and style from colored kid matching costumes to combination sports oxfords.

One of the most attractive of the sun-back frocks was in chartreuse green crepe and was worn by Mrs. David Randolph Calhoun, who sat with a large group of the young smart set at one end of the terrace. Another well-dressed member of the same group was Mrs. Pelham Turner, in a pink knitted costume, with which she wore a rose felt hat of a deeper shade banded in dark rose. White predominated, and Mrs. Cupples Scudder, Mrs. Eugene F. Williams Jr., Miss Janet Wallace and Mrs. Carl Koehler each wore becoming white frocks. Mrs. Williams wore coral jewelry with her, and a rough straw hat banded in braided straw of various tints. Others in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Gates Williams, Mrs. William Harrison Luyties, Mrs. Kenneth Drummond and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Cuendet, the latter in beige crepe with a hat to match; Mrs. Marion Niedringhaus and Mr. and Mrs. John Rutledge Shepley. Mrs. Shepley wore a red and white checkered sports frock. Mrs. Turner had as her guest Mrs. Colin Gardner, wife of a visiting player, in a rose cape-back ensemble and ballibunti hat.

Near by sat Mrs. Henry McRee, who looked well in a blue and white printed silk with a wide leghorn hat banded in blue velvet, and her sister, Mrs. Gustovo di Rosa of Boston, who is visiting here prior to her departure with Mr. and Mrs. McRee for a summer trip. Mrs. di Rosa wore red and white print with a white skirt bordered in red and a scarlet hat of felt. They sat in a group with Mr. Allen T. West.

Some More Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Dozier entertained Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wardell of New York, who are their guests. Mrs. Dozier was in pink crepe with a two-toned scarf in contrasting shades, and a broad-brimmed black hat. Near them sat Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ellis Wright with a party of friends, and Mrs. Horace W. Soper with her mother, Mrs. Alonzo B. Holcombe.

Mrs. Robert Holmes, her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Howard Holmes, and Mrs. Robert H. Kelser were together and were joined by Miss Mary Lionberger and Mrs. Edward F. Goltra, and later by Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Philip Hilts. Mrs. Goltra's sister, Mrs. J. Dwight Dana in an attractive black and white print in lightening design stayed for a few moments of the game.

Among the early arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. Charles White Scudder, who sat with Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Pryor. Mr. Pryor is president of the Country Club. Miss Medora Steedman wore an afternoon costume of pink and lavender flowered chiffon, with a two-toned ribbon girdle and hairbraid hat trimmed with blue and white violets, and purple kid slippers.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Lewis and their small son were there, as were Andrew Johnson, Harry Potter, Thomas K. Niedringhaus Jr., Mrs. Donaldson Lambert, Miss Ellen Bates, Mrs. Albert T. Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Faust, J. D. Wooster Lambert and George Lea Lambert.

Polo Dinner After Contest.

The annual polo dinner, given by the St. Louis Country Club team for the visiting players and their wives, was a fitting close for the entertainment. The table was laid on the enclosed veranda, and represented a fully equipped polo field banked at either end with spring flowers. A miniature grandstand was substituted for the terrace, but otherwise the doll players on tiny wooden ponies, the scoreboard, reserve ponies for each team and even the painted goal posts were in exact reproduction of the playing field. Multi-colored flags floated from suspended wires overhead and lights were dimmed by tinted shades.

In the dining rooms tables were laid for varying numbers of guests. Mr. and Mrs. Dozier entertained 85; Miss Roccena Baldwin 29, and smaller parties were given by Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Whittemore, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Faust, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bernard Behr, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Skinnker Maffitt, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. Porter Tirrill and Maj. R. J. Lockwood. There were special entertainment features including a group of dancers from the Garden Theater.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Williams will have a luncheon for the visiting team at their home in the St. Louis Country Club grounds and after a second game this afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr. will entertain a group of friends at a buffet supper in their garden.

TOY CANNON BURSTS AS SIX BOYS INSPECT IT; ONE KILLED

Another Injured and Side of Garage Torn Out by Explosion at Chicago.

The explosion of the cannon tore out a side of the garage at young Regnery's home in Hinsdale, a suburb. The device had been jammed full of gunpowder. The boys lighted a fuse and hurried from the garage to await the explosion. After a delay the boys, headed by Theobald and Regnery, started back into the garage just as the blast occurred.

HEARING ON SUITS TO PROTECT LOTTO

Judge Mulloy Takes Under Advisement Actions to Enjoin Interference by Sheriff.

Two suits to enjoin Sheriff Lill of St. Louis County from further interference with lotto games were taken under advisement yesterday by Circuit Judge Mulloy at Clayton, after four hours' testimony.

Plaintiffs are Robert Boothe, who operates Wellston Hall, 6218 Easton avenue, and Ernest J. Weis, proprietor of Lindy Hall, 6310 Easton. Both testified that they did not operate lotto games, but merely rented their halls to lotto operators. Boothe said he received $7 for the use of the place in the afternoon and $9 at night. Weis, who explained that his hall was larger, received $10 in the afternoon and $15 at night. Both said that the Sheriff Lill's order was wrongfully depriving them of income.

Boothe testified that he closed his establishment April 11, last, at Lill's request. The Sheriff gave him no reason for ordering lotto discontinued, Boothe said, except to state: "Those are my orders."

The method of play was explained to the Court by several witnesses. Weis testified that 30 organizations, including schools and churches, had rented his hall to give lottoes since Jan. 1.

Judge Mulloy told the attorneys and litigants that he would have two questions to decide, whether lotto was illegal and whether lotto games were nuisances. Boothe's attorney presented a petition signed by 100 Wellston business men who oppose the closing of the games.

BISHOP CANNON FOR CHAIN PAPERS TO AID DRY CAUSE

Methodist Leader Wants Dailies That Will "Place Moral Betterment Above Cash Box."

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., June 15.—Establishment by the church of chains of daily newspapers that would "place the truth and moral betterment of the people above the cash box" was advocated today by Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in an address before the Florida Methodist conference in session here today.

Asserting that "the secular press actually is leading the fight against the Eighteenth Amendment," Bishop Cannon said; "If the moral forces of the nation want assistance from the press for the betterment of moral conditions, the practical way to secure it is to buy or establish newspapers which will sincerely and aggressively stand for the truth, justice and righteousness."

The Methodist leader suggested that such papers be "strategically located in centers of population."

BOY STOLE TO BUY GIFTS FOR MOTHER

Lad, 14, Obtained $400 in Small Sums by Juggling Accounts.

A 14-year-old office boy, who stole small sums of money from his employers and saved it to buy furniture for his widowed mother's home, was taken into custody yesterday and lodged in the House of Detention for trial in Juvenile Court.

He was arrested at the request of Mrs. Mary Bowman, vice-president of the Charles Bowman Printing Co., 212 Olive street, who had confirmed a suspicion that the boy was juggling figures in the firm's "parcel post book."

Each day the boy carried parcel post packages to the postoffice with cash and a notebook in which the receiving postal clerk noted the amount of postage the boy had paid. For several months, he told police, he had changed the figures before returning to the printing office, appropriating small amounts which he said totaled about $400. Yesterday he raised the postage figure from 34 cents to 84 cents and Mrs. Bowman discovered the change.

At the boy's home, police took charge of a radio, a desk, a table lamp, some chairs and a wrist watch which the boy said he had bought for his mother with the stolen money. He had told her he saved his tips.

THIRD INDICTMENT IN KILLING OF POLITICIAN IN ROADHOUSE

Indiana Grand Jury Accuses Marvin U. Cramer, 24, of Involuntary Manslaughter.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 15.—The St. Joseph County grand jury yesterday returned an indictment charging Marvin M. Cramer, 24 years old, Mishawaka with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting a week ago of Edward J. Blankert, 35, of Mishawaka, in a roadhouses brawl.

Alex Sievers, a Justice of Peace in Elkhart, and Hawley O. Burke, an Elkhart attorney, along with Cramer were indicted on charges of rioting.

Blankert, a Mishawaka pool room operator and politician, was shot to death in the roadhouse following a fight which was alleged to have started when one of the men, said to have been Sievers, declared there were "no white men in St. Joseph County." Following this remark, according to the story told by Cramer, Blankert asked Cramer to get a revolver from Blankert's automobile. He was slugged as he re-entered the roadhouse, Cramer related. Sievers and Burke were slightly wounded in the fight.

SOUTHERN SENATORS CRITICISE TEA PARTY

"Deplore" Entertainment of Wife of Negro Congressman at White House.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The presence of Mrs. Oscar de Priest, wife of the Negro Congressman from Illinois, at a White House tea given by Mrs. Hoover, today continued to be a leading topic of conversation here.

The incident was publicly deplored by many Southern Democrats, who privately declared this accord of "social equality" would solidify the Democrats in the South again.

"I deplore the incident beyond measure," said Senator Sheppard of Texas. "It is recognition of social equality between the black and white races and is fraught with infinte danger to white civilization."

"It is as deplorable as it is astounding," remarked Senator Harrison of Mississippi. "If there is one thing the people of the South look on with grave concern and anxiety, it is any tendency toward social equality between the races."

Senator Heflin of Alabama also deplored the incident.

"It was a serious mistake," he said. "Roosevelt made the same mistake in a different way, and I understand that afterward he said if he had it to do over again he would not have invited Booker T. Washington."

Senator McKellar of Tennessee joined in the criticism, saying that "If I am any judge, even the so-called Hoover Democrats in Tennessee would not approve the President and Mrs. Hoover's latest step."

Thus far no statement has emanated from the White House, except that "there were no exceptions" in the invitation to wives of Congressmen to White House teas.

Wires Mrs. Hoover Tea Will Cost G. O. P. 25,000 Votes.

By the Associated Press.

SUFFOLK, Va., June 15.—I. C. Trotman, of Suffolk, member of the Anti-Smith Committee of Ten which called the Roanoke convention to be held June 18 said he had sent two telegrams to Mrs. Hoover concerning the entertainment of the wife of a Negro Congressman at the White House and gave the text of the second as follows:

"Your silent contempt for my message of yesterday goes a long way toward healing the wound inflicted in the hearts of six Southern States that gave Mr. Hoover such a large majority. Can it be possible that you think Southern white people beneath your consideration? Your tea party cost the Republican party in Virginia not less than 25,000 votes. An expression from you would do lots of good."

Pastor Norris Assails Critics of Mrs. Hoover.

DR. LENTINE GOT MEDICAL LICENSE BY COURT ORDER

Missouri Health Board Denied Certificate to Physician Indicted in Chicago Ring.

Dr. Robert L. Lentine, accused in a Chicago indictment as the St. Louis representative of a ring of counterfeiters who supplied fake medical and dental licenses for $3000 each, obtained his license to practice in Missouri Jan. 3, last, after a court action which upset the State Board of Health's ruling that he had failed to pass the required examination.

A graduate of the defunct St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons, which was ousted from the State after the "diploma mill" scandal of 1923, Dr. Lentine has been practicing medicine at St. Patrick's clinic 1902 O'Fallon street, where he lived. He was arrested there Friday at the request of Chicago authorities and released on bond pending extradition proceedings which he will combat.

One of Seven Indicted.

Maurice J. Gordon and Louis Hudson, attorneys for Lentine, said yesterday they knew nothing of the charges beyond the facts stated in news dispatches to the effect that he was one of seven men under indictment. According to Pat Roche, chief investigator for the Cook County State's Attorney, the ring operated out of Springfield, Ill., selling spurious Illinois licenses and reciprocity letters, supposedly signed by the superintendent of the Department of Registration and Education, recommending that the person named receive a license in his own state.

At Jefferson City, it was learned yesterday, Lentine took the license examination in October, 1923, offering credentials to show that he had completed a course in medicine at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1922 after pre-medical training in New York, his former home.

Advised of his failure, he was not heard from again until last year when he renewed his efforts to obtain a license and was rebuffed with notice that the College of Physicians and Surgeons was no longer an accredited school. He then sued in Cole County Circuit Court, contending that he had passed the 1923 examination with an average grade of 72 per cent, and was upheld by Judge Henry Westhues who handed down a writ of mandamus compelling the Board of Health to issue the license.

KEEPING THE "TERMINABLE PERMITS" RECORD STRAIGHT

Bus Company Attorney Didn't Say Bill Would Provide City Control—Lets Other Misstatement Stand—Erastus Wells Sticks to His Own Idea.

The Post-Dispatch wishes to correct an inadvertent error which appeared in a news article it published Thursday, June 13, in which it quoted Robert Burkham, attorney for the People's Motor Bus Co., as having said the terminable permit bill, "subjected the utilities to complete local control."

The quotation was made in a report of a meeting of the Federation of Improvement Associations at the Jefferson Hotel at which Mr. Burkham spoke extemporaneously and without knowing in advance that he was to be called upon to speak, but did not make the exact statement attributed to him.

What Mr. Burkham said in substance was that the terms and conditions which, under the terminable permit bill the city could write into an ordinance giving its consent to a terminable permit amounted to a "measure of local control."

In this connection he quoted the provisions of the bill as to revocation of the permit.

As is known, control and regulation of service and rates of all public utilities has been vested in the State Public Service Commission by State law and this authority, frequently in violation of earlier franchises and contracts with municipal governments, invariably has been upheld by the courts. Therefore what measure of control the city could ever exercise only time could tell.

In a report of the same meeting the Globe-Democrat attributed to Mr. Burkham the following statement:

"He also stated that should the Public Service Co. (the street car company) operate under the new permit and this arrangement prove unsatisfactory to the public, the people will have the option of popular referendum on the proposition."

This statement obviously is incorrect since the terminable permit bill makes no provision for a referendum and there is no provision in any other statute or in the city charter for a referendum on a franchise or a permit after it has become operative.

As the Post-Dispatch has repeatedly stated a terminable permit once granted by the State would become in practice a perpetual franchise. Although certain conditions are stated for revocation of the permit the only one of these which in practice would be likely to be invoked successfully would be purchase of the carrier by the city.

Mr. Burkham was asked by the Post-Dispatch if he wished to make a statement for publication correcting the inaccurate statement referred to, but he declined to do so, stating that he was in no way responsible for erroneous publications.

He was also asked if he would explain the ambiguous statement attributed to him in the Globe-Democrat in which he gave as one of the advantage of the terminable permit "the great elasticity which will exist under the new scheme and which has failed to materialize under the old franchise."

He said he meant by this the power the Public Service Commission would have to order changes in service or discontinuance of unnecessary service. As is known, the commission now has and exercises this authority.

In the Globe-Democrat report of the same meeting, E. J. Russell, chairman of the Transportation Survey Commission, was quoted as having said that with the terminable permit bill in effect "there are hopes of keeping transportation fares at a minimum."

When asked about this statement Mr. Russell said he did not mean to say, and would not undertake to say, that the terminable permit bill of itself would be effective in reducing fares or maintaining fares at present levels.

He said he expressed the opinion that the ultimate transportation plan that would be worked out by the commission, and which he contends should include the terminable permit bill, would be effective in maintaining fares at the minimum.

At the same meeting Eratus Wells, chairman of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and vice chairman of the Transportation Survey Commission, made this statement:

"If this bill is not approved our whole rapid transit program will be delayed two years."

Mr. Wells was asked by the Post-Dispatch to explain how failure of the terminable permit bill would delay the rapid transit program, and he said he did not care to discuss the matter without a definite agreement upon what was meant by rapid transit. He was reminded that so far the Transportation Survey Commission has not submitted to the city any rapid transit plan, but only suggestions for speeding up the street car service.

He replied that in his own mind he had a definite conception of what he meant by rapid transit and that in his opinion that conception could not be carried out without the terminable permit bill, and thus would be delayed at least two years (until the next Legislature meets), if the bill should be vetoed now. He said he did not care to define just what his idea of rapid transit was. He agreed that some other plan of rapid transit might not be affected in the same way by failure of the terminable permit bill as that which he had in mind.

SAYS STREET CAR COMPANY COULD GET EXTENSION

Louisville Banker Thinks Bond Holders Would Be Satisfied as Long as Interest Was Paid.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 14.—One of the arguments offered to the Missouri Legislature in favor of the "terminable permits" bill by Erastus Wells of St. Louis and others was that a new franchise would help the street car company in financing, and particularly aid the company is the necessary refunding of $34,000,000 of 4 per cent bonds which fall due in 1934.

Wells said these bonds would have to be refunded on a six-year basis, that is, the company would be put to the difficult task of borrowing money for so short a period because it could not issue bonds beyond the life of their present franchise which expires in 1939 or 1940.

The holders of these bonds are scattered throughout the country and some are held in Louisville.

Banker Points Way Out.

Louisville bankers who hold about $500,000 of these bonds in trust estates think that an extension could be readily had from the present holders of the bonds on a guarantee to continue paying interest.

Among the Louisville bankers interviewed this week was John Stites, chairman of the board of the Louisville Trust Co. He was a member of the Louisville bondholders' committee which represented about $800,000 of the old United Railways general 4s when the company went into receivership. The committee has since been dissolved and the bonds have been returned to their owners.

"If I owned any of the bonds," said Stites, "I would favor an extension of time to the company in the event they could not be refunded. This would be sound banking.

"St. Louis has a good traction company and Louisville bondholders, I am sure, would not want to do anying to hurt it. I think the bondholders as a whole should grant an extension of time, if necessary, rather than demand payment, which might throw the company into trouble. Investors as a rule can be counted upon to do their part in conserving a property. Some bondholders might demand their money in this instance, but if all the bonds were mine I would grant an extension for as long a time as the company would be able to pay interest or show prospects of improving the property."

John W. Barr Jr., member of the Executive Committee of the Fidelity and Columbia Trust Co., successor to a member of the Louisville committee who died, said he was not familiar with the St. Louis situation, but did not think Louisville bondholders would become a source of trouble in case an extension of time were needed when the bonds fall due, in 1934.

The Louisville Street Railway Co. is facing a situation similar to that of St. Louis as to refinancing old security issues, but the problem of Louisville bankers with their own traction company is more urgent. A year from next July $10,000,000 of bonds fall due, with nothing in sight at this time to refund them. Nearly all of this issue is in Louisville banks and the bankers as a whole say they would give the company all the time it might need should it be unable to refund the bonds.

About $200,000 of the $800,000 St. Louis railway bonds originally held by Louisville interests have been sold in the last few years, G. H. Walker & Co. of St. Louis taking most of them at around 85.

FOR GERMAN PLEBISCITE ON ACCEPTING YOUNG PLAN

Nationalists Want People to Decide Whether to "Condemn Their Children to Slavery."

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 15.—The executive committee of the German Nationalist party today resolved to introduce a motion in the Reichstag to postpone for two months acceptance of the Young plan for reparations in order that a plebiscite may be held.

The resolution requested the plebiscite: "So that the German nation may judge whether it shall condemn its children and children's children to misery, slavery and humiliation." It added that if the party did not succeed in bringing about a plebiscite by constitutional means it would call one itself for the solemn repudiation of war guilt, which it says was the basis of all dictates by the creditor states.

HERTZOG WINS MAJORITY IN SOUTH AFRICAN LEGISLATURE

Nationalists Elect 76 Members, Six More Than Total of Other Parties.

By the Associated Press.

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, June 15.—With the occupancy of only two of the 148 seats in the Legislative Assembly in doubt, returns from last Wednesday's general election give the Nationalist party, led by Premier J. B. Hertzog, a majority of six members over all other parties.

The Nationalists have elected 76 members; the South African party, whose leader is former Premier J. G. Smuts, 61 members; the Creswell Laborites, supporters of the Government, five members; the anti-Government wing of the Labor party, known as the National Council Laborites, three members, and independents, one member.

LEAGUE COUNCIL CONCLUDES SESSION

Asks Germany and Poland to Settle Their Nationals' Dispute.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, June 15.—The council of the League of Nations, which has been meeting here during the last week, adjourned this afternoon after referring the question of liquidation of the property of Polish Nationals of the German minority in Poland to Germany and Poland for direct negotiations.

The Council examined a petition signed by 34 persons in Lithuana protesting against the confiscation of their lands by virtue of the Lithuanian Agrarian law of Feb. 15, 1922. The Council decided to start negotiations with the Lithuanian Government to clear up the subject and see if the properties could be restored to the claimants, within the scope of the law.

After this matter was gone over, Chairman Adachia congratulated the delegates on the success of the Madrid sessions, thanking Spain for its hospitality and attentions.

The fifty-fifth council session was then concluded. Another preparatory meeting will be held in Geneva during the last week of August.

OPPOSES ATHEIST CAMPAIGN WHEN MOSCOW IS HUNGRY

Head of Society of Godless Answers Delegates Who Favor Aggressive Tactics.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, June 15.—Emelyan Yaroslavsky, secretary of the communist party control commission and head of the Society of the Godless, told the atheist congress today that radical aggressive tactics would be premature, particularly at the present time when the city was insufficiently provided with bread.

The statement was an answer to the criticism of a number of delegates to the atheist conference who thought that soviet atheists should pursue more aggressive tactics such as agitation against the ringing of church bells.

Yaroslavsky reminded the congress that religion is not prohibited by the soviet constitution and that correct measures must not go beyond peaceful argument and comment.

The three-day stay in St. Louis of Ringling Brothers' and Barnum & Bailey's circus will end tonight at the conclusion of the second performance, scheduled to start at 8 p. m. The first performance of the day will be at 2 p. m.

Large crowds thronged the 700-foot main tent at the performances yesterday, attracted by the fine weather which did not prevail Friday when the circus opened.

DIES AT WHEEL OF HIS CAR

As he drove his automobile to the curb at Eighteenth and Market streets to meet his wife at 7:30 p. m., yesterday, Timothy Flood, 54 years old, former professional ballplayer of Kansas City, collapsed and was pronounced dead of heart disease at City Hospital. He was a brother of former Constable John Flood of St. Ferdinand Township, St. Louis County.

In 1902 he played with the Brooklyn National League baseball team and subsequently was a member of minor league clubs.

ANSWERS DIVORCE PETITION

A. L. McCormack Denies He Is Wealthy, As Wife Says.

Mrs. Minerva Catherine McCormack filed suit for divorce, yesterday, against Alphonsus L. McCormack, manager of an insurance agency. The McCormacks, who live in Webster Groves, were married in October, 1919, and separated last September. Mrs. McCormack alleges general indignities.

In a cross-bill, McCormack denies indignities, says he is not wealthy, as his wife alleges, and that he does not earn $15,000 or $18,000 a year. Instead, he says, he is in debt. The McCormacks have two small daughters.

KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN

Laborer Was Walking on Track, Engineer Says.

James Beyer, 22 years old, a laborer of 315 Marceau street, died at City Hospital at 7 p. m. yesterday of a fractured skull suffered an hour and a half earlier when he was struck by a Missouri Pacific freight train as he was walking along the tracks 150 feet west of the Alabama avenue crossing.

William J. Hogan, 5943 Kingsbury place, engineer of the train, said that Beyer was walking in a parallel track, but apparently became confused and stepped in front of the engine.

GOVERNOR SIGNS BILLS AMENDING INCOME TAX LAW

Approves Missouri Levy on Individuals' and Firms' Earnings in Other States.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 15.—Two bills amending the State income tax law, to require individual residents of Missouri to pay the State income tax upon all income earned in excess of legal exemptions, whether earned within the State or outside, and requiring business concerns to pay the tax upon certain net income earned outside Missouri as well as upon that earned within the State, were signed today by Gov. Caulfield. The acts become effective Aug. 27.

These bills also give the State Auditor and his deputies authority to inquire into the private books and records of individuals or business firms, if not satisfied with the return filed, or, in cases in which no return is filed, authorize the auditor and his deputies to examine witnesses under oath on income tax matters, and increase the State Auditor's force of deputies for enforcement of the State income tax law from six to ten.

To Increase Tax $500,000.

State Auditor L. D. Thompson today estimated that the two acts, when they become effective, will result in an increase of about $500,000 a year in State income tax collections. The State income tax collections totaled $3,697,603 in 1928 and $4,029,958 in 1927.

Under the amended law a business concern will have to pay the State income tax upon all of its net income earned in Missouri and, in addition, will have to pay the tax upon one-half of the net income earned from transactions carried on partly within Missouri and partly in other states.

Railroad companies will pay the tax upon their net income in the proportion that their mileage of tracks in Missouri bears to the total mileage of their systems.

Telephone companies will pay the tax upon their net income in the proportion of their mileage of wire in Missouri to their total wire mileage.

Must Pay on Outside Income.

Individual residents of Missouri, however, must pay the State income tax upon all income earned in excess of exemptions allowed by teh law, regardless of where the income was earned. The exemptions for individual tax payers are $1000 a year for unmarried persons and $2000 for the head of a family, with an additional exemption of $200 for each dependent.

By way of illustration, Auditor Thompson said that, if a resident of St. Louis were employed across the State line in Illinois and earned all of his income in Illinois, he would have to pay the Missouri income tax on all of his income in excess of his legal exemptions.

These amendments were designed to wipe out a provision written into the income tax law by the 1927 Legislature that was intended to exempt individuals and business concerns from paying the Missouri income tax upon income earned outside Missouri. The 1927 amendment contained conflicting provisions, however, and resulted in the State Auditor's holding that business firms were subject to the tax on net income on business outside the State that originated in Missouri as well as on all net income in Missouri. He also held that individuals must pay on all income in excess of exemptions, wherever earned, under the 1927 amendment, but no test case to force payment of the tax on outside income was instituted in cases where such a levy was protested.

Returns in Two Divisions.

Thompson said that, since the amendments would not become effective until the latter part of August, income taxpayers probably would be permitted to file their returns for this year in two divisions, one covering income for that part of the year up to the effective date of the amendments to be made under the existing law, and the other covering the remainder of the year, to be made under the amended law.

No change was made in the present requirement that State income tax returns must be filed by individuals and corporations on March 15, for the preceding calendar year. Corporations having a fiscal year ending on a date other than the end of the calendar year are permitted to file their returns following the close of the fiscal year.

DEACONESS HOSPITAL RAISES $170,000; EXTENDS CAMPAIGN

The campaign of Deaconess Hospital to obtain $200,000 with which to complete its $1,000,000 building at Clayton and Oakland avenue has been extended to next Friday, John F. Peters, chairman of the campaign committee, announced yesterday.

The total of subscriptions stands now at $170,166, which includes the $30,125 reported by campaign workers at yesterday's luncheon meeting. Teams from 30 churches in the city and county are in the field as solicitors. Bethel Evangelical Church, of which the Rev. J. F. Meyer is pastor, now leads in the campaign with $40,700.

FFERS ABOUT TO BE MADE BY U. S. FOR FLOOD LANDS

ompensation to Be Granted for Flowage Rights in Basin to Proposed Setback Levee.

Offers of compensation to landowners for the flowage rights in he strip of land between the present levee on the Mississippi River etween Bird's Point and New adrid, Mo., and the proposed setack levee or retaining wall which ill form the Missouri flood basin the Government's project to ontrol future floods of the Misissippi, will be made within a few ays.

Brig.-Gen. Thomas H. Jackson, resident of the Mississippi River ommission, said yesterday on his eturn from Washington, where he onferred with Maj.-Gen. Edgar D. adwin, chief of the engineering orps of the Army, who is in harge of the flood control work, hat he is under instructions to egin making offers to the landowners through the Memphis office of the engineer corps immediately.

Gen. Jackson said the offers to landowners would have been made earlier but for the fact that engineers who are surveying the 600 or more plots of land involved in the proposed floodway had not finished their work and will not have it completed for several weeks. Offers are to be made now, however, to those whose lands have been surveyed with a view to eliminating any further delay in preparations for the beginning of the actual work of construction of the setback levee.

Following the protests of landowners at Washington and in an injunction suit filed in Federal court at Cape Girardeau an advertised receiving of bids for the levee work was temporarily held up by order of Secretary of War Good, and there is now an injunction suit pending in Federal court, filed last week by J. W Kirk, a Mississippi County landowner, who seeks to restrain the Government from any further action on the project until he and other landowners have been assured of compensation for the flowage rights over their lands.

Gen. Jackson expressed the view that carrying into effect his present orders for making immediate offers to the landowners whose properties are involved would result in the withdrawal of the court action now pending which is set for hearing before Federal Judge Davis on June 25.

Gen. Jackson said it has been estimated by the Flood Control Board that approximately $2,550,000 will be paid to land owners in the strip as compensation for flowage rights.

There are approximately 130,000 acres involved in the project, he said, and pointed out that the awarding of damages to the owners of this acreage might vary widely in amount.

Owners of about 76,000 acres in the northern end of the proposed floodway, whose lands have not regularly been flooded by the periodical rises of the river, will receive more in the way of damages than the owners of the 54,000 acres in the southern portion, whose lands have been regularly flooded and have as a consequence been of little practical value. The damage to timber lands, he also pointed out, would be negligible.

U. S. to Purchase 3200 Acres.

The Goverment intends, he said, to purchase outright for its full value about 3200 acres at the northern end of the project immediately surrounding the fuse-plug in the outer levee, so that in an emergency work could be done by Government engineers about that section of the levee without danger of hindrance of any character.

Preparatory work has proceeded during recent weeks unhampered by the protests to official Washington or court proceedings, Gen. Jackson said, and the recommendations for the letting of contracts are now in the hands of Gen. Jadwin. If no further delays are encountered, he said, and the project proceeds according to schedule, the setback levee will be completed and the floodway ready for use in the general scheme of flood control on the Mississippi by December, 1931.

C. H. NEWMAN, EX-PRESIDENT OF DETROIT BANK, ARRAIGNED

Charged With Misuse of $200,000; Held in $5000 Bail by U. S.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 15. — Charged with misappropriation of $200,000 of the funds of the Griswold First State Bank of Detroit, Mich., Calvin H. Newman, former president of the depository, was arraigned here today and held in $5000 bail by United States Commissioner O'Neill.

Newman, who said he was now a resident of Portchester, N. Y., furnished bail through a surety company.

Ira F. Acheson, who was indicted in Detrot on May 28, with Newman, and was arrested here a few days ago, waived removal proceedings and has returned to Detroit. Acheson, former cashier of the bank, said he did only what Newman ordered him to do and was confident he could clear himself of the charges.

MEXICO SEEKS TO EXTRADITE FORMER REBEL PAYMASTER

Salvador Ateca, Held in New York, Refused to Divide $770,000 With Government.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Charles H. Tuttle, United States District Attorney, announced today he had been advised that the Mexican Government has filed extradition papers in the case of Salvador Ateca, former Mexican rebel army paymaster, who was arrested here, May 4, in an alleged plot to escape from the United States while facing charges of pro-Mexican activities at Kansas City.

Ateca has refused offers of the Mexican Government to compromise on a division of the $770,000 in money and securities found in his possession when arrested, Tuttle said.

At the time of his arrest it was said the money had been stolen from Mexican banks during the revolution.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND SHOT DEAD

Admirer, Who Tells Story of Attack by Robbers, Arrested in Mexico.

LAGUNA BEACH, Cal., June 15.—Mrs. Myrtle Wood, 40 years old, Long Beach, Cal., widow, missing from her home since Thursday, was found today, shot to death, behind a highway sign-board here. Soon after the discovery of Mrs. Wood's body, J. A. McClure, 56 years old, Long Beach real estate man, was arrested in Tijuana, Lower California.

Mrs. Ina Lowell, daughter of Mrs. Wood, told Orange County sheriff's officers that her mother was last seen on her way to McClure's house.

Mrs. Lowell told investigators McClure had been an admirer of Mrs. Wood, who had expressed the intention of telling him she would have nothing more to do with him.

McClure, with a gunshot wound in his head and bullet holes in his hat, was found wandering on a dry mesa on the Mexican side of the international border. He told Tijuana police he had been kidnaped by two men at Laguna Beach, after they had stopped his automobile and robbed him of $65. Mrs. Wood, he said, was riding with him at the time but he could not remember what had become of her.

ENATE ROW OVER LIMITING TARIFF CHANGES

With Farm Relief Out of the Way, Borah's Resolution Causes New Division of Forces.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Now that the farm relief bill, at long last, is out of the way, the Senate is confronted with a terrific row over the Borah resolution seeking to instruct the Senate Finance Committee to limit its hearings on tariff revision to the agricultural and directly related schedules.

Borah threw the fat into the fire when he made his proposal. At once a debate flamed up around another policy of the President. He had called for a "limited" revision of the tariff. True, he did not say that the revision should be exclusively in the farm schedules; he said in his message to the special session that manufacturing industries in which there had been a "substantial slackening of activity" owing to foreign competition should receive consideration.

But it is also true that the House in its revision of the tariff went far beyond the prescription of the President. The House made a general revision. At least 1000 changes were written into the present law. Tariffs were placed on numerous commodities which had been on the free list, such as shingles, cement and building brick, and the existing rates on a host of items were increased.

The Borah resolution, therefore, is more in keeping with the President's announced policy than the tariff bill as it came from the House.

Strategical Adjournment.

The old guard leaders of the Senate are demanding a general revision, such as the House bill carries. Senator Watson of Indiana, the majority leader, said flatly in the tariff debate of yesterday that such was his desire. Senator Smoot of Utah, the chairman of the Finance Committee, under severe heckling by the Democrats, declared that he, too, was for a general revision.

Faced with the probability of defeat if the Borah resolution were allowed to come to an immediate vote, Watson and his fellow stalwarts brought about an adjournment of the Senate until Monday.

The result is in doubt, but there is a large chance for the Borah resolution to be adopted. Most of the Democrats are for it, and they will be joined by the independent Republicans who fought the President on the debenture plan. Borah will have, too, the assistance of Senator Allen of Kansas, a strong administration supporter, who has openly expressed his dissatisfaction with the House bill.

Endless Possibilities Involved.

Thus the lineup in the Senate shifts from day to day with bewildering rapidity. The "psuedo-Republicans" of one day become the President's champion on another. The regulars of today are the insurgents of tomorrow.

What will happen if the Borah resolution is adopted? The possibilities are endless. It has been suggested that the Senate Finance Committee, which has voted on strict party lines against a similar proposal in the committee, might ignore the resolution and go ahead with the general revision which it has started. But the resolution expressly directs the committee to "limit its hearings, deliberations, recommendations and report on the tariff bill to the agricultural and directly related schedules."

It has been suggested that the committee might dump the whole bill into the lap of the Senate without further hearings.

It has been suggested that the situation might bring about a sine die adjournment of the present session, in which case the whole subject of tariff revision would go over the regular session of Congress in December.

And if the Senate is guided by the Borah resolution in its framing of the tariff bill, will there be an ensuing deadlock with the House and a consequent defeat of all revision?

It is no wonder that the high protectionist old guard, committed as it is to the payment of campaign obligations through additional tariffs, looks to the future with misgiving.

Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, a leader of the fight for debentures and now for the Borah resolution, said today the prospect was bright for its adoption.

"The resolution would have been successful if it could have been brought to a vote on Friday," said Norris. "I still think we shall be able to put it through. Those of us on the Republican side who voted for debentures will stand together, and we expect to have the aid of two or three others. The result depends on the degree of solidity among the Democrats."

Norris announced that on Monday he would introduce the debenture plan as an amendment to the tariff bill.

A new provision to be incorporated in the plan would require the Treasury to accept debenture certificates at 95 per cent of their face value.

"Few if any of the certificates would actually be presented to the Treasury," said Norris, "but the provision would guarantee the farmer against excessive commissions by middlemen handling the certificates and thereby would answer one of the main objections raised against the plan by the President."

The two Missouri Senators are divided on the Borah resolution.

"I intend to vote for it," said Senator Hawes, "because it seeks to carry out the purpose for which the special session was called."

Senator Patterson said he would oppose it because of the Republican platform pledge to investigate the needs of industry and grant a tariff revision where the facts showed it to be necessary.

The costliest error in tire-buying!

EVERY once in a while you hear a man say off-hand: "All tires are about alike."

This is worse than a careless statement; in total effect it is the costliest error in tire-buying.

The plain truth is—and it cannot be made too emphatic—all tires are NOT alike!

The leading manufacturers of motor cars know it—so they use more Goodyear Tires for original equipment than any other kind.

The cost-wary owners of the great truck fleets of industry know it—so in simple economy they use more Goodyear Tires than any other kind.

The purchasing experts of the urban, interurban and transcontinental bus lines know it—so for safe and profitable operation they use more Goodyear Tires than any other kind.

The rank and file of informed motor car owners throughout the world know it—so "more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

IF Goodyear Tires were not definitely and greatly superior, these impressive preferences would not obtain.

What makes them so superior? What are the special advantages they enjoy that explain their outstanding quality?

Goodyear Tires are the principal product of the largest rubber company in the world.

They are sold and serviced by the largest and most successful body of retail tire merchants in the world.

They are beneficiaries of the steadily advancing science of the largest tire engineering and development department in the world.

Their excellence is subject to continual check and trial 24 hours a day on the largest tire test fleet in the world.

Their quality is kept uniform by the most closely controlled manufacturing processes and inspection exercised by any rubber company in the world.

They embody standards of material and workmanship equaled in no other like product in the world.

They are so unmistakably better in performance and value that their percentage of gain in sales last year was nearly three times the percentage of gain in sales recorded for the industry as a whole!

NO, emphatically no, all tires are NOT alike. Don't be talked into thinking they are. Remember the facts about Goodyear.

When you come to buy a tire, insist on the tire that consistently surpasses any and all rivals in the confidence and favor of the public, and has done so for fourteen triumphant years.

Get a Goodyear Tire and you get the best, and, since it costs you little if anything more than any other, you get the greatest tire value money can buy.

Tread and carcass: these are the two main parts of a tire. There is greater traction in the Goodyear All-Weather Tread. There is greater vitality in the Goodyear Supertwist carcass. Evidence? Any Goodyear Dealer will demonstrate. Proof? "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

NAVY RECEIVES BIDS ON FIVE NEW CRUISERS

Tenders From Three Private and Five Navy Yards Range From $8,838,000 to $11,895,931.

By the Associated Press.

WAHINGTON, June 15.—The administration went ahead today with the cruiser expansion program authorized by the Seventieth Congress, the Navy Department receiving bids for the construction of five of the 15 10,000 ton ships to be started within the next three years.

While a limitation on this building program may come in for discussion at the contemplated visit of the British Premier, J. Ramsay MacDonald, to President Hoover, the Chief Executive is without authority to forego the building of any of the cruisers unless a new limitation treaty is agreed upon before their completion.

Even with these craft in commission, the total American tonnage of modern cruisers would be within the 300,000 tons limitation proposed by the American delegation to the preliminary disarmament commission at Geneva.

Tenders submitted on the craft were slightly higher than had been expected and they will be studied before any of the contracts are let. Three private yards and five navy yards submitted bids as follows:

Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation (Quincy plant), $10,753,000, one ship only. This was the lowest bid by a private concern.

New York Shipbuilding Co., Camden, N. J., $10,903,200, one ship only.

Newport News (Va.) Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., $11,130,00, one ship.

Puget Sound Navy Yard, $8,838,000, one ship. This was the lowest navy yard bid.

Mare Island Navy Yard, $9,307,770, one ship.

Philadelphia Navy Yard, $10,285,906, one, and $20,000,000, two.

New York Navy Yard, $10,908,100, one; $20,147,603, two.

Boston Navy Yard, $11,895,931, one.

C. W. ELIOT WAS A PAINTER, SENIOR AT HARVARD WRITES

In Final Test, He Fails to Identify Former President of the University.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 15.—A Harvard senior has been found who does not know who the late Dr. Charles W. Eliot was.

President and president-emeritus of Harvard University, for 57 years, promoter of the elective system in collegiate education, editor of the five-foot shelf of classics and long one of America's most distinguished citizens—any preparatory schoolboy could have identified him for this fourth year Harvard man.

On the final examination in Prof. A. M. Schlesinger's course in the social and intellectual history of the United States, the degree candidate wrote: "C. W. Eliot was one of our first portrait painters of the so-called nature school."

NANKING CUTS AUTO TARIFF

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, June 15.—The Minister of Commerce of the Nanking Nationalist Government has allowed a reduction in the import tariff on motor trucks and chasses of from 22½ to 10½ per cent. Dealers consider the action an important step in the direction of further development of the Chinese automobile market in which trucks are a most important factor.

The action is considered also a step in the direction of preparing conditions for foreign makers to erect assembly plants in China, this development being dependent upon low duty for unassembled cars and parts.

150,000 CHINESE FISHERMEN GATHER IN 10-MILE SQUARE

Steamers Report Seeing 25,000 Ocean-Going Junks Gathered In Yangtze River.

SHANGHAI, June 15.—Incoming steamers today reported viewing about 50 miles north of the mouth of the Yangtze River the amazing spectacle, hitherto unknown here, of about 25,000 ocean-going Chinese fishing junks, concentrated in an area 10 miles square.

One shipmaster said the junks presented an appearance literally like that of a forest, extending further on any hand than he was able to see. He estimated that each junk carried at least six fishermen and seamen. He said the concentration comprised a floating city of at least 150,000 persons.

It was thought the unusually good fishing explained it.

GOOD WANTS MIDWEST SURVEY OF WATERWAYS FACILITIES

Secretary of War Acts After Jadwin Reports on Progress of Improvements.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Secretary of War Good today directed the chairman and executives of the Inland Waterways Corporation to make a traffic and terminal facilities survey of the channels of the Illinois River to Utica, Ill., and of the Illinois and Mississippi Canal.

The survey was ordered after Maj. Gen. Jadwin, chief of army engineers, certified under the provision of the Denison act that the improvement would reach a point "where reasonably sufficient and dependable channels will have been substantially completed by Feb. 15, 1931, for safe operation of suitable barges and towboats."

MUSSOLINI WELCOMES LIBRARIANS TO ITALY

Arthur E. Bostwick of St. Louis Among Americans at World Congress.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, June 15.—The World Congress of Librarians opened here today with many from the United States in attendance. Premier Mussolini delivered the inaugural address.

The congress will spend ten days in discussions, interviews and visits, most of the delegates at various time being received by the Pope, who is himself one of the most learned librarians in the world.

Tomorrow will be spent in visiting book collections in and around Rome with the sessions of the various sections beginning Monday. The librarians will remain in session here until June 27, when they go to Venice. Stopping en route for exhibitions at Naples, Florence, Modena, Genoa, Milan and Turin.

Among the Americans here are Dr. Herbert Putnam, librarian of Congress, and a staff of assistant librarians, William W. Bishop, librarian of the University of Michigan; Arthur Elmore Bostwick, St. Louis; Andrew Keogh, president of the American Library Association and librarian of Yale University; Theodore Wesley Koch, Northwestern University; Carl H. Milam, secretary of the American Library Association, Chicago; Miss Emily V. D. Miller, editor of publications, American Library Association, Chicago, and George Watson Cole, Pasadena, Cal.

Mussolini, in opening the Congress, welcomed the delegates to Italy and outlined briefly the program which had been prepared for them. This, he said, would afford a complete resume of the art of bookmaking from ancient time to Fascist regime, which, he said, was working with full co-operation with the best intellectual forces of the country.

Contrary to his usual custom of speaking French at international gatherings the Premier spoke in Italian. He was greeted with applause as he familiarly bade his audience sit down. His reference to the Pope as "Master of the Book of Knowledge" brought further applause.

SUIT BECAUSE TWO FAMILIES RESIDE IN THE SAME HOUSE

Neighbors Contend Restrictions Are Violated; Case Taken Under Advisement.

Suit to enforce restrictions on property on Victor street, lying between Grand boulevard and Arkansas avenue and Sidney street and Shenandoah avenue, was taken under advisement by Circuit Judge Landwehr yesterday. The suit was filed by Mr. and Mrs. Emil N. Tolkacz, 3505 Victor street, who object because their next door neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur E. Bent, at 3501 Victor, permit their home to be occupied by more than one family.

The Bents admitted that two other families lived with them but they contended that the restrictions, having been violated previously by other property owners, were no longer in effect. They pointed out that an apartment house had been erected in the district and that when the Tolkacz house was built the restriction governing building lines was not observed.

Tolkacz, who formerly was Director of Public Welfare, testified that his property would be greatly damaged if the Bents were not ordered to comply with the restrictions. The suit asks for an injunction against them.

When the tract was laid out it was owned by the late John M. Roe. It was designed that the district should be reserved for residences exclusively with one family in a home.

6 DEPUTIES TAKE 4 BANK ROBBERS BACK TO PRISON

Six St. Clair County Deputy Sheriffs Thursday returned four convicted bank robbers to the Southern Illinois State Penitentiary at Chester. The convicts, serving sentences for the Dupo bank robbery of 1922, had been brought to East St. Louis for a habeas corpus proceeding in their behalf under the guard of one man.

The application for a writ of habeas corpus had been filed in the East St. Louis City Court but H. C. Lindauer, State's Attorney of St. Clair County, contended that a City Court had no jurisdiction in the case and had the men transferred to the County Jail at Belleville and then returned to Chester. Lindauer held that only the State Board of Pardons and Paroles had authority in the case.

OWEN YOUNG WITNESSES SON'S WEDDING IN CLEVELAND, O.

Hurried Through New York, Where Receptions for Him Had Been Planned.

CLEVELAND, O., June 15.—Charles C. Young, son of Owen D. Young, head of the American delegation to the Paris Reparations Conference, and Miss Esther Marie Christensen, daughter of the Danish Consul here, were married late today.

Young, father of the bridegroom came here today on a hurried trip which caused him to rush through New York City, where receptions had been planned in his honor. He left soon after the ceremony for his mother's home near Utica, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Young left for a honeymoon in Honolulu. Later they will make their home at Schenectady, N. Y.

The elder Young said he probably would rest at his mother's home for about a week and then go on to Washington to confer with President Hoover and possibly issue a statement on the reparations agreements.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Harvard University and is employed by the General Electric Co., of which his father is chairman of the board. Miss Christensen is a graduate of Miss Deverell's school in New York and a member of the New York and Cleveland Junior leagues.

TELLS OF CAPONE'S $50,000 OFFER TO OBTAIN RELEASE

Two basic facts stand out amid the storm of excitement into which the triumph of Screen-Grid tubes has thrown the radio industry.

One manufacturer alone has had more than a few weeks actual Screen-Grid production experience—Silver-Marshall, Inc.

One set alone has behind it the guarantee of success found in over 25,000 Screen-Grid receivers bought and used by critical listeners during the last eighteen months—SILVER RADIO.

Product of unequalled experience, it is only logical that SILVER RADIO should give finer tone, keener selectivity, and far greater distance range. Even the "fans" who take this for granted in any product of Silver-Marshall are finding their wildest expectations exceeded in SILVER RADIO performance.

And why not? For a few months ago, when other manufacturers began to foresee the inevitable swing to Screen-Grid, it was to the earlier Silver-Marshall sets that their laboratories hastily turned to study Screen-Grid engineering practice!

Your nearest authorized SILVER RADIO dealer will be glad to demonstrate—preferably right in your own home—absolutely free.

Do you know that last winter, while other laboratories were beginning to toy with Screen-Grid sets, Silver-Marshall Screen-Grid receivers, selected by the Chicago Tribune after exhaustive tests and installed in Chicago Police squad cars, were helping to cut Chicago's crime rate? And even before that, the battleship California was carrying six Silver-Marshall Screen-Grid radios, the only sets found really satisfactory for broadcast reception in the ship's steel hull!

CHICAGO FOR THE FIRST TIME ORDERS CLEAN-UP OF DRAMA

Closing of "Frankie and Johnnie" Only Start, City Officials Say—"Mae West Had Better Not Come Back, One Avers.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Chicago has started upon a definite campaign to clean up legitimate drama for the first time in the city's history.

With "Frankie and Johnnie" driven from the boards of a Loop theater and "Harlem" subjected to the censorial pencil of a policeman, city officials have unfurled the flag of purity and declared that henceforth it will wave over the drama.

The closing of "Frankie and Johnnie" marked the first time Chicago police have acted against performances on the stage since six years ago when seven "hoochie kootchie" shows were driven from South State street theaters of the 10-20-30 cent class.

Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson intimated today police would watch everything from grand opera down and be ready to call the patrol wagon at the first phrase or act that offended.

Chicago No Dumping Ground.

"We'll show them they can't make Chicago the dumping ground for every foul show," declared Ettelson, who added that the campaign was being instituted as much for the sake of Chicago's reputation in the rest of the country as it was for the sake of public morals.

"Mind you," said Ettelson, "we aren't prudes. We don't want to try to make things too pure, but they say that Chicago is a crime center and that it's wide open. That isn't true."

He termed "Frankie and Johnnie" foul from start to finish. This play was based on the old barroom ballad of the same name. It depicted a torrid love affair which ended in the shooting of Johnnie by Frankie for "trifling." The scene was the old Alton House, St. Louis.

Chicago claims to be the first American city to establish a moving picture censor board. The board has functioned since 1907, cutting action and altering subtitles wherever it deemed trimming advisable for protection of public morals.

"Front Page" Was Threatened.

Many recent plays have been expurgated by the police following complaints, Ettelson said, and among these was "The Front Page." This newspaper farce enjoyed a long winter's run this year and was threatened with eviction two days before its scheduled departure, when a vigilance association raised protest against alleged obscenity and profanity.

"Diamond Lil" played to a long succession of Chicago audiences before it packed up for Detroit to meet the disfavor of Detroit officials. Closed there, its author and star, Mae West, announced she would return to Chicago for a new engagement.

"She had better not," was the comment of Ettelson. "The play escaped our notice when it was here before, but it won't escape next time."

JIGGS, WHITE FOX TERRIER, RESTORED TO BOY MASTER

Dog of Chaffee, Mo., Lad Slipped Collar at Union Station Here and Was Lost for Days.

The adventures of Jiggs, a white fox terrier, have come to a happy end, and a small boy, Bobby Delezene of Chaffee, Mo., again finds his soul resting easy. On July 5 Bobby and Jiggs were on their way from Kirksville, Mo., to Chaffee, Mo., via St. Louis. The train officials, obeying rules, put Jiggs in the baggage car.

During the transfer of Jiggs from one train to another at Union Station here, Jiggs slipped from his collar and became a lost dog. And Bobby could do no more than describe him as a white fox terrier, with a black left eye, black right ear, black spot on his back and a long tail, and then departed disconsolately for Chaffee.

But a few days ago Miss Clara Bolte, 3820 Hartford street, found Jiggs, and turned him over to the Union Station baggage room attendants. Yesterday he was put aboard a train for Chaffee, and he should be reunited with his young master today.

Weidmuller made no statement.

IN 25 SIMULTANEOUS CHESS GAMES WINS 21

Norman Whitaker Loses Three and Draws One in Contest Against St. Louisans.

Playing simultaneously against 25 of the city's strongest chess players at the Missouri Pacific-St. Louis Chess Club yesterday, Norman S. Whitaker lost three games and drew one, winning all the rest.

The St. Louisans who defeated Whitaker were Lewis Haller, a former city champion; Eugene J. Roesch, also a former city title holder, and E. D. Duncan. The drawn game was obtained by John Hartl.

Using the white men, Whitaker began play against the array of opponents at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and proceeded to dispose of the games so rapidly that two hours and a half later the last one had ended.

J. A. Anderson, present city chess champion, was unable to play yesterday. Anderson recently was the only one to defeat Alexander Alekhine, chess champion of the world, in a similar simultaneous exhibition in St. Louis.

The Missouri Pacific-St. Louis Chess Club yesterday presented cups to winners of recently ended club tournaments. In the Class A division cups were given to C. Marvin and R. C. Beckett, who tied for first place; E. J. Mathie, who ranked third; E. D. Duncan, fourth, and George Payne, fifth. In the Class B division first place cup went to H. Mueller, and second place to Carl Matteson. In Class C, John Hartl and V. E. Bamer, who tied for first place, each received a cup.

ANSWERS TO COUNTY ROAD SUITS PREPARED

Point Made That Application to Stop Expenditures Comes Too Late.

Answers to the suits in the Supreme Court of Missouri by the St. Louis County Taxpayers' League for writs of prohibition to prevent the County Court from exercising jurisdiction in the $10,000,000 county road bond issue and $1,000,000 hospital bond issue have been prepared for filing. The answer in the hospital case was taken to Jefferson City yesterday and the other will be sumitted on Tuesday.

In addition to County Counselor Wahrle, Benjamin H. Charles, lawyer specializing in bond matters, has been retained to represent the County Court in both cases, and in the hospital case Arthur V. Lashly who is to be appointed a Circuit Judge in the county, has been employed in the defense by the County Medical Society.

Chief allegations of the Taxpayers' League were that the County Court had failed to appoint a County Highway Commission under the law of 1927 to lay out and control a 100-mile farm-to-market county highway system and had failed to appoint a board of trustees required by law to build and operate the county hospital, the site for which has been purchased.

Basis of Reply.

The county's answers admit the two bodies were not appointed but deny the necessity of the appointments. Specific denials are made to the allegations in the road case, and the County Court asserts the hospital case is a "bald attempt on the part of the plaintiffs to wreck the whole hospital program."

The county argues that the plaintiffs, who are the Taxpayers' League and a group of county property owners headed by George W. Baumhoff, were negligent in not sooner bringing the suits to force appointment of the Highway Commission and the hospital trustees. The road bonds were voted a year ago and the hospital bonds in November, 1927.

It would be useless to appoint a County Highway Commission, one answer says, as no funds are available to finance the 100-mile county highway system and the duties and functions of the commission are performed by the County Court, which has designated the farm-to-market system in conjunction with the State Highway Department. Besides, it is argued, the County Highway Commission act is applicable only to roads connecting with the State Highway system and would be unconstitutional if construed as mandatory.

Contending that the County Court has sole power to spend the road bond issue, the answer denies the allegation of the suit that $1,900,000 of the issue has been allotted to the incorporated towns or that any of this sum, to be spent in the towns, is for roads that are not links of through highways. The charge that some of the bond money is being spent to build private streets is denied and streets in Kinloch Park, a Negro settlement, mentioned in the suit, are described as links of a through route.

Allegations in Suit.

Other allegations of the suit, which are denied in the answer, are that the County Court will permit the towns to supervise construction of roads within their limits and control expenditures for them; that the county will pay engineers of the towns 5 per cent commission on contracts for roads in the towns; that the County Court is exceeding its authority, and that the bond issue was voted by the people with the purposes of the County Highway Commission act in mind.

In the answer to the hospital suit, it is argued that the County Court has implied power to build and operate the hospital, since it would be absurd to authorize the Court to raise funds for this purpose without authority to consummate it. The great need of the hospital is cited and the answer says that delay be avoided, so that construction will not be retarded by winter. The plaintiffs are charged with seeking to embarrass the County Court in establishment of the hospital.

DEPORT CROATIAN SMUGGLED INTO U. S.

Louis Stonemason Paid Ferryman $30 to Cross Detroit River.

Frank Klarich, 36 years old, a Croatian stonemason, who was smuggled into the United States in a rowboat from Canada, will be deported, Federal immigration authorities said yesterday following his arrest at 2305 Franklin avenue.

Klarich was denied admittance to the United States in 1925 because the quota of his country had been exhausted. He went to Canada where he lived two years. He said he and six others who had been denied admittance paid a ferryman $30 each to take them across the Detroit River.

ANSWERS TO COUNTY ROAD SUITS PREPARED

Point Made That Application to Stop Expenditures Comes Too Late.

Answers to the suits in the Supreme Court of Missouri by the St. Louis County Taxpayers' League for writs of prohibition to prevent the County Court from exercising jurisdiction in the $10,000,000 county road bond issue and $1,000,000 hospital bond issue have been prepared for filing. The answer in the hospital case was taken to Jefferson City yesterday and the other will be sumitted on Tuesday. In addition to County Counselor Wahrle, Benjamin H. Charles, lawyer specializing in bond matters, has been retained to represent the County Court in both cases, and in the hospital case Arthur V. Lashly who is to be appointed a Circuit Judge in the county, has been employed in the defense by the County Medical Society.

Chief allegations of the Taxpayers' League were that the County Court had failed to appoint a County Highway Commission under the law of 1927 to lay out and control a 100-mile farm-to-market county highway system and had failed to appoint a board of trustees required by law to build and operate the county hospital, the site for which has been purchased.

EVERYTHING · ELECTRICAL

It's here! It's the new SCREEN GRID RADIO . . .

It's the great step forward in radio

LET'S forget the mechanical details for a moment.

For, after all, what do mechanical details matter, when you've found the perfect radio!

You know the tone we've all been seeking — that vividness which seems to bring the performers themselves into the room with you . . . when you close your eyes . . . lie back . . . and listen . . . This radio has it!

You know the way you've pictured your ideal radio blending with the "setting" of your home . . . just as though some master-craftsman had especially planned and executed it all for you . . . This radio does it! . . . But how difficult to do justice to this new Graybar Screen Grid . . . in print and picture! Pictures can only hint, words can only whisper, the reality!

A Graybar Radio dealer can show you . . . he can tell you how the Screen Grid tube does what two tubes used to do . . . how it has brought about hair-line selectivity . . . tone as rich and colorful as a tapestry . . . giant power to reach out for far-away stations — and all at a lower cost than ever.

. . . For no more than $179 you may have the 4-tube two-tone walnut veneer cabinet model 550 with dynamic speaker behind the grille, as shown above. And the compact table model 500, at left, is only . . . $110

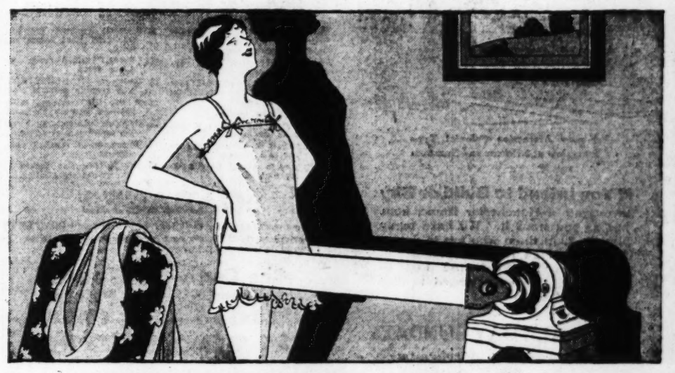
Graybar "goes to business", too

Of course, Graybar is mightily concerned with the home, and its electrical needs. But that is only one of Graybar's interests! From the smallest switch to the largest and most complete street lighting installation, Graybar supplies everything electrical for the municipality, for the factory, for the office building. That indicates the experience, the knowledge, the sure dependability that's built into every Graybar appliance.



Summer's a "Stimulating" season, too!

What if it is too hot to attempt golf or tennis? There's still the Graybar Stimulator! This remarkable health motor gives you all the benefits of all out-door exercise—right in the cool privacy of your home! (And when you do have your golf or tennis, let the Stimulator limber you up—before and after.) It keeps you slim. It keeps you "fit". It relieves "muscle-bound" conditions. It soothes and stimulates . . . at the same time! Simple in construction . . . yet it has varying gradations of massage. Costs mighty little, too. Note the handy table—or you may have a beautiful cabinet. There's a lot more to discover about it at your dealer's.

$59.50 Stand $4.50 extra

Weather-man, please note!

No heat prostrations here! Not with a good Graybar Fan sending its blessed breeze into every corner of the room! How it stirs up and refreshes the "logey" air! How it puts pep into folks who are "heat fatigued"! How it revivifies drooping spirits! (Together with the Graybar Ironer, it successfully takes the last remaining terrors out of ironing!)

Endorsed by leading babies

"My Mamma says she never knew my clothes could be washed so quickly"!—JUNIOR (aged eight months). "The Whirl-dry makes my little dresses so white—even after I've made mud-pies"!—PEGGY MARIE (aged two years). (A word to mothers: This little washer sets on a table or drain board! Washes, rinses and dries 'most anything. Quick! Thorough! Handy!) $64.50

What "makes it go"

Household wheels will run smoother, housework will go faster, home will be more comfortable—for a few more electrical convenience outlets. But they must be the right ones in the right place . . . That's easy. Any reliable electrical contractor will tell you how best to utilize the 'round-the-clock service of your light and power company.

BERENGER CALLS FOR RATIFICATION OF U. S. DEBT PACT

Says Young Plan Relieves France of Heaviest Burden and No Further Delay Is Justified.

By Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.
(Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, June 15.—Senator Henry Berenger who, when French Ambassador at Washington signed the war debt agreement with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, has made a spirited appeal to the French people through the Paris newspaper, Le Journal, not to hesitate about ratification of that settlement.

There was no escape from ratification at any time, he declared, but now that the Young plan had provided a method of payment, which would relieve the French Treasury and the taxpayers, there was no reason to hesitate longer.

Berenger said he had remained silent three years so as not to hamper the Government; but now that Premier Poincare had accepted debate on the war debts in the Chamber of Deputies on June 25 he considered himself freed from the restraint of further silence. He said he made the best settlement possible with Washington.

The Senator publishes in Le Journal today a copy of one of the French debt certificates, of which a total of nearly $3,000,000,000, bearing 5 per cent interest, are held in Washington, and proves that the Chamber accepted the debt at the time, so is in no position to question any settlement for a smaller amount such as he made.

Berenger's series of articles, which will continue for several days, is the opening gun in the battle for ratification. His position is that France has won the Young plan been relieved of her heaviest debt burden and can afford to turn over to Washington most of the reparations she receives from Germany to cancel her debt certificates.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT TRUST FUND REDUCED BY COURT

Securities of $664,703 Ordered Transferred to Alfred G. Vanderbilt Estate.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Surrogate Foley today instructed the executors and trustees of the estate of Cornelius Vanderbilt to reduce the gross earnings of the estate to $280,000.

Trustees and executors of the Alfred G. Vanderbilt estate, residuary legatee, recently had contended that the trust fund was unnecessarily large, and asked that the surplus securities be transferred to them. The capital of the fund is $664,703 too large, Surrogate Foley ruled, and ordered securities in that amount transferred to the Alfred G. Vanderbilt estate.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt receives an annual payment of $250,000 from the fund and the extra $30,000 was allowed as a "margin of safety."

SAYS RESERVE BOARD RAISED INTEREST RATE TOO SLOWLY

Harvard Professor Asserts Call Money Manipulation Could Have Been Restricted.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., June 15.—The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve Bank System today was criticised by Prof. O. M. W. Sprague of Harvard University, in an address before the New England Bankers' Association convention, for its failure to raise the interest rate in a degree drastic enough to accomplish general restriction of call money manipulation by banks.

Prof. Sprague said the governors ought to have raised the interest rate more sharply. Increase in the rate of 1 per cent would have served the purpose intended but the one-half of 1 per cent increases made on three separate occasions were not spectacular enough to amount to anything, he said.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Secretary of War Good announced today that investigation had shown that the use of National Guard equipment by State police in Tennessee during the recent strike was unlawful.

The secretary made public a letter to Gov. Horton of Tennessee, stating he considered it his duty to bring the matter to the attention of the Governor and requested he take "such action as may be necessary to prevent the unlawful use of Federal arms and equipment in the hands of the Tennessee National Guard."

Hamilton, Auxvasse, and Mrs. Warren L. Barr, Moberly.

Save 6 hours for health, youth, the joy of living

Here's the New Speed-Iron

that does in 2 hours the work that took 8 by hand

WOMEN—how many hours of the work-a-day week can you call your own? How many hours are you wasting at work that can now be done faster and better by machine than you could ever do it by hand?

Would you like to salvage six precious hours a week and cut your hardest household task down to two hours of restful employment? Then read this amazing story that follows—and act on its vital suggestion.

8 hours of ironing in the average home

Drudgery—if ever a job could be called that. Every woman knows it—knows the back-aches, the exhaustion that result. No woman can do it week after week and retain her youthful vigor.

Take your own case, madam. Do you know that hand ironing ages women faster than any remaining household task? Actual tests show that a 6½-pound iron is raised on an average of twice a minute when ironing clothes. The pressure downward requires as much, if not more, effort. This energy expended over a period of 8 hours (the time it takes to do the average family ironing by hand) would unload from a truck over six tons of brick. Yet, you perhaps wonder why hand-ironing leaves you fatigued—dragged out.

Science has found a remedy

An utterly new type electric ironing machine is now on the market. It operates on a wholly new speed principle. There is nothing else on the market as fast or as economical to buy and operate.

Note first its amazing simplicity. With ten minutes' practice anyone can operate it. Note, too, its compact size—its roll of generous length—the comfortable position of the operator. This machine has an ironing surface equal to ten flatirons. It heats in 4 minutes. It irons everything, from the stacks of flat work, that make up some 90% of the average laundry, to the fine dainty things that take so long by hand. It is portable—can be placed in any pleasant room—and removed to corner or closet out of the way when not in use.

easy to carry from one room to another.

Tune in on the General Electric Hour over WEAF and 41 associated stations of The National Broadcasting Company, every Saturday evening at 9 o'clock Eastern Standard Time.

Presses men's trousers—women's skirts

And does them with an efficiency equalled only by skilled hand pressmen. Many tell us it pays for itself in a few months in this work alone.

This machine is a Thor. For 23 years women have accepted the Thor name on a washer or ironer as the highest guarantee of superior quality and service. The world knows nothing finer. Yet—because we are selling thousands of these new speed-ironers where hundreds were sold before—the price is less than half that of any ironer of comparable quality and features.

Madam—make your decision! 8 hours of drudgery or 2 hours of pleasant relation with 6 hours to call your own. Your Thor dealer is ready to demonstrate this amazing time saver in your home. Try it yourself. See how easy it operates. Phone him, please, for free home showing. The Hurley Machine Company, 22nd Street and 54th Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

is the sensational low price of this new Thor Portable Speed-Iron. Less than half the price formerly asked for any ironer that will do the work this will do.

CLEANLY HOBOES TALK OF ENDING POVERTY

James Eads How Directs Conference; Songs Lead by Man With 10-Cent Flute.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Eighteen men and two women gathered in the heat of a bare, uncurtained flat over an abandoned lunchroom in Newark yesterday to discuss how best to "abolish poverty from the face of the earth."

The meeting marked the second day of the conference of Eastern states of the International Brotherhood Welfare Association. James Eads How, millionaire hobo of St. Louis, directed the meeting of the association he organized, and for which he has labored many years.

The delegates to the conference were clean and sober. All said they were migratory workers or association organizers. When a drunken Irish longshoreman insisted on delivering a thunderous lecture on the "Wall street government" and "havin' his rights," he was thrown into the street.

The meeting rooms were given to the association by the City of Newark. A pastor lent camp chairs. Peter Schiff, a Newark workingman, and Charles Cruse of Baltimore, present head of the association, presided in turn. Attempts were made to conduct the meeting according to parliamentary law, but the delegates frequently interrupted with wrangles.

The two women present were Mrs. Isabelle Warren and Miss Sylvia Diner, both of New York.

From time to time the delegates sang labor songs to such marching tune as "Marching Through Georgia." A little man with a 10-cent flute kept them in tune, and they sang sturdily and well.

Delegate Schiff presided at the morning session after the delegates had lined up in the kitchen for coffee and buns.

Cruse presided at the general session in the afternoon. All took part in the discussion except a young itinerant printer with a shoulder blade broken when he fell from a freight a month ago. He was asleep.

Cruse outlined conditions caused by the vagrancy laws throughout the United States. He nearly went as he charged that Maryland berrypickers are "robbed" by Justices of the Peace working on the basis of commissions on fines they collect.

Presently Delegate J. J. McNamara of Baltimore gained the floor. He wore a wing collar and said he was an attorney. He berated Cruse for believing the workingman capable of finding a better government than the existing one. How intervened as Cruse roared a rebuttal.

The minutes of the meeting were recorded by Dan O'Brien, a white-haired man with a rumbling voice, who boasted that nobody had ever locked him up for vagrancy in his many years on the road.

WHEAT CLOSES HIGHER WITH CORN LOWER

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Higher prices on wheat but lower prices on corn was the record established today as President Hoover signed the $500,000,000 farm relief bill. Washington news about farm relief and crop damage reports from Canada were chiefly responsible for upturns in wheat values. Unexpected liberal receipts of corn here and at St. Louis and Kansas City did much to pull corn prices down.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm ½c to ½c above yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼c to 1¼c down, oats varying from ¼c to ⅝c decline to ¼c advance, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 7c to 10c.

Lively upturns in price accompanied brisk buying at times in the wheat market. This was especially the case after definite word was received that President Hoover would sign the farm relief bill at noon. Another brisk spurt of buying was witnessed later when reports went around that not less than $200,000,000 was expected to be made available immediately out of the $500,000,000 fund authorized by the farm relief bill. On the price bulges, however, it was noticeable that commission house selling increased, and that as a result the gains were frequently more than wiped out.

Uneasiness over Canadian crop conditions, however, did much to rally the wheat market on the downturns which was a rule were of brief duration. In this connection notice was taken of a report from Saskatoon, Saskatchewan Province, that damage by drouth has begun to be manifest, and that rains at once as well as continued downpours later were requisite to produce even an average yield of wheat this season in Canada. Emphasizing such comment was an official Canadian forecast indicating generally fair weather and warm temperatures ahead.

On the other hand, sellers of wheat here found considerable incentive in comment saying that taken as a whole Kansas has a large crop which was maturing rapidly and filling well. Other Kansas comment said continuous weather as warm as today would cause premature ripening, but not to an important extent unless it became hotter.

Corn was under selling pressure from the outset. Comment was at hand that farmers were hauling much corn to market and this circumstance together with favorable weather led to heavier offerings of future deliveries. Primary arrivals of corn were announced as totling 4,310,000 bushels this week, against 3,701,000 bushels the week previous. Oats today were ruled mainly by conflicting influences resulting from the opposite action of corn and wheat.

Provisions reflected the downward trend of the corn market and of hog values as well.

An Assistant to the President Is Now Available

This man is interested in forming connection with a prominent firm whose president desires executive ability to assist him with details. He is particularly interested in connecting with a large realty firm or a company of large builders in the vicinity of St. Louis. References of highest grade will be furnished at an interview. ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, June 15.—Small advances were shown in the wheat market at final session of week, due largely to Canadian weather comment. Corn finished lower, movement of grain exerting influence on that market.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat prices were unchanged. There were about 6 cars No. 2 red offered and the demand was slow. There was not much call for off-grades, either. Hard wheat was firm. Offerings were light. A lot of 4 cars No. 1 was bought to arrive late Friday on basis of 2c above the Chicago July figure. Corn was down 1c to 2c. Supplies were plentiful and the demand, especially for the white, was rather slow. The main buyers were mills and shippers. Oats were steady to ½c off and the movement was slow. Shippers had orders, but local demand was lacking and supplies were larger than needs.

Opening fractionally higher, wheat ruled a little better in the early period. Reports of dry weather in part of Canada and of prospect of showers in part of winter wheat belt along with expectation of signing of farm relief bill were included in news of day.

Liverpool wheat closed 2d lower. Winnipeg was up fractionally early. Corn here was down early.

July wheat opened at $1.06¾; Sept. wheat, $1.10⅝; July corn 94⅝c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 105,000 bushels, compared with 82,000 a week ago and 72,800 a year ago. Included 33 cars local and 42 through. Corn receipts, which were 158,800 bushels, compared with 154,000 a week ago and 156,800 a year ago, included 96 cars local and 46 through. Oats receipts, which were 105,400 bushels, compared with 88,000 a week ago and 78,000 a year ago, included 31 cars local and 16 through. Hay receipts were 9 cars local.

STOCKS RISE AS QUIETEST WEEK IN TEN MONTHS ENDS

For First Time in Financial History Trading on Stock Exchange Is of Smaller Volume Than on Curb.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The stock market continued to follow the lines of the least resistence, which were largely upward, in another dull session today, bringing to a close the quietest week in about 10 months.

The prospect of tighter money late next week tended to restrict buying, but there was little disposition to sell, as most traders were inclined to the belief that the market has definitely reached bottom and the next major movement will be upward.

For the first time in New York financial history, trading on the New York Stock Exchange was in smaller volume than on the curb market. Stock Exchange sales totaled but 1,264,420 shares, while 1,287,900 shares changed hands on the curb. About 30 per cent of the curb trading, however, was in Commonwealth and Southern, traded on a when issued basis.

Gains in Coppers.

The better tone in copper shares yesterday prompted bull operators to concentrate on that group, where they had little difficulty in scoring a number of gains of 2 to 5 points in the thin market, and for the first time in months, coppers displayed the most pronounced strength of any section of the list during the two-hour session. Some of the rails also made notable gains.

Yesterday's call money rate of 7 per cent carried over the week end, and it was predicted that the Government overdraft in connection with its short term financing would release enough credit to keep money comparatively easy during the first few days of next week. Some tightening as mid-month payment checks return to the banks late in the week is expected, however. Also, it is estimated that new financing to be paid for next week amounts to about $400,000,000.

The week end trade and business reviews were generally optimistic, still stressing the extraordinary high rate of activity in heavy industries. F. W. Dodge Corporation, however, reported that building contracts let east of the Rockies in May were 9 per cent less than April and 12 per cent less than May, 1928.

New Highs Among Rails.

In the coppers, Greene Cananea and Anaconda rose about 5 points each. In the rails, New Haven and Norfolk & Western reached new high ground in moderate gains. Pittsburg & West Virginia rose nearly 6 points and Pere Marquette nearly 8. The utilities were less active, but Commonwealth Power and Detroit Edison mounted 6 and 4 points to new peaks. Adams Express had one of its characteristically wide movements, rising 25¼ points to 550.

Steels were quieter but Michigan Steel broke into new high ground, following report that operations are being maintained above rated capacity, despite the increase of 10 per cent in plant. Some of the chemicals were also well bought, National Distillers once more reaching a new top. Royal Baking Powder preferred rose over 5 points on rumors of a merger. Air Reduction, Eastman Kodak, American Bank Note, Goodrich, Simmons and United Fruit and Motion Picture Capital also made fair gains, the last reaching a new peak.

Some Oils Under Pressure.

Some of the oils were under pressure, Pan American and Houston losing about 2 and 4 points, General Electric closed 2 points over. Anchor Cap preferred and Associated Dry Goods first preferred declined 4 and 6 points to new lows.

Commodities moved in narrow ranges, wheat closing firm in sympathy with strength at Winnipeg, and corn losing about one cent a bushel. Cotton sagged slightly.

In foreign exchanges, sterling and the Canadian dollar sank still lower, the sterling demand rate reaching a new 1929 low at $4 5-16, and the Canadian dollar dropping to a discount of nearly a full cent.

The stock market appeared, for the time being at least, to have reached bottom this week, and speculative sentiment improved considerably, although public participation in the market held at a low ebb. For the first three sessions of the week trading fell off to around 2,000,000 shares a day, the lowest in 10 months, and picked up to only slightly above the 2,000,000-share-mark the last two full sessions.

Bearish operations were generally unsuccessful, and the list moved irregularly higher in the later sessions of the week, under the influence of a violent upturn in the utilities, which were largely bought on rumored plans of the Morgan and other banking interests to bring about a new combination of the Eastern power companies.

UESTION OF FUNDS STILL UNSETTLED

With Approach of June 20 or 21 Influences That Had Made for Ease Will Reverse Themselves in All Probability, Review Says.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"Sentiment improved with the progress of trading this week partly through a convincing exhibition of strong technical conditions in the market but primarily through an improvement in fundamentals. That the market had reached at least a temporary bottom became evident when on the decline trading activity fell to a series of 2,000,000-share sessions for the first time this year. This conclusion was substantiated by the conspicuous absence of public buying, reflected in the brokers' loan portfolio, where an increase has not been recorded since May 15. While powerful institutional and individual investors have proceeded with exceeding caution, they have nevertheless been more disposed lately to pick up favored issues in which declines had been substantial than to liquidate securities previously bought. Whether the present bulge in selected stocks reflects a passing phase in a declining market, or a reversal in the general trend, is a question perhaps that cannot be definitely answered until various credit obligations to be met between now and early July have become history.

Money Turns Easier.

"Money turned easier instead of firmer with the approach of June 15, partly through offerings of funds to the markets by large corporations preparatory to withdrawals for tax settlements. Doubtless funds put temporarily into the market by the Treasury will sustain ease through the early part of next week. But with the approach of June 20 or June 21 influences that had made for ease will reverse themselves in all probability. Roughly, $400,000,000 will be required to exercise "rights" to stockholders that mature in the coming week, although it is not this prospect that looms so much as a force for firming rates as the usual seasonal factors. With the approach of July 1, the market may expect not only the usual month-end demands, but in addition the heavier requirements that ordinarily become concentrated around the mid-year settlement period. The burden will be multiplied by the Fourth of July holiday demands, which fall at an inconvenient time for the money market.

Question of Reserve Policy.

"That money conditions over the midyear settlement period will not induce the sensational flurries in call rates that were experienced earlier in the year now seems reasonable to suppose in view of the substantial volume of credit that has been liquidated in the market. Yet nobody can safely argue on the basis of the recent relaxation that cheap money is definitely here again, or that the next three weeks can be passed without another pinch. A $22,000,000 increase in Government securities in the Federal Reserve banks this week was accepted by some as proof conclusive that the system has reversed its firm money policy. No such conclusion is warranted as yet, of course, since the increase reflected Governments bought on repurchase agreements which means that within 15 days they will be sold again. That the Federal Reserve will begin to ease money along late in the summer is a reasonable assumption but nothing in the system's open market operations reveals that the board is now reversing its policy.

May Production Index.

"Apparently the money authorities have been able to check the speculative fever without hurting business. Certainly the index of production for May shows that the pace of industrial activity has been steadily accelerated so far in 1929 and that a new prosperity peak was established last month at 136.8. That is 13 per cent higher than the volume of industrial production a year ago. It reflects not simply gains in particular groups, but improvement in virtually all major industries on which monthly statistics are available. In January, March, April and May new high records of production for all time were established. And if we may rely on current reports business is holding up in June."

FINANCIAL BRIEFS

NEW YORK, June 15.—The International Telephone & Telegraph Corporation earned net profit of $4,187,031 for the first quarter, equal to $2.51 a share on 1,670,462 shares. This compared with $3,408,374, or $2.62 a share on 1,302,054 shares outstanding at March 31, 1928.

Cash dividend payments by companies comprising the Standard Oil group during the second quarter of the year have amounted to $66,047,577, establishing a new high record. Standard Oil of New Jersey's payments were $3,094,371 greater than during the preceding quarter as the result of an increase in the extra dividend from 12½ cents to 25 cents a share.

COTTON CLOSES BARELY STEADY AT DECLINE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 15.—the cotton market for the earlier months prices worked lower. Lower under continued realizing or liquidation which was most general in character. In disappointment over failure of recent bullish features to show a more stimulating effect. October sold off to 18.63 and closed near that figure, with the general market barely steady at a net decline of 7 points.

Trading was steady at an advance of 7 to 9 points on a flurry of covering. There was a slump on the fairly steady tone of Liverpool and reports of better weather in the cotton belt. This was also supplied by a renewal of yesterday's selling movement, however, and the market eased off.

The forecast for showers in the eastern belt was largely brought in a public notice during the middle of the morning was not enough to make any impression on the market which sagged off in the early trading. July declined to 18.41 and October to 18.59 making net losses of 7 to 9 points on active positions by the close was at about the lowest point of the day.

The failure of yesterday's large domestic consumption figures and the official report of a slight emergence to bring a greater volume of buying, was said to have been a disappointment to holders of July contracts. This, rather than any other feature in the morning's news was largely responsible for the further decline.

Trading was generally very quiet and it did not take a great deal of selling to depress prices. The buying on the rise was believed to be chiefly in the way of covering but was supposed to include a little buying on the idea that the July weather predicted for the South will further promote the spread of boll weevil.

Private cable said that liquidation on the Bombay bourse was heavy and that local traders continue to supply the demand. Producers are expected to take advantage of buying in view of the August requirements.

Spot cotton closed steady at 15 cents decline.

TRADE'S METAL MARKET REVIEW

NEW YORK, June 15.—There was a decrease in the unrefined tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation during the first decrease in a long while, the result largely of very heavy rains against existing contracts. Second month reports indicated, still further, that steels showed very little change from the record rate during May. Specific contracts placed established a weekly record. The feature of the railroad equipment business was the placing of the largest order for cars in years. Prices generally were firm. Pig iron, while steady at unchanged, was subject to many copper statistics showing increases in face of reported mine strikes. Copper had no incentive for forward needs and the market quiet. A moderate volume of tin business was reported, while indicators purchased small lots. Lead continues to supply the demand. Producers are expected to take advantage of buying in view of the August requirements.

Zinc holds steady at 15 cents declared.

Antimony steadied from early weakness and three was little consuming interest either prompt or distant shipment.

Quicksilver was moderately active and firmer, featured by carload orders for early June shipment.

Interest in consuming inquiry in the market continued. Prices were unchanged. Prices were unchanged.

Tin was very steady as a result of firmer Chinese exchanges. Demand, however, was moderate.

WATER HAULED TO HONGKONG IN SHIPS

Rain Stops After Few Hours; Has Slight Effect on City's Scant Supply.

By the Associated Press.

HONGKONG, China, June 15.—Hong Kong's danger from shortage of water continued grave tonight when a heavy rain which the Weather Bureau had forecast would last all night, stopped at 8 o'clock.

The rain lasted only a few hours and the precipitation was not sufficient to alter the condition of the city's water supply.

The Government pushed emergency measures. The weather observatory and royal air force intend to undertake rain-making experiments shortly. Two airplanes will mount above the clouds and sprinkle them with a powdered chemical known as deoline. The chemical has a refrigerating effect which it is hopel will start a heavy rain.

The Government has chartered a tanker to transport water from Kong Moon, near Canton. The Dollar line President Adams today brought a consignment of water from Shanghai.

Another ship brought in 1000 tons of water which was promptly pumped into emergency tanks and rationed to the public. The supply was quickly exhausted.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Thanks to Chicle Hafey's 42-ounce war club, the Cardinals are still in first place in the National League pennant race. The Boston Braves, with Bob Smith pitching a whale of a game, were nudging the Red Birds off their perch at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon but with the score 4 to 2 in Boston's favor in the ninth inning. Hafey swung the ponderous thing he calls his bat and the ball sailed far into the left field seats.

Jim Bottomley was on base at the time and the two runs, produced by the four-bagger, the sixteenth of the season for the slugging son of California, enabled the Red Birds to carry the game into an extra inning and win in the tenth, 5 to 4.

There Were Other Heroes.

There were other heroes to share the day's glory with Hafey. Frankie Frisch started the ninth inning with a triple to center and without the run he carried over the plate on Bottomley's single, Hafey's four-bagger would have fallen short of tieing the count. Then there was some tight pitching by Grover Cleveland Alexander and Hal Haid and the Cardinals did some great fielding to hold down the Boston run total.

Moreover there had to be some batting in the tenth inning to produce the winning run and if it hadn't been for Ernie Orsatti's timely wallop in the tenth, the game might have battled far into the dusk of evening.

Bob Smith Strategy Fails.

Jimmy Wilson started the final winning drive with a single to right with one out in the tenth and after Frisch fouled out, Bottomley bumped a one-bagger to right, sending Wilson to third. There was only one thing for Bob Smith to do then and he did it. He walked Hafey to take a chance on Orsatti. Orsatti had gone hitless in four previous trips to the plate, but in

Thistle Ann Takes Stake at Fairmount; Wildale Defeated

By Melvin D. Fulcher

Proving her superiority in decisive fashion, Thistle Ann, G. Collins' two-year-old chestnut daughter of Sir Johnson, won the Statler Hotel Stakes at Fairmount yesterday, which was worth $5350 net to the winner, with the black filly, Justina, from the J. W. Marchbank stables, second, and Princess Margaret third.

The winner followed the early pace set by Justina and just before the stretch turn was reached moved up and, challenging the black filly, passed into the lead after a sharp but brief struggle. In the stretch, Thistle Ann, under urging, drew away but near the finish she was being eased up to win by a length.

Thistle Ann Third Choice.

The betting showed Justina and J. O. Keene's Under the Rose were equal favorites, with Thistle Ann ruling second choice. Under the Rose, however, which had not started in a long time, clearly demonstrated that she had no business with either the chestnut or black fillies, which dominated the race.

After the race, Mrs. C. S. Abel, wife of C. S. Abel of the Statler Hotel Co., presented to G. Collins, Thistle Ann's owner, a silver cup, which was accepted by Mrs. Eddie Haughton, wife of the trainer of the Collins stable.

Jockey V. Smith rode three winners—Patsy H. in the first, Thistle Ann in the feature and Thistle Beauty in the eighth.

Chancellor Beats Wildale.

The other two races on the card which served as high-class secondary features, furnished exciting racing and saw the defeat of the clever racer Wildale in a fast race, which was due partly to bad racing luck. In fact, there were three incidents occurring in Wildale's race, any of which would have been a serious obstacle to a horse winning.

This was in the fifth the Busch Handicap, and was at a mile and sixteenth. At the start Wildale broke in a bad tangle, being away slowly. This caused him to be under pressure for the first quarter, to regain the lost ground, and, that accomplished, he opened up a two-length lead going down the back stretch. Turning for home, however, he began to tire and went wide, which allowed Chancellor to slip through on the inner rail, covering much less ground and putting him on nearly equal terms with the Sutro horse.

After a hard drive all through the stretch, the bad start, early efforts and wide turn into the stretch all combined to bring about Wildale's defeat. Chancellor beating him by three-quarters of a length, with Bather the third horse.

Lucky Hit Takes Sprint.

The other handicap, the Choteau, was at six furlongs and was won by Lucky Hit, which away fast, dashed into a commanding lead which he maintained all the way to win over Caroler and Greenock. Fales Pride was away very badly, being lengths out of it at the half mile ground, but made up a world of ground in the stretch and would have been a contender with an even start. Greenock, making his first start since a recent injury, ran a good race, under the top weight of 120 pounds.

J. O. Keene won his first purse here when Silver Cord, a gray filly and a daughter of Alice Blue Gown, took the second race over a big band of maiden two-year-olds. She ran as if much the best and paid a fair price.

Another first-time starter here, Golden Canopy, made good in the seventh race, which was a mile run, in handy fashion. Favorite in the betting, the Gallo horse, a recent arrival from New York, where he won his last two starts, showed his superiority by leading throughout and finishing a length and a half in front of Stampdale, a long shot, which held Atoi safe for second money.

The weather was clear and the track fast. Good time was made, Chancellor running the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 3-5, while Lucky Hit ran the six furlongs in the sixth race in 1:13 flat, and Golden Canopy ran his mile in 1:40 2-5.

The attendance was estimated at 10,000.

Fairmount Sidelights.

The local owners, Hogan and Phillips, claimed Linger from the Viking Stable in the seventh race Friday for $1400.

Jockey R. Cramer, the St. Louis boy, who has been riding with fair success at Fairmount Park, has gone to Bainbridge Park where he will ride for A. J. Pershall.

August A. Busch presented the owner of the winner to the Busch Handicap, the Busch trophy. In the stewards' stands with Mr. Busch during the running of the event were W. Frank Carter, Mr. and

Pop Bottles Thrown, Bush Put Off Field as Giants Beat Pirates in 14 Innings

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, June 15. — The Giants won a weird 14-inning game from the Pirates here today by a score of 20 to 15, and so gained an even break in the series of four engagements. Eleven pitchers were used, equaling the major league records.

The Pirates overcame an eight-run lead to tie up the game in nine innings, and Pie Traynor's homer plunged it into a deadlock again in the eleventh after the Giants had taken a lead of one in their half of the round. The visitors scored eight times in the fourteenth, and the Pirates came back with three runs. Swetonic and French were the Pittsburg victims.

Jackson hit two homers, a triple and a double, driving in seven runs. Comorosky also hit for the circuit.

Donie Bush was ejected from the game for protesting a decision at third in the fourteenth when Roush opened the winning rally with a triple.

Pop bottles then were thrown by fans back of third base and in the home half, part of the crowd surged upon the field. Police, however, held the fans in check.

NO SUBSTITUTE RULE IN SOCCER CHANGED; 2 SUBS NOW PERMITTED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., June 15.—One of the most important changes ever made in the rules of soccer became effective today, when the United States Football Association voted to permit the use of substitutes in games played under its jurisdiction.

The new rule, approved by the delegates from every section of the country in annual convention here, reads:

"In all games two substitutes may be used, provided they are played in the lineup before the final 15 minutes of play begin.

"Such substitution can take place only when the ball is out of play. No substitute will be allowed, in the case of a player ordered from the field."

The new rule is designed to protect a team whose players are injured in action.

According to the old rule a team was forced to proceed with 10 players, if one of its members suffered an injury which forced him from the game.

Patterson Re-elected.

The United States Football Association, in closing its sixteenth annual convention here today, expressed its approval of the administration of its affairs during the past year by re-electing by acclamation its entire staff of officers.

Armstrong Patterson of Detroit was again named president. Elmer A. Schroeder of Atlantic City is first vice president; William T. Angus of Cleveland is second vice president; Winton E. Barker of St. Louis is third vice president; Wilfred R. Cummings of Atlantic City is treasurer and Thomas W. Cahill of New York is secretary.

Atlantic City was selected as the convention city for 1930, while it was tentatively arranged to hold the 1933 convention in Chicago in connection with the World's Fair and play the national amateur Windy City, reserved along under close restraint, moved into command with a rush rounding the end turn and, continuing gamely through the stretch, held the race safe under hustling handling. Naishapur, badly outrun early, worked his way up gradually after going a half-mile and saving ground entering stretch, finishing stoutly. African, outrun early, moved up promisingly on the outside entering the stretch and challenged the winner stoutly at the furlong pole, then hung in the final drive. Dr. Freeland, taken back and reserved off early pace, failed to close any appreciable ground when called on. Black Diamond showed good early speed in pacemaking, but tired badly after going seven furlongs. Clyde Van Dusen, mischief used in chasing early pace, stopped after going six furlongs.

$2 mutuels paid: Windy City, win $30.14, place $9.28, show $3.86; Naishapur, place $4.94, show $3.06; African, show $2.74.

By Charles W. Dunkley,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Windy City, a game little brown son of Upset, a 14 to 1 shot in the betting, sent 50,000 racing fans delirious with excitement today by scoring a startling upset in winning the $50,000 American derby at Washington Park.

The triumphant 3-year-old, a Chicago horse, owned by a Chicago sportsman, Frederick M. Grabner, won the race at one mile and a quarter in 2:10 over a tract that was heavy and slow.

Naishapur Finishes Second.

Naishapur, the game California horse that always comes from behind but seldom wins, finished second, a length and a half in the rear, just as he did in the Coffroth Handicap last winter, and in the Kentucky Derby just a month ago.

Thundering along in third place, came African, one of three horses coupled as the R. T. Wilson-Walter J. Salmon entry. Dr. Freeland, winner of the Preakness, finished fourth.

Clyde Van Dusen Eighth.

Clyde Van Dusen, supposedly super-son of super-horse, Man O'War, winner of the Kentucky Derby, struggled across the finish line eighth in the field of nine starters. This highly played favorite, after hanging on to second place for half a mile, with Black Diamond setting the early pace, blew up and quit just before the three-quarters was reached.

Windy City, flashing across the finish line a length and a half ahead of Naishapur, rewarded his backers with $30.14 for every $2 mutuel ticket. His price to place was $9.28 and $3.86 to show. Naishapur's mutuel refund was $4.94 to place and $3.84 for show. The show price on African was $2.74.

The victory was worth $47,55 to Owner Grabner, with $6000 going to Earl Chaffee, owner of Naishapur. African earned $3000 for R. T. Wilson and Dr. Freeland won $1000 for winding up in fourth.

Windy City Fourth at the Turn Begins Moving Up

As the field shot around the first turn, Windy City was lagging back in fourth place with Black Diamond out in front by a length and Clyde Van Dusen second. Silverdale, the entry of Edward B. McLean, was third, two lengths farther back.

Black Diamond had all the early speed and increased his lead to four lengths as the half-mile mark was passed. Clyde Van Dusen was still hanging on in second place, with Silverdale third and Windy City running fourth.

As the horses charged into the far turn, things began to happen. Clyde Van Dusen began to display signs of quitting. He slipped back so fast it looked like he had stopped. Then Larry McDermott, applying the whip a couple of times, sent Windy City into the lead.

Dr. Freeland was coming on with a great rush, with African close up. Not three feet separated the trio as they headed for the stretch.

Into the stretch they came, with Windy City hugging the rail and leading by a nose. Dr. Freeland was second and African right after him. By this time the great crowd saw the race was going to be a tight, driving finish.

McDermott gave Windy City his head and whacked him two sharp blows across the flanks. Slowly but surely Windy City began to draw away, increasing his lead with every step.

Then, suddenly, Naishapur, coming along the rail, made his challenge. This California hard luck horse, ninth at the first quarter and sixth at the half and three-quarters, was running like a demon. One hundred yards from the finish Dr. Freeland and African weakened.

Naishapur was still coming like a startled deer. He kept in hot pursuit and overtook Dr. Freeland and African 50 yards out.

McDermott saw Naishapur, on the inside, but his lead was safe. There was no chance for him to lose unless Windy City dropped in his tracks. He urged his mount on and shot under the wire a victor by a length and a half.

Sixteen horses were entered in the race. The seven to be scratched were Karl Eitel, War Buddy, Roy Gibson, Grand Prince, Judge Hay, Dail and Bowler. Of these, all but Karl Eitel were known to be doubtful starters, but the withdrawal of Karl Eitel was a surprise, for the Fairmount Derby winner was one of the favorites. Karl Eitel pulled up with a bad leg Monday and it grew steadily worse during the week.

MRS. HYNES DEFEATS MRS. WALLACE, 4 AND 2, FOR DISTRICT TITLE

NORMANDIE GOLFER SHOOTS 82 IN FINAL ROUND, BEATING HER OWN LOW IN QUALIFYING PLAY

By W. J. McGoogan

For the first time since 1921, the St. Louis Women's District Golf Association has a champion other than Miss Virginia Pep or Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., the former Audrey Faust, for Mrs. Ignatius Hynes of Normandie Golf Club did the unexpected and defeated Mrs. Wallace of the St. Louis Country Club, defending champion in the final round of the annual women's tournament at North Hills Country Club yesterday, 4 and 2.

Mrs. Hynes, who took up the game only five years ago, was runner-up to Mrs. Wallace last year and while he had been the favorite to win this season's event until the semi-finals, when Mrs. Wallace displayed remarkable golf in eliminating Miss Pep in a match while Mrs. Hynes played a mediocre game to reach the final.

But in the final round Mrs. Hynes played her best game. She finished the morning 18 holes one down to Mrs. Wallace although each had 90 strokes. And in the afternoon Mrs. Hynes hit her stride, turned the 18 holes in the one score of 82, the best medal count of the tournament.

Once she was out in front, Mrs. Hynes played fine golf and even recovered from a disastrous tenth hole in the afternoon where she took 7 strokes to finish the final nine in 41.

Mrs. Hynes Squares Match.

Mrs. Hynes showed she had reached her true form early in the afternoon when she shot No. 1 in par four, then laid her spoon shot dead to the pin on No. 2 and holed the deuce to square the match after she had started the afternoon round 1 down.

Mrs. Wallace did not play the game of which she is capable. Her driving at times was brilliant and she recovered beautifully in several instances after getting into trouble, but on the greens she was not so good.

Mrs. Wallace got off on the wrong foot on the very first hole of the morning round, when she pulled her drive into the rough to the left of the fairway and lost the hole with a 7 to Mrs. Hynes' 5.

They halved the second in fours, but Mrs. Wallace squared the match by winning No. 3 with a 5 to Mrs. Hynes' 6. After that Mrs. Hynes was never ahead on the morning round, for they halved the fourth in fours, while Mrs. Wallace took the fifth with a 4 to Mrs. Hynes' 5.

The sixth was halved in fives and Mrs. Wallace went 2 up when he won No. 7 with a 6 to Mrs. Hynes' 7. They halved the eighth and ninth holes and Mrs. Wallace was 2 up at the turn.

Mrs. Wallace Takes Lead.

Mrs. Hynes came back nicely to win the tenth with a 5 while Mrs. Wallace took a 6 and they halved the eleventh in par threes while Mrs. Wallace went three up again at the 12th when she got a par 4 to Mrs. Hynes' 5. Mrs. Hynes three-putted this green to lose it and followed on No. 13 with a scuffed approach shot after she apparently had the hole in the bag.

That hole was halved in fives and Mrs. Wallace won No. 14 with a 4 to Mrs. Hynes' 7 when Mrs. Hynes failed again on the green. They halved the fifteenth and sixteenth while Mrs. Hynes won the seventeenth and eighteenth to finish the morning round one down.

Starting the afternoon round Mrs. Hynes quickly showed that she was over the nervousness which she said had handicapped her in the morning when she shot a fine drive straight down the fairway, was on in two and down in two putts for a 4 to gain a half.

At the 175-yard No. 2 her tee shot hit the bank in front of the green and rolled to within 2 feet of the cup while Mrs. Wallace was over. Mrs. Wallace chipped back onto the green but far away from the cup and missed her putt for a three by a few inches. However, Mrs. Hynes holed out her deuce and squared the match.

Although Mrs. Hynes had a better drive than Mrs. Wallace on No. 3 she lost the hole with a 6 to Mrs. Wallace's five when the latter recovered nicely from the rough on her second and laid her third on the green and got down in two putts while Mrs. Hynes's fourth was over the green and she was back on in five and took two putts for a 7.

Match Squared Again.

That put Mrs. Wallace one up but Mrs. Hynes quickly squared the match again with a 4 on No. 4 to Mrs. Wallace's 5. Mrs. Wallace dubbed her tee shot badly on this hole and after recovering nicely made a bad approach to the green, Mrs. Hynes' drive was straight down the middle but her second was over. She came back nicely and her pitch from behind the green hit the cup and bounced out. She took one putt for a four while Mrs. Wallace missed her four and took a 5.

Mrs. Hynes went one up for the first time since the first hole of the morning round when she won No. 5 with a 4 to Mrs. Wallace's five. But the match was square again at No. 6 when Mrs. Wallace got a 5 to Mrs. Hynes' six.

Mrs. Wallace lost the seventh with a 7 to Mrs. Hynes' 6 but squared the match on No. 8 when she laid her drive on the green and took a par 3 to a four for Mrs. Hynes, whose drive was short and her approach stopped some 12 feet from the cup.

They halved No. 9 in fives and Mrs. Wallace won No. 10 with a 5 to Mrs. Hynes' 7. Mrs. Hynes had a tough break on the hole. Her second hit a terrace in front of the green and bounced back into a ditch necessitating a hazardous pitch shot. She tried it but failed to get the ball up and finally reached the green in four while Mrs. Wallace who had dubbed her second was on in three and down in five and Mrs. Hynes took 3 putts for a seven.

Mrs. Hynes refused to be daunted by this mishap, however, played No. 11 in a par 3 to square the match again when Mrs. Wallace took a four and won the twelfth with a five to Mrs. Wallace's six.

Mrs. Hynes Takes Command.

From then on it was all Mrs. Hynes. She won the thirteenth, to go two up, with a 4 to Mrs. Wallace's five; went three up at No. 15 with a four, after halving No. 14, and wound up the match with a beautiful four on the difficult sixteenth hole, when her pitch shot stopped about seven feet from the cup and she knocked it in.

They played the remaining two holes to give Mrs. Hynes a chance to set a medal score for the tournament and she came in on the final two holes with a 4 and 5 to give her 41 for the final nine and 82 for the last 18, which enabled her to win the Edward A. Faust Cup.

Mrs. Hynes said after the match that she was planning to go to the women's Trans-Mississippi tournament at Denver, Colo., in July.

The new champion has won every one of the three weekly tournaments of the women's association which she has attended this year.

Mrs. Hynes began her golf at the municipal course in Forest Park and showed signs of being a good player from the start. Later she joined Triple A and then moved to Normandie.

Sandy Auchterlonie, Normandie professional, has been Mrs. Hynes' teacher for some time.

On the morning round yesterday, Mrs. Hynes dropped two putts on successive greens, one about 18 feet long and the other about 15 feet.

On many occasions throughout the day the drives of the two contestants were almost exactly of equal length but generally the advantage in this department was with Mrs. Wallace.

Mrs. Wallace had a very fortunate break on the sixteenth of the morning round when her drive skimmed the water in front of the tee and wound up in the tall grass on the far bank.

When the two women were on the twelfth green putting in the afternoon, a ball came over the bank, over the heads of those in the gallery and bounced on the green. It was headed for No. 14 green but the golfer who hit it could not see the twelfth green. Mrs. Wallace was just ready to put when the ball hit and she had to adjust her sight again. She lost the hole but it was not all due to the accident for she had failed on her approach putt to get the ball close to the hole.

Mrs. George E. Mix defeated Mrs. C. B. Stem in the championship consolation final, 4 and 3.

15 ST. LOUISANS LIKELY TO PLAY IN T-M TOURNEY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., June 15.—At least 300 golfers from all parts of the Middle West will take part in the twenty-ninth annual trans-Mississippi golf tournament which will be played over the Omaha field course the week of June 24.

To see that every minute of the tournament is either crammed with golf or entertainment, the sum of $2800 has been collected from Omaha business firms for the entertainment of the visitors and for prizes to the winners.

Besides the "nineteenth hole" affairs, two floors of the new $2,000,000 Paxton Hotel have been set aside for the golfers. The hotel will be formally opened on June 21.

A buffet supper will be given on the opening evening of the tournament and on the second evening the golfers' auction, pairings in the championship flight and the winners of the two-man, four-man, medalist and Brock cup competitions will be announced during the golfers' banquet.

Wednesday match play will start 18 holes. All matches after Wednesday will be over the 36-hole route.

Fourteen Expected from St. Louis.

St. Louis' quota of entries is 14 golfers, while Kansas City is expected to send eight. The St. Louis entries are in charge of Bonner Miller of the St. Louis Amateur Association.

Nearly 300 yards have been added to the course which is now lined with hazards and the recent rainy weather has placed it in excellent shape.

Johnny Goodman, the box car caddy who made such a hit in St. Louis when the tourney was played there last and who won the title in 27, will not take part this year. He was medalist of the 3000 golfers in the qualifying rounds of the national open tournament and will go East to take part in the bigger classic which is played the same time the trans-Mississippi is on.

Many of the outstanding personages of golf in St. Louis will attend the "homecoming" at Triple A this afternoon when all the past champions of the club now living have been invited to participate in an 18-hole medal competition for the title of "champion of champions."

Chris Kenney was the first to win the Triple A championship and have his name engraved on the cup, which is still in competition. Since Kenney won it the first time in 1907, 16 others have won the Triple A championship.

Kenney won it again in 1920, while A. H. McCreery captured it twice, William R. Orthwein three times and William S. Mackey twice. Walter Devoy won it last season.

Acceptances have been received from many of the titleholders.

In addition there will be other good golfers of the district. Among them, Clarence Wolff, District Champion Jim Manion, a former district champion, and Elliott Whitbread, Missouri amateur champion.

Ben Richter, club professional, who has qualified to represent the district in the National Open tournament has been invited as a guest player.

Chris Kenney	1907	Wm. R. Orthwein	1919
F. K. Fitzgibbons	1908	Chris Kenney	1920
Cornelius L. Butts	1909	Jas. Westbury	1921

Bob Isherwood, Forest Park, will not be able to defend his title as St. Louis district junior golf champion in the seventh annual tournament, which opens at the Woodlawn Country Club, Kirkwood, tomorrow. He has been forbidden by his physician to play, due to illness.

Thirty-eight boys between the ages of 14 and 21 years, who are sons or near relatives of members of the golf clubs belonging to the district association have entered the competition, which starts with an 18-hole qualifying round.

After the qualifying round, the field will be divided into two classes for match play, which is scheduled to start Tuesday morning. First-round matches are to be played Tuesday morning and second-round matches in the afternoon. Wednesday third-round matches are to be played in the morning and the semi-finals in the afternoon. Young Indian Beats De Mar in Marathon Race

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 15.—Harry Chauca, 19-year-old Hopi Indian, won the first annual Los Angeles Times pre-Olympic Marathon race today, scoring a convincing victory over Clarence De Mar, the Melrose (Mass.) veteran and favorite in the event.

Chausa, a student at the Sherman Indian Institute, Riverside, Cal., crossed the finish line of the 26-mile, 385-yard race about a half mile ahead of De Mar. His time was three hours, four minutes and 34 3-5 seconds. De Mar finished in three hours, seven minutes and 33 seconds.

The Marathon was run entirely over pavements and under a hot sun. De Mar led the field until the 25-mile mark was reached, when Chauca, who had dogged him all along, forged into the lead with a quickened stride.

Franklin Suhu, another Indian lad, was third in three hours, 15 minutes and 26 1-5 seconds.

The leadership in the elapsed time standing unchanged unchanged as a result, Gavuzzi still holding down first place by the slim margin of 9 minutes and 56 seconds, with Salo second, and Umek third.

Packs stated that he intends to book Jim Clinstock, the Oklahoma Indian heavyweight, as one of the principals in the main event of his inaugural card and that he plans to bring Jim McMillan, Dick Shikart Roy Steele or Rudy Dusek to match grips with the Indian matman.

THISTLE ANN TAKES FAIRMOUNT STAKE; WILDALE DEFEATED

Mrs. Percy Orthwein and Drummond Jones.

According to Capt. E. C. Walker, an associate steward, Even Money, the dam of Thistle Ann, died when the little filly was but two weeks old. Mrs. Collins, wife of the owner of The Thistles, took personal charge of the little orphan and it is due to her care and attention that the good mare is racing today.

Dr. L. B. Michael, the track veterinarian, reported to the stewards today that Polar Sea had a temperature of 105 degrees. His severe sickness of today doubtless accounts for the disappointing race Polar Sea ran yesterday.

Earnings of jockeys for the week ending June 13 are as follows: R. Finnerty, $241; C. Edwards, $205; V. Smith, $199; G. Fowler, $185; M. Meyer, $185.

TOLLEY, VICTOR IN BRITISH GOLF FINAL, WILL TRY FOR U. S. TITLE

By the Associated Press.

SANDWICH, England June 15.—Cyril James Hastings Tolley, new commanding general of the British amateur golf, will carry his country's championship title, which he won here today, when he invades the United States to play in the American amateur championship at Pebble Beach, Cal. next September.

Tolley won his second crown by defeating John Nelson Smith, Scottish carpenter from Fife, four up and three to play, in the 36-hole final. Closing a week of brilliant golf during which he scored a series of convincing successes.

The Scotch artisan, opposing the great Tolley today, played the same dour, determined sort of game that brought him a sensational victory, yesterday, over John Dawson, the brilliant young American, and for 18 holes he held his English opponent to level terms. Sturdy shouldered, big boned and with huge hands that seemed to wield clubs like match sticks, Smith never let Tolley get ahead until the nineteenth hole.

Smith Chalks Club Faces.

Consistently outdriven, Smith, nevertheless chalked the faces of his wooden clubs with a piece of blue chalk he uses on other days for drawing lines in his carpenter shop and smacked his own shots straight and true.

At the twenty-second hole Tolley hit a fine iron shot to the green and, with this, seemed to divest himself of the strain that was beginning to tell on both players. He then played great golf to the close. His performance over the next five holes was enough to break the heart of a less courageous man than Smith, but the Scotsman hit back by winning three.

Tolley's position was unassailable, however, and no matter how hard Smith hammered, the big English star held his lead and with a long putt won the thirty-second hole to become dormie. The thirty-third was carefully halved and the title was Tolley's.

He won the amateur championship in 1920 by stopping R. A. Gardner of Chicago at the thirty-seventh hole. He has held the French open title twice and was a member of the all-British Walker cup teams until last year when he found himself unable to make the trip to the United States.

INDIANAPOLIS BOXER MAY MEET SCHWAKE IN AMATEUR FIGHT

Officials of the Flori Olympian A. C. are planning to bring on an Indianapolis heavyweight battler to oppose John Schwake, National A. A. U. junior titleholder, in a special event on their outdoor program of amateur glove contests to be held on Tuesday night, June 25.

Matchmaker Joe Herbst announced last night that he has received a letter from Indianapolis amateur boxing authorities indicating they have a fighter who is willing to accept a match with Schwake.

The Flori Olympian matchmaker also plans to schedule an inter-club special between Clifford Doetzel, former Western A. A. U. senior flyweight champion, and Gilbert 'Pewee' Terry, the present titleholder, to furnish another feature of his outdoor tourney.

Secretary Stimson's pet peeve who rejoices in the Anti-Saloon League name of "Old Soak" speaks nothing but a choop suey dialect. For instance we take it that in preferring a request for his favorite breakfast food he says in effect, "Plolly lasta a clacker."

In the meanwhile, if the good Dr. McBride doesn't succeed in making the Secretary change the name of "Old Soak" to "Ten-dollar" Sullivan or something we will be forced to the conclusion that the Anti-Saloon League is losing its punch.

However, as "Old Soak" is kept by way of being a bird of Paradise, he will probably continue to say whatever he dampens in choice pigeon-English.

Deep Stuff.

Former President Coolidge is writing about his boyhood here days down on the farm, says a part that country life does not always have breadth, but it has depth. And he is absolutely right. Forty acres go down just as far as a thousand.

And, as Ben Franklin so quaintly put it, around the rim of the little blue plate of which we took our first bean in eating: "Plow deep while sluggards sleep and you shall have corn to sell and keep."

You couldn't fool Ben Franklin at any stage of the race. He not only knew everything that was worth while about governments and monarchies, politics and printing, but his keen understanding of what was going on in the vegetable kingdom was really uncanny.

He also founded the Saturday Evening Post, but didn't know it.

Babe Ruth Plans to Get Back Into Game on Friday

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 15.—Babe Ruth, has improved much in health in his four-day fishing vacation on Chesapeake Bay that he hopes to get into Athletics-Yankees series next Friday.

Ruth stepped from a boat which he spent the greater part of the day fishing with his manager Harry Mohler of Washington. Mohler said the "Babe" caught the greater part of the "hard heads" they brought in for the day's catch.

It was announced that they were preparing to leave Cedar Mouth, Mohler summer place on Rhode Bay, for Washington, where Ruth and his bride will take a train for New York.

The home run hitter said he was eager to get back into baseball and planned to go to the Yankee Stadium Tuesday, get into uniform and work out for a few days, if he felt well, and his doctor permitted, he said he would get into the start of the series with the Athletics Friday.

He estimated his weight at 240 pounds, a little lighter than he had been, and said his fishing trip to Chesapeake Bay, which had left him badly burned from sun and wind, had done him "a world of good." The cold on his chest was gone, he added, but he still had some soreness in his left shoulder in which he thought he had a slight cold.

BOSTON, June 15.—Scoring three runs in the ninth to tie the score at 8-8, the Browns today counted four in the twelfth and defeated the Red Sox, 12-8, thus taking the edge game in the series and bringing their road record to 12 victories and 12 defeats.

Seven pitchers toiled—four for Boston and three for St. Louis.

Sam Gray started but had little. Coffman relieved Gray and worked in inning and then George Blaeholder worked the last four innings in splendid style to earn his fifth victory of the trip. For Boston, Russell did well enough and had a three run lead when the Browns went in for their ninth. Bayne pitched this ninth and before it was over, Milt Gaston and Morris were in the box.

Some great playing by both clubs prevented a score in the tenth and eleventh but nothing could stop the Browns in the twelfth.

Manush Wins the Game.

Blaeholder drew a pass and Melillo sacrificed. McGowan singled Blaeholder to third and Manush tripled to right center for two runs. Blue walked and stole second and after Kress had fanned, Blue doubled to left for two runs. In the last half, Bigelow led off with a single but Blaeholder got the next three men in order without undue trouble.

McNeely, Manush, Kress and Blue were the big guns in the Browns' attack. Manush had two singles and a triple, Kress four singles, McNeely three singles and O'Rourke three two-baggers.

At one stage of the game—at the end of the seventh—the Sox were leading, 8 to 3, but Jimmy Austin, coaching at first, kept insisting that "It's a long game yet" and he proved a good prophet.

All told, the Browns made 16 hits off the four opposing pitchers, while Boston collected an even dozen off the St. Louis trio. In his four innings, Blaeholder permitted only two safeties.

How Runs Were Scored.

After a double steal by McNeely and Blue had scored one for the Browns in the first, the Sox began to get familiar with Gray in their second. Bigelow, Regan and Todt singled in succession to open hostilities. These produced a run and Berry's sacrifice fly another. Russell and Reeves then hit safely and a third run was over.

Scarritt began the Boston third with a triple, rested on third while Kress threw out Barrett and then scored on Bigelow's long sacrifice fly to McNeely. All this while the Browns were as powerless as near beer against Russell. The Red Sox added a run to take their total five in the fifth on a hit by Reeves, his steal and a single by Scarritt.

In the sixth, the Browns awoke briefly from their lethargy and manufactured a run. With McGowan out, Manush singled and was walked. Kress hit to center to score Manush, but O'Rourke popped out and Jenkins, batting for Roetz, tapped to Russell for the third out.

Melillo Stars in Field.

Melillo went to second for the Browns for the Boston half and made two nice stops in the inning. Russell passed Schang to open the fourth but was forced by Gray, who advanced to second when Berry singled. McGowan succeeded only in moving Gray and Berry up.

Manush beat out a high hopper to Narlesky, scoring Gray, but Reeves beat was a bounder which he fielded handled. Gray walked and Reeves in the Sox half and Narlesky sacrificed. Then Scarritt filed to McGowan and, after Barrett had struck out, Bigelow singled Reeves home. Regan's triple to right centerfield scored Barrett and Bigelow. Regan walked and stole and Berry failed to fill the bases, but Russell flied out to end the sad session.

Kress' third single, a double by O'Rourke, Melillo's sacrifice fly and a two-bagger by Ferrell, batting for Gray, scored two for the Browns in the eighth. Coffman faced the Sox in their half and set them down.

Billy Bayne Pounded.

Carrigan sent Bill Bayne, once a Brownie and still a southpaw, against the Browns in the ninth.

McGowan, leading off, wasg safe on Regan's fumble and Manush singled and advanced to second when Barrett let his grounder go through.

McGowan scored on Blue's out and Milt Gaston relieved Bayne anw was found for a single by Kress and double by O'Rourke. Two runs in and two on. Ed Morris replaced Gaston and made Melillo fly to Bigelow in short right center. Kress scored the tying run on a wild pitch. Schang was purposely nassed. Kimsey batted for Coffman and forced Schang. And thus they strolled into overtime.

Blaeholder was to have pitched the final of the series at Braves' Field tomorrow, but because of his work today probably will be excused and Rip Collins or Chad Kimsey given the assignment.

Brownie Notes.

THAT Holy Cross-Boston college game did not hurt the attendance. It ruined it.

The double steal that gave the Browns their first run was cleverly executed. Blue stayed far enough away from second to force Regan, who took Berry's throw, to throw home. McNeely beat the relay with a fine slide.

It began to rain as the Browns completed their first inning but the game went on and let Roetz get two errors on the same play when he first fumbled Narlesky's grounder and then threw it past first to let Narlesky reach second.

A high wind made the catch of pop flies and fouls difficult. In the second Reeves floundered around under offerings of O'Rourke and Roetz and juggled both but caught them.

There was no question as to the genuinecness of the three singles that started the Boston second. They all were hit on the nose. Regan should have been cut down at the plate on Berry's short fly, but Roetz, who caught the ball, made a poor throw home.

In the same session, Reeves grounded in the direction of Roetz and a double play was almost a certainty, but the ball hopped high over Roetz's head for a single which meant a third run.

Opening the third, Scarritt lined to center and another hop took it over McGowan's head and made it good for a triple, proving conclusively that one good bounce deserves another.

Not until the fourth did the Browns get a second hit off Russell. Kress got this one—a single—but two were out and O'Rourke ended the inning with a drive to Scarritt.

O'Rourke personally conducted the Red Sox into retirement in the last of the fourth. He caught pops from Todt and Berry and threw Russell out.

Neither Gray nor Schang were surprised when Reeves stole in the last of the fifth. Schang called for a pitchout and then made a terrible throw.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Title May Go Abroad.

WITH a German and a Spaniard fighting next week in the semifinal of the heavyweight championship series, the possibility that the world title may go visiting, soon, is dawning. Jack Sharkey seems to be about all that stands in the way of the winner of the impending battle; and Miami proved that he is a weak reed to lean on.

With the title owned in Europe, our chance of regaining it is not so simple. Undoubtedly Germany, for example, would insist on Schmeling defending the crown at home, should he win it here. Our candidates would therefore be forced to compete under strange conditions, before hostile crowds and under the eye of foreign referees.

The handicap is a real one. Ask Luis Firpo about it. He had cause to know. Had the Dempsey-Firpo fight been held in South America Dempsey would have lost the contest on any one of three or four fouls he committed; nor would he have been permitted to stand over his fallen foe waiting to strike Firpo down as his finger tips left the canvas—which happened.

There is one thing that is in favor of the American fighters—the money is in America. Inevitably that will make this country the scene of a majority of the world championship contests of the future.

Pull for Schmeling. .

IF WE must have an imported beezer-buster for a fight king, let's hope it is Schmeling. That implies no prejudice against the Spaniard as an individual. But because of his fighting style he is more or less hopeless.

Imagine a man with a rock jaw and steel frame, almost entirely devoid of boxing skill, whose defense consists in folding his arms in front of his face, with body crouched to prevent exposure of his ribs. Imagine a fighter trying to launch an attack from this posture—an attack consisting of a slow advance behind the barrier of arms until within striking distance, then a long wait for an opportunity to lash out with a wild swing at the opposing fighter.

Imagine a near champion who owns no knockout punch unless he is permitted to wind up his haymaker and pitch it overhand at his foe—and there you have Paulino. If he has not learned something since his knockout of Harry Wills, one of the few kayoes he has achieved since he came to this country, Paulino has little to recommend him. If he wins, it will be because he can take punishment, and because he resorts to hiding, rather than boxing, to save himself from punishment.

Such a fighter makes an exasperating opponent and affords a tame spectacle. He prevents the other man from doing his stuff, but is unable to do much himself.

Paulino's fights in this country have almost invariably been dull and dismal.

Read It and Weep.

PAULINO'S record is not impressive. His knockouts were of men of little standing, if we except Harry Wills—and it was proved later that the Negro was all washed up, when he fought Paulino. He has been beaten by men like George Cook (twice), Jack Delaney and Johnny Risko. Heeney and Franz Diener gained draws with him.

To judge by his 1928 record exclusively, which is giving him the best break possible, Paulino still closely resembles a ripe egg. He gained four knockouts and here are the victims: Pat Lester, Ed Keeley, Romero Rojas and Ludwig Hayman—all deuces. He won from Bill Hartwell, Jack Renault and Otto Von Porat—all of whom have had "L" recorded after their names often enough to wear out an adding machine.

He lost on a foul to Big Boy Peterson and was decisively beaten by big George Godfrey, the Negro mauler.

Paulino is without science; he doesn't know how to punch; he slows up the fight by his tactics; and in general he makes a quiet evening with the radio seem a thrilling moment, by comparison.

And so, one naturally hopes that the "German Jack Dempsey," Schmeling, full of pep, vim and punching power, will be the fortunate one to win the coming fight.

We feel for the promoters if the show turns out otherwise.

The Title Goes Visiting.

SHOULD the world championship be won by a foreigner, it will not be the first time it has happened since John L. Sullivan started a new era in fighting. Nor, if the championship fight of 1930 were fought abroad, would it be the first time glove championships have been fought on foreign soil, since John L. clinched the world's crown by beating Ryan.

John L. himself defended his title in France against Charley Mitchell, in a battle fought in the rain and mud to a draw, after 31 rounds. It was not a glove contest, however.

Bob Fitzsimmons, a Cornishman, was the first European to win the world glove championship. Bob did not defend his title outside of the United States. Then, as now, the big money was here.

The other foreign-born fighter to win the crown was Noah Brusseau, better known as Tommy Burns, a Canadian. He defeated Marvin Hart. Jack Johnson chased Tommy to far-off Australia; and there, for a consideration of $30,000, Burns fought Johnson and lost his title in 1908 to the Negro.

Johnson Pulls in Havana.

JOHNSON defended his title three times on foreign soil—because he was under sentence by a Federal Court in the United States.

Johnson defeated the more or less celebrated Frank Moran in a 20-round fight in Paris. He also beat Jim Johnson, an American Negro, in the French capital.

His last fight as champion was against Jess Willard, whom he fought in Havana, passing out in the twenty-sixth round, reclining on his back, but holding up a gloved hand to keep the sun from shining in his eyes while the referee finished counting.

In all of these fights on foreign soil, no native son of the country promoting the bout was defending his title. They were battles between Americans for the most part and national pride was not involved. The possibility now confronting us is that an American may have to fight a foreign titleholder on the champion's own home soil.

Which will prove quite another matter.

FOUR YANKEE HURLERS FAIL AS TIGERS WIN

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Detroit found four Yankee pitchers for 15 hits here today to win, 9 to 2, in the third game of the series. New York won the two previous games.

Victor Sorrell held the champions to eight well-scattered hits and received errorless support. The Tigers made good use of their hits. Heilmann clearing the bases with a double in the third. Roy Johnson, former Coast Leaguer, led the attack with a homer, a triple and a single. George Wrestling, Tiger recruit shortstop from the coast, made his debut, replacing Schuble.

the tenth inning crisis he slammed a line drive to left center, sending Wilson home with the winning run. Orsatti could have made two or three bases on the drive, but as Wilson scored the winning run from third a single was all that could be credited to the little Italian under the scoring rules.

Sixth Straight for Cardinals.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Cardinals and further showed their ability to maltreat the second division clubs. In the series with the Reds, Dodgers, Phillies and Braves the Cardinals have won 13 and lost only one during this stand at Sportsman's Park.

Bob Smith pitched the entire game for the Braves and the defeat was a heartbreaker for the right-hander. He held the Cardinals to two hits in seven innings and had a three-run lead when the Cardinals went to bat in the eighth. Then, after Orsatti had fouled out, the Cardinals found the range. Earl Smith singled to center and Andy High batted for Gelbert and singled to the same field. Southworth batted for Alexander and fouled out, but Douthit singled to center, scoring Selph, who was running for Earl Smith. Wilson batted for Delker and struck out to end the inning and looked like the final gasp of the day for the Red Birds.

Things looked even darker when Harper singled in the ninth with Herman Bell pitching and was forced by Lester Bell, who stole second and scored on Taylor's double.

Bob Smith Tries.

But the Cardinal sluggers were just beginning to find the range and Bob Smith was tiring and a tired pitcher was in a tough spot in that ninth inning with Frisch, Bottomley and Hafey swinging to hold first place.

The Braves scored three runs off Grover Cleveland Alexander in eight innings, but there was only one honest to goodness hit off the old master's delivery.

In the seventh inning Sisler beat out a slow roller toward third and Harper drew a pass. Les Bell popped a single to short center, just out of Frankie Frisch's reach, and Sisler scored and Harper went to third.

Maranville then bunted to Bottomley and it went for a single, when nobody covered first base. Harper scored on this bit of strategy.

In the eighth Richbourg led off with a triple to center, the only solid safety off Alexander, and Clark's sacrifice fly to Hafey scored Richbourg.

Red Bird Notes.

JESS HAINES will pitch one of the games of today's double-header with the Braves. Southworth had planned to use Herman Bell in the other, but Herman pitched one inning yesterday. Fred Frankhouse may draw the other starting assignment. Brandt, Delaney and Cantwell are due for the visitors.

The Cardinals have lost only two series during the home stand. The Pirates made a clean sweep of four games and the Giants took three in a row. The Red Birds took two of three from the Cubs, five straight from the Reds, two out of three from Brooklyn Dodgers and four straight from the Phillies. The two victories over the Braves give Southworth's men a record of 15 won and 9 lost during the home stand.

Frisch made a great stop to rob Harper of a hit in the fourth inning and Bottomley helped by making a falling catch of Frank's wide throw, keeping his foot on the bag until he had the ball.

Frisch doubled to left with two out in the first, but Bottomley flied to Clark. The Cardinals then went hitless until the fifth inning when Earl Smith doubled against the left field wall. He was left on second, Gelbert grounding to Maguire.

Clark beat out a bunt to Delker in the first inning and the Braves didn't get another hit off Alexander until the seventh, when with one out Sisler beat out a slow roller that Alexander picked up near the third-base line.

The Cards showed a rearranged infield in the ninth inning. High went to third, Frisch moved to short, and Carey Selph played second, making his first appearance of the season in the field.

Two Cardinal hits in seven innings and then ten in three innings.

Bob Smith issued only one pass and that was an intentional one, to Hafey to fill the bases in the tenth.

ATHLETICS BEAT CLEVELAND, 1-0, IN SHORT GAME

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15. — The Philadelphia Athletics beat both the weather man and the Cleveland Indians here this afternoon by slipping over a 1—0 triumph in a game that only went 4½ innings.

While it lasted the contest was a hurling duel between George Earnshaw and Willis Hudlin. Joe Boley drove in the only run of the game in the fourth inning when his single scored Bing Miller from second base.

The victory was Earnshaw's eighth of the season and the Athletics sixth in a row. By making two singles today Bing Miller hit in the fifteenth successive game. In his last five games Miller has made two hits per game.

SIX-YEAR-OLD LIGHT CARBINE WINS BROOKLYN HANDICAP AND $14,30

DIAVOLO SECOND, SUN BEAU THIRD; 20,000 FANS SEE AQUEDUCT RACE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Weight will tell, a time honored turf slogan, was affirmed again today as the six-year-old Light Carbine, with only 97 pounds in the saddle, romped home ahead of a classy field of veteran runners at Aqueduct to win the Forty-First running of the Brooklyn Handicap and $14,300.

Thrown into a field of thoroughbreds carrying much heavier weights the I. B. Humphreys' ace from Galloper Light made the best of his feather to beat the Wheatley Stables' four-year-old Diavolo to the wire by one and one-half lengths. Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Son Beau, seeking a comeback after a recent illness, finished three lengths back of the speeding Diavolo for the short end of the purse.

Black Panther, winner of the turf fixture last year and the post favorite as an entry with Sunfire, ran tenth in the field of 12. Comstockery, the Greentree Stables' recent surprise victor in the Queens County Handicap on the opening day at Aqueduct, could do no better than sixth, a half length in front of R. T. Wilson Jrs Sunfire.

Byrd and Begorra, two fast sprinters, were off in front of the pack, flashing by the half mile pole in :46 2-5. With Light Carbine trailing in third position under a slight restraint by Jockey G. Rose. Rounding the long turn the leaders began to tire and when the field hit the lengthy stretch Light Carbine began to move up on the inside.

Three furlongs from the finish, Rose drove his mount into the lead and kept him going at top speed to stave off the challenge of Diavolo in the final furlong. Light Carbine's time for the nine furlongs was 1:50 3-5.

Jackie Fields, the West coast welterweight, will arrive today for his scheduled 10-round bout with Jackie Horner of St. Louis, Wednesday night, at the Battery Arena. The Walter J. Hatzfeld Post of the American Legion is sponsoring the show.

Fields is reported to be a willing and hard worker in training, but, in a manner of speaking, he is going to the dogs before his fight with Horner. He is scheduled to present a "Jackie Fields trophy" to the owner of the winning dog in a special race Tuesday night at the Madison Kennel Club track.

The record of the Los Angeles welterweight indicates that those who attend the fight will see one of the best fighting machines of the present period when he steps into the ring.

When Young Jack Thompson knocked out Champion Joe Dundee in two rounds, last summer, in a non-title bout, the word was sent out that Thompson was a "second edition of Joe Gans"—and the Negro was a good man. However, Fields caused the spotlight to be turned from Thompson to himself when he defeated the Chicagoan in a hard 10-round bout last October. They were rematched for a bout March 25.

Fields N. B. A. Champion.

As Joe Dundee had persistently refused to defend his title, the National Boxing Association announced that the winner of the second Fields-Thompson fight would be recognized as champion, as far as that organization was concerned. Fields again won from Thompson in a bit

RACEY AND COACH PREDICT SIMPSON'S DASH MARK WILL BE BROKEN

TEXANS BELIEVE ...ELD IN A. A. U. ...VENT IN JULY CAN DO TRICK

By Alan J. Gould.
Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, June 15.—It has ... nearly a quarter cventury to ... the record for the 100-yard ... by one-fifth of a second .... Dan Kelly's official :09 3-5 ... 1906, to George Simpson's ... :09.4 that is expected to receive ... official approval .... but the new ... may not last more than a ... month.

At least that is the conviction ... Claude Bracey, the speed star of ... Institute, Texas, who was run... up to Simpson in the famous ... record-smashing race at Chicago ... Saturday.

Bracey, here last week, said he ... believed the 100-yard record would ... be cracked again, at the National ... A. U. championship in Denver, ... July 4, 5, and he has high hopes ... of being the sprinter to do the ... trick.

A Field of High Class.

The sprint field for the A. A. ... little meet will be the best ever ... entered together, in Bracey's be... lief as well as that of his coach, ... veteran Ernie Hjertberg, even ... though it is possible that a pulled ... muscle will keep Simpson out of ... competition. Bracey expects ... to find arrayed against him such ... stars as Eddie Tolan of Michigan, ... Frank Wykoff of Glendale, Cal., ... Ronald Sweet of the Olympic Club, ... San Francisco, Karl Wildermuth ... of Georgetown, and Percy Wil... liams, the curly-haired Canadian ... who wears the Olympic sprint ... crown.

Bracey is especially eager to ... clock strides again with Williams, ... who beat the Texan in the Olympic ... semi-finals.

"Williams is the fastest finisher ... I ever saw," said Bracey, in trib... ute to the great Canadian.

"Some of the watches at Chicago ... caught Simpson in as low as ... :9.18," Hjertberg pointed out. ... "And Bracey was barely a foot be... hind him. Given favorable condi... tions, the record may be cut to ... :9.4 at Denver."

Yet it wasn't so long ago that ... coaches and officials generally re... garded 9 2-5 for the "100" as next ... to impossible, feeling that the limit ... of human speed had been reached.

Weight Helps Bracey.

"Bracey, although big and rangy, ... is a better man at the 100 than the ... 220," Hjertberg continued. "I think ... he can beat anybody. Simpson in... cluded, at the shorter distance. The ... only runner who last Saturday be... gan to show of a better start. He was ... losing ground to Bracey at the ... finish. And that was the first time ... I ever saw ever beat the Texas boy."

District Tennis Title Tourney To Open Today

By Davison Obear

The St. Louis District elimination tennis tournament will open on the Triple A courts this morning. Play was scheduled to start yesterday afternoon but rain caused a postponement. Matches in the men's singles will be played this morning with the probability that some doubles contests will be held this afternoon.

In the men's singles entry there are seven out of the first 10 ranking District players. Wray Brown expected to compete but notified the committee that he will be obliged to leave the city tomorrow on a business trip. Fred Josties is another top ranking player who did not enter owing to lack of time while Ed Serrano, No. 4 in the District list, is saving himself for the doubles owing to a recent injury.

Ted Drewes, former holder of many tennis titles of importance, is the favorite to win the men's singles event. Drewes will probably meet Sidney Smith in the quarter-finals and either Robert Norton or Herbert Weinstock in the semi-finals if he wins his quarter-final match.

In the other bracket Teddy Eggman, seeded No. 2, is favored to reach the finals. He will find some stiff opposition in such players as Karl Kammann, Charles Barnes, Karl Hodge and Junior Boehmer, who are also in his bracket.

Nineteen teams will compete in the men's doubles event. The four teams seeded in the doubles draw are Ted Drewes and Edmund Serrano, Karl Kammann and Charles Barnes, Sidney Smith and Herbert Weinstock and the team of Robert Norton and Harry Schaberg. Among the other strong combinations entered are Boehmer and Portnoy, Bascom and Semple, Tietjen and Murphy. Teddy Eggmann and Joseph Werner will pair in the tournament and this new combination might be considered the "dark horse" of the doubles play.

GEORGE REEDER CHOICE TO WIN GOLF TITLE AT MT. VERNON EVENT

George Reeder, of Mount Vernon, is the favorite to win the eighth annual Southern Illinois golf championship in the tournament which starts at Mount Vernon next Tuesday. If it is possible to follow the schedule arranged the finals will be played next Saturday.

ST. JAMES AND NAPS A. C. LIKELY FLAG-WINNERS IN MUNY LEAGU

THREE TEAMS TIED FOR LEAD IN TWO OTHER AMATEUR LOOPS

Pennant winners in two leagues of the Saturday division of the Municipal Baseball Association were made almost certain in games yesterday afternoon.

In the North Side Senior Evangelical League, the St. James nine won its sixth straight victory by defeating St. Peters, 18 to 8. St. James now holds a decisive lead in first place and it is doubtful that any other contestant can break it before the schedule is out.

The Naps A. C. defeated th Hogans twice in a double-header, thereby running its string of victories to five. The Naps appear to be the champions of the Senior Employed Boys' League.

Chapter Three gained a tie for first place in the Bell Employes' League by giving hapter Six a defeat. Both teams have now won four games and lost one.

McQuay Norris continued its perfect record in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial League with its fifth straight victory. The Moloney nine is second with a record of four games won and one lost.

Three teams are undefeated in the Y. M. C. A. No. 2 League. The Nooters have won two games and share first place with the A. T. and T., and Nooter nines which have four straight victories to their credit.

The Stars, Indians and Peters teams share first place in the International League. Each team has won three games and lost two.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

SOCIETY NEWS SECTION

PART THREE. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 16, 1929. PAGES 1—14

Kate Thompson Weds W. A. Borders In Sunset Ceremony

Marriage at Westminster Presbyterian Church Outstanding in Long List of Similar Events.

A PRETTY June wedding, outstanding in a long list of similar social events, was that of Miss Kate Edmondstone Thompson, daughter of Mrs. Guy Atwood Thompson, and William Alexis Borders, son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. I. D. Borders of Kansas City, which took place at sunset yesterday afternoon at the Westminster Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's father, assisted by the Rev. Dr. William Crowe, pastor.

A new decorative note was a single gold standard containing hundreds of Easter lilies placed in the center of the altar platform as a background for the bridal pair. Across the broad chancel palms and feathery ferns were banked, graduating in height to a tall screen on either side, and lighted by the soft glow from hundreds of cathedral tapers in tall candelabra.

Delicate pastel shades were chosen by the bride for the costumes and flowers of her attendants. Her debutante sister, Miss Lucy Thompson, as maid of honor, wore a chanel model of tea rose chiffon, flowered in spring blossoms and veiling self-toned crepe. There were filmy bodice draperies fashioned of two layers of the chiffon, one longer than the other, which encircled her shoulders and were caught low in front with a tiny bow. A slender hip-line was achieved by a wide set-in chiffon girdle to which was attached the filmy skirt of irregular layers of chiffon. Her hat was of tea rose lace straw in modified poke effect, simply trimmed at either side with matching gros grain ribbon cut through the brim.

The bridesmaids, Miss Anne Davis, Miss Julia Wells, Miss Lucy Turner, Miss Margaret Burkham, Miss Nell Atwood, Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Jacqueline Thompson, cousins of the bride, and Mrs. John Howard Wilkins of Washington, D. C., sister of the bridegroom, were gowned alike in Venice blue chiffon over crepe de soie of the same shade. There were triple sleeveless round neck bodices made in slender lines with a normal waist from which the skirts fell in graceful circular lines, quite long at either side and graduating high in front. A bit of additional drape at the right gave a balance line. Short jackets of Venice blue lace caught with a rhinestone ornament completed their costumes and they wore French lace straw hats to match made similar to that of the maid of honor. The young women all carried graceful arm bouquets of African daisies in soft pinks, combined with Joanna Hill roses.

The bride's gown was fashioned of ivory satin combined with rose point lace, designed on straight lines. A deep yoke of the lace adorned the front of the bodice and continued to a low cape at the back. There were long net sleeves, new to fashion this spring, finished with rose point. The gown's quaintness of line was emphasized by tailored satin bands stitched on the skirt at the hip to form godets. A satin train lined with white chiffon, was built into the gown at the back and descended several yards on the floor. Her veil was worn to her hair with a bandeau of old duchesse lace tied into a bow at the back. Her flowers were Calla lilies.

Maryanna Hearne, cousin of the bride and Susie Thompson, a younger sister, served as flower girls, wearing dainty frocks of flesh tinted French batiste, made with deep berthas of embroidered net. Their hats were of fairbraid to match, trimmed with turquoise blue ribbon.

Art Scholarship Benefit November 29

FRIDAY, Nov. 29, has been selected by the St. Louis Art Alliance as the date of the annual benefit for the foreign scholarship fund, which has been established to provide scholarships for worthy students of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts in foreign art centers.

As the result of that function two honor students of the School of Fine Arts are studying in the art centers of Europe. This year's entertainment, it is hoped by the Alliance, will raise sufficient funds for four or five additional foreign scholarships for advanced students of the art school.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

THE St. Louis Shakspeare Drama Study Club held its last meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Edgar Paul Sommers, 8340 Washington avenue, June 6, at 2 p. m. A Shakspearean pageant was given under the direction of Mrs. O. S. Ledman by members of the club in the gardens of the hostess. Mrs. Sommers took the part of Queen Elizabeth and before her passed the members representing the heroines of Shakspeare's plays. Miss Muriel Sommers, young daughter of the hostess, gave a dance dressed in Shakspearean costume. Mrs. Robert Meyer and Mrs. N. Paulding Heinz played a piano duet from "Midsummer Night's Dream," and Miss Charlotte Coleville accompanied by Mme. Thoms sang two songs. All the members of the club and many guests attended.

The final meeting of Scottish Rite Women's Club was held Tuesday, June 11, at 2 p. m. in the lounge of the Cathedral with the president, Mrs. Orie Leon Herlinger, presiding. Mrs. Arthur J. Burr was elected president of the club. Assisting Mrs. Burr were Mrs. Stella Woodrow Barnes, vice chairman; Mrs. William L. Hulburd, recording secretary; Miss Naomi E. Kennedy, treasurer, and Mrs. Andrew J. O'Reilly, auditor.

The Art Section met Wednesday and elected Mrs. Fuqua Turner, chairman; Mrs. A. L. McGuire, vice chairman, and Mrs. Rosa Kantorwitz, secretary.

The Sylvan Delphian Chapter met last week at the Kingshighway Presbyterian Church to discuss "Social Life During the Middle Ages" after which the following officers were elected for the year: Mrs. J. W. Maguess, president; Mrs. William L. Bohnenkamp, vice president; Mrs. H. E. Engelsman, secretary; Mrs. George Sylvia, treasurer; Mrs. Helen Harral, Mrs. Ada Miller and Mrs. F. W. Geisler, members of the advisory board. The retiring president, Mrs. H. A. Woerman, was made a delegate-at-large.

The members of the Ever Ready Club entertained a large number of friends at the second annual luncheon of the club at Montibella last Monday. The new officers were installed by the retiring president, Mrs. J. H. Krabbe. She received a silver cake plate from the club, Mrs. H. K. Mudd making the presentation. Mrs. Adolphe Neuville made a short address and presented the club a gavel, a gift from Mrs. M. A. Berg. A musical program was given by Miss Clara Woestendiek, Miss Vivian Evans, Miss Elaine Evans and Mrs. Berg.

The officers and members of the Ben A'Kiba Aid Society participated in a luncheon at the Forest Park Hotel, Wednesday. Reports by chairmen of the various committees gave a resume of the work of the organization.

Mrs. Carrie Davis installed the newly elected officers as follows: Mrs. Lillie Haas, president; Mrs. Carrie Rovee, first vice president; Mrs. Rebecca Rosenblum, second vice president; Mrs. S. Mayer, recording secretary; Mrs. Olivette Barem, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Rose Cook, financial secretary; Mrs. Mary Adelberg, treasurer, and Mrs. Fannie Kosen, chaplain.

The June meeting of the Lindenwood College Club of St. Louis will be held Tuesday at the Westborough Country Club with luncheon at 12:30 p. m. The guests of honor will include Dr. and Mrs. John M. Roemer and members of this year's graduating class. A short business meeting will follow the luncheon after which there will be a reading by Mrs. Nelle Graces of the Morse School of Expression. Mrs. Arthur Krueger is president of the club.

The South Side Republican Women's Club gave a dinner dance at which the new officers were installed, Friday evening, June 7, at Alhambra Grotto, 2626 South Grand boulevard. Mrs. J. A. Allen had charge of the evening's entertainment and Mrs. Theodore F. Koers was chairman of the program. Henry W. Kiel was the principal speaker. Mrs. George Dietz presented the club a gavel, a gift from the West End Republican Women's Club.

At the annual meeting of the Philanthropic Society held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Alex Goodwin, the election resulted in the return to office of Mrs. Goodwin as president; Miss Jane M. Wood, vice president; Mrs. J. C. Schwinbeck, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Ira Butler, treasurer. Others elected were: Mrs. Schell, recording secretary; Mrs. L. W. Reed, auditor; Mrs. James E. Myers, chaplain; directors, Mrs. J. O. Rutledge, Mrs. J. Gordon Grant and Mrs. Arthur T. Kanstetner, who, with Miss Alice M. Rondeau, Mrs. H. Evers and Mrs. S. DuPong, will direct the year's charitable activities.

The regular meeting day was changed to the second Tuesday of each month. No business meetings will be held during the summer months, though social meetings will be held, the first one to be given at the home of Mrs. Robert C. Schell, 4975 Spalding avenue, Friday afternoon, June 21.

Miss Winifred C. Walker, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, has been elected delegate of the St. Louis club at the convention to be held at Mackinac Island, Mich., July 8 to 13. Miss Helen A. Ritchie, vice president of the local club, has been transferred to the office of the Federal Prohibition Administrator in New York City. Miss Ritchie has been employed in the local prohibition office and will leave this month to assume her new duties.

The Missouri branch of the National Society of Women Descendants of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company meet Monday at the home of Mrs. Harry Palmer, Clayton. This meeting was coincident with another held at Boston, Mass., by the men of the Artillery Company who hold an annual parade and banquet. THREE-YEAR TERM FOR R. C. TOOMBS; NEW TRIAL DENIED

Fine of $3000 Also Imposed on Former International Co. Head, Who Faces Three Other Charges.

GIVES $10,000 BOND PENDING APPEAL

Defendant Accused of Borrowing Money by Issuing Unauthorized Stock for Collateral.

The motion of Roy C. Toombs, former president of the International Life Insurance Co., of St. Louis, for a new trial was denied yesterday by Circuit Judge Hartmann, who formally sentenced Toombs to three years in the penitentiary and a $3000 fine for issuing stock in excess of the amount authorized by the company's charter.

Toombs was released immediately under $10,000 bond pending the outcome of an appeal to the Missouri Supreme Court which had had previously been filed.

It will be recalled that Toombs, a Chicago broker, bought the insurance company with money lent by Eastern banks which accepted common stock of the holding company as collateral. As notes became due, Toombs borrowed money on additional stock which he caused to be issued.

He was indicted in two over-issue cases and on two charges of grand larceny. Three of the indictments are set for the September term. He was tried on one over-issue charge in April.

On the recommendation of insurance commissioners from other states who examined the company, its insurance was taken over by the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. for the protection of stock and policy holders.

BOND ISSUE FOR KIRKWOOD FIREHOUSE TO BE RESUBMITTED

Beaten by 16 Votes; New Election Likely to Be Ordered for July 12.

A $50,000 bond issue for a new fire engine house and engine was defeated in Kirkwood last Tuesday by a vote of 252 for to 134 against, lacking 16 votes of the necessary two-thirds majority, but a date will be set by the City Council tomorrow night for resubmission of the proposition. The next election is likely to be held July 12. The town has an electorate of about 4000. Its officials think lack of publicity was responsible for the failure of the issue.

It is proposed to erect the engine house on Big Bend road, between Couch and Marshall avenues, to serve the new Osage Hills and surrounding districts. The Missouri Inspection Bureau has called attention to the insurance hazard because Kirkwood has only one engine house which is on Argonne drive near Kirkwood road. City Clerk Wilfred J. Donworth pointed out that since 1920 Kirkwood had doubled in area and nearly trebled its population, having now about 11,000 residents.

SHAW'S "APPLE CART" PRESENTED IN POLAND

Political Comedy of Utopian Future Warmly Received at World Premiere.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, June 15.—Bernard Shaw's new political comedy, "The Apple Cart," was given its world premiere here last night under its Polish title, "Wielki Kram."

The latest addition to the Shavian repertory was warmly welcomed in Poland by a brilliant first night audience composed of members of Parliament, the diplomatic corps, society people and artists and authors. Seats had been sold out for a week in advance.

President Mosciki was among prominent political personalities in the audience who saw themselves satirized in the inimitable shavian manner. The play is an expose of political quackery. The scene is laid in England.

The action takes place in an utopian future, when only the madder portion of the British people takes part in the parliamentary efections. There is a good and wise King, Magnus, and a foolish cabinet of ministers, including even a foolish socialist minister. In one scene the American Ambassador proposes that the United States come under the British crown, but the King has qualms over the proposal.

He expresses his qualms in favorable reflections on British national character. Mr. Shaw speaking indirectly in favor of his countrymen, which is rather a rare happening with him.

Among the notable performers were Junosza Stempowski, one of the foremost living Polish actors, and Madame Przybloko Potocka.

SMOKE MARS BEAUTY OF SHAW'S GARDEN

Evergreens Which Once Thrived Are Nearly Extinct, Display Shows.

How smoke has ruined some of the beauty of Shaw's Garden is shown in a unique display of the garden's world-wide activities which will be opened today in the Floral Display House.

In the display is a photo of Henry Shaw, who gave Missouri Botanical Garden and Tower Grove Park to St. Louis. There is a copy of his will, by which the gifts were administered. There also are photographs of the garden as it was then, showing Tower Grove avenue and Flora place as unpaved country roads, and, in the garden, many evergreens.

Evergreens are difficult to find in the garden now. Smoke has killed them out, as illustrated in another feature of the display. Here is an orchid leaf, scrubbed green for half its length and, for the other half, soot black. With it are pictures of luxuriant evergreens of 1889 beside their scrawny remnants of 1926.

Besides a tiny spot of smoke is the explanation that it represents the quantity in two quarts of air on a foggy day and near it is the quantity at the same proportion, found in "the air in this greenhouse"—nearly a tablespoonful.

Appropriately adjoining is a clay model of the 1600-acre garden at Gray Summit, where the gardening activities are retreating to avoid smoke. Thousands of young evergreens are flourishing there for a great pinetum. One of the eight greenhouses where orchids grow green and vigorous, is pictured with its new features devised by garden experts, and a vista is shown from the 500-acre reservation where native wild flowers are being preserved.

Round-the-world activities of the garden are shown on a globe marked off with red ribbon. In St. Louis is the original garden. Across the Atlantic is the garden's European representative. Down in Panama is the tropical station, acquisition of which, through the gift of the late C. W. Powell, made the garden's collection the greatest group of show orchids in any public institution in the world. There are letters from Germany and a map showing that the "annals" of the garden go to scientific institutions in every part of the world.

Shaw's Garden was first, one learns from the display, in introducing into this country the chaulmoogra tree, which produces an oil effective in treating leprosy; in developing bent grass for lawns and in bringing to this country the West Indian balsa wood, a third lighter than cork and the lightest wood known. The garden was first in the growing of orchids from the seed and the hybridization of rare tropical lilies, as shown by the exhibit of the work of Mrs. Elinor Alberts Linder, and the eight exquisite new lilies, prized in botanical gardens throughout the world and created since 1917 by George H. Pring, superintendent of the garden.

FORD'S RAILROAD FAILS TO ANSWER FRAUD CHARGES

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—The Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad Co. failed to answer an indictment charging it with defrauding other roads of lawful rates on coal shipped from Kentucky into Ohio when the case was called in Federal Court here today.

Assistant United States District Attorney William B. Bartels said he had not been informed why the officers of the road had not appeared and did not yet know what procedure will be followed.

The District Attorney's office said Henry Ford would not be called, although his railroad is involved. Railroad officers, however, will be summoned. The indictment charges that the road contravened the joint rate tariffs by having coal shipped to one destination and actually delivered it to another, defrauding the Norfolk & Western in particular out of its rightful carrying charges.

LIBERALS WILL AID LABOR PARTY, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE IF IT IS NOT TOO RADICAL

Real Test Will Come When English Government Attempts to Persuade Continent of Europe That It Should Actually Reduce Armaments.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.

LONDON,

DIFFICULT as it is for one of the actors to write a fair criticism of the play or of the performance, nevertheless it is very best to give a fair and impartial survey of the in Great Britain—its result and its probable

The Socialists enormously improved their both in votes and in and to that extent they legitimately claim a triumph. failed to capture the of Commons and as far as are concerned they were in majority of 5,500,000.

Britain is a long way off being verted to Socialism. The vast of our electral system has hitherto favored the servatives, this time gave advantage to the Socialists. Although second in number of the aggregate votes recorded in their they are first in number of members returned to Parliament. more the luck of the tables heavily against the Liberals. though nearly one-fourth of the who voted Liberal the number Liberal members returned is one-tenth of the total.

The Socialists succeeded in returning a member for every 29,000 votes recorded for their party. Conservatives obtained one every 34,100 votes. But the Liberals obtained in the grotesque general gamble one member for 70,000 votes.

Decision in Hands of Liberals.

If the same a complete change been effected in the Parliamentary position of the Liberal party by the last general election. The last Parliament they were small a body, even if they had together, to make any impression on the huge Tory majority that rode down all opposition with ease. As one-fourth of their members voted consistently for the government and were for all practical purposes an integral part of the ministerial phalanx, they were a still more insignificant

In this Parliament, on the other hand, the Liberal members will hold the balance between the Socialists and the Conservatives, and as the party is united—the Liberals having been almost wiped out at the election—the fate of this government and this Government will be in Liberal hands. This fact is the key to the prognostication of the immediate future of British policy in domestic and foreign affairs. What is likely to happen?

Everything turns on the extent to which the new Premier realizes that the life of his government depends on averting Liberal hostility. The Liberals will give him their support on condition that the policy is Liberal. Where Socialism departs from Liberal tradition and principle, MacDonald will give his program a Liberal test. In effect his program must be one with that put forward by the Liberals at the general election.

I assume that a new government will reopen negotiations and resume diplomatic relations with Russia. They will probably lose no time in repairing the silly effects of the ARCOS raid. They will urge the immediate evacuation of the Rhineland and will set an example themselves by withdrawing the British troops. I also take it for granted that Britain will intimate an early adhesion to the optional clause which provides for arbitration on all quarters of the interpretation.

In their foreign policy will be seen by the energy and resolution with which they press for Unfairness Complained of Exists in America.

GREAT BRITAIN members of the Commons in substantially the same manner that the United States elects members of the House of Representatives by districts, the candidate with the largest vote is elected. This would work well in two-party contests, but now that Labor has entered the lists against Conservative and Liberal, the weakest, numerically is almost always the sufferer. In the 600 British constituencies, the Liberals polled 23 per cent of the popular vote, but won only 9 per cent of the seats in ward arbitration and disarmament. I have no doubt an arrangement will be made with the United States for naval powers for a substantial reduction of naval armaments will be comparatively easy and good will on both sides.

Militarists Have Yet to Be Dislodged.

Their real difficulty with the gigantic land armaments of the continent. The Government must, facing the militarist powers of Europe and insist on the observance of the Treaty of Versailles, carried out by cutting down air forces to "the minimum compatible with security."

If these words have any meaning they must imply the reduction of the huge armies of the various Powers to figures approximating those permitted by the Treaty to Germany.

The disarmament conference sitting and sleeping for years has practically abrogated the provision of the treaty that all reserves and the like be cut out of all the discussions of armament. The effective decision has been to reduce by four-fifths of the German forces on the continent of Europe, to remain intact and unchanged and that such reductions as permitted shall be carried out on the remaining fifth. The real purpose is to reduce all effective armament to sham armies.

The late Conservative government gave their whole time sent to this militarist policy. In fact the triumph which Sir Austen Chamberlain rode from capital to capital receiving bouquets and wreaths as a war chariot lent itself for the purpose by the militarists, diplomats and generals of the continent. Is it any one be surprised that so little has been made with the cause of disarmament during the last years?

At all the European capitals the bayonets and guns are carefully hidden underground parts. These must not be seen and the naked truth hidden. The real business of the conference the business of screening the menacing armaments that is done pacts will be made ing. Governments will have to rely on artillery and arbitration as long as the command an overwhelming superiority of cannon. If the League Secretary has the courage to tackle this question boldly or favor, affection or he will receive the enthusiastic Liberal support.

The Liberals will do a good deal of what they prove in domestic

Unfairness Complained of Exists in America Also

GREAT BRITAIN elects members of the House of Commons in substantially the same manner that the United States elects members of the House of Representatives. The voting is by districts, and the candidate with the largest vote is elected. This worked very well in two-party contests, but now that Labor has entered the lists against Conservative and Liberal, the weakest party numerically is almost certain to suffer. In the 600 British constituencies, the Liberal party polled 23 per cent of the popular vote, but won but 9 per cent of the seats in Commons.

Militarists Have Yet to Be Dislodged.

Their real difficulty will come with the gigantic land armaments of the continent. The Socialist Government must face up to the militarist powers of the continent and insist on the obligations of the Treaty of Versailles being carried out by cutting down land and air forces to "the lowest limit compatible with security."

If these words have any meaning they must imply a reduction of the huge armies of the victorious Powers to figures approximating those permitted by the treaty to Germany.

The disarmament commission sitting and sleeping at Geneva has practically abrogated this provision of the treaty by ruling out all reserves and their equipment out of all the discussions of disarmament. The effect of that decision has been to declare that four-fifths of the greatest armies on the continent of Europe shall remain intact and indisputable, and that such reduction as is permitted shall be confined to the remaining fifth. That, of course, is to reduce all effort at real disarmament to sham and nullity.

The late Conservative Government gave their whole-hearted assent to this militarist contention. In fact the triumphal car in which Sir Austen Chamberlain rode from capital to capital receiving bouquets and plaudits was a war chariot lent and decorated for the purpose by the wily militarists, diplomats and journalists of the continent. How can anyone be surprised that no progress has been made with the cause of disarmament during the past five years?

At all the European conferences the bayonets and guns were skillfully hidden under floral ramparts. These must now be stripped and the naked truth be exposed. The real business must begin—the business of scrapping these menacing armaments. Until that is done pacts will have no meaning. Governments will continue to rely on artillery and not on arbitration as long as they command an overwhelming superiority of cannon. If the new Foreign Secretary has the courage to tackle this question "without fear or favor, affection or illwill" then he will receive the cordial and enthusiastic Liberal support.

The Liberals will put up with a good deal of which they disapprove in domestic matters if Ar-

PRYING INTO ANTARCTIC'S MYSTERY

Geologist of Byrd Expedition Tells of Surveys

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica.

REGARDLESS of the severity of its climate, when one contemplates only the geographic isolation of the Antarctic Continent, he has little cause to wonder that it is still the terra incognita of the whole world. Here is a continental land mass nearly as large as the United States and continental Canada combined, surrounded by a great sea in no place less than 500 miles in width and everywhere oceanic in character.

Not only are these seas generally the most tempestuous of any on the globe, but their southern limits are perpetually infested with great fields of sea ice and innumerable icebergs, so that vast areas have never been navigated.

Our knowledge of the Antarctic is by no means as extensive as one would suppose from studying existing maps. Actually little more than one-third of the coast line has been roughly charted. Map makers have fallen into the habit of connecting unknown areas with little regard to their isolation, thus giving quite an incorrect impression.

A Circular Continent.

In shape the Antarctic Continent at once suggests a rudely circular outline, with the South Pole as its center. Its main departures from such outline are caused by two great indentations from almost opposite sides—from the Pacific side, the Ross Barrier, which penetrates to within 350 miles of the pole, and, from the Atlantic, the Weddell Sea, which penetrates only about to latitude 78 degrees, or 750 miles from the pole. These great penetrating seas suggest at least a structural division of the continent, and it is customary to speak of the portion that lies on the Atlantic and that facing Australia as Eastern Antarctica and that part lying on the Pacific side as Western Antarctica.

In spite of the apparent basic division of Antarctica into two sections, its great ice cap gives a general aspect of oneness, which is unique. This unity is further expressed in the climate and in life that is, of course, restricted to coastal zones and adjoining seas. Everywhere one finds the same species of seals, whales and birds. With an average altitude estimated at 6000 to 7000 feet above sea level, this is by far the highest of all continents.

From the fact that this great average elevation is due to an ice cover variously estimated at from 3000 to 10,000 feet in thickness, it naturally follows that only the highest peaks of land project above the ice at any great distance inland. Along coasts where the ice is thinner there are more extensive patches of bare rock and ice free islands. Yet all of these areas combined are negligible, when compared with the total extent of the continent. They are, nevertheless, together with debris carried in ice, our only sources of geological information.

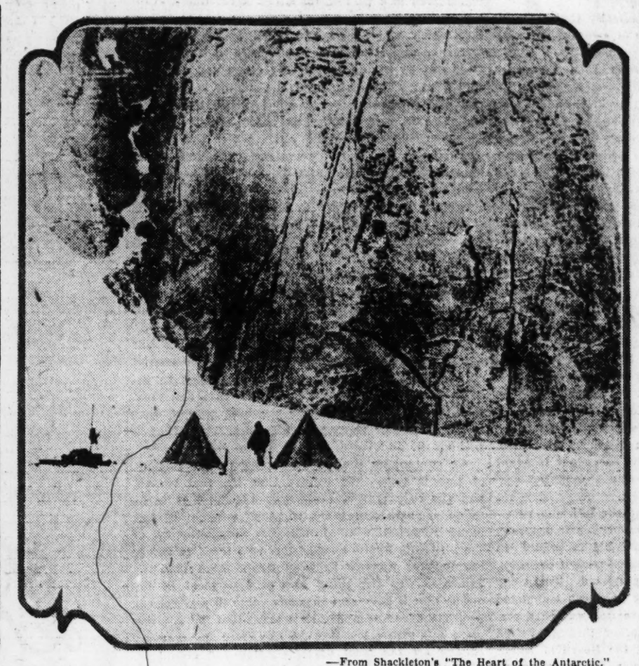
Geological Discoveries.

With the preceding geographic facts in mind, we can sketch the main outlines of our knowledge of Antarctic geology. First, the structural features, and, secondly, the record of past climates and life as revealed in sedimentary series so far described by exploring geologists.

In the major part of at least East Antarctica a plateau type of structure prevails. It reaches its greatest height on the eastern border, where South Victoria Land rises abruptly from the ice shelf, known as Ross Barrier, to altitudes ranging 8000 to 15,000 feet above sea level. This highland consists of huge faulted mountain structures, which act as a mighty dam to the ice on the plateau behind to the west. Through great rifts in this dam glaciers flow down into Ross Barrier. On his poleward journey, Scott crossed one of these, the largest known valley glacier in the world—the Beardmore. Along the Ross Sea this range has almost a north and south trend until it reaches latitude 85 degrees, where it takes a decided swing toward the east.

Of the central part of Eastern Antarctica, the African quadrant, little is known.

Probably the most interesting fossils, both plant and animal, so far found have been taken from Graham Land. Yet the geology of the Australian quadrant has been most completely worked out, a sequence of geological formations from old pre-Cambrian deposits having been found there. But these known pages of the geological history of Antarctica are in places badly mutilated and torn, and as many pages are entirely lacking—millions upon millions of years have elapsed for which we have yet no record—it is at once evident that there is no more difficult task than to decipher the character of the pre-glacial climates. It is of interest, however, that all of our slender evidence indicates the present climatic conditions are exceptional. Beginning with the Cambrian deposits, the oldest rocks definitely known to contain fossils, there is ample evidence in the character of fossil remains to indicate that Antarctica was favored by a warm climate. Such evidence is found in all fossiliferous rocks that succeed these very old Cambrian strata.



—From Shackleton's "The Heart of the Antarctic."

A typical scene on the Antarctic continent, showing jagged peak protruding through a carpet of ice and snow which may be more than a mile in thickness.

The Penguin's Ancestors.

No account of the Graham Land fossils would be complete without mention of forms which appear to be ancestral to the modern penguin—that most curious amphibian bird whose humorous and even human-like behavior has been the delight of all Antarctic explorers from the earliest to the present. Many of these ancestral penguins were much taller than even the huge modern emperor penguin. There were also land birds that inhabited the continent for the long periods of mild climate that preceded the glacial period. By a fairly amazing high degree of adaptation these birds survived the complete glaciation of the continent.

Even today the emperor penguin and its cousin, the Adelie penguin, persist in a most extraordinary manner, reproducing their own in a way that can only be reminiscent of the days when ice was so extensive that there were no ice-free lands within range of the birds upon which their eggs could be deposited and hatched. For no apparent reason, these two species of penguins wait until the dead of winter, the coldest and darkest time of year, to rear young. Furthermore, without any pretense of making a nest each female emperor lays a single egg upon the ice, and at once removes it from the ice surface to rest on her own feet. Held between the legs against a patch of bare skin on the abdomen and covered by a flap of skin and feathers, the egg is incubated. Both males and females share in the process of incubation.

From the above account it is apparent that only a skeleton outline of Antarctic geological history is known. To verify assumptions of preglacial climates, to establish the relationship which this continent may have had to other land masses in the past—these are but two results which will come from further study of fossils, and other fairy tales of ages reckoned in millions of years await unraveling for him who finds fossils here.

Character of Rockefeller Mountains.

Considering the fact that former Antarctic expeditions have found their summers in the field largely occupied with getting established we were fortunate to accomplish any geological work this season. The nearest exposed land to Little America, on the Bay of Whales, is more than a hundred miles to the east and north. It is the Rockefeller Mountains discovered by Commander Byrd on his first flight. A brief trip to these mountains comprised the geological work of our first summer except for some glaciological studies in and about our base.

The Rockefeller Mountains are a group of more or less isolated peaks and ridges beginning roughly in latitude 78 degrees 14 minutes south, longitude 155 degrees 15 minutes west and extending in crescentic shape to latitude 77 degrees 35 minutes south, longitude 153 degrees south 5 minutes west, with the crescent opening toward the west. There are some forty peaks and ridges, all of which are heavily flanked with snow and fully half of which are completely smothered by it. These peaks range in height from about 500 feet to more than 2000 feet above sea level. The great amount of snow accentuates the isolated aspects of the various parts of the mountains.

There are no real crevasses about the mountains; what fractures there are appear to be due to contraction caused by temperature differences, and are always small. In other words, there is no active glaciation here. In fact, the terrain about the mountains is composed of granular snow like that of the Ross Barrier about the Bay of Whales. It differs only in that the surface is covered with a glazed surface of snow-ice caused by melting in the warm months on account of the nearness to the rocks.

Mountains of Granite.

Like the Alexandra Mountains—judging from the few specimens collected at Scott's nunataks by Prestrud of Amundsen's expedition—the Rockefeller Mountains are composed of granites and associated rocks. A precursory examination of the few specimens we were able to bring back from the central part of the range, after the disastrous loss of our plane, suggests that they are pre-Cambrian deposits.

The discovery of the Rockefeller Mountains adds greatly to the known land areas of King Edward VII Land and yet when we consider the range, together with its surroundings, it appears to be somewhat smaller than has generally been supposed. The snow surface about the mountains averages from 300 to 400 feet above sea level and does not appear to change greatly for many miles on all sides. Were the snow to disappear, it seems likely that a shallow sea would be found at least to the south, and some of the more remote peaks might be isolated from the rest; indeed, the whole might take on the aspects of a rugged archipelago. In other words, Carmen Land of Amundsen's description does not culminate in the Rockefeller Mountains of King Edward VII Land.

To the westward of the Rockefeller Mountains, between them and the Bay of Whales, is a crevassed area. Far to the east and south are areas of much larger crevasses, beyond which the terrain appears to rise to considerably higher levels. Do those fractured zones roughly define the limits of the land mass composed of the Rockefeller and Alexandra Mountains of King Edward VII Land itself?

Peaks in Marie Byrd Land.

It was early noted that the Antarctic continental shelf is much deeper below sea level than any other similar shelf. The main reason for this appears to be the presence of the great ice sheet that so thoroughly blankets the whole continent and has literally weighed

Total Obliteration of War Debts, Necessary for Progress of World, Step Nearer Through Young Plan

John Maynard Keynes Praises Good Will of U. S. Experts in Linking Payments With What America Demands.

By JOHN MAYNARD KEYNES

English editor and financial expert, and principal representative of the Treasury at the Paris Peace Conference. He is the author of a number of publications dealing with monetary reforms and economic problems.

LONDON, June 15. (By Cable)

THE hot gilt rooms, the babel of tongues, the shifts and countershifts of the Belgians, the unutterable boredom and the rising from the soil of the miasmas to the Paris press. We owe a deep gratitude to Owen Young, J. Pierpont Morgan, Sir Josiah Stamp and the rest who might have been occupied in the tranquil realism of business, yet voluntarily subjected themselves for four interminable months to turn and twist on the polyglot grill. Have they reaped the reward of their devotion to duty?

JOHN MAYNARD KEYNES.

The conference was premature. It would have been better to await some further experience of the Dawes plan. Once summoned, nevertheless, it was important that it should not dissolve in futility. But what matters in the Young plan is not the exact figures or the miserable disputes which protracted the negotiations but one or two big ideas. I do not believe that Owen Young and Sir Josiah Stamp would have thought it worth while to put up with the caterwaulings all these weeks if there was not something large behind. They would have gone quietly home to their own business. These two great business diplomats must have believed there was after all something worth while at stake. Let us see if we can find it.

Two objects which ought to have been kept separate have been inextricably interwoven in committees, and contorted in the deliberations—on the one hand, to determine Germany's capacity to pay, and on the other, to discover the minimum sum which, having regard to the Allied debts to America, would be sufficient to permit an acceptable division of the proceeds. The first was a matter for the experts, the second for the diplomats.

No Facts Available.

But diplomacy has inevitably predominated over expertism for the simple reason that not much evidence has come to hand relevant to Germany's capacity to pay since the experts of the Dawes Committee did their work. It is true that there exists now, just as there existed five years ago, a general impression that the Dawes annuities are somewhat too high. But inasmuch as these annuities have only now reached their maximum and have been paid exclusively out of foreign loans, there exists no compelling evidence based on experience. Germany has paid so far, therefore it is not certain that she cannot go on paying. But she has failed to develop the necessary export surplus or even to begin to develop it, therefore there is no proof that she can go on paying. There is nothing to compel the Allies to abate their demands and there is nothing to convince Germany that she can comply with them.

Thus there has been no sufficient evidence to induce an expert to pledge his reputation confidently on any particular figure. The experts have had little to say except that the Dawes annuities, particularly now that they are due to be augmented by the so-called index of prosperity, are probably too high and that a change in the downward direction would be a further move toward sanity and reason. Having delivered themselves of these remarks of limited usefulness, they have doffed their black robes of knowledge and put on the tight particolored uniforms which diplomats wear. The problem has shifted from the still insoluble problem of how much Germany can pay to the question of how little the Allies can be induced to demand.

The latter figure has been fixed within narrow limits by two equations. It was governed first by the Allies' determination to demand from Germany at least as much as what the United States demands from them. Great Britain asks no more than this and the others require modest surpluses for themselves.

But there was a second equation limiting the committee's freedom of movement. The division of the receipts between the Allies was finally fixed several years ago by the Spa percentages. Great Britain has stood adamant that she would not allow the Spa percentages to be modified to her disadvantage so long as they yield her less than she is entitled to under the terms of the Balfour note.

Thus the existing Dawes annuities set the maximum. The Allied debts to America and the Spa percentages give, taken in conjunction, the minimum. But Belgium and France could not be satisfied diplomatically without some surplus over and above this minimum. Young's first problem, therefore, was to settle the reasonable amount of this surplus and then employ every device of obstinacy and tact to force it on the others. Some weeks ago, he announced his decision. The average annuity was to be £102,500,000 ($512,500,000) a year instead of the Dawes annuity of £125,000,000 ($625,000,000), or say £135,000,000 ($665,000,000) when augmented by the index of prosperity.

Annual Amount Reduced.

Now from Germany's point of view, this is a reduction and therefore to the good. Moreover there was a further mitigation which could be offered her. The average annuity could be spread so as to be lighter in the near future and heavier in later years. This has been a characteristic of all the reparations settlements. It is a feature which commends itself to the experts because Germany's capacity is certainly less now than it will be later on. And it commends itself to Germany because a burden which is thrown into the future may be and hitherto always has been removed when the time comes. On this occasion it is proposed that the annuity shall start at about £90,000,000 ($450,000,000) and rise to £121,000,000 ($605,000,000). Thus next year Germany will pay under the Young scheme only some two-thirds of what she would have had to pay under the Dawes scheme.

So far so good. But Germany could not expect to get this reduction as a mere gift without

What the Ozarks Produce.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

REFERRING to your editorial "Mussolini and the Ozarks," which appeared in the Post-Dispatch of June 3:

The agricultural and horticultural reports of the Frisco Lines which operate approximately 1500 miles of railroad in the Missouri Ozarks and has therefore the largest mileage of any single railroad in this region, are generally regarded as an accurate barometer of conditions in the territory.

From the Frisco's agricultural department we find figures and facts which quite pointedly contradict your editorial comment that Ozark counties are "unproductive" and in "poverty." Based on average production figures over several years we find the Ozarks of Missouri ship each year from 1500 to 2500 cars of strawberries at the average market value to the grower of $1200 to the car. This is 99 per cent of the commercial strawberry production in Missouri.

The famous Missouri apples come each year from the Ozarks of Missouri in lots of from 1200 to 2500 cars, valued at approximately $500 per car. This Missouri Ozark product is 75 per cent of the State's apple crop.

The grape industry, baby of the deciduous fruit crops of the Missouri Ozarks, produced last year 700 cars of grapes at a value to the growers of from $600 to $750 per car. This is more than nine-tenths of the crop production in Missouri.

In fact, these so-called "unproductive counties" produced the entire commercial crops of peaches, cherries, strawberries and all small fruits as well as most of the commercial sweet potato, bean, spinach and other truck crops of the State.

This statement is made with the natural exception of the small trucking industry which surrounds several of the larger cities in the State and supplies city demands.

It is also of interest to know that the Ozarks in their entirety produced one-third of all the canned tomatoes in the United States and the major portion of this production comes from the Ozarks of Missouri.

The biggest product of all comes from Ozark dairies, which shipped on Frisco Lines alone last year 30,000,000 pounds of butter, equal to two-thirds of the total production in the State. At the average price of 40c per pound, the value of this crop would hardly lead one to believe that it could come from a poverty-stricken section. As another dairy product it is interesting to note that the 25 cheese factories of Missouri, and the three condenseries in operation are located in the Ozark counties.

From the Ozarks of Missouri come annually the equivalent of 300 cars of cheese valued at $150,000 and two cars a day of sweet cream valued at $1000 a car and destined for Eastern seaboard cities.

Missourians may point with pride to the fact that Springfield is the largest primary egg and poultry shipping point in the United States. One-thousand cars of eggs are shipped from Springfield each year and the Missouri Ozarks produce about 2500 cars, or two-thirds of the Missouri shipments each year. Live and dressed poultry shipments from this territory total 1500 to 2000 cars a year.

Several years ago residents of the Ozark counties found that they could not become a great field crop-producing section. Is it not to their great credit that they turned from the field crops to fruit, truck crops and dairy products and thereby made the change from poverty and unproductiveness to the crops which this section produces lavishly and well? And does not also the fact that the counties of the Ozark region are the only strictly rural counties in the State which have had an increase in population in the last few years speak well for the contentment and prosperity of the dwellers in the Ozark territory?

Shoe Tariff Opponent Breaks Into Verse.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHY tax the shoes that dress the feet?
The feet, that walking, must look neat;
The feet, that standing must be sure,
Through all fatigue they may endure;
The feet that feel the ache and pain
Of long, work hours and grinding strain.
Why tax a thing of so much weight
Pertaining to our health and gait?
If we must tax, let's tax those things
Blown up in light, fantastic rings.
And yes—or, yes!—if it must be—
The gorgeous beach costumes we see.
But, shoes! Avoid that tax for aye—
Long live the man who says it "Nay!"
He'll tax no feet grown worn with age,
Nor tiny toes, through pattering days;
Not mother's, with her constant care,
Nor dad's, who daily does his share;
No feet of those, who—to and fro—
O'er beds of sickness, bend so low;
Nor men who tramp those weary miles
To bring our mail with cheery smiles.
He'll find some things to tax, more meet
Than taxing shoes on useful feet!

DECEIVING THE PEOPLE.

The public has a right to expect that the deliberate acts of the Mayor and his cabinet and his citizen appointees will be in the public's interest and not in private interest. The impressive sponsorship of the Mayor and his rapid transit commission therefore deceived the people into assuming that the terminable permits bill, which actually was designed to suit the purposes of the St. Louis Public Service Co., really was in the public interest.

That this deception was deliberately intended is shown by the transcript of proceedings of the meeting of the transit commission at which the bill was approved. Engineer Kelker advised Mayor Miller at that meeting. "If you go before the people you can say we are for the indeterminate franchise because we think it will benefit you, and that a franchise cannot be issued anyhow without your consent and the consent of your local authorities."

It may be remarked parenthetically that the bill, approved by the Mayor and the commission, says nothing about consent of the people.

Deception was continued when City Counselor Muench advised the meeting, "The charter only gives us the right to give a 50-year franchise, and to give an indeterminate franchise we would have to amend the charter." But the bill violating the charter was approved and the people, who believed the Mayor would uphold their charter, which his oath of office requires him to do, again were deceived.

Deception was further practiced and intended when the commission changed the title of the bill from "indeterminate franchise" to the more pleasing trick name, "terminable permit." "It might have a better sound in the Legislature," City Counselor Muench remarked.

Deception was continued when the sponsors took the bill to the Legislature. The Legislature was told that the city of St. Louis wanted the bill. Less than twelve men spoke for the bill before the Legislature, and these men had no mandate save their own desire. The "city," that is, the people who made the charter restricting franchises to 50 years, were never consulted about its proposed violation. They were only deceived. The Board of Aldermen, who, under the charter, have the sole right to grant public utility franchises in St. Louis, were not consulted.

The Legislature was told that the bill was necessary to carrying out the city's rapid transit program. No more preposterous assertion could be made. In the first place, the city has no rapid transit program. The transit survey has scarcely started. There can be no program until the survey has been completed and the people of St. Louis have decided what program they want by referendum, or through action of their elected representatives, the Board of Aldermen. Even then, no terminable permit or other hocus pocus franchise measure will be required of the Legislature. The St. Louis Public Service Co. may not even be asked to operate the "rapid transit" system. If it is, it can do so under its existing franchise.

When the city first went to the Legislature four years ago for a rapid transit enabling act, it asked only to be empowered to increase its taxing power to enable it to build rapid transit if it ever should desire to do so. There was no request for a terminable permit bill or any other franchise measure at that time. It was only after Mayor Miller refused further to bear the responsibility of sponsoring promoter J. K. Newman's demand for a new franchise at the city hall that the deceptive trick of trying to relate Newman's private financial schemes to the city's transportation needs was resorted to and the campaign in the promoter's interest was carried to Jefferson City.

The Legislature was told that the bill and a new franchise were needed to aid in financing the company, and that easier financing would reduce carfares. As the Post-Dispatch has heretofore conclusively shown, financing costs have no practical relation to carfares. The State Public Service Commission fixes carfares in relation to the valuation allowed for the company's property and the company's operating costs.

The Legislature was told that a new franchise was needed to enable the company to refund a $34,000,000 bond issue falling due in 1934, as if any obligation rested upon the Legislature, or the State, or the city hall, or the people of St. Louis, to refund a private corporation's obligations. That bond issue is a mortgage assumed by promoter Newman and his St. Louis associates when they bought the property at public auction for $49,100,000; a property on which they have since succeeded in getting the fantastic valuation of $63,500,000, the figure on which the straphangers' fares are based. The promoters' private debt is their own affair.

Now that the Governor's public hearing on the bill is approaching, the campaign of deception has been transferred to a part of the press of St. Louis. Col. Robert Burkham, attorney for the People's Motorbus Co., which will also apply for a franchise if the Governor signs the bill, was quoted in the Globe-Democrat as saying that if the street car company should get a franchise and the public be dissatisfied with its service, the public could cancel the franchise by referendum. As noted above, there is no such provision in the bill. While the quoted statement is, therefore, obviously untrue, Col. Burkham says he is not responsible for the erroneous publication and makes no correction.

Erastus Wells, one of the members of the transit commission, is quoted with editorial approval by the Globe-Democrat as saying, if the bill is not approved, "our whole rapid transit program will be delayed two years." When asked about this, Mr. Wells says in his opinion that will be the result. We have shown the utter disconnection of the permits bill and the transit program above.

To sum up, the campaign to put over the bill which Mayor Miller and his cabinet and the transit survey commission sponsors, was calculated to deceive the Legislature and the public into believing, first, that St. Louis wanted the bill; second, that no rapid transit program could be carried through without it, and third, that it would lower fares.

We submit, on the evidence presented, that none of this is true. We believe that the real reason, and the only reason, for a new franchise is to be found nowhere but in the financial schemes of promoter Newman, who controls the common stock of the St. Louis Public Service Co., who testified before the Federal Electric Railway Commission that the franchise was the thing always uppermost in his mind; that it gave an enormous value to a street car property over and above its worth; that "If you can get a fair utility bill through the State and take the burden off the local administration for giving increased fares you do not have so much difficulty with the State Commissions;" who told the commission how he would reorganize a street car company and by paying only 6 and 7 per cent on the bonds and preferred stock would give 27 per cent of the company's earnings to the common stock; who boldly demanded a new 30-year franchise at the city hall in April, 1927, on pain of reprisal through extortionate valuation to be had by way of the Federal courts, and who has never ceased to press for a franchise through political and other channels.

The sole purpose of the Post-Dispatch in its consistent opposition to Newman's perpetual franchise scheme is to keep the city free to carry out its rapid transit program in the interest of the public, instead of giving the streets away to private profiteers. This freedom can be preserved only by a policy of no more franchises of any kind until the city finds out to what use it needs to put its streets for the service of the people who own them. The terminable permits bills, if approved by the Governor, would destroy the city's freedom in this respect. It violates the plain intent of the Constitution—in being limited to the city of St. Louis instead of effective throughout the State—as it violates the written word of the city's Charter restricting franchises to 50 years.

Stand by the Constitution. Stick to the Charter.

THE FARM RELIEF PLAN.

After years of agitation the country has officially agreed upon a plan for the relief of agriculture. The Haugen bill, now a law, is an administration measure. It is Mr. Hoover's plan, to which Congress gracefully bows.

The plan provides a revolving fund of $500,000,000 which will be administered by a Federal Farm Board appointed by the President and clothed with authority in its field comparable to that of the Interstate Commerce Commission in transportation. It is an ambitious plan, probably the most serious effort in history to bridge the economic gap between industry and agriculture. Mr. Haugen has analyzed the measure, described its functions and outlined what it will, in his judgment, accomplish. Thus:

First, to assist in the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities and food products thereof. Second, for construction, purchase or lease of storage or physical marketing necessities. Third, formation of clearing house associations. Fourth, for insurance against price declines. Fifth, for extending membership in co-operative associations by educational methods. Sixth, for working capital. Seventh, for purchasing, storage, merchandising or otherwise disposing of the commodity.

By way of general statement it may be said that the farmer will be able to carry over or withhold his products from the market "to prevent seasonal gluts and surpluses." He will not be compelled, as now, to sell his wheat or cotton or whatever crop he raises immediately after the harvest when the price, under the law of supply and demand, is inevitably low. He will now be financed by the Government to hold his goods for a better market. And from this vast fund loans will be available, at rates of interest fixed by the board, for all producers of agricultural commodities through their respective organizations.

Will the law prove as effective as its proponents believe, or as disappointing as some of its critics predict? Mr. Haugen frankly admits "it will not accomplish all that is desired," but he believes it is the best farm relief plan yet devised and that the machinery and money have been provided to effect great results if the management—that is, the Farm Board—proves competent.

That is a sound position. It cannot be expected that an experiment of this magnitude will function perfectly from the outset. Progress nowhere tells such a happy story. The country has been pertinently reminded in this respect by Senator Watson of Indiana that the Federal Reserve law was amended 26 times after the original bill was adopted. That, he insisted, was the way of all experience.

In any event, after losing many battles, agitation has, as usual, won the war. A plan of farm relief has been written into the law. The farmer occupies a new place in the purview of the Government. He has been admitted into a circle from which he has previously been excluded. It is Mr. Hoover's opportunity to raise agriculture to a parity with industry. Public opinion rejoices and wishes him all success.

SYL JOHNSON.

Syl Johnson bears no resemblance to the mighty heroes of old. He has not an "eye like Mars to threaten or command" or "a station like the herald Mercury." His forearm is somewhat less powerful than Vulcan's and the thews of his back do not bulge as conspicuously as they did in Hercules' case. Syl has never quite risen to such grand heights of reckless daring as did Napoleon when he led his troops across the bridge at Lodi, nor does he threaten to usurp the unique position in history of Leonidas, who held the pass at Thermopylae.

In the parlance of baseball, Syl is just a big Swede who doesn't know when to quit. To him that human grand piano, Hack Wilson, is just another swinger, the mighty Hornsby simply somebody to be struck out, and so on down the line. We do not know what the Swede thinks about when he is called upon in the ninth inning of a tough game, three men on and no one out, as he was last Friday. Our idea is that, like most heroes, he doesn't think at all.

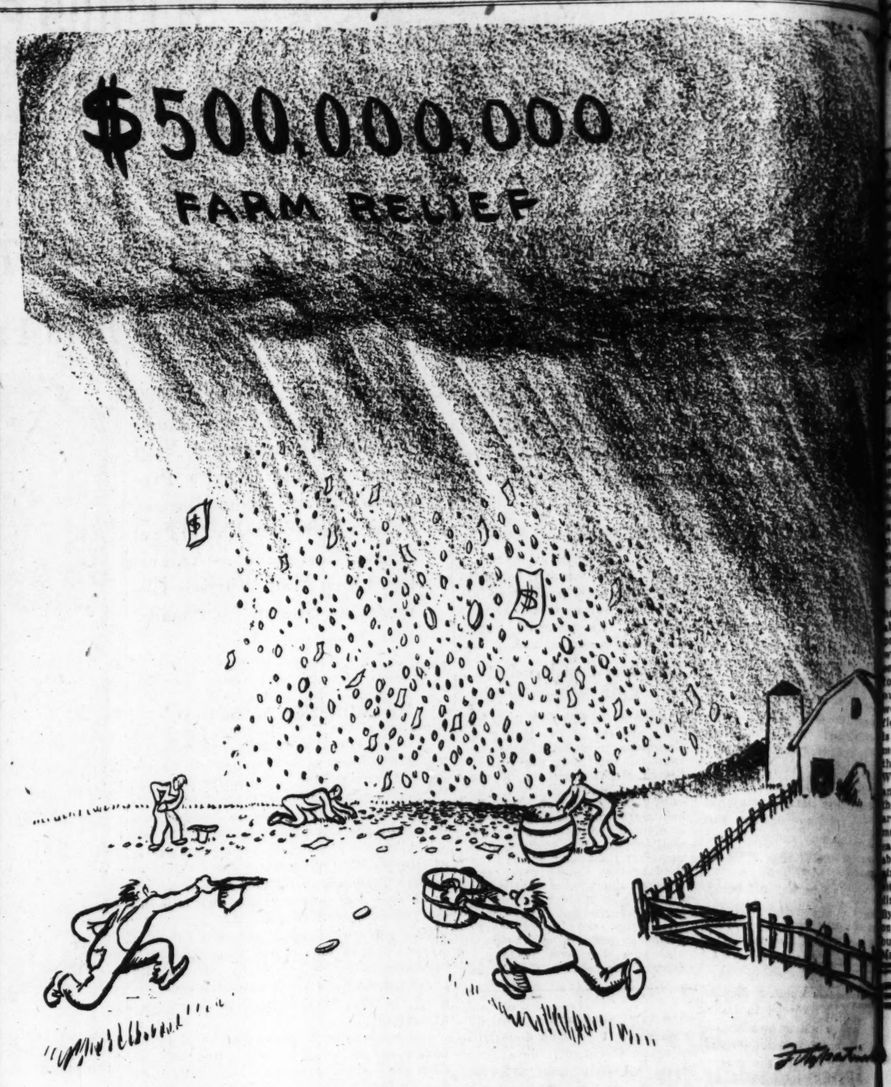
McKendree College professor fired because he was a modernist. Eden Seminary professor fired because he wasn't a modernist. An exchange system, based on the law of supply and demand, might eliminate these theological casualties.

A LAST MINUTE FAILURE.

What friends of civil service feared has come to pass. In the scramble to whip the census and reapportionment bill into final shape, a provision to place census-takers under civil service was eliminated. This means that to politicians will fall the plum of filling approximately 100,000 jobs.

Census scandals of the past furnish ample warning against any such procedure. So very important a tabulation as the census should be conducted on strictly scientific lines. This cannot be done with an army of misfits, hangers-on and ward heelers. It is a pity that the valiant fight to avoid this evil failed at the last minute.

Now if Congress will pass a law controlling the the weather, the farmer's fortune is made.



HERE SHE COMES, BOYS!

Australia for the Australians

Australia aspires to duplicate the destiny of the United States, but its chance to do so seems to be fading more and more beyond the blue; whereas the United States is a fusion of the genius of many peoples, Australia's slogan is "No foreigners need apply" and even Britishers are considered "foreigners."

By Elizabeth Lord Driemeyer.

MELBOURNE, Australia.—Australia is a great new country contemplating for itself a future very much such as we enjoy in America—and we do enjoy many things that are not distinguished from this distance. But somehow—now that future seems to be fading more and more beyond the blue. The obstacles are too great, or the inherent character of the people, who are to perform the task is not just what it takes. I rather believe that what we know as America—the things we as a nation do and stand for—is due not so much to our British origin—or not entirely to it—as to the fusion of most of the rest of the earth. Each brings something which when thrown into the melting pot, boiled well, comes to the surface as an integral part of our make up.

But here they won't take a chance on that. No foreigners need apply for fusion. They don't care too much for Americans, and even Englishmen are looked upon as foreigners. So they remain what they were—British, though perhaps not quite British.

Meanwhile, the labor situation grows worse. Australia almost continually contends with strikes. Here in Melbourne there are 20,000 men out in the timber trades alone. The unions are also talking of a strike in the electrical plant supplying the city with light. One of their leaders, down here from Sydney, told the men that one night of striking would be enough. So that they are no more above terrorization than are the coal operators of West Virginia or the striking coal miners of our own Williamson County. Their labor leaders here are oftentimes bad eggs, just as in our own country some of our industrial leaders are bad eggs. Labor prescribes how much work a man shall do, and the standard is that of the poorest working man. All initiative is fettered with the result that the men lose their value as workers and then protest against the importation of any one who might feel inclined to work. So much for the background beyond the stringent Australian immigration policy, which I am sorry to see our own country disposed to follow. Before we do follow in the footsteps of Australia we should send a delegation of observers over to see what the consequences of such a policy are.

It is true, of course, that Australia could never support such a population as we have in the United States, although the area of the two countries is virtually the same. The difference is that Australia has millions of square miles of land practically useless—no rainfall—no water—and it is chiefly a producer of primary products which limit the density of the population.

From the viewpoint of one over here it seems very unwise for the United States to add 3 cents a pound to the duty on wool. It engenders bad feeling among the Australians. Wool is their stock in trade—wool, meat and wheat. Not to add rabbit skins, of course. The duty on wool already seems to them to be too high, and the Australian is a good customer of ours. The duties against their exports are high now, and to make them higher is going to make it even harder than it is at present for numerous Americans who are over here to sell the Australians American products. They suffer here from a phobia about Australian products, and not even the English are spared by this phobia. Indeed, the Americans, because of the attractiveness of their products and the low prices made possible by mass production, are gaining ground rapidly in the Australian market.

An illustration of this was the motor show just held at Melbourne. If one saw that show it was not hard to understand why the Australians preferred to buy American cars and don't like the English cars. You should see the English cars! And the prices they ask! Selling British cars here must be like peddling beefsteaks in lotus land.

They appear to be making English over into a language of their own. The Australian dialect, which is really cockney, makes A's into I's exactly as is done in England. The same day in the sime diiy, etc. We had an amusing experience coming from Canberra to Melbourne. Having a few minutes at a lunch station—diners are scarce on some of the Australian railroads—we had sandwiches and tea in the station. They had some grapes done up in cartons in a wagon outside. They do grow wonderful fruits. We asked the girl behind the counter for some of the grapes and she said, "You get the gripes outside." I looked at the food they served and said to myself, "I'll bet you do."

There is a story they tell in which an Australian was asked the difference between a buffalo and a bison. He said, "A buffalo is an animal, and a bison is something you wash your hands in." It is very amusing to hear the children talk. They learn the dialect in school. The only thing to compare with it is the dialect of the London bobbies. I am afraid that it will not be long before the Australian language conquers all and English as we speak it in our country is dead and buried in the antipodes.

Australians have an impression that Americans either are as a rule young, or seem to be so, which is quite flattering to most of us. Apropos this custom, we hear a good deal out here of Mr. Hoover's younger days in Australia. They were spent at the mines in Broken Hill, and particularly the gold mines at Kalgoorlie and Coolgardie in Western Australia. At one time he had an office in the South Australia Hotel in Adelaide, and they remember him there quite well. At any rate, they wanted a man out here with certain experience, and Mr. Hoover's employer in San Francisco selected him. He was very young—this was soon after his college days—but there was no one else in sight. He went to England on his way out, and availed himself of the long and rounabout trip to raise a beard and thus make the breach between himself and the cradle seem more reassuring. They say that by the time he got out here he had quite a presentable brush. Whatever the historical fact may be, it does seem to have made a much better impression here than it had made in England, where the man who sent him out had said:

WASHINGTON, Jan.

BITS of Washington gossip picked at random:

No matter how much spicy speculation and conjecture Alice Roosevelt Longworth may stir up in Washington by her refusal to yield to rules of precedence, she has always followed the policy of "never giving interviews."

All of which recalls a story from the days when Alice while reporter of the days when her father was President.

He long had cherished the ambition to obtain an interview with "Princess Alice." One day he persuaded a friend of the Roosevelt family to present him at the home of a well-known United States senator. The better part of an afternoon was spent in extracting material for an exclusive story.

On the eve of the reporter's departure Alice innocently commented on his connection with newspaper work. His little game was broken down completely. Rather shamefacedly he confessed his identity. Alice was surprised and then amused.

Needless to say the story was never printed.

THERE are two or three young women who "cover" the executive offices at the White House as faithfully as any of the Washington newspaper correspondents. They are representatives of bonding houses, waiting for the list of nominations that the President sends to the Senate.

All postmasters, collectors of customs and internal revenue are required to furnish a bond as insurance that they will discharge their duties faithfully. Sometimes the appointment depends on confirmation by the Senate, but most of those nominated are certain to be confirmed. However, before his name is placed on the payroll the Treasury Department must have his bond on file.

The bonding companies want to be informed as quickly as possible the names and addresses of all persons nominated for positions as collector.

"It's wonderful how young you are keep!"

By the way, I investigated Canberra, which is, as you know, the future federal capital of Australia. It is a beautiful city set in a little valley with hills all around, but not very high ones. Walter Burley Griffin of Chicago won the competition for the capital design, and it is, indeed, beautifully laid out. The hotel at which we stayed reminded one of the attractive cottages in Albuquerque. Most of the government buildings of Canberra remain to be built. The hotels, a golf course, tennis and bowling greens, feature the scene. The diplomats over here love their game of bowls.

Outside the city are the suburbs. They are unique among suburbs. They are cheap to a price—if you pay $5000 for a lot where you live in Ferguson, let us say, you get the equivalent; $15,000, Kirkwood; $30,000, Webster. Therefore, by their suburbs shall know them—probably a good test aesthetically, but social rubbish in my opinion. They did not seem to be enjoying life. No doubt if human nature can. Also does not like to be categoried.

down. Were this to disappear and the continent to assume what might be called its normal altitude, then all land areas would greatly increase and land connections might appear between the Rocky Mountains and the lands that now surely lie to the south.

There is another new land mass in this part of the Antarctic, as yet unnamed, which must be taken into account in all future geological theorising. I refer to the mountains that lie far to the east of the Rockefellers, within Marie Byrd Land.

This highest peak bore such a resemblance to the Matterhorn that we so named it for the time being. Connected with it and disappearing toward the southeast from it is a serrated or comb-like range of smaller peaks. It is at once evident that here is a mountain group not only higher but much more perfectly defined as a mountain range than any that have yet been found in Eastern Antarctica.

In the preceding paragraphs I have set forth the general notions about Antarctic geology, with the problems they suggest, together with a brief account of the first season's work. Naturally, we look toward the next summer season for our major accomplishments. This work will largely center in two fields. From what has preceded it is apparent that this first summer's work is in the direction of the discovery of relationships of West Antarctica to the Antarcandes and South America as well as to the other great portion of the Antarctic Continent. Not until specimens collected have been more carefully studied can more be said about the relationships. It is of almost importance, however, that more work be undertaken in this direction. Therefore Commander Byrd is planning for flights not only over King Edward VII Land, but farther to the southward over Marie Byrd Land.

Obliteration of War Debts Step Nearer by Young Plan

quid pro quo. What concessions from her could the Allies ask?

They were two in number. The Dawes scheme left it uncertain over how many years Germany must pay. Germany has argued that 37 years is all that can be required under the Treaty of Versailles. The Young plan asked Germany to put her signature to a duration of 59 years from today and 69 years from the treaty of peace. But the amount of the annuity is to be much reduced after 37 yeaers from today.

Currency Is Protected.

In the second place, the Dawes scheme allowed to Germany what is called transfer protection. That is to say, her liability is limited to payment in marks and the Allies are only entitled to remit the money outside Germany to the extent that this proves possible without upsetting the exchange value of the mark. Germany could be asked, therefore to undertake an unconditional liability for payment in foreign currency of a part of each annuity. The amount of this unprotected portion is a question on which, in my judgment, Herr Schacht was most justified in shsowing obstinacy. It is also a question on which the Allies were least justified in pressing him too far, for if the unprotected portion is dangerously made to Germany will be placed large, the foreign loans already in jeopardy and the prospects of getting further loans much diminished.

Now it is certain that at present Germany cannot even pay the reduced annuity without the help of further loans. Thus to shake her credit by forcing on her too large an unprotected transfer might hasten a crisis. Germany has agreed to an unconditional transfer of $165,000,000 a year. Even this may embarrass her seriously in the near future.

I am not clear, therefore, that the Young scheme regarded from the limited technical standpoint is worth the pains it has cost. What was the matter with the Dawes scheme? Merely that there was a prospect of transfer protection and a temporary cessation of German payments coming into operation at an early date.

Germany Must Borrow.

Does the Young scheme avoid this? I doubt it. Of course, it is easier for Germany to remit $450,000,000 than $625,000,000. But it would seem that even to pay the former sum, it will be necessary for the present that Germany should borrow abroad at least $500,000,000 a year and perhaps a good deal more. Will the rest of the world go on lending to her at this rate? It is unlikely.

Moreover, the problem of Germany's capacity to pay remains where it was. Given the level of the world's economic prosperity, Germany's capacity will be fixed by the willingness of the rest of the world to take her goods, which depends on their tariffs and their readiness to accept deliveries in kind, and secondly, by the degree to which she can depress the efficiency wages of her workers relative to the efficiency wages elsewhere. It depends on nothing else. It is a human problem to be settled by time and men's natures. The confabulations of Paris do not alter it.

Where, then, are we to look for the large conceptions? I see the possibility of them in two quarters. The International Bank. The scheme has been complicated by what appears at first sight a portentous piece of machinery. The task of remittance and of supervision are to be intrusted to a new International Bank having the enormous capital of $100,000,000.

Bank Has Twofold Object.

I conceive that the objects of the bank are twofold. It renders possible the substitution of a banking management for a political management and the demobilization of the elaborate system of supervision and control provided by the Dawes scheme. But it also provides the nucleus for a supernational currency, authority for which will be necessary if the world is ever to enjoy a rational monetary system. This is a very big idea about which we shall be wise to reserve judgment.

The total obliteration of war debts remains today as it has been for 10 years the only solution ultimately compatible with the world's needs and the promptings of the world's conscience. Each successive conference is to be judged, therefore, not by its technical details but by the progress it makes to this goal. On this test, the Young committee deserves, I am sure, our sincere gratitude and our applause for it has achieved one result of very great importance.

By the good will of its American members, the committee has defined with new precision the relation of the United States to war debts. What Germany must pay is linked up by a strict formula to what America demands. Two-thirds of the benefit of any concession on her war debts which the United States may see fit to make hereafter is to go to the reduction of Germany's payments and only one-third to the former allies themselves.

Thus the way is cleared for the future action. Generosity on the part of the United States will necessarily rebound to appeasement and mercy. If America, in the exercise of her rights, presses her former allies, they, in the exercise of their rights, will transmit the pressure to the standard of life of the German workers who were babies or unborn when the war was hatched. But if America substitutes generosity for rights, the allies have bound themselves to pass on to Germany the major part of the relief. This broad outcome is Owen Young's best achievement. He has deliberately allowed his committee and even encouraged it, to pass the buck to his own country.

crease in the number of electors who voted Liberal this year. Compared with 1924 there has been an increase of 80 per cent whereas even the Labor poll only showed an increase of 50 per cent over the 1924 figures. Nevertheless Labor increased its membership by 130 whereas the Liberals gained an addition of only 14 to their numbers. The present system makes democracy look foolish. One day the Socialists might easily secure a working majority in Parliament whilst the aggregate vote against them in the country numbers millions.

Britain has been ruled already seven years by minority governments. The next time there might be a Socialist Parliament to support a Socialist Government in carrying Socialist measures. This time they came within 24 of a majority in spite of an adverse vote of 5,500,000. Had it been 500,000 less they would have had a majority. If the Conservatives really believe in their motto "Safety first" the y will join the Liberals in rectifying this evil and thus averting this danger.

Editor's note: In the recent general election in England the total vote was: Labor, 8,292,204; Liberal, 5,178,378; Conservative, 8,506,224; scattering, 302,062.

SON GETS HALF OF J. A. ANDERSON ESTATE

A. D. Anderson, by Court Decree, Obtains Dissolution of Trust Restrictions.

A half interest in the estate of J. Arthur Anderson, free of any trust restriction, was awarded to his son, Arthur Donald Anderson, living at Hotel Chase, in a court decree yesterday. The decree was handed down by Circuit Judge Landwehr in a suit filed by Anderson to obtain absolute possession of his inheritance under his father's will. The principal has been in charge of the St. Louis Union Trust Co. as trustee, the son receiving the income.

The face value of the personal property, including corporation stock and bonds to be turned over, totals $140,899.65, yielding $7232.75 a year. Under the decision, the plaintiff also gets title to half interest in realty at 3960-62 Olive street.

J. Arthur Anderson, laundry proprietor, died July 25, 1921, leaving his whole estate in trust of the St. Louis Union. The trustee was directed to pay the entire net income to Anderson's widow, Mrs. Kathryn M. Anderson, during her life, after which the son, if he survived, was to have the property. A clause set forth that in any event he was not to have title to the principal before he reached the age of 25 years and it was further provided that if he died without heirs the estate was to pass to collateral heirs of the testator.

Shortly after her husband's death Mrs. Anderson renounced his will and elected to take her dower interest of one-half of the estate. This left her free of any trust restriction and for that reason her son contended in the suit that the trust also should terminate as to him, he having reached the age of 25 years June 21, 1927, and being competent to handle the property. On the other hand, the trustee asserted that the son's right to the principal, under the terms of his father's will, could not accrue before his mother died and further that the collateral heirs possessed a contingent interest, depending on whether the son died before his mother succumbed.

Judge Landwehr held that the renunciation by Mrs. Anderson left the son in a position to claim full legal right to the principal of his share and that the trust was no longer in effect. The Court further decided that the other heirs have no claim to the property.

The trustee filed a motion for a new trial on the ground that the Court erred in deciding in favor of the petitioner.

WLS Seeks Permit for 50,000-Watt Transmitter

KYW Authorized to Build Station of That Power, but Can Use Only 10,000 Watts—Fight Among Chicago Broadcasters Possibility.

The Federal Radio Commission is expected to thresh out the matter of power limitation before many months have passed. With the Commission discontinuing hearings from June 15 until September, so that its members may visit their zones for station inspection trips, it is unlikely that there will be any decisions of importance until fall.

KYW has been authorized to erect a 50,000-watt transmitter outside of Chicago. But the construction permit was granted on the understanding that KYW would use only 10,000 watts power, the same as it now uses. KYW is such a victim of absorption by buildings in the vicinity of its location on the roof of a hotel on Michigan boulevard, in Chicago, that it is hardly as effective as a 1000-watt station favorably located.

WLS has applied for a 50,000-watt construction permit. WLS, which now has a 5000-watt transmitter, shares a cleared channel with the 50,000-watt WENR, also in Chicago. WLS has five-sevenths of the time on the wave, and WENR, which, as has been told, is owned by the Great Lakes Broadcasting Co., an Insull subsidiary, has been making a persistent fight for full time so that it may use its high power to advantage. It has appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia from a commission decision that it cannot have full time. WENR is to move its studios eventually into the opera building which is being erected in Chicago. Even with only two-sevenths of the time on its channel to WENR management is said to be spending nearly $500,000 a year on the station and its programs. WLS has specialized in programs designed especially for listeners on the farms and in the smaller towns and cities. Operation of it was taken over a few months ago by a farm paper.

The commission is to hold an open hearing on the WLS application for a superpower permit. But this hearing is not likely to be held before fall.

If WLS's petition is granted, the situation in Chicago will be interesting. WGN will be using 25,000 watts on a cleared wave; WBBM, 25,000 on a cleared wave shared with KFAB, Lincoln, Neb.; WMAQ, 5000 watts on a cleared wave; KYW, 10,000 watts from a 50,000 station on a cleared wave; WLS and WENR, both with 50,000-watt transmitters, sharing a cleared wave; WCFL, which also has sought a 50,000-watt construction permit, continuing its fight for full time operation on some wave instead of being confined to low-powered operation in daytime only.

That WMAQ will be able to hold a cleared wave length indefinitely with only 5000 watts is doubtful.

While the Commission has granted a number of 50,000 watt construction permits, it authorizes such stations to use only 25,000 watts for regular broadcasting and to use the full 50,000 watts power only for "experimental" transmission.

Commissioner Robinson has consistently fought for a limitation to 10,000 watts power, whereas La Fount and Starbuck take about the same stand for unlimited use of power for which former Commis-

WLS Seeks Permit for 50,000-Watt Transmitter

KYW Authorized to Build Station of That Power, but Can Use Only 10,000 Watts—Fight Among Chicago Broadcasters Possibility.

The Federal Radio Commission is expected to thresh out the matter of power limitation before many months have passed. Tour of Minnesota Northwoods, "Land of 10,000 Lakes," Offers Enthralling Views

By ROBERT BRADLEY,
Automobile Editor.

MINNESOTA—the name conjures up thoughts of thousands of cool, inviting lakes, of delightful streams that twist and wind through almost impenetrable stands of balsam, spruce and birch, of mile on mile of smoothly graveled highway that stretches beside foaming rivers or, turning, dashes off across plains and around rugged, wooded hills. A motor tour from St. Louis which penetrates wilderness where, hundreds of years ago, savages and white voyageurs traveled in canoes; where the headwaters of the Great Lakes, the Mississippi and the Rainy River system form, may be made in two or three weeks. Such a trip would cover approximately 2300 miles. The itinerary includes Minneapolis and Duluth, Minn., and returning, La Crosse and Madison, Wis.

From St. Louis the route leads across either the McKinley or Lewis and Clark bridges to Alton, Ill., on United States Highway No. 3, which continues on through Jacksonville, Ill., to Davenport, Ia. At Davenport, U. S. No. 30 turns off to Cedar Rapids, Ia., from where Iowa Highway No. 11 leads to Independence, Ia. West from Independence on U. S. 20 to Waterloo, Ia., and north on U. S. 218 to Owatonna, Minn., whence U. S. 65 continues through to Minneapolis—642 miles from St. Louis.

The highway, passing through mostly level country, is paved from St. Louis to Cedar Rapids, graveled to Independence, and alternately paved and graveled to Minneapolis. According to George Drummond, manager of the touring department of the Automobile Club of Missouri, this route is excellent.

Minneapolis should be used as a base for Minnesota travel. Situated on the Mississippi River, it is a thriving city, and the last large center of population one will see for many days. One might well take an hour to motor to beautiful Lake Minnetonka, on the western outskirts of the city.

Northwest from Minneapolis, U. S. 10 is taken to Little Falls, and from there Minnesota 27 leads to Brainerd. If it is fishing one looks for, every hour of the visit in and around Brainerd will be appreciated. The town was built where the Mississippi idles out of the piney woods section, and nearby are a score of the Crow Wing lakes, where wall-eyed pike, northern pike, black bass and pickerel provide plenty of sport. Brainerd is the gateway of the picturesque Cuyuna Range. A short jaunt leads off the main road to Mille Lacs Lake, around the circumference of which runs a well-made road.

With the tang of the North woods in one's nostrils and the long motor ride forgotten as the lake breezes blow up refreshingly and caressingly, the tourist may want to spend a day or two at Brainerd. Minnesota No. 19 leads to Bemidji—259 miles from Minneapolis—center of a multitude of lakes and streams, tiny and large, in an ideal hunting and fishing country. In the pine woods on the shores of Lake Bemidji are many moose, deer, partridge and rabbits. Duck-shooting is excellent and the forest-girt lakes contain bass, pike, trout and pickerel. Nearby are Plantagenet, Long, Big Bass and other lakes.

Grudgingly and with many a backward, regretful glance, the motorist travels on over U. S. 71 to International Falls—142 miles distant from Bemidji, on the international border.

Just across the Rainy River from the town is Canada. Although a railroad cuts across Rainy Lake east and west, motorists must be content to stay in the United States owing to lack of roads on the other side. International Falls is the starting point of an enchanting boat trip through chain after chain of virgin wooded waters to Lake Superior. If one has the time and money, it would be worth the trouble of sending one's car on to Duluth to make the water trip.

Or one may embark on an exploring expedition, by launch, motor skiff or canoe, into Rainy Lake. It is hide-and-seek cruising amidst hundreds of rock-bound islands. In the clear, sky-blue waters, pike, pickerel, whitefish, lake trout and sturgeon test the angler's skill. In addition, there are many splendid camping spots, with abundant firewood and, of course, water.

According to information at the Auotmobile Club, the highway to International Falls is extremely well kept. From the Falls, Minnesota 11 (graveled) leads 109 miles to Virginia, Minn. From there the road is paved to Duluth—178 miles from International Falls.

Of Duluth little need be said except that it is the shipping point for the huge cargoes of lumber and iron that are transported through the Great Lakes to manufacturing and industrial centers. The boulevard drive—20 miles long—leads to Fond du Lac, on a narrow arm of Lake Superior. The Mesaba Range, covering the great iron deposits, is viewed on the route to Duluth from Virginia.

Brule, Wis., where President Coolidge had his Summer White House last fall, is a few miles east of Superior, Wis., and Duluth. If the President chose this spot for his vacation, people point out, others could do worse than follow his example.

Following the north shore of Superior, the Lake Superior International Highway runs to Port Arthur, Ontario, most of the distance within sight of the lake.

Breath-taking in its tranquil beauty, landscape is ever-changing When the road swerves around the shoulder of a cliff, the motorist automatically brings his car to a halt, to enjoy the inspiring panorama. Every stream invites a scramble down the steep banks of its cascades.

Tiny fishing hamlets, accessible only by water until the highway was put through, or summer places, with, perhaps, a bear cub chained to a post, begging for candy, are incidents of the Port Arthur trip. Miliage to Port Arthur and return to Duluth totals 330.

From Duluth, U. S. 53 leads through Spooner, yet another lake region, this time in Wisconsin, to Chippewa Falls and La Crosse, Wis. If the travelars are not satiated with scenery by this time, they may cut southwest from Eau Claire and follow the Mississippi to La Crosse, one of the prettiest drives in the North. La Crosse is 265 miles from Duluth, a good hard road.

East on U. S. 16 to Kilbourn, the party takes U. S. 12 to Madison, situated in a kind of peninsula between two large lakes. The Capitol building at the Wisconsin city is perhaps one of the most beautiful State buildings in the country. A short visit should be planned at Madison before taking Wisconsin 13 to Janesville and continuing on U. S. 51 through Rockford, Ill., to Bloomington, Ill., whence U. S. 4 leads 170 miles to St. Louis.

Two and one-half days should be set aside for the journey from Duluth to St. Louis. Most of the highway is paved.

If one has a couple of more days at his disposal, he should take U. S. 12 from Madison to Chicago, and return to St. Louis from the Illinois metropolis.

Four Dirt Detours In Central Missouri Divert Auto Traffic

Four dirt detours were established last week by the State Highway Department in Central Missouri at points where the roads are considered impassable in rainy weather, according to word received by the Automobile Club of Missouri.

On U. S. Highway 63 between Columbia and Moberly, the nine-foot pavement is being widened and the detour follows a dirt road parallel to but east of No. 63, from Columbia to the junction with Missouri 22, thence, via No. 22 to the junction with No. 63 at Clark. Route 22 is closed between Mexico and Centralia, with a 29-mile dirt detour marked.

On U. S. 54 from Mexico to junction with U. S. 40 a nine-mile dirt detour runs west of No. 54, and on U. S. 36 west of Shelbina is a five-mile dirt detour, considered only fair in good weather.

Bridge Over Stout Creek at Arcadia Opened This Week

The recently completed single-arch concrete bridge across the Stout Creek canon between Ironton and Fredericktown, Mo., on Missouri Highway No. 72, will be formally opened Thursday at a celebration arranged by civic and business organizations of the two towns. A parade and program have been arranged in the afternoon, and a banquet will be held at Lake Killarney that evening.

The bridge not only makes the Arcadia Valley, one of the most picturesque sections of the Ozarks, more accessible to tourists during all sorts of weather, but affords another circle tour of the Eastern Ozarks, as it links United States Highway No. 61 and Missouri Highway No. 21, about midway between St. Louis and the Missouri-Arkansas line.

Motorists Given Efficient Service At Travel Bureau

Touring information, covering every section of the United States and Eastern Canada is obtainable at the Post-Dispatch Resort and Travel Bureau and motorists are given expert advice on their week-end or vacation trips.

The 50-page auto trails atlas, priced at 50 cents at the Post-Dispatch or 60 cents, mailed, covers main and secondary roads and gives their general condition.

Besides the atlas much valuable data is contained in the various State maps, which sell at 10 cents and 12 cents, mailed. Maps of the St. Louis street system are priced at 20 cents and 40 cents, mailed. City guides sell for 25 and 30 cents and maps of Greater St. Louis, 20 cents at the Post-Dispatch and 24 cents mailed.

Route to Alaska

Work is steadily progressing on the new international highway and air route from Seattle, Wash., to Nome, Alaska, which when completed will link the United States through Canada with the Far North. The highway will go as far as Fairbanks, where it will connect with an air route, eventually reaching into Asia. The 2000 miles of highway, it is estimated, will cost $7,000,000. Already 1250 miles have been constructed. Alaska is to build 200 more miles and the Canadian Government 550.

Conference On Highway Problems at Washington

Two Committees on Street Safety Will Study Major Traffic Problems — Dawes, Chicago Banker, in One Group.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Plans are complete for meetings next week in Washington of two new committees of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety to begin a nation-wide survey of major traffic problems. Chairmen have been selected for each group and the committee personnel has been selected after a canvass of all interests, business and official, having direct or indirect relation to the problems that will be studied.

William R. Dawes, banker and president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, heads the Committee on the Protection of Grade Crossings and Major Highway Intersections, which will meet at the Department of Commerce Wednesday. William Candler of Atlanta, Ga., a director of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, is chairman of the Committee on the Maintenance of the Motor Vehicle. This group will meet Thursday at the department.

The meetings will be held at the Department of Commerce so that Secretary Lamont can spend as much time as possible in the sessions. The secretary is general chairman of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, of which President Hoover was the organizer and first head.

In the organization of the committee personnel, every effort has been made to include all interests. The Committee on Protection of Grade Crossings and Major Highway Intersections will include, for example, manufacturers and dealers of motor cars and automotive equipment, engineers, business men, representatives of railroads, both steam and electric; taxicab owners and operators, motor club and traffic officials. The Committee on Maintenance likewise will comprise a similarly broad representation.

In this way it is hoped to get into one room men drawn from every group that is making cars or their equipment or that is operating them. Traffic officials also will have an opportunity to state their views from the standpoint of regulation in so far as it has a bearing on the solution of the problems under consideration.

In the discussion of the problems involved in grade crossing and highway intersection complexities of the whole traffic situation, an endeavor will be made to seek the causes of collisions at these hazardous points and then to make an effort to prescribe remedies in the form of adequate protection. A portion of the remedial program will be educational, proceeding on the premise that no protection is adequate unless it is given the co-operation of the automobile using public.

As officials of the National Conference now see it, the maintenance problem also is largely an educational problem, once the situation has been analyzed and the motorist is told how he can achieve greater safety through maintaining his car in better mechanical condition. It is stated that the manufacturer is doing his part in building a safer car, and what now remains is to obtain the co-operation of the owner in maintaining that car at the degree of safety at which

New Chevrolet Zone Organized At Decatur, Ill.

O. E. Nonn Made Manager; Denver, Colo., Succeeds Him July 1.

An expansion program of the Chevrolet Motor Co. has resulted in establishment of a new zone, centering at Decatur, Ill., and comprising the greater part of the Illinois territory that has heretofore been a part of the St. Louis zone.

O. E. Nonn, St. Louis zone sales manager since June 1, 1927, has been made manager of the new zone. He will be succeeded by C. E. O'Meara, zone sales manager at Denver, Colo.

The change will take effect July 1, it is announced. The Decatur zone will be one of seven new Chevrolet zones in all, throughout the country. Others will have headquarters at Fort Wayne, Ind., Amarillo and San Antonio, Tex.; Davenport, Ia.; Syracuse, N. Y., and Harrisburg, Pa.

Nonn's advancement has been rapid. In 1922 he started as a Chevrolet representative in St. Louis and the adjacent territory. After 18 months he was made assistant zone sales manager here, holding this position under H. J. Klingler, now vice president in charge of sales of the Chevrolet Motor Co., who was at that time sales manager of the local zone.

After three years Nonn was made city sales manager in St. Louis which position he held until he was again promoted to his present office.

O'Meara has been in the automobile business for 15 years, starting with Chevrolet as a representative in the Dallas, Tex., territory. He was later promoted to the position of zone sales manager at Dallas, and, after a few months, was made zone sales manager at Houston. In January, 1928, he was transferred to the Denver office.

E. W. Berger, sales promotion manager of the St. Louis zone, will act as Nonn's assistant at Decatur.

In addition to that portion of Illinois at present included in the St. Louis zone, the new Decatur zone will comprise half of the territory of the Chicago zone.

New Goodrich Building.

AKRON, O., June 15.—Construction on a new building at the Akron plant of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. will be started at once, it was announced today by James D. Tew, president, following the awarding of the contract to a local construction company. The power plant building, one of the oldest of the 45 buildings of the Akron plant, has been razed for the new structure. A foundation for eight stories will be laid, although only three stories will be completed at this time. The building and equipment will total $650,000, Tew said, and will house a battery of huge mixing machines for compounding rubber. This is part of a $5,000,000 expansion program this year for the Akron plant.

The plan provides for standard stocks of parts, factory methods of repair and training of mechanics for work on Auburn cars.

"Shell Motor Oil Week" to Start Here Tomorrow

U. de B. Daly, president of the Shell Petroleum Corporation with headquarters here, announces that this week has been designated as Shell motor oil week.

"Plans for motor oil week have been under way for several months in our sales division and all is in readiness for the most extensive and successful educational drive in the company's history," Daly said. "As a final preliminary step in the program, 600 meetings were held throughout Shell's distributing and jobbing territory, Friday evening, at which, it is estimated, 20,000 Shell representatives will be in attendance. So far as is known no other manufacturer has held 600 simultaneous meetings for its distributing organization, and our sales division is to be commended for its thoroughness in making and completing the plans for such an undertaking. The purpose of these meetings is to acquaint all jobbers, distributers and salesmen with the program and to discuss plans and make final arrangements for the week.

"It is planned to make Shell motor oil week largely educational in character and its inauguration is in keeping with the Shell Petroleum Corporation policy of thoroughly acquainting the motoring public with the latest and most advanced means for protecting and insuring long life and economical operation of its motor cars."

Graham-Paige Fails Signally In "Talkie" Test

Unique Experiment at Studio in Hollywood Shows Motor Too Quiet.

In the first official sound test ... given an automobile, the "voice" of the Graham-Paige has been tried out and found insufficient in volume for use in the "talkies." Albert de Sart, director of sound effects for the Paramount famous Lasky Corporation, staged the experiment at Hollywood and, at its conclusion, informed the Graham-Paige company that its car, though a star performer on the road, cannot become a cinema sedan.

Every precaution that guards the making of a talking picture was taken in making the test. The car, a "615" roadster, was wheeled into one of Paramount's new sound stages. De Sart sat at the mixing panel in the monitor room and signaled his assistants on the stage to start the motor. All De Sart could hear was a low, steady hum, much like the sound of bottled flies might make.

He then asked Miss Nancy Carroll, one of Paramount's most popular players, to talk while the motor continued running, and she spoke her lines from "Illusion," in which she appears with Charles (Buddy) Rogers. When the film was run, Miss Carroll alone was heard, the Graham-Paige engine not interfering in the least.

De Sart was of the opinion that the motor of the Graham-Paige must be constructed with clockwork precision to achieve "such smooth, almost noiseless, action." He gave the results of the test in the following report to the Graham-Paige company:

"I have given the Graham Paige ... voice test and determined that the motor sounds are too subdued for use in talking pictures. However, through the use of extra equipment, which we do not employ in our usual recording, the car's 'voice' might be amplified in such a way as to make it audible on the screen.

Graham-Paige Fails Signally In "Talkie" Test

Unique Experiment at Studio in Hollywood Shows Motor Too Quiet.

In the first official sound test ever given an automobile, the "Spirit" of the Graham-Paige has been tried out and found insufficient in volume for use in the talkies," Albert de Sart, director of sound effects for the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, staged the experiment at Hollywood and, in conclusion, informed the Graham-Paige company that its car, though a star performer on the road, cannot become a cinema sensation.

Every precaution that guards the making of a talking picture was taken in making the test. The car, a "616" roadster, was wheeled into one of Paramount's new sound stages. De Sart sat at the sound panel in the monitor room and signaled his assistants on the stage to start the motor. All De Sart could hear was a low, steady roar, much like the sound of bottle-fly might make.

He then asked Miss Nancy Carroll, one of Paramount's most popular players, to talk while the motor continued running, and she spoke her lines from "Illusion," in which she appears with Charles (Buddy) Rogers. When the film was run, Miss Carroll alone was heard, the Graham-Paige engine not interfering in the least.

De Sart was of the opinion that the motor of the Graham-Paige must be constructed with clock-work precision to achieve "such smooth, almost noiseless, action." He gave the results of the test in the following report to the Graham-Paige company:

"I have given the Graham Paige the voice test and determined that the motor sounds are too subdued for use in talking pictures. However, through the use of extra equipment, which we do not employ in our usual recording, the car's 'voice' might be amplified in such a way as to make it audible on the screen.

"If this Graham-Paige which I tested had been equipped with a muffler cutout—therefore playing the scene 'broadly,' to speak theatrically—there would have been a chance of its motor explosions being audible. As it was, the purr of the motor was not loud enough."

The stage on which the unusual test was made is the last word in sound-proof engineering. The building housing the four stages is 203 by 233 feet, each stage being isolated from the others by heavy insulation. Special materials are used to prevent vibration from penetrating from the outside. Each entrance is guarded by two heavily padded doors, resembling refrigerator doors. Above the outer door is a red lamp which shines when a scene is being recorded within the stage, and woe to the person who disregards this signal to stay out! Even the floors of the Paramount sound stages are covered with a noise-deadening material.

High in the rear wall of each sound stage is the monitor room, where the "mixer" sits in a position to see everything on the stage below. Three thicknesses of plate glass separate him from the company, the voices being brought to him by the use of loud speakers exactly as they would be heard in theaters.

The actual recording is not done in the sound stage itself. The microphones lead the voices to the mixing panel, where they are controlled and regulated for volume. Special cables convey the sound to another building, where it is recorded on a film.

Meyer, Seiberling Distributer, Urges Use of Free Service

Hundreds of additional tire miles in exchange for only 10 minutes of an individual's time every month —a free mileage "bonus" that may be had for the asking—is part of the free monthly inspection service offered to Seiberling users by the Meyer Tire Co., local distributer of Seiberling tires.

Discussing this service, Meyer says: "We have discovered that by giving a little attention to the irregularities that cause tire wear we can add fully 25 per cent to the life of any Seiberling tire. Underinflation, open tread cuts, faulty brake adjustment and wheel alignment—these are the things that cause rapid tire wear.

"By driving to our shop once a month one may obtain a free inspection of Seiberling tires and at the same time add one-quarter to one's mileage."

Oil Change Needed In Warm Weather, Engineer Declares

FLINT, Mich., June 16.—Motor lubrication, important at all times, is doubly so during warm weather when longer trips at higher speeds are made, according to C. W. McKinley, research engineer, who says:

"Oil suitable for use in the cooler months may be totally unfit for summer driving. It is, therefore, important that the proper grade of oil be used for warm weather operation.

"Another important factor in maintaining proper lubrication is attention to the oil filter. This device filters the oil and keeps it clean. But after 10,000 miles the filtering unit becomes filled with dirt taken from the oil and needs to be serviced.

"By having the oil filter serviced at 10,000 miles, by using the proper grade oil, and by following the car manufacturer's recommendation as to changing oil the motorist is assured of trouble-free operation so far as the all-important matter of lubrication is concerned."

250 Dodge Trucks Shipped to China For Government

Said to Have Been Biggest Single Order of Kind Ever Filled.

A special train, loaded with 250 Dodge Brothers trucks, left Detroit week before last, consigned to the Chinese Government at Shanghai. The order is said to have been the largest single truck shipment ever made, the Dodge truck factories working on overtime schedules to insure shipments in time to catch the S. S. President Taft, which sailed from Seattle yesterday.

All trucks are of one-ton capacity, and were crated and loaded on gondola cars. Bodies are being built in Shanghai where the trucks will be assembled. The trucks will be used in military service.

"China will be one of the most attractive export markets to American automotive manufacturers within a few years," said T. B. Belsjoe, Dodge Brothers representative in the Orient, who has returned to the United States for a brief stay. "Military activities in China have been responsible for a great deal of road building, and when peace comes the country will have the start of a highway system.

"China is developing similar to the progress in the United States a century ago. The interior is still unsafe just as our Western frontier was before settlers pushed westward. In cities along the eastern coast, life and property are practically as safe as in any American city.

"Dodge Brothers motor vehicles have been popular in the Orient for years, many being used in bus lines and in Government civil and military service. The expeditions of Roy Chapman Andrews, representing the American Museum of Natural History, across the Gobi Desert has added prestige to their record of deperdability and performance under extreme conditions. Dr. Andrews has always used Dodge Brothers cars for these trips, and at present is in Pekin ready to start another tour to unearth the mysteries in this "cradle of the world."

Tax in England.

English motorists were taxed more than $127,605,000 during 1928 for the operation of 1,758,000 motor vehicles.

Dierl Motor Sales Appointed Durant Dealer in St. Louis

H. W. DIERL.

Announcement is made by W. S. Cook, district manager of Durant Motors, that a dealer franchise has been granted to H. W. Dierl, head of Dierl Motor Sales, now located at 1333 South Seventh boulevard, who will take over the sales and service quarters of the Durant Motor Co. of St. Louis at 3205 Locust street. Dierl, who has had wide experience in local automobile circles, will conduct both establishments.

Before Dierl organized his company, in 1927, through the aid of Cook and W. S. Durant, he was sales manager of the Belmont Motor Co., at the South Seventh boulevard address, for four years. Prior to that, he was a salesman with the Mepham Chevrolet Co. for a year, with the Burgdorf Motor Co. for a year and, before that, operated a filling station at Manchester and Denny roads with a brother.

Dierl has been associated with Durant sales in St. Louis since that automobile was first placed on the market and is well qualified to handle the complete line of cars.

The Dierl company will distribute Durant parts to other dealers within a radius of 100 miles. George Lane will act as service manager of the two establishments. Lane for five years was with the Durant factory. Fay Helms will be Dierl's assistant.

Pennzoil Campaign.

Two hundred, ninety-four newspapers of the country will be used to carry Pennzoil advertising to the motorists of the United States this summer, it is announced by the Pennzoil Co. It is the largest campaign ever undertaken by the company, refiner and marketer of Pennzoil lubricating oil.

Durant Shows Profit.

Durant Motors, Inc., earned a net profit in excess of $400,000 in April. This offsets a loss of $307,000 in the first quarter and leaves an approximate net profit of $100,000 for the first four months of 1929. The corresponding period of 1928 showed a $440,000 loss. The improvement in earning position therefore is over $500,000 for the first four months of the present year as compared with the first four months of 1928.

Nothing succeeds like

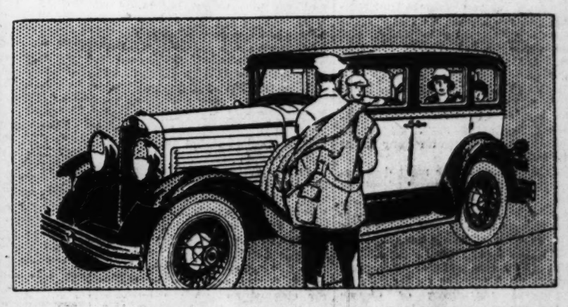
The World's First Straight-Eight under $1000



THE Roosevelt is the biggest new success of 1929. The reason is the car itself—the simple, easily understood principle of giving the most for the money.

Compare the Roosevelt with any car at or near the $1000 figure on the basis of these important features:

Motor—Marmon-built straight-eight, 70 H. P., more power by far than any car at this price.

Appearance—So wonderfully harmonious and correct that it meets the desire for simplicity; the feeling for character; the urge for newness—all in one satisfying glance.

Easy Riding—81% of wheelbase is covered by long, flexible springs . . . You can step from almost any car into the Roosevelt and get a genuine thrill from the added comfort.

Sturdiness—The Roosevelt is no mere figure of the boulevards . . . It's built for the open spaces as well. Put it in the mountains; the desert; the oil fields . . . It will come out just as confidently as it went in.

Economy—The Roosevelt charges not one cent of premium for extra performance . . . In fact, no car could be more "tight fisted" in economy.

Protecting Your Investment—The Roosevelt is a straight-eight . . . This type won't be obsoleted. Not only will it serve longer, but it will be worth more after it has served.

Again we invite you—just compare . . . May we send a Roosevelt to you today?

A Marmon-built straight-eight for every purse—Roosevelt, $995; Marmon 68, $1465; Marmon 78, $1965. Prices at factory. Group equipment extra.

American Color Sehemes Copied On Foreign Cars

Dupont Manager at Paris Reports Central Europe Is Following Lead.

F. H. Chase, manager of the Du Pont Style Service, 6 rue Christophe-Colomb, Paris, who recently visited the Vienna Automobile Show, reports that the color treatments of the motor cars originating in America are now finding their way into Central Europe. "Western countries of Europe, more especially France, adopted these ideas more than a year ago, but only now are they receiving their first application in Germany and Austria and this in a somewhat timid manner," Chase said.

"The leading body makers of Vienna, Ferdinand Kiehl Kommanditgesellschaft, generally known as Kiebl, had on view at the Vienna show a number of cars, all of which were marked by interesting color schemes. A Steyr was finished in beige and beige-gray. An Austro-Daimler was in black with a brown fabric on top and with a belt effect in red. A Mercedes-Benz was done in garnet with a black belt.

"In addition to the cars displayed by Kiebl, there were automobiles made by the firm of Graft Und Stift. One of the interesting color designs here was a violet purple with a black top and with the wheels in maroon. A Steyr car was done in olive green with a light beige belt. Another type of this car was done in royal blue with a red fillet forming a belt. Some of the cars of this make were done in conservative black.

An attractive Daimler car had the lower part of the body, the hood and the wheels in a creamy gray while the upper part of the car, the mud-guards and the balance of the chassis were in grayish blue. The color schemes of the Austro-Fiat cars were quite simple. An example of their method of treatment was shown in a machine in which the lower part was finished in maroon red and the upper part, the top and the mud-guards in a light beige.

"The American method of finishing cars with Duco has been adopted by nearly all the important makers of Central Europe, including the important body makers. Colors as a rule tend to be conservative. There is not much contrast while in quite a few cases they do not use color as a means of prolonging the belt the whole length of the hood or to accentuate the length or hood of the car."

Precision Methods Reduce Need of "Breaking in" Fords

Precision manufacturing and an unusual degree of importance which the Ford Motor Co. attaches to the inspection of Model A cars has gone far to eliminate that tedious process known as the "breaking in" of a new automobile.

On the windshields of the new Model A are directions which suggest a driving speed limit for the first 500 miles of 35 miles per hour. This is in marked contrast to the old line of instruction which cautioned against a speed of more than 20 or 25 miles an hour for at least 1000 miles.

Excess heat is the most destructive agency which may affect an automobile, particularly in the first several hundred miles it is driven. Friction is mainly responsible for overheating and a piston that is fitted too tightly may seize and in turn score the cylinder wall. This means an expensive repair job.

Careful machining of engine parts, such as cylinder blocks, pistons, camshafts, crankshafts, etc., the proper fitting of bearings, accuracy in the cutting of gears; multitudinous checks during the process of assembling combine to produce an automobile which is ready for the road when delivered. For this reason, it may at once be operated to the limit of speed prescribed by the motor codes of a great many states, without going through the customary "breaking in" period.

Vesper-Buick Building Praised

The Automobile Trade Journal and Motor Age, a trade publication, in a recent issue, declared the building of the Vesper-Buick Auto Co., 3900 West Pine boulevard, is "one of the most beautiful dealer establishments in the world." Vesper-Buick is the Buick and Marquette distributer in this territory.

Auburns Exported To Lands of Snow And Tropic Jungles

AUBURN, Ind., June 16.—Where ponies were once the only means of transportation, Auburn automobiles now spin over the ice and snow. And likewise where the donkey and the ox once trudged over half-forgotten paths, this make of car is rapidly becoming popular.

With 90 distributers, in nearly as many countries, Auburn has become world-known, according to R. S. Wiley, export manager.

At Reykjavik, Iceland, one of the most northerly cities in the world, Asgeir Sigurdsson, Auburn distributer, reports that through its winning of various speed races on the ice, and through its sturdiness and reliability, Auburn is fast taking leadership on the island.

Iceland comprises 100,000 square kilometers, of which 13,000 are covered the year round with ice and snow. Other highlands or mountainous regions occupy more than 70,000 square kilometers, the remainder being lowlands. Population is around 100,000, consisting mostly of thrifty farmers and fishermen. Five hundred and seventy motor cars are in use in Reykjavik and its vicinity. Previous to the advent of the automobile all transportation on the island was by pony.

In the extreme southern city of the world—Magellanes, Chile—Auburn is represented by Antonio Sancho. This city was formerly called Punta Arenas, but later the name was changed, in honor of the famous navigator who made the first trip around the world. It is a noted repair and coaling station for steamships on the Southern route through the Straits of Magellan and is as far south of the Equator as Sitka, Alaska is north.

All the larger cities in South America have Auburn agencies, many of them having establishments comparing with the best in the United States. Sales and acceptance of Auburns in South America show a decided increase over last year. Likewise on the Continent, in Australia, Cuba, Africa and India, Auburn sales are up nearly 75 per cent for 1929.

Plymouth Plans 2-Week National Style Exhibition

Celebrating its first birthday, coincident with the birthday of the nation, the Plymouth Motor Corporation of Detroit is planning a national showing of Plymouth cars in a variety of new colors, according to W. G. Warner, district manager.

Dealers throughout the country are preparing their showrooms with unique displays in attractive settings for this display, which will take place from June 29 to July 13, inclusive. During this period the public is invited to visit the showrooms, inspect and drive these stylish but low-priced Chrysler-built Plymouth cars. The complete line of body styles with a variety of color combinations will be on display.

Unusual interest is attached to this first birthday of the Plymouth, due to the fact that during this year it has been greeted so enthusiastically that production records for the entire industry have been shattered. No other car has ever reached such high production within such a short period after the car was introduced as has the Plymouth.

"The enthusiasm with which the Plymouth has been greeted," according to Warner, "is due to the quality that is evident throughout the construction of the car. In power, speed, unusual accelerating ability, beauty and comfort it rivals cars of a much higher price and is an unusual value in its price class."

Visitors to the showrooms during this anniversary showing will be given the opportunity to inspect thoroughly and drive the improved Plymouth. A number of improvements throughout the chassis and the body have recently been announced and these are expected to create an unusual amount of interest with the motor wise public. Plymouth body engineers have spent several months in working out new designs to give the Plymouth the strongest and best braced bodies in its price class.

Graham-Paige Rises To Eighth Position in Export Shipments

DETROIT, Mich., June 16.—In little more than 12 months, Graham-Paige has become one of the leaders in the export of American motor cars, having risen to eighth place in the number of units sent to foreign countries (Canadian shipments not included).

Overseas shipments in May were 1235, bringing the total for the first five months of the year to 6262, more than three times the figure for the same period last year, and even exceeding the total of 6239 in 1928.

When the Graham-Paige was introduced at the beginning of 1928, the company had only the nucleus of an overseas selling organization. Rapid expansion of the overseas dealer list was promoted by two main factors—the established reputation of the three Graham brothers, whose motor trucks had been sold everywhere, and the new cars themselves, the Graham-Paige four-speed drive proving an attractive feature in Europe because of its advance over the four speeds spur-gear transmission commonly used there.

Arthur Chevrolet Develops New Type Of Airplane Motor

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 16.—A new type aviation motor intended for the moderate-priced commercial plane, with 75 pounds less weight and developing twice as much horse power, has been developed by Arthur Crevrolet, automotive engineer, he announced today.

The engine is air-cooled, has four cylinders and weighs 325 pounds. It develops 150 horsepower at 2700 revolutions per minute. The cylinders are "in line," offering a minimum head resistance. Practically all working parts are duplicates.

Auburn bids for your patronage not with words, claims or promises but with THE GOODS. Amazing cars at amazing prices! Values so outstanding as to preclude comparison. That is why Auburn is over-sold today. That is why Auburn sales are breaking records every month, month after month. That is why we have had to increase production 100 per cent this year. Such a nation-wide demand can not be ignored. It means with finality that Auburn enables your dollar to buy more than other cars do. We bet everything on the belief that the public is motor-educated; that you KNOW cars; that you can COMPARE values and judge for yourself. And Auburn has won the most decisive victory of public acceptance ever won by any car. And won it for one and only one reason, because people HAVE compared, HAVE driven and found that Auburn DOES give more than other automobiles; more power; more strength; more endurance; more comfort; better performance; easier handling; safer roadability and smoother riding. And gives all this for LESS. By passing back to the buyers the fruits of Auburn's sensational success, Auburn is enabled to grow as no other company is doing. Public approval and the success of the cars in owners hands is KEEPING Auburn oversold.

E. L. CORD says:

All of our resources are dedicated to the purpose that every Auburn owner be convinced he has made the best investment.

Chevrolet and Ford Continue Big Production

Latter May Produce Tractors in Ireland; Import to United States.

DETROIT, Mich., June 16.—The estimated May automobiles output of 624,000 may be correct, but there has been no diminution of production at the plants in Detroit. Of course, a "softening" is to be expected at this time of the year due to seasonal conditions.

However, Ford and Chevrolet, the largest producers, are going ahead at a rapid rate. Ford is producing approximately 8200 cars a day and Chevrolet is setting a figure of 7000 with no let-up in sight. Other plants report excellent production figures, although one or two lines of cars have fallen off in output.

There has been some talk in Detroit that Ford would produce tractors in Ireland and ship them to the United States for consumption. This talk followed a message from Washington to the effect that Ford tractors made in Ireland were not subject to import duty into America.

At the Ford plant it was stated that tractor output at the Ireland plant was very small at the present time. This factory formerly was used by the Ford Motor Co. of England, Ltd. It was necessary to rearrange the plant and install considerable machinery. When this work is completed, it is expected production of between 25,000 and 30,000 tractors will be reached.

So far only about 2% of these tractors have been imported into the United States and these are being tried out at the Ford plants in this country.

Ford officials would not state to what extent these tractors would be imported. It is believed, however, that many will be brought to this country.

Considerable talk is heard about announcements of new models that may be made during the latter part of the summer or early fall. As yet manufacturers have given no inkling of their plans. In some cases it is not believed that 1930 cars will be announced during the summer, although it has become the custom for several makers to announce new lines around Aug. 1.

Aside from front wheel drive cars, nothing radical is expected. Of course there will be refinements in power plants, bodies and riding qualities. People are looking for more performance all the time, despite the fact that in automobiles buyers get more for their money than practically anything else they purchase, due to the great efficiency of manufacturing organizations and production methods.

One front wheel drive automobile has been announced and another is expected in the near future. Despite all that may be said, these cars are coming to stay as their performance and stability clearly indicates.

Harry Miller of Los Angeles developed the first front drive cars solely for racing purposes and they have been used on the speedways for a number of years. He holds several patents on this type of construction. Automobile manufacturers are watching the front drive development closely, although few of them have actually started experimental work.

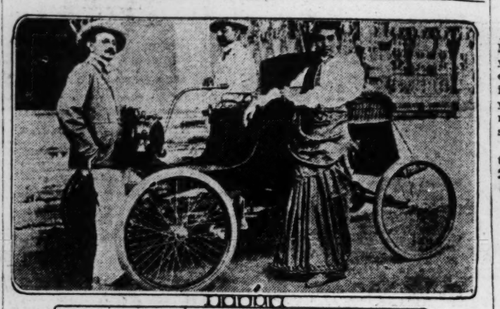
Oldsmobile First Machine in India



The photograph shows one of the three Oldsmobiles which constituted the first shipment of automobiles to India more than 30 years ago.

Famous Athletes Select Chryslers For Personal Use

Athletes of every type, both professional and amateur, accustomed to being in condition at all times, ready to engage in contests of skill, speed and strength, demand the same fitness in their automobiles. It has been found by a survey of the registration records of Chrysler cars that many of the outstanding figures in the sports world drive Chryslers, for in these automobiles the athletes find those qualities so necessary in their own daily existence—speed, stamina, perfect control and consistent performance.

Among America's most famous golfers these cars are popular. Walter Hagen is a Chrysler driver of many seasons standing. Hagen has found that in a Chrysler he can drive to and from the links without any exertion that would tax his skill during a match.

Charles "Chick" Evans, the Chicago golfer, drives a Chrysler convertible coupe.

"One of the greatest strokes I ever made was when I got this car in Detroit," says "Chick." "It takes me far and straight down the middle of the highway in perfect form. I am more than enthusiastic over it."

A woman golf star who is steadily climbing toward championship honors and who is also a Chrysler driver, is Virginia Van Wie. Miss Van Wie, who was runner-up in last year's tournament and defeated only by Glenna Collett, drives a "75" sport roadster.

Other golfers who find pleasure in motoring in Chryslers include Jesse Sweetser, Max Marston, Roland MacKenzie and Watts Gunn.

Boxers also find Chryslers suitable. Jack Dempsey has long been a Chrysler enthusiast and recently, while in Florida, added an imperial sport roadster to his machines.

Jess Willard, from whom Dempsey took the champion crown, just a short time ago purchased a "65" business coupe, which carries his huge bulk on his numerous business trips through Southern California.

Ray Miller, promising lightweight, who recently defeated "Billy" Petrolle in Detroit, purchased a "75" roadster while in that city.

Oldsmobiles Among First Cars Exported To Bombay, India

With exports of American automobiles increasing at a rate which promises to keep this leading industry forging ahead to new and greater records, it is interesting to note that this development has required the same length of time that was required to bring about the present almost universal use of the automobile in this country.

More than 30 years ago, when the automobile was struggling against strong opposition in this country, these early American cars were being exported to Europe, Asia and Africa. The difference has been that economic conditions enabled the automobile to forge rapidly ahead when once it obtained a foothold here, while it is only in recent years that a substantial increase has been registered in countries of the Old World.

Oldsmobiles were among the first cars to be exported overseas and were among the first automobiles to enter India. It was in 1898 that a shipment of three Oldsmobiles was received at Bombay and formed the vanguard of the approximately 125,000 automobiles now registered in that country.

These Oldsmobiles were purchased by Rustom Cama, Solicitor of Bombay and a descendant of the Oriental scholar of the same name; Jamsetji Tata, industrialist of India, and Kavasji Wadia, who subsequently became the Oldsmobile dealer in Bombay.

The Oldsmobiles created a sensation and sold as fast as they could be obtained. A half-hour demonstration that they would run was all that was required to obtain an order. Tales of this new wonder spread throughout the country and Indian Princes and other notables came to Bombay to witness the first sowing of the seeds of motorization in India.

The first Oldsmobiles with tiller drive and a top speed of 30 miles an hour, equipped with a bicycle bell in lieu of a horn and a rubber "weather" apron instead of a top, were far different from the present six-cylinder modern Oldsmobile which is continuing to add to the prestige of American-made automobiles started by its early predecessor in India, more than 30 years ago.

One of these first three Oldsmobiles to be imported in India is reported to be still in existence.

Wheelbase Size of Interest to Buyers Who Look for Size

"What is the wheelbase?" is one of the questions most commonly asked by motor car buyers, according to George E. Willis, vice president in charge of sales of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co.

Most of them, says Willis, ask it to measure mentally the size of a car; few realize its importance as an index of comfort and safety.

Just as a Pullman coach, with its long "wheelbase," travels smoothly and steadily, while the now obsolete "Toonerville trolley" type of street car, with its short base, pitches up and down, so an automobile with a long wheelbase has a stability which cannot be approached by cars of short span.

Long wheelbases always have been the rule, for example, on Pierce-Arrow cars which, since the early days of the industry, have represented the ultimate in luxurious comfort. In this length of wheelbase can be attributed much of the ability of Pierce-Arrows to travel smoothly at high rates of speed on roads whose roughness compels shorter cars to proceed at a slower pace.

Pierce-Arrow's two new groups of straight eights have the largest wheelbase of any Pierce-Arrows of recent years—133 inches in one instance, and 143 inches in the other. Exceptionally long springs, suspended in squeak-proof, ball-bearing shackles and governed by hydraulic shock absorbers, add their contribution to the inherent comfort of the long, low-swing design.

The new Pierce-Arrows, for which there is the greatest waiting demand in the history of the company, are priced at the factory at $2775 and up.

Aviation for Club.

The William Penn Motor Club of Philadelphia, Pa., is establishing an aviation division for the instruction of aspiring aviators. The effort by the club to create air-mindedness among the young generation is the first action taken in this direction by an automobile association in the Eastern United States.

Marmon Sales to Date Close to 1928 Total, Officer Says

So rapid has the business of the Marmon Motor Car increased this year that the company, at the end of May, was on the verge of equaling its sales total for 1928, the best year in Marmon history, it is announced by T. E. Jarrard general sales director.

The close of the first quarter of the Marmon fiscal year, comprising March, April and May, revealed that total factory shipments of Marmon and Roosevelt cars during the period were the greatest of any previous quarterly total in the company's 27 years in the automobile business, Jarrard said.

"During the last three months," he continued, "Marmon and Roosevelt shipments from the factory aggregated 16,847 cars, an increase of 115 per cent over the same period in 1928 and within a few hundred cars of the sales total for the entire year of 1928.

112 Oakland Autos Delivered to Army For Use at Posts

PONTIAC, Mich., June 16.—Delivery of a fleet of 112 new Oakland All-American sixes to the United States Army for use at various army posts throughout the country was made last week, W. L. Shaffner, manager of the fleet sales department of the Oakland Motor Car Co., announces.

The Oaklands purchased by the army are all four-door sedans and standard models, except that the regular Duco color combinations have been replaced by the standard olive drab coloring of the army.

The 112 cars are for use at headquarters of regiments, brigades and higher units, battalions, headquarters and a limited number of staff officers at posts, camps and stations. The cars will be placed in use in 26 different states in the United States and Hawaii, the Philippine Islands and the Panama Canal Zone.

Among the other United States Government divisions using Oakland or Pontiac sixes for official use are the Bureau of Public Roads, Veterans Bureau, the Ordnance Department and the Department of the Interior.

Terrific Speed of Racing Cars Puts Tires to Hard Test

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 15. —When automobile racing was first introduced, tires were regarded as "accessories," but it was soon realized that the terrific speed and power built into engines were of no value unless safely transmitted through the tires. Tire development became vital and racing tires led the way in the development of tires for all motorists.

Fabric tires were used exclusively until 1915, when the cord tire was demonstrated to be the superior of the two. High pressure tires equipped all cars until 1925, when the balloon tire made its appearance on the track and instantly won approval.

Balloon tires are universally used now, and their acceptance by the motoring public was closely associated with the approval given them by drivers on the Indianapolis Speedway.

Ray Keech, this year's winner, with an average of 97.58 miles per hour, and Louis Meyer, the second prize winner, commented later on the splendid tire performance.

The first seven racers to finish, all using Firestone tires, as have the winners for the last 10 years, showed by their records the value of tire development, including the Firestone gum-dipping process which builds extra strength and endurance into the cord fabric by impregnating and saturating every cord with rubber.

This year, in spite of the hot day and the terrific pace over the rough brick of the 20-year-old track, there was only one forced tire change on the 31 cars equipped with the Firestone gum-dipped tires.

Big Increase in Cars.

Approximately 25,000,000 motor vehicles were registered in the United States during the first four months of 1929, indicating an increase over 1928 of about 1,500,000. Of the registrations so far this year about 22,000,000 are passenger cars.

Good Investment.

Arizona will spend $5,000,000 on roads this year. Tourists driving across the State last year left $7,000,000 in profit with the people.

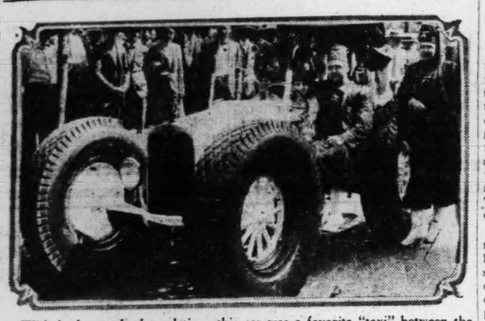
Studies Traffic.

N. Fugioka, head of the traffic division of the metropolitan police board, Tokio, Japan, is visiting many of the larger American cities to learn how motor traffic is handled in order to take back to Japan a comprehensive plan for meeting traffic congestion, which already is a serious factor there.

Subway Garage.

Government buildings, to be built on the Triangle between the Mall and Pennsylvania avenue in Washington, will have underground garages if the present plans are carried out.

Chevrolet Storms Shrine Convention



With its huge wheels and tires, this car was a favorite "taxi" between the railroad station and headquarters of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at Los Angeles recently.

Goodrich Silver Fleet to Arrive Here on July 2

R. C. Groffmann, district advertising manager of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., relates some interesting incidents that have attended the Goodrich Silver Fleet during its 12,000 mile tour. Beginning at New York Jan. 23, the fleet followed the Atlantic and Gulf shore line with a dip into Florida, with occasional inland jaunts, over a zigzag route, to the Pacific coast. The fleet will arrive in St. Louis on its return journey on July 2.

"After touring the snow-capped mountains of the Atlantic Coast line," related Groffmann, "Florida sunshine welcomed the young college pilots of the 15 silvered cars. At Baton Rouge, La., the pilot cavaliers were feted by Southern debutantes at the typical Southern colonial mansion of the war famed Gen. Bragg. In Texas, two-gun Deputy Sheriffs 'arrested' the fleet commander as a bit of typical Texas humor. The joke was followed by a royal reception. Across the Texas line the silver cavalcade and its uniformed pilots made a peaceful invasion to Juarez, Mexico, immediately after the victorious Mexican Federals fired parting shots at the fleeing Revolutionary forces.

"At Los Angeles, Commander H. R. Schaeffer delivered to the Mayor the good-will scroll, on which were hundreds of names of Mayors and other dignitaries, accumulated at numerous receptions along the route. Anita Page, Racquel Torres, Fay Webb and Julia Faye, film stars, variously entertained the gallant pilots at studio luncheons and other interesting studio programs. Los Angeles gave the fleet a great reception during its week there. Everywhere, the fleet has been a most interesting and novel spectacle."

Arrests Motorists.

The town of Montelimar, France, averages 200 arrests of speeders a day. One reason for this is that the legal speed is seven miles an hour, and, secondly, the law is enforced.

Gas Taxes High.

Gasoline taxes collected in the United States during 1928 amounted to more than $305,233,000. This tax was realized from the consumption of more than 10,178,344,700 gallons of gasoline.

DeSoto in Record South African Run

23-Year-Old Car.

The Simthsonian Institution in Washington, D. C., recently offered Martin Chiatovich, of Hawthorne, Nev., $1500 for his 1906 Pope Hartford touring car, including the bucket seats. The car is said to run as well now as it did 15 years ago.

World's Biggest Car.

An automobile 125 feet long, 25 feet wide and 45 feet high and with wheels 40 feet in diameter has been designed by an engineer in Germany for desert travel. It is intended to accommodate 150 passengers and 200 tons of cargo.

Chicagoan Invents New Spring Device

CHICAGO, Ill., June 4.—Perfection of a wedge-locked safety spring, designed to cut down motor mishaps due to excessive strain on the automobile spring mechanism growing out of the use of four-wheel brakes, has been announced here.

The inventor is D. Nettenstrom, in whose name at the patent office in Washington are recorded more than 30 inventions, including a number of motor devices and appliances now in successful use.

A company market the new spring has been formed. The of the springs are expected make their appearance on model automobiles that will shown during the coming fall winter.

Unlike the springs now in eral use, the leaves on Nettstrom's auto spring are punched through the center, are they held together with a bolt. Instead, positive locking achieved by means of which also keep the entire tightly in place.

Shearing off of the center blamed by Nettenstrom for great number of accidents ing the loss of life and limb ly attributed to the driver control of his car."

1929 Tourists To Encounter Good Highways

A. A. A. Warns That 45,000,000 Motorists Will Cause Congestion.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The 1929 motor tourist caravan—45,000,000 strong—will encounter better touring conditions this year than ever before, according to the annual pre-season survey issued today by the National Touring Bureau of the American Automobile Association.

The highlights of the survey of the national motoring body are:

First, the trunk line highways over which the motorists will travel toward the principal summer vacation areas are on the whole in better condition this year than they have been in any previous season.

Second, a considerable amount of new mileage has been added and new important gaps filled in since the close of the last touring season, thus offering a great diversity of routes and, in some instances, more direct connections between the centers of population and the vacation objectives.

Third, motor services available along practically all main trunk highways have reached a higher standard of perfection.

Fourth, agencies catering to motor tourist travel have improved their accommodations and recreational facilities.

Fifth, the movement toward uniform motor vehicle regulations has made some progress and the motorist is likely to encounter less annoyance at the hands of petty officials than heretofore.

The A. A. A. survey is based on reports from more than 1000 affiliated A. A. A. motor clubs in the United States and Canada, as well as on reports from State highway officials throughout the country.

"Almost without exception the car owner will find good roads leading to his chosen vacation spot, whether it be East, West, North or South, or in nearby Canada," the A. A. A. states.

"This is true of north and south highways leading into New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, the mountains of Western North Carolina, Eastern Tennessee and Kentucky, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"It also holds good as regards the great transcontinental trunk lines from the Atlantic to the Pacific, to the recreational areas of the national parks and forests, to the Ozark resorts in Missouri, to the Black Hills of South Dakota, to Colorado and the inter-mountain section, to the great play areas of the Northwest, including Washington, Oregon and adjacent British Columbia and to other playgrounds of the Pacific slope."

Despite the fact that hundreds of thousands of miles of paved highway afford a diversity of routes to the main vacation areas, the A. A. A. warns that every indication points to congestion and, for this reason, the suggestion is made that the motorist who wants to make "that time" this year would do well to travel in the early morning and rest the major part of his day's distance behind him while the roads are carrying their minimum load.

Another suggestion put forward by the national motoring body is the importance of paying attention to the detours on the main highways. Latest information available from reports of all A. A. A. agencies place the total number of detours in the East and Middle West at 1288.

"As these detours undergo daily change, motorists are advised to check in at the touring bureaus of A. A. A. clubs at frequent intervals. Up to the minute detour maps are on display at the touring counters of all A. A. A. offices and every motorist can save time and money by taking advantage of this service."

By way of further advice to the motorist, the A. A. A. says:

"Prepare your car well before you start and don't overcrowd it. Secure road information in advance of actual departure. Remember that road conditions change from day to day. Hence, the necessity of checking up on your routing from point to point. Don't depend on roadside information, but go to your motor club, which is the only agency capable of maintaining up-to-the-minute information. Particularly is this true at the present time, when highway-building agencies are pushed to keep pace with the increase in the number of cars. To meet this condition, detour maps are issued at regular intervals to A. A. A. motor clubs in different sections. Start your touring day early. Avoid congested areas—the A. A. A. maps show how—if you are traveling on schedule. If you are unable to reach a hotel at which you have reservations, notify them as some other wayfarer may desire the room. Finally, don't try to cover too much territory for the time at your disposal or for the allotted budget. Remember that physical exhaustion mars the pleasure of the tour and makes for accidents."

Here are some of the major road improvements listed in the A. A. A. survey:

"On U. S. Highway No. 1, an important artery from Florida to Canada, the stretch across Georgia from Augusta to Waycross has been completed and is of great importance to summer travel.

"Another important stretch in Georgia, on U. S. 41, which is a main artery of travel from Florida to the Middle West, has been completed south of Cordele. This is for the first time a paved highway from Florida into Atlanta, and is used by travel on

The 2-Door Sedan, $745 Body by Fisher

A Sweeping Success because it offers Big Car Qualities for only $745

DURING the first five months of 1929, the New Pontiac Big Six has attracted a volume of sales far surpassing the spectacular sales recorded for earlier Pontiac Sixes. The New Pontiac Big Six is a sweeping success—an even more pronounced success than its famous predecessors. And it owes its success largely to the fact that it offers big car qualities at low prices.

The New Pontiac Big Six has introduced a new standard of values into the low-priced field. It has the style and features of a big car. There is big car luxury and comfort in its sturdy, skillfully designed Fisher bodies with their beautiful, long-wearing upholstery, their correctly pitched seat backs and cushions, their adjustable drivers' seats. Big car power, speed and acceleration are developed by its big, smooth engine equipped with a 1¼-inch carburetor, and an efficient gasoline pump. And big car safety is assured by its two separate braking systems—the emergency brake which operates on the transmission, and noiseless four-wheel internal-expanding service brakes which are fully protected against mud or rain.

Oakland produced the Pontiac Big Six to enable progressive people to step up in motor car quality without leaving the low-priced field. And the very people for whom it was created have made it an impressive sales success.

THUS far in 1929, sales of Oakland and Pontiac Sixes have totaled over 151,000 as compared with 131,303 for the same period in 1928 and 79,286 for 1927. The New Oakland All-American Six, which shares this achievement with Pontiac, has come to be known through the enthusiasm of its owners as the finest medium-priced car in America today.

Shearing off of the center pin is blamed by Nettenstrom for the great number of accidents involving the loss of life and limb usually attributed to the driver "losing control of his car."

...29 Tourists To Encounter Good Highways

A. A. A. Warns That 45,000,000 Motorists Will Cause Congestion.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The ... motor tourist caravan—45,... strong—will encounter better touring conditions this year than ever before, according to the annual pre-season survey issued today by the National Touring Bureau of the American Automobile Association.

Finally, don't try to cover too much territory for the time at your disposal or for the allotted budget. Remember that physical exhaustion mars the pleasure of the tour and makes for accidents."

Here are some of the major road improvements listed in the A. A. A. survey:

"On U. S. Highway No. 1, an important artery from Florida to Canada, the stretch across Georgia from Augusta to Waycross has been completed and is of great importance to summer travel.

"Another important stretch in Georgia, on U. S. 41, which is a main artery of travel from Florida to the Middle West, has been completed south of Cordele. This is for the first time a paved highway from Florida into Atlanta, and is used by travel en route to Chicago, Detroit and surrounding territory.

"Motorists from the Southeast on route to the famed Shenandoah Valley of Virginia, will find two much needed stretches completed on U. S. 11. These are from Roanoke to Rocky Mount and from the latter point to Martinsville.

"Car owners traveling along the Atlantic seaboard will find a new bridge across the James River at Newport News, making for a quick route between that point and Portsmouth, avoiding Norfolk.

"The stretches between Lexington and Clifton Forge and between Covington and the West Virginia line have also been completed. These are on U. S. 60 and open up an interesting scenic route from Eastern points via the Shenandoah Valley to Charleston, W. Va., Lexington and Louisville, Ky., and St. Louis.

"Travel from the nation's capital into the Shenandoah Valley will be greatly expedited as a result of the opening up of the road between Sperryville and Luray, Va., on U. S. 211. This route from Washington to New Market is now all paved with the exception of nine miles of dirt between Warrenton and Sperryville, which is in good condition.

"In the vicinity of Cincinnati, a stretch from this Ohio metropolis to Lexington, Ky., was opened on U. S. 25, which provides a better and shorter route between these two cities.

"Two or three unpaved gaps on U. S. 31 north of Birmingham, Ala., have also been completed, which opens up a good unpaved road from Birmingham to Nashville, Tenn., and northern routes.

"An unpaved gap on U. S. 51 in northern Tennessee was completed, making a very good connection from Memphis to Cairo, Ill., from which point good highways lead to practically all northeastern cities.

"A gravel stretch on the above route was also completed from Memphis to Jackson, Miss., and offers an important route of travel between New Orleans and Memphis.

"One of the worst stretches on the Lincoln Highway, U. S. 30, has been paved. This is the link between Omaha and Dunlap, Ia. At the same time, it assures a good all-weather route from Omaha to the East.

"One of the important accomplishments in the Southwest was the paving of the stretch on U. S. No. 80 from Abilene to Sweet Water, Tex. This goes a long way toward eliminating the bad road between Dallas and El Paso and completing the work underway on U. S. 80 for some time.

"These outstanding additions to the nation's network of highways, together with others of lesser importance in every State, have done much to facilitate the use of the roads by motor vacationists."

Motorists Obtain Many Conveniences At Cottage Camps

CHICAGO, June 15.—Motorists' camps which have been in the throes of evolution for a decade are now taking a permanent form, a bulletin of the touring bureau of the Chicago Motor Club said today. The camps now comprise a number of cottages, or cabins, with complete furnishings, and are known as "cabin camps."

"They are a far cry from the camps of 10 or even five years ago," the bulletin said. "Many cities and towns were prone to designate as a camp any place where water was available. The result was that those motorists who favored camping were forced to carry a tent, cots, blankets, cooking utensils and even portable fireplaces. Their cars, loaded with this duffel, resembled the covered wagons of the forty-niners. After driving perhaps 300 miles during the day, the motorists had to allot at least two hours to the strenuous effort of making camp.

"Today, however, the cabin camp is frequently encountered. Motorists driving in can expect to stop at a cabin camp almost every night, especially in the West. Spotless linen and shining pots, pans and tableware await the travelers. A commissary is frequently nearby. Some cabin camps offer private garages and even a kennel for the dog. All of these accommodations are usually obtainable at nominal prices.

"The East, in this instance, is slowly following the example set by the West. Cabin camps are making their appearance, but slowly. If the law of supply and demand applies here, it may be expected that Western car owners on tour in the East this summer will give great impetus to the creation of cabin camps in those states."

New Windsor "6-69" Is Announced

The fifth car in the White Prince line is offered in eight body styles, to sell in the $1000 class. In size, this machine is just under the 8-82 White Prince, with a 120-inch wheelbase and a six-cylinder engine, bore 2⅞ inches and stroke 4¾ inches, developing 47 horsepower at 2000 revolutions per minute. A sedan is shown.

Must Be Done Right.

There is one form of car-care that the motorist should not undertake at all unless he has sufficient skill and is willing to keep at it until it is done properly. That is brake adjustments. Many a time the owner will start to do this job and stop before it is finished, with the result that the brakes are more unequal than before. Merely because the adjustment device is easy to reach is not a sign that equalization is easy to attain.

Whippets Built To Conform to Women's Demands

With the number of women drivers increasing by the thousand, automobile manufacturers more than ever before, consider this factor in the design and construction of their products and try to provide as many conveniences and safety features as possible, that will appeal, not only to women, but to all drivers.

A clear example of this is seen in the Willys-Overland Co.'s new line of Whippet fours and sixes. Notable among the outstanding conveniences on these cars is the "Finger-Tip Control." This consists of a button conveniently placed in the center of the steering wheel to control all the functions of starting the motor, manipulations of the lights and sounding the horn.

In addition to this being a decided safety factor it also materially increases the driving comfort of the driver. With this new improvement the driver no longer searches with his or her foot for the starter button usually found in the toeboard. Instead, a slight pull-up of the button starts the engine, a turn of the button to the right controls the lights of the new type headlamps, and the horn is sounded by pressing the button downward with the finger.

The new improved steering gear also provides easier handling of the car with a minimum of effort. This permits women to more easily park their car. The increased second speed gear is a distinct aid in heavy city traffic and allows quicker pickup and get-away.

The larger and more comfortable interiors, as well as the large, easily operated four-wheel brakes, also are distinctive features which will appeal to both men and women drivers, while the notable fuel and oil economy and low maintenance cost make the Whippets outstanding in the low priced classification.

British Party Drives Buicks Over "Worse Than Terrible" Roads

After traversing 15,000 miles, en route from Pekin, China, to London, England, in two Buick cars, and experiencing every conceivable driving condition, Maj. D. McCallum, widely known British traveler and an authority on Central Europe, declared his cars made light of the task imposed on them and are fit to do the whole journey over again.

During the trip Maj. McCallum's party at times drove over roads which he described as "worse than terrible." Some were little more than trails hewn out of solid rock. Through hundreds of miles of tropical jungle land the two Buicks literally had to force their own way.

The party encountered extreme altitudes and temperatures along the route, worst of which was the sweltering heat of the low, tropical areas. The motors functioned perfectly, even under these extreme conditions.

The only mechanical adjustments necessary during the journey were made after one of the Buicks became completely submerged in water while crossing what Maj. McCallum calls "The Devil's Stream" in Turkey.

Cars Half Painted

Perhaps your car just needs chassis and fenders refinished and the body retouched and restriped. This can be done for much less than a complete paint job, and may be all your car needs to look its best.

Experts say, "It's the best motor oil in the world"

—but you needn't be an expert to see why!

Here are the plain facts:—

Pennzoil is made from the highest quality Pennsylvania crude—admittedly the best source for lubricating oil in the world. (This crude sells for more than double the average price of all other crudes right at the wells.)

Pennzoil is refined by the most complete and modern methods known to the petroleum industry—the famous Pennzoil process. It is made by the world's largest refiners of pure Pennsylvania oil.

And yet—it costs less to use. Because of its quality, Pennzoil lasts fully twice as long as ordinary oil, so that it actually costs you less to use. No wonder thousands of motor car dealers and over 1,000,000 motorists say, "Use it!"

Sold by dealers from Maine to California who believe in quality merchandise. They are good men to deal with.

At St. Louis Air Fields

INSTALLATION of cables for teletype and telegraph instruments in the new Department of Commerce radio station near Lambert-St. Louis Field was completed last week. The 125-foot mast for the station will be shipped here in sections and will be erected soon.

Radio reports of weather conditions throughout the country will be received at the station and passed along to the various operating concerns over the teletype system. Communication with transport planes in flight also will be maintained, and local weather conditions broadcast. The Department of Commerce and the Federal Weather Bureau co-operate to furnish weather reports for pilots. Efforts are now being made to have a Government weather observatory located at Lambert Field.

The radio station is on the south side of Natural Bridge road opposite the extreme corner of the airport.

Curtiss Activities Planned.

Curtiss-Steinberg Field, on the East Side, will be officially opened on Labor day, it was tentatively decided at a meeting of the Advisory Committee of Curtiss Flying Service of St. Louis on Tuesday. It also was decided to open the ground school of the Curtiss Air College at a downtown location next month. The Curtiss lecture course will be presented for the first time at these classes, which will be held at night. Roger F. Becker will be in charge of the ground course, and Maj. C. Ray Wassall, commander of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, will direct the flying school.

Plans for starting activities here were discussed by the local Advisory Committee and three Eastern representatives of the Curtiss Co. —David Visel, Jack Tuyls and George Chamberlain. The Advisory Committee is composed of Harold Bixby, chairman; Ralph Damon, Harry Knight, Maj. Lambert, Maj. Robertson, J. D. Livingston, Carl Batts, Ted Booth and Harry Willson.

Flying Rules to Be Published.

A code of rules and regulations for Lambert-St. Louis Field was discussed at a meeting of representatives of operating companies with Acting Field Manager Parks on Tuesday. An agreed set of rules and penalties will be published for the information of all concerned, and an appeal board, to which disciplined pilots may take their cases for review, will be established. The first action under the new order was the permanent disbarment of a student who took a plane up while in no condition to do so according to Parks.

New Ryan Brougham Wrecked.

"Casey" Lambert's new $14,500 Ryan brougham was "washed out" early Tuesday morning when Casey struck the old frame house near the Mahoney-Ryan plant while attempting a landing with two friends. Casey and his friends escaped with scratches and had the wreck all cleared up and the pieces stored in a barn before daylight. Casey is having his old Ryan open plane refitted temporarily.

Work on 'Thrush' Factory Begins.

Work on the new Thrush factory of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Co., has been started. The first steel structure is being put in place and concrete foundations are being poured. The plant will be as large as the present Robin factory and will be ready in several months. The first Thrush, made on Long Island, is at the field and met with general approval in tests.

Arrangements are also being made with the Wabash Railroad for loading Curtiss-Robertson planes for shipment under cover. The present spur track is being extended and depressed and an enclosure will be constructed.

Frank Dunn Is Test Pilot.

Frank Dunn, pilot for Phil DeC. Ball, is also acting as test pilot for Ryan broughams since the departure of "Red" Harrigan for California. At present the Mahoney-Ryan plant is turning out and delivering to purchasers an average of three ships a week.

Returns From China.

Eyre Sloniger, former St. Louis mail pilot, returned home Thursday from China, where he served as survey pilot for the Curtiss expedition headed by Maj. Robertson, who preceded him to St. Louis. Sloniger says there is a wide opportunity for skilled pilots in China, which he describes as a tough country to fly over. He probably will return to the Universal Aviation Corporation as a pilot on the new Cleveland-Garden City route.

National Guard Camp.

National Guard pilots will fly seven ships to Fort Riley, Kan., next month for the annual encampment of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service.

Endurance Flyer Visits St. Louis.

Reg Robbins, pilot of the endurance plane, "Fort Worth," was a visitor at the Mahoney-Ryan plant last week, accompanied by Mrs. Robbins.

Glider Exhibitions Today.

Glider exhibitions will be given this afternoon at Lambert Field by Frank Blunk, ace of American glider pilots, and Harry Kuchina, the first licensed St. Louis glider pilot. The flights will be made in American-made gliders.

Lambert Makes 3000-Mile Tour.

Sam Lambert, who is now interested actively in the production of Velie aircraft engines, completed a 3000-mile tour in a Monocoupe last week. The final leg of the tour, from Uniontown, Pa., to Parks Airport, was made in a storm.

Four Pilots Transferred.

Julius Johannpeter, Charles Rousch, R. D. Newton and Ray Fortner, pilots who formerly operated out of Lambert Field for the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, have been transferred to the new Cleveland, O., to Garden City, Kan., route of the Universal Aviation Corporation. Johannpeter flies between Cleveland and Chicago, Rousch from Chicago to Kansas City, and Newton and Fortney from Kansas City to Garden City.

Pastor Will Fly to Wedding.

In order to attend a college reunion in Hartford, Conn., Friday and Saturday and still be able to officiate at a wedding here tomorrow, the Rev. Dr. E. S. Travers, pastor of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, 3692 Lindell boulevard, is making a portion of his journey over the Universal Air Lines. He departed from Lambert Field Thursday, traveling by plane as far as Cleveland, where he changed to a New York Central train. He will leave Hartford by train this afternoon, completing his trip by plane tomorrow.

T. A. T. Officers Land in St. Louis.

J. L. Eysmans, vice president in charge of traffic of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and five officers of the railroad and of Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., landed at Lambert Field during the week in a T. A. T. plane en route from San Francisco to New York.

Planes Carry Payroll and Radio.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. called on Pilot Elmer Linderberg of the Von Hoffmann flying staff to carry the payroll to its Carthage, Mo., employes last week. Lindenberg made the trip in an Eaglerrock Challenger, carrying two officers of the telephone company, and the money.

Pilot Brewster of the Von Hoffmann Co., made a trip to Cincinnati and return to get a new Crosley radio in connection with the aerial advertising campaign now being conducted by the Crosley organization.

Endurance Flight Sells Planes.

Three new B-5 Ryan broughams have been sold in Texas as a direct result of the endurance flight made by Reg Robbins and James Kelly in the secondhand Ryan brougham, "Fort Worth." The orders were received through W. T. Ponder, World War ace, who is Mahoney-Ryan representative in Texas and Oklahoma.

The Mahoney-Ryan Co. has established a distributor in Alabama, the Montgomery School of Aeronautics of Montgomery.

Air Schools Inspected.

A new Whirlwind Travel-Air has been added to the fleet of training planes at Parks Air College. Inspector Koerbling has completed his examination of the air college and has sent his report to headquarters for a rating for the institution. Koerbling will start in at Lambert Field this week, inspecting the Von Hoffmann and Universal schools.

Rail-Air Ceremonies Broadcast.

The ceremonies incident to the starting of rail-air service from New York to Los Angeles by the Universal Aviation Corporation and the New York Central and Santa Fe railroads Friday were broadcast over 29 radio stations. The air portion of the route, from Cleveland to Garden City, Kan., is by way of Chicago and Kansas City, following the great circle course.

Nine Barlings Sold at Show.

Youth Is Manager at Garden City.

George Rutledge, who not so long ago played hookey from school to spend more time at Lambert Field, was appointed operations manager for Universal at the new Garden City, Kan., terminus. Rutledge refused to be chased away from the flying field by persons who thought he should be in school, and eventually obtained a job with the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, later becoming assistant operations manager for the concern.

Five Qualify as Pilots.

Four students of Parks Air College qualified for licenses as limited commercial pilots during the past week after examinations by Inspector George Wiggs of the Department of Commerce. They are: Roy B. Dille of Phoenix, Ariz.; Clark W. Travis of Petoskey, Mich.; Howard C. Ross of Ingram, Pa., and Walter N. Nelson of Davis, S. D. William S. Davies of Catasauqua, Pa., qualified as a private pilot.

Plane Drops Legion Circulars.

Twelve members of the St. Charles American Legion Post made a 100-mile flight with Bob Rentz, assistant operations manager for Universal, last week, and dropped literature advertising a Legion celebration over eight towns.

Two New Instructors.

Two new instructors in the Universal school are Joseph Waldron and George Buttles. Waldron is a St. Louisan and learned to fly in the Robertson Flying School, which turned out Bud Gurney and some other experts.

Air Beacon for Marshall, Mo.

An air mail beacon will be installed at the Nicholas-Beazley Airport at Marshall, Mo. Marshall is on the St. Louis-Kansas City-Omaha route, which will have a night as well as a day schedule as soon as lights are installed.

Canadian Flyer

UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD.

Miss Grace Goulding of Toronto, was the first woman to obtain a Canadian pilot's license. She is shown just after completing one of the flying tests.

143 Millions Are Invested in 20 Aviation Concerns

During the first quarter of 1929 a total of $143,480,125 has been invested in 20 aviation companies, according to an estimate by A. O. Hunsacker, president of the Aircraft Finance Corporation.

Practically all the financing for aircraft development took place within the last two years according to Hunsacker, who places the total investment in aviation at present at approximately $300,000,000. During last March the peak of aeronautical financing was reached, the month's total being $64,500,000. The largest individual issue was $40,000,000 offered by the Aviation Corporation.

Public participation in aviation securities is large, due partly to the sponsoring of many issues by respected financial houses. The industry has been saved from local disasters by the presence on the boards of many of the new companies of experienced capitalists, in the opinion of Hunsacker

Edward S. Jordon, president of the Jordon Motor Car Co., and one of the outstanding figures in the automobile industry, will address the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association Tuesday evening at the Missouri Hotel on the subject "Salesmanship and Service, a Great Combination." Jordan is a close student of conditions affecting the industry.

Prior to the meeting, he will be a dinner guest of directors of the local association.

The J. M. Lederer Co., Inc., 3128 Locust street, has been made a De Soto dealer, it is announced by E. F. Boissevane, district manager of De Soto. The company has been in the automobile sales business here for eight years, and most of its employes have been connected with the concern the bulk of that period.

Another De Soto dealer announced is the Suburban Motor Co., Lockwood and Summit avenues, Webster Groves. William L. Massey and C. H. Glader comprise the executive personnel of the company.

R. H. Pattison, sales manager of the Berry Motor Co., Packard distributer, has received word that Packard set another sales record in May with 5400 cars delivered. Stocks of cars for retail deliveries, according to Pattison, showed a decided decrease during the month.

George B. Abbott, assistant motor truck sales manager, and H. M. Ross, district manager, of the International Harvester Co., Inc., of America, visited here last week on a tour of the territory served from St. Louis. They told F. McCarty, manager of the local distributing company, 4010 West Pine boulevard, that conditions in this vicinity are excellent for sale of trucks.

The St. Louis Auto Radiator Co., 3326 Washington boulevard, recently installed a new "boil-out" machine, consisting of a 500-gallon tank, which will clean out five radiators efficiently at once.

Edward W. Davis, for two years connected with the used car department of Midwest Motors, Inc., Chrysler distributer, has been appointed general manager of the company's used car department, it is announced by L. M. Stewart, president and general manager. Davis has been in the auto business here for 17 years. He will have charge of Midwest's two used car departments, at 3928 Locust street and 2244 South Jefferson avenue.

A new Willard service station was opened at Cape Girardeau, Mo., last week, according to C. W. Lockhart, manager of the factory branch of the Willard Storage Battery Co. here. J. A. Beug and William M. Foy are partners in the enterprise.

The Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., local distributer of Hudson and Essex cars, reports the sale of 140 cars in the first week in June. Joseph Winters of the Winters Auto Sales and Service Co., 2215 South Broadway, is leading in the sales contest being conducted by the Hudson Motor Car Co., in the Metropolitan St. Louis district. The Midway Motor Co. of Steelville, Mo., led the wholesale group.

Word was received here by the General Tire Co. of St. Louis, 3400 Washington boulevard, that an "aerial armada," composed of eight cabin monoplanes, will start a six months' country-wide flight from Akron, O., in a few days, in the interests of the company.

Sales of Kelly-Springfield tires has trebled in the last four years, according to F. R. Harris, manager of the local branch of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co.

The Perfect Construction Co., 4025 West Pine boulevard, which has built 500 garages in the past year, is using one of its display windows for an office and states the arrangement is proving satisfactory.

Maj. Robert E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, was the guest of the Automobile Service Improvement Association of Springfield, Ill., Thursday. He spoke on the topic, "Associated Effort Is Vital."

A reorganization with the object of placing representatives in 11 counties of Missouri, travel offices in many towns and of adding to the 242 emergency road service garages already operating, is announced by Matthew F. Morse, general manager of the Automobile Club of Missouri. The new plan, decided upon at a conference of representatives of the club over the State Wednesday, will be acted on by directors soon.

Proprietors of the emergency road stations of the Automobile Club voted at a meeting at Hotel Roosevelt Thursday to co-operate in the Missouri "Save-a-Life" safety campaign now under way. Club garages act as official testing stations all over the State.

The Kiel Automobile Co., with Clarence Y. Kiel, son of the former Mayor, as president, has started business at 3021 North Grand boulevard, and will handle Whippet and Willys-Knight cars on a dealer basis. Lou Griesedieck is sales manager and William Beckmann service manager. The establishment opened yesterday, beautifully decorated by C. Harold Fitt-, a local interior decorator.

Two Committees Study Highway Subjects This Week

he receives it from the manufacturer.

These two meetings are viewed as having paramount importance. This importance also is truly national in scope, since the conclusions that will be reached will be presented as recommendations to the National Safety Conference, and will be offered finally by that body to the entire country for adoption.

Charles M. Upham, executive secretary and director of the American Road Builders' Association, has returned from a trip to Cleveland, Chicago and Milwaukee, where regional meetings were held to inform the membership in those sections of the work and program of the association.

At these gatherings, Upham outlined the history of the association and explained the divisions which have been formed. He told also of the activity of its committees, the latest of which is the municipal airports committee, designed to study the location and planning of municipal landing fields with regard to their accessibility and correctness of design. Another division to which attention was directed is the Pan-American division which was formed to promote the highway systems of Central and South America.

Upham states that everywhere he heard sentiment strongly in favor of the application of the gasoline tax funds to road construction and maintenance. Emphatic opposition was voiced, he said, to diversion of this money to any other purpose.

The American Road Builders' Association, according to the director, is committed to a program for widening highways, and will push it with vigor. From the standpoint of heightening safety, they recommend a road width of 20 feet if it is to accommodate two lanes of traffic, and 40 feet if there are to be four lanes. These widths are exclusive of parking. If that is to be permitted, then, it is held, the roadway should be proportionately wider in every instance.

It is the purpose of the association to continue its campaign to educate the public to look upon road construction as a sound public investment that pays many times the dividends of many another investment.

While on the subject of road specifications, they have been rather precisely formulated by the American Association of State Highway Officials. From its headquarters in Washington recommenations concerning highway design have just been issued.

The association advises that roads having an average daily present traffic in excess of 4000 vehicles be designed with more than two traffic lanes of pavement. Roads having an average daily present traffic between 1200 and 4000 vehicles, not more than 10 per cent of which is truck traffic, it is declared, should be designed with two traffic lanes, generally paved. Where the average daily traffic volume is less than 1200 vehicles, not more than 10 per cent of which is truck traffic, it is recommended that the design shall contemplate two traffic lanes having some type of weather surfacing.

For the maximum degree of curvature for horizontal curves having central angles of 45 degrees or more, the association recommends a variation of 5 to 11 degrees.

Superelevation of curves also is recommended, by this is meant, of course, raising the outer portion of the road at the curve. In racetrack design this is spoken of as banking. On the modern board track the curves have been banked as high as 50 degrees, which means that the track surface is raised at slightly more than a right angle to the ground. The association's recommendation calls for maximum superelevation of one inch for each foot of pavement width, with a minimum of one-seventh inch for each foot of pavement width.

Light-weight wooden guard fences also are objected to, the association believing that they should be prohibited.

Separation of highway grades from railroads is urged wherever practicable, the minimum subway width for the roadway to be 30 feet in the clear; and no center piers to be used in subways except for widths in excess of 44 feet, with additional provision for sidewalks when required.

Washington recently witnessed the amusing transformation of a police escort into a pursuit, not for law enforcement purposes, but just so the officers could keep up with the procession.

Glenn H. Curtiss, noted aviator and inventor, after he was delayed several hours by storms in Virginia, wired to Washington asking for a police escort through the city to enable him to make up some of the time he lost on the test run of his newly designed aerocar from Miami to New York.

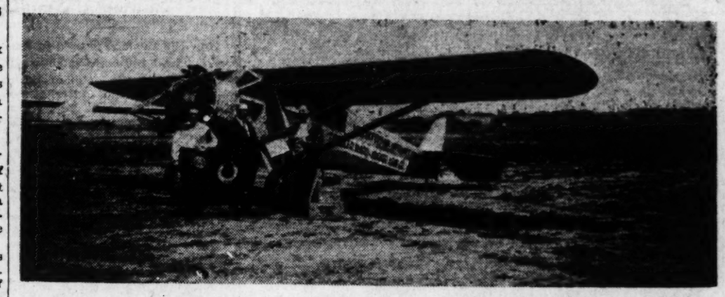
Pontiac Division Created in Canada By General Motors

That the new Pontiac big six is proving as popular outside of the domestic market as at home is evidenced by the creation of a separate sales division for this car by General Motors of Canada.

Previously the Pontiac sales division was associated with that of another General Motors Inc., but under the new management a separate set-up has been established for the car under active direction of E. R. Birchard.

Expansion of the Pontiac sales organization, according to J. H. Beaton, general sales manager of General Motors of Canada, Ltd., who created the new division, became necessary because the volume of Pontiac sales has increased rapidly since the car sprang into immediate popularity upon its introduction three years ago.

Fifty-nine Distributors Use Planes to Get Sample Sets



One of the 59 planes which were sent by Crosley radio distributers from all over the country to the plant at Cincinnati, O., the last week, to get samples of the new Crosley receivers. This particular plane has just landed at Lambert Field, St. Louis, with a receiver for the Geller, Ward & Hasner Hardware Co. after a fast round trip to Cincinnati. R. J. Lickiss, general sales manager of Geller, Ward & Hasner, is standing at the left. In the center is H. W. Geller, president. At the right is E. Wessel, salesman, who made the plane trip as representative of the firm.

Illinois General Assembly Target Of Bus Owners

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 16.—Characterizing its bus and truck legislation struggles with the General Assembly as the hardest fought battle of the session, the Illinois Motor Transportation Association has announced adjournment of the Legislature to its members with "mingled feelings of satisfaction and immense relief."

"With the exception of the gas tax," the association bulletin says, our taxes are not increased.

"We can operate our motor coaches at a speed of 40 miles an hour, as soon as Gov. Emmerson signs Senate Bill No. 279."

Illinois bus operators were saved thousands of dollars during the past session through the efforts of the association and allied interests, the bulletin said. "It was a hard fought fight but we are satisfied with the results."

Looking Over the New Cars

It is true, of course, that aluminum pistons far outnumber cast iron in today's automobiles. However, the truth is scarcely a universal one; indicating quite an honest, perhaps aggressive, difference of engineering opinion. The whole General Motors line uses cast iron and the engineers are backed up by those of Hupmobile, Erskine, Locomobile and Stearns-Knight.

Taxable horsepower and brake horsepower are something that many a car owner tries hard to keep straight without success. The Dodge six and the Dodge Senior offer an interesting case in point. Both are identical in rated horsepower, with 27.3. The smaller car, however, develops only 58 horsepower against the 78 of the larger model. There is a difference of 33 cubic inches in the size of the engines.

The American car buyer has one big advantage that the Briton would like to duplicate. Over here, from Ford and Durant up to Stearns-Knight and the other expensive cars, chronium plating is standard. Only one British car equals this. Others will give the customer chromium plating, but they charge extra for it.

One of the happy things about the 1929 automobiles is that adjustability of front seats is confined to no price realm. From Chevrolet to Cadillac, with very few exceptions in between, the seats can be fitted to the driver.

Individual car designations are common. Packard has its club sedan; Nash its Ambassador, Locomobile its Suburban. Lincoln, in one of its models, combines the old with the new and the result sounds nice; namely its touring-speedster.

The metallurgy of automobiles undergoes some striking shifts from year to year. For instance, Auburn this year is using steel connecting rods. Last year duraluminum was used. The change was made in the interest of obtaining closer bearing fit, according to the engineers.

Listening to cars is frequently an interesting pastime. The observer, turning listener for a moment, to a very expensive foreign creation that recently stopped beside him in traffic. From the sound it seemed that a great deal could have been done to the valves.

How do four-speed transmissions affect speeds? The question is one that is frequently asked. The observer knows of one instance in which the car is just as fast, regardless of whether the transmission his three or four speeds. The engine, however, is not turning so fast at high car speeds.

The practice of giving the overall length of the car, followed by Chrysler for some time, has another convert. It is the Roosevelt. In the case of the two other Marmon products, the old-fashioned and more widely employed system is used.

Apparently the more numerous the uses that can be found for chromium plating, the better the public is satisfied. It certainly adds snap to the appearance of rims these days.

In looking over the cars generally, how many ever have thought of the number of spark plugs they "consumed?" One company is planning to make 50,000,000 this year.

They must be very literal minded people, these engineers who produce our automobiles. A specimen is provided by the wheelbase length figures of Hudson. The figures are 122 7-16 inches. It would not have made any difference to the prospective buyer, perhaps, if the "rounded" number 122½ had been used. It would, however, if the industry showed a disposition to deal so loosely with one-sixteenth of an inch in bearing clearances, for instance.

Chromium plating has been mentioned so many times in connection with automobiles that it may be regarded as the only other kind of plating extant in motor making. In the Lincoln, cadmium plating as a rust preventive is generously used. Bolts, nuts, screws, washers, cotter pins, and parts of the brakes and chassis are liberally treated to this protection.

Price tags certainly are no criterion of the speed at which the engine under the hood is capable of turning. The three engines with the highest revolutions per minute speed in American stock cars all turn 3600 at their peak. They are the Essex, Studebaker Commander and the Auburn 120. They represent three distinct price classes about as definitely as possible.

Speaking of cars with a foreign appearance, the Willys-Knight great six should qualify. Th coupe looks very much as if it has come right out of England's best known body tailoring establishments.

While the passenger car owner continues to think in terms of three-speed and four-speed gearsets, the truck driver has as many as eight possible choices of gear combinations.

Here's an easy way to tell the difference between the Pierce-Arrow lines: The large one has small doors in the hood, the smaller has louvers.

Survey Shows Cars From Other States Use No. 40

Heavy Travel Noted by Auto Club Between Boonville and St. Charles.

That the 1929 trek of the present-day American across the prairies of Missouri has set in in mass formation was indicated by a traffic check made last week on U. S. Highway No. 40 between Boonville, Mo., and St. Charles by a group of officials of the Automobile Club of Missouri. The check indicates that nonresidents of Missouri are paying a big part of the Missouri highway construction bill through the 2-cent gasoline tax.

Westbound traffic was checked between 8 and 11 a. m. and showed that virtually half of the cars on No. 40 were from states as far away as New York, Florida, California and even some of the provinces of Canada.

Eastbound traffic was checked between 2 and 5 p. m. and showed that every third car on the highway was likewise from a distant point.

The westbound traffic in the morning consisted of 192 Missouri passenger cars, busses and trucks, and 183 out-state passenger cars. Eastbound traffic in the afternoon showed 246 out-state cars with approximately twice that number of Missouri vehicles.

Based on complications by the Highway Department, modified by recent observations of increasing traffic through Missouri as a result of nation-wide publicity given Missouri's good roads by the passage of the $75,000,000 road bond issue, it is estimated by the Automobile Club that nonresident motorists will pay into the road fund through their gasoline taxes a sum in excess of $3,000,000.

This staggering sum will be multiplied many times to make the total amount that tourists are expected to spend in Missouri this year. Conservative estimates place the figure between $80,000,000 and $100,000,000.

Local weather conditions in various parts of the State have impeded the progress of the highway department maintenance forces in placing State roads in prime condition for travel, but a review of road reports from the entire State shows roads mostly in good condition. In the western part, on Highway No. 71, there are in effect five detours around construction work and as a result traffic between Joplin and Kansas City is being routed from Joplin to Pittsburg, Fort Scott, Iola and Lawrence, Kan., and from there into Kansas City. This is about 100 miles further than over No. 71, but it is over a hard surface highway all the way.

Bear Heaviest Strains.

That spring bolts and clips occasionally need tightening, especially when the car is new, is no cause for surprise. The springs are constantly subjected to heavy strains and are in motion continually when the car is being used. Naturally this tends to loosen the nuts on both clips and U-bolts. Too much looseness may mean leaf breakage.

Use of Planes in Fighting Malaria Shown at Seville

How the airplane is used to fight the malarial mosquito is shown in an exhibit of the United States Government at the International Exposition at Seville.

The method of fighting the mosquito is demonstrated through a plastic model and photographs featured in the display of the United States Public Health Service. The display is housed in the building erected by our Government to be used as the home of the American Consul after the exposition closes.

On a table in the center of one of the rooms is a glass case enclosing a model showing the distribution of Paris green by airplane, over a valley, pools and swamps, in a campaign against the malarial mosquito. Above are photographs showing airplanes performing this service.

The Public Health Service also exhibits a model depicting the construction of a safe and sanitary well, with concrete top, covered curb, tight stonework, sanitary vault and clean bottom. Above this model is a large colored chart illustrating the water bearing strata beneath a farmhouse and stable, showing how the seepage could reach an unsafe well and increase the danger of typhoid.

"Cruising" Speed Of Automobiles Important Factor

There is a much-stressed specification in connection with airplanes that many think might well be used for automobiles. It is "cruising speed."

The cruising speed of an airplane under normal conditions is the pace at which the plane runs at its best with the least hardship on the engine, the smallest possible strain on the fuselage and wings, the greatest gasoline economy, the most pleasing degree of smoothness and similar desirable qualities. Usually it is attained at about "three-quarters throttle."

Whether the motorist is conscious of the fact or not, his automobile has a cruising speed also it is true of all cars. The characteristic is one which all automotive vehicles have in common, motor cars as much as airplanes motor boats as much as automobiles.

Of course it is not possible for the automobile driver to make as much use of his vehicle's cruising speed as it is for the airplane or motor boat pilots. There are no arbitrary speed limits, to say to stay the hand on the throttle of the air and water vehicles. Traffic congestion does not interfere every street intersection.

However, if the motorist is given an unrestricted opportunity to drive at his car's cruising speed at least he has numerous opportunities to do so which he frequently overlooks, with the result that he drives either above or below the most satisfying speed.

Motorists Should Exercise Care in Preventing Fires

crossings. In both cases certain rules should be observed.

Gasoline fires usually spread panic. The average person has such an unreasonable dread of a gasoline fire that he loses his head and either runs away and lets the car burn or grabs some ineffective weapon with which to fight the fire.

When fire starts, be sure to turn off the gasoline at the tank to stop feeding the flames. All parts of the carburetor are metal and will not be easily harmed. It is a good idea to use the self-starter. Thus, by turning over the engine, you draw the flames down through the manifold. Sometimes the fire can be put out in this way.

If the oil that has accumulated in the drip pan takes fire, this fire should be put out first. If it is allowed to burn it will continue to ignite the gasoline at the bottom of the carburetor. If you keep the drip pan clean you cut down the danger of fire.

Sand is fairly effective against gasoline fires, but sand will cause much trouble if you get it in the carburetor or other parts of your motor. The old method of smothering a fire with a rug is good, but an extinguisher is a better method, surer and quicker. Don't throw water on burning gasoline. As gasoline is heavier than water, water only spreads the flames. Be sure to put out cigarettes and turn off the ignition when stopping at a station for gasoline.

Good Mixture.

Carburetor mixtures necessarily must vary. An average one, however, is in the vicinity of 15 or 16 to 1; meaning of course 15 parts of air to one of gasoline.

PLANE TO HELP SOLVE PROBLEMS OF CHINA

New Lines Provided by Contracts Expected to Help Unify Nation.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, June 15.—China, or at least the Nationalist Government, is rapidly becoming air-minded. Talk of aviation as a short cut to real unification of the far-flung country is heard on all sides, especially in political circles in Nanking and in commercial circles here. Under this influence, plans for improvement in the slow, costly railway and water routes are being set aside.

Plans for air lines to almost every corner of the country, calling for transportation of mails, passengers and express matter, are in the making. Some of them are expected to become realities by mid-September. Others, it is hoped, will materialize by January, 1930.

The biggest step in this direction yet made was the recent signing of a 10-year contract between the Nanking Government and Aviation Exploration, Inc., of New York, a Curtiss concern. It calls for the opening by Sept. 15 of air mail routes from Nanking west to Hankow, north to Pekin, east to Shanghai and south to Canton.

U. S. Pilots in Charge.

The contract stipulates that the services are to be American operated and maintained with American planes and American pilots until Chinese can be trained to take over the work. In furtherance of this design, the company is empowered to operate flying schools and to open a factory for airplanes when the demand for machines becomes sufficient to absorb the output.

Furthermore, the company has carte blanche to run passenger and express planes of its own separately from the air mail service of the Government. These additional routes may be laid out to any points which the Americans may select.

Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Co. of St. Louis, who, in conjunction with Commander Roland Riggs, legal representative of Aviation Exploration, Incorporated, signed the contract, believes that planes will reduce China to one-third its present size in terms of mileage.

The program is hailed by commercial leaders, both Chinese and foreign. They assert that concerns with head offices in Shanghai and interests in other centers can work on a scale hitherto impossible because of the slow and uncertain mail and telegraph services.

An Aid to Good Government.

Nanking politicians see in the air plans a short cut to the increased industrialization which they seek. They also appreciate that rapid and more certain communication will aid the Nanking administration in establishing its authority in outlying sections and make for faster progress in the establishment of a strong "all China" government.

Maj. Robertson indicated before he sailed for home that the passenger and express lines at first will closely parallel the Government mail routes. But ultimately they intend to tap the faraway Province of Szechuen, whose chief cities are Chungking, on the Yangtze, and Chengtu, capital of the Province. These places are more than 1000 miles and almost directly west of Shanghai. On the way to them the air lines would reach a dozen other cities which are commercial centers for huge areas.

It is also possible that Americans may open routes into Southwest China, linking up the chief points in the Provinces of Hunan, Kweichow, Kwangsi and Yunnan. Business in those areas has been sadly handicapped by poor communications with seaports. Service into Northwest China, by way of Hankow and Pekin, also are being considered.

Contract Not a Monopoly.

But nothing in the shape of a monopoly was granted by this liberal contract. The Government carefully reserved the right to make similar agreements with other companies and British, French and German air interests are active in various parts of the country.

One of the most recent orders called for delivery of seven Junker land machines, almost exact duplicates of the plane in which Baron von Huenefeld, Capt. Hermann Koehl and Col. James Fitzmaurice made the first westward crossing of the Atlantic. These machines are being assembled in Shanghai. It was reported that they were slated for Gen. Fenk Yu-hsiang in Honan Province. Some amphibian Junkers also are reported to have been sold.

British makers of the Moth planes are developing a market hereabouts. The French makers have not sold many planes in this section, but they have disposed of an appreciable number in South China.

OPERA OFFENDS POLISH POLICE

Bribe-Taking Song Removed in "Beggar's Opera."

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, June 15.—Professional dignity has caused the Polish police to register a haughty protest against the Warsaw production of the "Beggar's Opera," in which British policemen are humorously characterized and shown accepting bribes.

Polish guardians of the law, it was explained, are trained by the British forces and they consequently felt the offense keenly. The opera director was forced to dress the policemen in civilian clothes and omit the "bribe song."

WAR MOTHERS LIST WOMEN ELIGIBLE FOR OVERSEAS TRIP

Those With Husbands or Sons Buried Abroad as War Victims Should Submit Names.

In preparation for the free pilgrimage of St. Louis' contingent of World War widows and Gold Star mothers to France next year, the local chapter of American War Mothers is drawing up a list of those eligible. All mothers or stepmothers and widows of American soldiers, sailors or marines buried in France are to submit their names to Mrs. R. J. Leacock, 4615 Lindell boulevard, president of the local War Mothers' organization.

The Butler bill, authorizing the trip, was signed by President Coolidge last March, and provides for a pilgrimage to American cemeteries overseas at Government expense. The mothers and widows are to be taken in groups, each group to remain abroad approximately two weeks and in no case longer than three, unless return transportation is unavailable. Widows are restricted to those who have not remarried.

First-class accommodations will be provided on chartered ships. Passports will be arranged by the State Department and immigration laws will be suspended in the case of aliens. Pending receipt of the nation-wide list by the American War Mothers' organization in Washington, D. C., for submission to the War Department by July 1, plans for the pilgrimage are incomplete.

It is estimated that approximately 3000 mothers from throughout the country will make the trip. There are approximately 30,000 American soldiers, sailors and marines buried in Europe. St. Louis service men who lost their lives in action or through disease while abroad number 474.

ENGLISH BUTLERS SHOW LITTLE INTEREST IN ART EXHIBIT

"What a Lot of Cleaning That Would Take," Says One of Large Wine Bowl.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 15.—An English butler's idea of a day off seems to be to attend an exhibition of old silver.

Hundreds of stately butlers took advantage of a half-rate for butlers recently at the Queen Charlotte's exhibition at Seaford house, the home of Lord Howard de Walden. They listened intently to an expert who traced the romantic history of heavy pomanders and chatelaines, of fanciful tazzas, and of intricately traced porringers.

No flicker of the eyelash indicated that the gentlemen of the pantry were impressed. The only comment was from one who, picking up a huge wine bowl said:

"My word, what a lot of cleaning that would take."

ROME GROWING TOO FAST; SEEKS TO BAR COUNTRY FOLK

Rural Newcomers Are Sent Home Unless They Have Jobs or Families in City.

By the Associated Press.

ROME.—The Eternal City is waxing so strong in population as to prove an embarrassment to the Government. Despite the comprehensive regulations of the Fascist regime against wholesale movements to the city, the flow of countrymen into the capital is more than twice what it was only five years ago.

The "Capitolium," the monthly review of the Governor of Rome, in considering this problem at some length, reveals that in the last fiscal year Rome's populace was augmented by 29,164. In 1923 the number was only 18,456. Experts predict that if this keeps up Rome will have a million and a half inhabitants in 50 years. The population now is 876,571.

The "Capitolium," however, believes that the influx of country people will gradually diminish, as stringent laws are extended and applied. In Italy every citizens is required to have a "tessera," or identification card. If a small townsman or farmer leaves his district he is promptly sent back unless he can show that he has a job in the city for which he is qualified, that he is a professional man, of that his family lives in the city.

WORK TO START ON CHURCH

Grand Avenue Methodist Structure to Be Razed.

Work on the new Grand Avenue Southern Methodist Church at Grace and Fairview avenues, the site selected after the recent sale of the old church at Grand boulevard and Connecticut street will begin this week, as will the razing of the old structure. Work on the new church has been delayed six weeks by labor troubles. It is estimated it will be ready in about three months.

The services Sunday were the last to be held in the old building and until completion of the new structure they will be held in Rubicam Hall, Grand boulevard and Potomac street. As was told some time ago in the Post-Dispatch, the old site was sold for $95,000, as the church was desiring to move to avoid the noise of Grand boulevard.

Troop Notes

North District.

Plans for an overnight hike to be taken during the latter part of the month were discussed by the scouts of Troop 3, of the Grace Holy Cross Church, at the regular meeting last week. Scout Herbert Wollberg outlined the plans to the 10 scouts, four officials, and two visitors who were present at the meeting. Scoutmaster Simons led in a discussion of the scout motto, salute sign and other similar phases of scouting.

Two new scouts, Lean Barne and Phillip Beckett, have joined Troop 69 of St. Elizabeth's Church. This meeting also marked the opening of a new headquarters room for the scouts, a separate room in the church, hereafter to be known as the Scout Room, having been set aside for the troop's use. The scouts formerly met in the men's club room.

A series of talks on the 12 Scout laws has been begun by Assistant Scoutmaster Dixon. The first law, "A Scout is Trustworthy," was dealt with at the meeting, while "A Scout is Loyal" will be discussed at the next meeting. Troop Committeeman Joseph Micheau gave a short talk on the progress of the troop.

Six scouts of Troop 206 of the Ames School, passed their 14-mile hike test last Sunday, on a hike to some woods in the county. They were Scouts Ernst Grote, Harold Cameron, Omer Muscof, William Morse, Mifred Taylor and Leonard Robertson. Scouts Robertson, Muscoff and Morse also passed their first-class cooking test. The hike was also taken by Scoutmaster Herzog.

The Wolf patrol is leading an inter-patrol contest being conducted by the troop, while the Eagles are trailing by 60 points. Scout William Morse has signed for a section at Camp Irondale this summer. Prof. W. H. Wilcox, principal of the Ames School, has offered a prize to the scout of the troop who amasses the greatest numbe rof points by the end of June.

South District.

Study and practice in signaling and the use of the compass were held at the regular meeting of Troop 105 at the Assumption School last week. An inspection was also conducted. The meeting was opened with a flag ceremony. A hike planned for last week-end was postponed on account of rain, but will be held within the next two weeks.

Permission to use a tract of woodland near West Alton for a permanent camp site was obtained by the scouts of Troop 217, of the Southampton Presbyterian Church, while on a hike to that place last Sunday. The permission was obtained during a chance conversation between Scoutmaster Tietjens and the owner of the property while the scouts were passing tests. The tract contains 15 acres of woods located on a stream suitable for fishing and swimming. Plans are already being made by the troop to build log cabins and a road into the camp site from the highway.

The hike started at 6 o'clock, with the intention of catching an 8:16 train at Prospect Hill, reached by hiking a mile and a half from the carline. The train, however, left half an hour early, and Troop Committeeman Newell was forced to hire a truck, in which the trip was finally accomplished. Several first and second-class cooking tests were passed by the scouts.

A leather handicraft exhibit, containing 102 articles made by scouts of the troop, was held by Troop 232 at the Blow School a week ago Friday evening. The articles were explained to the visitors, most of them parents of the boys, by Scoutmaster C. E. Smith. A visiting scoutmaster from another troop received permission to exhibit the articles to his scouts.

BOY SCOUTS PRESESNT PLAY IN INDIAN SIGN LANGUAGE

Troop 77 Provides Interpretation in Pantomime at Tyler Place Church.

A play presented in the Indian sign language with pantomimic interpretation was given by Boy Scouts of Troop 77 before an audience of parents and friends recently at Tyler Place Presbyterian Church. The play, wits its proper signs, was worked out by Senior Patrol Leader Richard Buch, who also directed its production.

Following a prologue showing an Indian brave on a mountain top calling a council of chiefs by means of smoke signals, the play opens with the chiefs gathered around a council fire for a powwow.

A scout dashed into the camp with stories of wrongs inflicted upon the Indians by white persons. As each detail is told in the sign language, it is acted out on the opposite side of the stage under a dim light, which fades when each tale is concluded.

Enraged by the wrongs, the Indians decide to go on the warpath. The war dance starts, but another scout appears and tells how wil the whites have treated his people. When he finishes, the council decides to remain at peace with the white men.

PREPARING FOR ROVING CAMP

63 Scouts at Irondale Reservation for Three Days.

Sixty-three Boy Scouts, most of them from St. Louis troops, but with a sprinkling from New Cochelle, N. Y., Lincoln, Neb., left St. Louis Friday afternoon for the Irondale reservation for three days' preparation for a 24-day bus tour to Washington, New York City and Niagara Falls. The scouts are members of the St. Louis Boy Scout Roving Camp, developed three years ago by the local scout council as the first official scout camp on wheels.

The Roving Camp this year, as last, is headed by M. D. Shippey, field executive of the South District, and for ten years camp director of the Des Moines, Ia., scout council. He will be assisted by Carl Laemmli of the headquarters staff, and Dr. C. E. Colgate, camp physician of the council. The campers will return to St. Louis July 8.

HAITIANS DENOUNCE STORIES ABOUT CANNIBALISM THERE

Voodooism Is Mild and Rare, They Say, Partly Due to Sentences on Chain Gang.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti.—Representations have been made to the State Department at Washington, backed by indorsements from Americans and other foreigners resident in Haiti, against tales of voodistic cannibalism in this republic.

These stories have been denounced by government officials, press and public as mere fantasy. Voodooism, they assert, exists in only mild form in a few remote villages and there has been no authenticated case of cannibalism in the island since the early '60's.

One of the most efficacious methods of overcoming the cult was the system of arresting the "bocors" or "witch doctors," dressing them in convict clothes and putting them to work in chain gangs. The sight of the humiliation of these formerly dreaded persons, laboring under the eye of an armed guard, quickly reassured the poor country people.

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man, June 15.—A new Admiral for the Manx herring fleet, an Admiral who will draw only $25 a year, has been named by the Lieutenant-Governor of this island.

It is a small fleet now, but half a century ago Peel Harbor was packed so closely with the herring vessels that a man could walk the length and breadth of the port from deck to deck.

The herring Admiral's duties are to guide the fleet to the fishing grounds and to signal the raising and lowering of the nets.

WLS Seeks 50,000 Watt Station Permit

sioner Caldwell fought so sturdily in season and out.

The feeling in Washington seems to be that eventually no station will be able to hold a cleared channel with less than 25,000 to 50,000 watts power.

Radio supervisors throughout the country have been directed by the Commission to make a careful monthly check and survey of the effect of high powered broadcasting on reception of programs on adjacent stations. Their reports are to deal especially with the "blanketing" of nearby channels, both in the vicinity of the high powered stations and also at a distance.

While the Radio Commission voted down three to two, the proposal to take a cleared wave from each of the five zones for experiments in synchronization by high powered stations, the effort to turn over cleared waves for the benefit of local or regional stations is by no means ended. In effect, the vote was only a postponement of the proposal, which is regarded as sure to be renewed in the fall. Indeed, as has been told, a cleared channel is to be by the Commission's engineers for a test of synchronization. This has precipitated another fight, for each of the five commissioners is loath to see his zone lose a cleared wave.

Commissioner Sykes has wanted to use the 830 kc. channel, which is assigned exclusively to KOA, Denver, by giving it also to WAPI, Birmingham, Ala. KOA uses 12,000 watts and WAPI, 5000 watts. If he could do that, he would avoid a decision in the fight started by KVOO, for the channel assigned to KWKH, the Henderson station at Shreveport, La., and WWL, New Orleans, La. For he could give KVOO full time on the 1140 kc. wave it now has to share with WAPI.

Commissioner La Fount, naturally, is opposed to such a move. His zone—the Fifth—already has lost a cleared channel—the one originally assigned exclusively to KGO, Oakland, Cal., but now shared on a full-time basis by that station and WGY, Schenectady, under a court decision. He remarks that now his zone has seven cleared channels, as against eight for each of the other zones, and would have only six if Sykes' plan went through.

France Plans Wireless Service.

The sum of $1,600,000 has been set aside by the French Government for two short-wave wireless telegraph services between France and Algeria, and France and North and South America.

Here and There on The Air

THE "Gypsy Tenor," who has sung every week for a year with the A & P Gypsies over KSD and allied NBC stations, is Oliver Smith, who first won attention by his singing in St. Louis before he was 20 years old. After the war he sang as a soloist in a church in Washington, D. C. He later broadcasted from stations in St. Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Chicago. Going to New York, he was engaged for the Gypsies broadcasts. Because he lacked a national reputation, he was billed as the "Gypsy Tenor."

Ford and Glenn (Ford Rush and Glenn Rowell), nationally known radio singers and entertainers, are to take a partner. Gene of the team of Jack and Gene is to join them Aug. 19 for a month of broadcasting from WLW, Cincinnati. Ford and Glenn first attracted attention by their children's programs over WLS, Chicago, in which they always sang "Lullaby Time." Jack and Gene are Jack Grady and Gene Carroll. They also first won fame over WLS. In addition to broadcasting, the three are planning a vaudeville tour. The Jack and Gene team broke up because Jack is the victim of throat trouble which necessitates rest for at least a year.

Harry Ainsworth Dawson, who is No. 54,763 in the Ohio Penitentiary, hopes to sing his way out of prison. He is the Harry of "Harry and Roy" on WAIU, Columbus, O., and has sung his song, "I'm Just a Black Sheep," over the radio many times.

Dawson, serving for robbery, intends to become a professional song writer, he says, when—and if—he is pardoned. His freedom may not be easily won, however, as four other sets of officials also want to see him when he leaves the Ohio prison.

Once a month an NBC studio engineer rigs up a microphone for Olive Palmer so that she may see the volume meter on the control panel and hear herself through a speaker as she sings. By this means she is able to determine the proper volume and distance from the microphone for singing certain passages.

When Dr. S. Parks Cadman broadcasts Sunday afternoons he preaches from a special pulpit stand. His sermons are from notes and his answers to questions from the radio audience are extemporaneous. He usually inquires of announcers, operators and others around the studios whether they have been in church that day. He always smiles when one answers "yes."

Gus and Louie, the garage partners in the Schradertown broadcasts over KSD are played by Arthur B. Allen and Louis Mason, both well-known on Broadway.

Mason is a Kentuckian whose original leaning toward the Methodist ministry was soon forgotten when he found that he was cut out for the comedy stage. Allen was born in Gowonda, N. Y., and headed for New York City as soon as he was old enough to register at a dramatic school there, later playing stock in Detroit with Jessie Bonstelle.

Mason and Allen have teamed together on the air as Jeff and Andy in the NBC Retold Tales series of O. Henry stories, and Allen is now a member of the Soconyland Players. Their stage careers before they came into radio include Allen's first part with Forbes-Robertson as walk-on man and general understudy, and his leading character parts in New York productions and tours with Lou Tellegen. Mason has had important character-comedy parts in shows under the direction of David Belasco and Fanny Brice.

The Schradertown village Sheriff is known on the phonograph talkie records as Harry Humphreys. The temperamental Widow Biddle is played by Jane Houston, formerly leading woman with John Drew, Porter Hall, who plays the bandmaster, Pop Hall, was a "character lead" in last season's "Night Hostess."

Josef Koestner, who directs Williams' Syncomatics in their weekly broadcasts, had years of experience on the continent before coming to this country. He studied at the Leipzig Conservatory and conducted European orchestras. His classical experience, he says, is a great aid in imparting symphonic grace and body to catchy popular tunes.

When playing as the Chancellor orchestra in the NBC studios, Vincent Lopez and his musicians all wear evening clothes or tuxedos. Occasionally they appear at the studio in blue coats and white flannel trousers. Lopez says that formal dress and spic and span grooming make for good morale and that discipline is even more vital for a radio orchestra than in the case of a band that is seen as well as heard.

B. A. Rolfe, conductor of the Lucky Strike dance orchestra, at one time played the cornet in the "rag opera" of a small circus.

Morton Downey, tenor, who has sung with the Earl Orchestradians over KWK, first won notice with Paul Whiteman's orchestra. He has toured Europe and has successful appearances in Paris, London and Berlin to his credit. He has his own night club in New York, the Casanova. Downey had a leading part in "Syncopation," one of the first music and dialogue screen productions, appeared in "Mother's Boy," and is to have a part in another talkie.

Zion City Station On Air Again Soon

By the Associated Press.

ZION CITY, Ill.—After seven months of silence, Zion's radio station, WCBD, will be heard again June 22.

Meanwhile it is to resume broadcasting on the new wave assigned by the Radio Commission, 1080 kilocycles (277.6 meters), with programs on Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, starting June 23.

Radio Trade Notes

There will be a showing of the new AC Dayton "Navigator" receivers at a meeting of dealers in this territory next Thursday. The Barrett Electrical Supply Co., distributer, will be host at the meeting and dinner to follow. Among the speakers will be Robert W. Bennett, former president of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association, who now is general sales manager of the A C Dayton Co., Dayton, O. J. H. Gerhard, president, and W. H. Newton, sales manager of the Barrett Electrical Supply Co.

Bosch tubes, made by the American Bosch Magneto Corporation for its own receivers and for general use, have just made their appearance in St. Louis. The line of tubes is complete, comprising all AC and battery types.

The three new Bosch receiver models all have been engineered to the new Bosch AC screen grid tubes, although any make of such tubes can be used in the sets. All the new Bosch receivers use the same seven-tube chassis, in which three tubes are the screen grid type, while the detector tube is a 27 type. There is only one audio stage, and that has two of the new 45 type super power tubes in push-pull.

The detector is of the so-called biased "power" kind, which has the carrying capacity to handle the input from the three screen grid tubes and then pass on a signal strong enough to operate the push-pull stage with great volume. Using a single push-pull audio stage has certain advantages in the lessening of noise and troubles from feed-back. Shielding in these sets is unusually thorough.

Bosch also is making its own speakers, which include a new electric dynamic type that is built into the console models and also may be used with a table receiver, and a new magnetic type. The new dynamic has exceptionally good characteristics.

Distributers from 50 of the principle cities in this country traveled in airplanes to Cincinnati the past week to obtain samples of the new Crosley receivers, then flew back to their headquarters. It was the most ambitious mass airplane delivery of merchandise yet attempted. The planes landed at the Lunken Airport in Cincinnati, and sets were rushed from the Crosley factory assembly line to the planes, so that these could take off at once on the return trips.

Representatives of the Geller, Ward & Hasner Hardware Co., the St. Louis Crosley distributer, chartered an airplane and made the round trip to Cincinnati. In the Ohio city they obtained their sample receiver and were given a letter from Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, complimenting the firm on its foresight and spirit of co-operation.

The St. Louis plane left Lambert Field Tuesday, piloted by William Brewster of the Von Hoffman Aircraft Corporation, and carrying E. Wessell of the sales department of Geller, Ward & Hasner, as passenger. On its return to Lambert Field, the plane was met by H. W. Geller, president, and R. J. Lickiss, general sales manager, of Geller, Ward & Hasner, and there was quite a reception for the new Crosley set, which was taken to the firm's downtown headquarters for inspection by Crosley dealers.

The Crosley Radio Corporation is to hook up its own 50,000-watt station, WLW, with WLS, Chicago, and WOR, Newark, N. J., Tuesday night, at 7 o'clock St. Louis time, for a gala program to announce the new receiver.

There will be a musical program by the WLW symphony orchestra, a variety orchestra, a specialty group, a vocal trio, soloists, an organ and a mixed chorus. Powel Crosley Jr., owner of the station, is to talk briefly on the year's developments in receivers.

A comedy sketch will trace the history of radio listening, from the first sets made of oatmeal boxes and any kind of wire to the elaborate receivers of today.

The name of the Pilot Electric Manufacturing Co. has been changed to the Pilot Radio and Tube Corporation.

Dorothy Howard of St. Louis, said to be the only woman radio buyer for a department store in this country, took part in the most unusual "stunt" performed during the recent radio trade show and conventions in Chicago. Miss Howard, while flying 5000 feet above Chicago in a tri-motored monoplane, signed an order for Nugent's store in this city for its entire fall and winter committment of Bush & Lane radio receivers.

Miss Howard has attracted countrywide attention of radio merchandisers and advertisers with her radio department salgs promotion methods.

In the airplane party at Chicago also were James de Pree, general sales manager; W. F. Winstrom, field sales manager, and John C. McNalley, St. Louis district representative, all of the Bush & Lane Piano Co. of Holland, Mich.; Glenn Pareira and J. Greenberg of Nugent's store, and Ed Rapp, a radio buyer of Portland, Ore.

Nugent's has been appointed exclusive St. Louis distributer of Bush & Lane radio sets, which are made for either the AC screen grid tubes or the 27 type heater tubes. Both chassis have the 45 super power tubes in push pull audio, and each has eight tubes with rectifier tube.

Cabinets with built-in dynamic speakers come in Flemish, Sheraton and Italian Renaissance designs and all are finished like pianos. Walnut, butt walnut and burl maple woods are used in the cabinets as well as Australian walnut and satinwood for border effects.

Possibly the most unusual trade convention yet held was that at which the new Philco balanced unit receivers were shown to dealers for the first time as a preliminary to the Chicago radio trade show. Four hundred and seventeen Philco jobbers and dealers first saw the new sets on a three-day cruise aboard a lake steamer that sailed from Detroit. Besides seeing the sets and attending a series of daytime business sessions, they had a continuous round of entertainment nights for which Henry M. Neeley, the "Old Stager" of Philco broadcast programs, acted as master of ceremonies. Edward Davis, president of Philco, acted as "Admiral" of the cruise, which was planned by Sayre M. Ramsdell, sales promotion manager.

J. M. Skinner, vice president and general manager for Philco, told the cruisers that in the past six months more than $1,000,000 had been spent to make the Philco radio plant as nearly automatic as possible, with the result that extraordinary production economies had been effected.

Two new chassis have been added to the new Philco line. One is a six-tube A. C. screen grid set with push-pull audio. The other is an A. C. eight-tube neutrodyne with push-pull audio.

These are balanced unit. A balanced unit set means that every coil, transformer, choke, every unit entering into the set, is carefully balanced one against the other through delicate and complicated testing apparatus, so that when the set is assembled each unit will work at the same peak of efficiency, providing a free and unobstructed path through the set from the antenna to the ear. In the balanced unit set even the speaker is carefully matched and balanced with the rest of the unit, according to its manufacturer.

The lowboy, highboy and highboy deluxe furniture housing these sets are fine examples of craftsmanship.

Show Record Set

All attendance records were broken at the June convention and trade show of the Radio Manufacturers' Association in Chicago when 31,589 members of the industry were registered. This exceeded by 6989 the record-breaking attendance in 1928.

Etiquette Broadcast Planned.

The "Perfect Hostess," whose programs were to have begun several weeks ago over KMOX, will go on the air at 1 o'clock every Thursday afternoon, starting this week. She will discuss the etiquette of entertaining, decorating and serving and other problems which confront a hostess.

St. Louis Woman Business Expert

Dorothy Howard of St. Louis, who is the only woman radio buyer for a large department store in this country and possibly in the world. As a woman pioneer in radio merchandising she has attracted wide attention from business men. Some of her feats in radio buying and sales campaigns for Nugent's store have been the subjects of magazine comment. During the Chicago radio trade show she signed an order for receivers while in an airplane a mile above the city.

Garden to Open Saturday

With Leon Errol as Star Outdoor Theater on Olive Street Road Will Commence Season With "Louie the Fourteenth"—Municipal Begins Third Week Tomorrow Night With Vincent Youmans' Tuneful Musical Play "Wildflower" Which Gets Its First Production on the Big Stage in Forest Park.

THE Municipal Opera goes into its third week tomorrow night with an elaborate production of "Wildflower," a musical play new to the Forest Park stage and seen here but once before when it was presented some years ago, at the old Shubert-Jefferson Theater where it scored an immediate success. On next Saturday night, with "Wildflower" about winding up its week, the Garden Theater out on the Olive Street Road, will inaugurate its ten weeks season of musical comedies with Leon Errol as the star in "Louie the Fourteenth." "Louie" is to have a stay of eight nights. Thereafter the Garden will start its productions on Sunday evenings.

"Wildflower," the Municipal's offering this week—tonight will be the last performance of "The Student Prince"—was first produced in New York in 1925 by Arthur Hammerstein, with Eva Olivotti, former Municipal Opera soubrette, in the leading role. Its Broadway success was instantaneous, the musical piece remaining there for a full year. For a second season it was seen on the road, with the week's stop at the old Jefferson in this city included.

The score of "Wildflower" is by Vincent Youmans, composer of "Hit the Deck" and "No, No Nanette," and Herbert Stothart, one of the composers of "Rose Marie" "Song of the Flame," and "Golden Dawn." Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein 2d, who authored the three last mentioned light operas, wrote the book and lyrics for this week's Municipal Opera offering.

The story while conventional, is highly romantic, enlivened from time to time by comedy. The scenes are laid amid colorful surroundings in Italy but unlike the first two offerings in Forest Park stage there will be no soldiers on the stage—not even for atmosphere.

PETER GREIG, head of the Theater Society of St. Louis, which is producing the musical comedies at the Garden Theater, emphasizes the fact that next Saturday night, when "Louie the Fourteenth" opens—and on all nights following—the performances will start promptly at 8:30. The new play—Louie has never been seen in St. Louis—is one in which Leon Errol made one of the greatest hits of his life in New York under the direction of Ziegfeld. The scene is laid in France after the armistice in 1919 and the love of an American captain for a little French girl is the theme of the play, while the difficulties encountered by a multi-millionaire, Mr. Trapman, who pressed an ex-American doughboy and erstwhile Alpine guide into his service to make up fourteen at dinner, not only designated the play's title but is sufficient indication of the role Leon Errol assumes. The regular cast is reinforced by members of the Washington University Glee Club, making a total of 42 chorus boys who would make the rafters of the theater ring, in an outdoor theater and such things, with typical Sigmund Romberg male chorus number in the first act "Home-land." In all for the opening week the ensemble numbers 96 people.

And Romberg, who wrote the music for "Louie the Fourteenth," must have a very warm spot in his heart for St. Louis for this will be the third week this summer that he has drawn royalties here. His previous works were "The Love Call" and "The Student Prince," both were the first two plays of the Municipal season.

YOUMANS' score of "Wildflower," at the Municipal Opera, has some well remembered hits. There is "Bambalina," a song blending catchy rhythm and a dance appendage. This number is a radio phonograph and dance orchestra vogue for a long time. Other bright spots in the music are "Wildflower," "Casimo," "You Made a Girl for Dreaming" and "The World's Worst Woman."

The song hits of "Louie the Fourteenth," at the Garden include, "How the Rajah," sung by Errol; "Little Peach," sung by Miss Jayne, the leading woman of the organization and "The Regimental Ball" sung by James B. Carson in his comedy role of Major Byng-Boxer. At the end of the first act comes the spectacular Pageant of Joan D'Arc in which the newly formed Theater Society of St. Louis will have an opportunity to show how they will handle a production full of potential beauty and pageantry and for which the natural beauties of the Garden Theater provide a fitting background.

EIGHT of the principals of the Municipal Opera cast have been assigned to roles in "Wildflower." Pierre White, the baritone, and Miss Grace Yeager, the contralto, are to have a week's vacation. The leading role of Nina will be played by Miss Eva Clark. The complete cast follows:

Luigi	William C. Gordon
Gabrielle	Florenz Ames
La Roche	William J. MacCarthy
Bianca	Sibylla Bowhan
Guido	Roy Cropper
Alberto	Truman Stanley
Nina	Eva Clark
Lucrezia	Alice MacKenzie

Ajax

Lee Bancroft, who defies the lightning in "Thunderbolt," at the Ambassador.

Out at the Garden Theater the cast of "Louie the Fourteenth" will be as follows:

Maj. Bingham	James B. Carson
Capt. Cailliet	Edward Carr
Collette	Kathryn Manners
Pochard	Victor Casmore
Capt. Brent	Sam Critcherson
Gabrielle	Virginia Smith
Louie	Leon Errol
Marie	Eve Wendt
Patricia	Rosemary Farmer
Mrs. Trapman	Ethelynne Bradford
Mr. Trapman	Oscar Rasland
Brissac	Arthur Sherwood
Comptesse	Estelle Jayne
Lord Farefield	Wayne Nunn
Adjutant Dinden	Floyd English

Leon Errol is in charge of the production, which will be staged under his supervision.

Vaudeville at Highlands.

Dorothy Bush and her Del Monte Blue Dogs are headliners in the Forest Park Highlands vaudeville this week. The act, besides Miss Bush, consists of Genevieve Irwin, endurance dancer and fast stepper, and five young men musicians.

Orpheum to Re-open.

It is rumored that the Orpheum Theater will be reopened next September as a straight vaudeville house, presenting two shows daily with all seats reserved. The house was closed all of last season but an effort is being made to "bring back" big time vaudeville throughout the country.

The New Talking Movies and Music

By Jesse L. Lasky

Jesse L. Lasky, vice president in charge of production of all of the motion pictures made by the Paramount-Famous-Lasky corporation, is in St. Louis today attending the international convention of his organization. He has written here, exclusively for the Post-Dispatch, some of his ideas concerning the future of the new talking pictures.

BEFORE the screen found its voice, there was one element of entertainment, long a stable commodity of the legitimate stage, that the motion picture could not offer. That element, now an integral part of the new talking picture program, is—Music.

Drama and illusion and comedy, beauty and pathos, the screen had in common with the stage. In spectacle the screen excelled, as it still does, but the stage, despite its physical limitations, could still dazzle the eye with spectacular productions when the money to produce them was available.

But music—No. The screen was silent. Dialogue could be shown in subtitles, but the lyrics of a song in subtitle fashion—well, that would just be silly. Just as ludicrous, in the Pre-Talk Era, was the sight of a player mouthing the lyrics of a song, when no melody issued forth. But the addition of music to the vein of entertainment which the talking picture is now tapping is one of the most important results of the invention and development of synchronized sight and sound projection.

A totally new type of screen entertainment already has resulted from this augmentation of the screen resources, and far greater development will be seen in the ensuing year.

MUSIC will play an increasingly important part in the new sound programs. Already the public has shown that there is a huge market for musical pictures, and those pictures which have used music logically and advisedly have been successful, provided, of course, that the music was good music. Yet, we believe that only the surface of this new form of entertainment has been scratched.

Try to think what this addition of music to the screen means to the world-wide public we serve. Now, as never before, we can present the greatest entertainers of the musical world to the huge motion picture public the world over.

Theatrical commentators in the past few years have agreed fairly unanimously that "the road" was dead. In other words, no longer is there any profit to be made by taking a legitimate stage play or musical comedy out on the road for a series of short runs. Plays these days succeed or fail on their success in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and a few other cities of the East. I venture the assertion that St. Louis drama lovers will agree with me that the stage fare offered them in the past three years has diminished in both quantity and quality.

What applies in St. Louis applies the country over. Moreover, as touring plays have become fewer, so have prices become higher. It is a commonplace in New York to be told that tickets for a successful musical comedy are $7.70 apiece.

Now, with the advent of talking pictures, this situation is remedied. Today, eager patrons are flocking to more than 2000 sound-equipped theaters to see and hear talking pictures at popular prices.

THEY like not only the music but the musicians who offer it. Al Jolson is now an idol of millions of entertainment-loving people. Two years ago, he was known to the people of big cities only, and was merely a name to millions more. Talking pictures widened the scope of his appeal a thousand-fold.

What holds for Jolson holds for other musicians of the world. Paramount has produced and released the talking picture starring Maurice Chevalier, the most popular figure of the French musical comedy stage. He is a success and will make more pictures for us. Eddie Cantor, the singing blackface comedian who is seldom allowed to leave New York, has been making short films for us. Because every hundred prints we make from our negative film multiplies the artist a hundred-fold and thus allows us to get our revenue from many theaters at once, we can afford to hire the best talent in the world for talking pictures.

Not only are we drawing on the musical comedy stage for these new films. We have made or we will make pictures in which will be seen and heard the most famous orchestras of the country—jazz and symphonic. Grand opera stars, such as Tito Schipa, are recording their inimitable voices for us. Concert pianists, "close harmony" quartets, Negro spiritual singers, college glee clubs—all kinds of musicians and musical organizations—are being recruited.

THE world at large is starved for good music. The amazing sale of radio sets in the past decade proves this conclusively. You, in St. Louis, with your magnificent Municipal Opera and your splendid symphony orchestra and your nationally-known appreciation of music perhaps do not feel this need as acutely as other communities, because what you want you get. But other, and smaller, cities are less fortunate. They have almost never been given the kind of musical entertainment they actually want.

They will get it in the future. More and more theaters are being equipped to project sound pictures. Within a few years, even the smallest towns will have talking pictures. Accustomed to drama and comedy, to all the standard commodities of the silent pictures, they are eager for sound and especially for music.

Paramount is planning extensive activity in this new field of musical pictures in the coming year. Beginning August 1, the traditional date of the opening of the amusement year, we will release a wide variety of films with music.

One of the biggest of these will be "The Dance of Life," a musical picture version of the enormously successful stage play. "Burlesque." Hal Skelly, who was such a hit in the stage version as Skid, the Follies comedian, plays his original role, and Nancy Carroll portrays his wife, Bonny. Skelly will also be seen in a new musical drama called "Behind the Make-up."

Another big musical picture of the new type will be "Glorifying the American Girl," produced by Paramount in association with Florenz Ziegfeld. Mary Eaton, who has been called "the most beautiful girl on the New York stage," has the leading role. Music is being written by Irving Berlin, Walter Donaldson and other famous song writers. Every element is being contributed by the greatest personalities in the musical comedy show world.

Rose Moves to Ambassador

By NIE.

NOW it can be told. The large picture house, as hinted at in these columns last Sunday as likely to abolish its stage shows and go in for a policy of straight pictures is the Missouri. If it does the Grand Central theater will be closed for the summer at the completion of the present very successful run of "Noah's Ark."

Next week the Missouri will be without its usual accepted form of stage presentation. With no girl show it will have, as an attraction, George Olson's band—a musical organization which is said to demand, and get, $6000 a week. And for the next month at least, Harry Rose, the Missouri's master of ceremonies, will be missing from Grand avenue for next Saturday he moves down to the Ambassador to sit in for Ed Lowry who will be off on a month's vacation.

Actually these moves are taken as an indication that the Missouri will follow in the footsteps of many other Publix Circuit theaters and rely mainly upon the films. Exactly what will happen will be decided this week while Sam Katz, head of the great chain of Publix houses throughout the country is in St. Louis attending the international convention of Paramount-Famous-Lasky, now in session at the Coronado Hotel. He and Charley Skouras will take up the matter fully between the Paramount business sessions. If it is decided that the time is not ripe in St. Louis to do away with the expensive stage shows Frank Masters, now acting as master of ceremonies at the Granada Theater here, will be moved up to the Missouri while Rose is batting for Lowry downtown.

THAT the end of the silent cinemas is directly ahead became apparent when Jesse Lasky, vice president of the Paramount organization under whose direction comes the production of all Paramount pictures, announced at the Coronado Hotel yesterday that the company will go in, practically exclusively, for sound films and would present 200 talking and musical pictures during the new season starting Aug. 1. In addition Paramount will make talking newsreel film so that entire cinema programs can be carried out in sound.

Lasky also revealed the elevation to the select circle of movie stars of Nancy Carroll, Gary Cooper, Evelyn Brent, William Powell, Richard Arlen, and Ruth Chatterton, and the signing of many well known stage stars.

Through the world-wide producing and releasing organization, Paramount will distribute sixty-eight feature-length productions; eighty one-and-two-reel short features and fifty-two issues of the new Paramount Sound News, making one of the most ambitious talking picture programs yet made public.

The executive cited the number of Paramount stars and featured players who have made good in talking pictures, and at the same time stated that among the musical comedy favorites that have been signed are the Four Marx Brothers, Dennis King, Moran and Mack, Mary Eaton, Oscar Shaw, Helen Morgan, Dan Healy, Maurice Chevalier, Jeannette MacDonald, Gertrude Lawrence, Helen Kane and Richard "Skeets" Gallagher. Another group from the legitimate theater includes Jeanne Eagels, Ruth Chatterton, Walter Huston, Claudette Colbert, Hal Skelly, O. P. Heggie, Chester Morris, Edward Crandall, Charles Ruggles, Kay Francis, Harry Green, Florence Eldridge, Fredric March and Laura Hope Crews.

Besides the feature productions, Paramount will present an elaborate program of short features in sound, including twenty-four two-reel Christie talking plays; six Paramount comedies of two-reel length, and a total of fifty novelty acts, screen songs and "talkartoons," all one-reelers.

PARAMOUNT, incidentally, has launched a raid on the French musical comedy stage on Broadway, on the musical and literary worlds and on Hollywood in order to bring to the screen the first original talking picture operetta, "The Love Parade."

Announcement of the plans for the making of that musical film were also made yesterday by Lasky, whose enthusiasm in the project is unbounded.

"The Love Parade," a modern extravaganza, is to be directed by Ernst Lubitsch, maker of "The Marriage Circle," "King of the Mountains" and "The Patriot," and is to present Maurice Chevalier, in the stellar role.

Featured in the cast with the singing star of "Innocents of Paris" will be Jeannette MacDonald, flaming-haired and vibrant star of "Angela" and other Broadway musical extravaganzas. Miss MacDonald was signed for the role in New York and will leave for Hollywood within a fortnight.

This film production will have a libretto by Guy Bolton, author of "Sally" and innumerable other Broadway hits, with lyrics by Clifford Gray and music by Victor Schertzinger, composer of "Marcheta" and "Just an Old Love Song."

"The Love Parade," whose drama, fantasy, comedy and spectacle will bring a new type of musical entertainment to the audible screen, according to report, is Ernest Vajda's story based on "The Prince Consort," European stage success by Leon Xanrof and Jules Chantel.

The story is described as being an audible and optical extravaganza laid against an up-to-date background, and with ultra-modern settings of a sort not yet attempted by Hollywood artisans.

"The entire industry with undisguised interest is watching preparations for the presentation of 'The Love Parade,'" said Lasky, "for seldom in the history of pictures has there been assembled such a group of master craftsmen in what I consider a courageous exploit into a new field."

Grand to Open on Saturdays.

The Grand Opera House, beginning next Saturday, will change its opening day to Saturday instead of Sunday, as has been the rule since the Orpheum Circuit took control. The change is made to conform with a change announced for the entire Radio-Keith-Orpheum Circuit.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 15.

ON state street a Rolls-Royce roadster proceeded along the trolley rails. A distinguished driver radiated prosperity. At an intersection the Rolls stopped and the trolley nudged it. The motorist paid no attention, but the motorman alighted and shouted: "You big dummy, get over to the curb where you belong!"

"Obviously amused, but calm, the motorist responded: 'I'm driving a Rolls and you're driving a trolley car and I'm a dummy!' The motorman could think of no comeback."—J. F. D., Chicago.

He might have cracked: "Is that so?"

Where did you ever get that idea? When a newspaper man wants to roast someone, he roasts Mencken. He loves it!

A famous gambler asks me to print this but not use his name. "Gambling can ruin a young man faster than women, dope and booze in one dose."

There it is. But it is an old, old warning, and does little good.

Sometimes a most inconsequential incident sours a long friendship. I think of one in an uptown hotel many years ago. I had taken a three-mile walk before breakfast and was ravenously hungry. I do not like conversation during meals. A friend of long standing dropped down at my table. I was insistent he join me in something to eat, and suggested many dishes. He was firm in his refusal. With my breakfast order was a large rasher of crisp bacon. An unholy light came into his eyes when he saw it.

While I ate my eggs he picked up the bacon and munched it, piece by piece, with his fingers—a rather indelicate gesture in itself. I have tried to forget, but I shall never like him again, and I still avoid him upon every occasion. Never fool around a hungry man when he is eating.

Outside of the Mayor, perhaps the champion dais climber in New York is Harry Hershfield, the cartoonist. He is asked to almost every public banquet because of his oratorical gift. He is especially adroit with Hebrew jokes.

Booth Tarkington has done it again with "Young Mrs. Greeley." No author so ably juggles women's motives with such fascination. To me it is a better book than "Alice Adams" and praise cannot reach a higher level.

Some 5000 shyster New York lawyers, I am told, are in league with gyp taxi drivers to annoy auto owners with fake suits when there is some trivial bump in traffic. If a gyp is slightly jostled, he jumps out and raises a scene. The next day an innocent auto owner is sued. Several respectable chauffeurs have their own cure. When the howl is raised, they leap out too and deliver a swing from the ankle to the jaw. No suit follows.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.

JUNE COLLYER says she spends her spare moments trying to make her new name in "Illusion" sound like something. She is Hilda Schmittlapp in Arthur Train's novel which is being filmed at Paramount. The Schmittlaps are new-rich, trying to crash into society by entertaining royalty in the person of the Queen of Dalmatia. Maude Turner Gordon sat at the place of honor at a little intimate dinner where 50 were gathered in the name of bigger and better social climbing. Of course it was just a set, but the tempting odors of the fish course were seeping in from somewhere and the assembled guests were either wishing they would bring on the food or let them go to lunch. The delay was in a sliding camera which traveled on a pulley over the heads of the diners so that a slow close-up could be obtained of each guest at the long table. There were gorgeous gold plates, place cards and a continuous center piece of real orchids. Some of the men had on white evening shirts, others pink. The difference seems to be in the countenance of the individual. If the features are pronounced, the pink softens the general effect through the camera. Buddy Rogers, Kay Francis, Regis Toomey, Paul Lukas, Michael Viraroff, William Austin were some who sat around the table—a noble assembly of players which would grace any Schmittlapp board. Nancy Carroll is in the picture, but she had evidently not "arrived" as far as the Schmittlapps were concerned. At least, she missed the dinner. Director Mendes accused June of not learning how to sit up at the table. Someone suggested by way of the talkies, that she sit on the family Bible for June oughtn't to be so short if she is to attend such high hat affairs. Mr. Schmittlapp said he had left the family records in Iowa but that he had a whole stack of Social Registers she could sit on, which got a camera registered laugh from the starving mob. They perched June's chair on some blocks which let her down with a bump when the camera went by on the pulley and she jumped back. It made a beautiful crash in the sound recording machines whereupon all were dismissed to go to lunch.

I GRABBED Buddy Rogers and took him off to a secluded spot in the lunchroom where only some 85 people came up and asked for his autograph. We considered it, all-around, a very successful retreat. Buddy ate ham and eggs and told me about his orchestra at Kansas University. There he was a cornet playing cut up with drums on the side. Buddy can play five different instruments, and his ambition when he gets out of pictures is to be a second Paul Whiteman and take an orchestra out on the road. Right now he is all thrilled over a trip to Chicago where he will make a personal appearance at the Oriental Theater, with a possible trip to St. Louis to follow.

BUDDY ROGERS

"I guess all the girls will pursue you with machine guns, Buddy," I said.

"Don't be funny, I can't get a girl."

But I happen to know that Buddy takes June Collyer and Mary Brian to the ice cream parlor. He has another girl, too. I think she is the sister of a Phi Psi fraternity brother back in Lawrence, Kan., and whenever he visits her the town turns out and declares a national holiday.

"Everbody's grand to me at home—they all know I'm just a country boy that had a break," says Buddy. "Anyone of them might have had the same. If I were back in Olathe working on my father's paper, no one would look at me twice. It is certainly funny how people go for movie stars!"

It is funny, too. I saw a woman ask him to autograph a card for her and she was shaking so she couldn't hold the pencil, dropped it, and nearly died of embarrassment.

BUDDY must have been the answer to a coed's prayer when he was in school. Even the manager of the moving picture house told him he ought to be in movies, and went so far as to get tests for him at the Paramount exchange in Kansas City. These tests will always linger as a nightmare. They were conducted in a park with curious bystanders giving suggestions and making rude remarks at his attempts to register despair, anger and tender love. But that wasn't half compared to the razzing he got from the boys when he got back to the fraternity house. But he was accepted as a candidate for the Paramount school in New York City.

"When I got there, I was as green as grass," he relates. "I thought Gloria Swanson would have trailing ethereal robes and wings. Imagine my surprise when I first saw her eating beans in the lunchroom."

After six months' training where he says "we learned makeup, fencing, scene shifting, dancing, everything but the art of acting," he was cast in a couple of pictures. But his big break came in "Wings." After that he was launched on the motion picture world as a sensation. He played with Clara Bow in "Get Your Man," and had the role of Abie in "Abie's Irish Rose." His latest is "Close Harmony," which Buddy loved because it gave him a chance to see what it is like to be a struggling musician.

AND I put my foot into it when I went over to the "Woman Trap" set. How should I know I was on the set. Anyway, the director wanted to know if I was Mrs. Lasky the way I wandered in. Hal Skelly came up and rescued me and then told me "The Woman Trap" was based on a play by Edwin Burke called "Brothers." Evelyn Brent plays another hard-boiled part, and Chester Morris, or "Alibi" fame, is Hal's brother. There was an interesting set which showed the corridor of a hospital. One of the extras, playing the part of a special nurse, was an ethereal looking blonde who would make anyone spend the rest of his life in the hospital, and it was her first day on a movie set. She is Virginia Bruce from Fargo, N. D., who came out here, having just graduated from high school to enter summer school at the university. On a dare, she took a movie test which resulted in a long term contract with Paramount. She was having her difficulties on this particular day, for after a third retake in which she insisted on carrying a tray as if it were a hod of bricks, the director indulged in a few pointed remarks during which Virginia Bruce wished she had stayed in Fargo. But it's all in the game, and the first hundred pictures are the hardest.

Another interesting set I saw that day was the saloon for the "Virginian." Gary Cooper looking like a million in a hard way, plays the title role, and Walter Huston is the villain. Mary Brian and Richard Arlen complete this stellar quartet. When Walter Huston arrived in Hollywood from New York, where he stepped to dramatic stardom in "The Barker," "Desire Under the Elms" and "Elmer the Great," they didn't even give him time to unpack or find a place to live, but he was hustled out on location to the mountains in Northern California as soon as he was well off the cross-continent train. Back in Hollywood, he and Gary are waging war to a finish in Owen Wister's story. Chester Conklin is "Uncle Hughey," which ought to mean something if you have read the book. Eugene Pallette, who is Hollywood's private detective, is also in the picture. In the 19 years he has been playing in pictures, he has played the role of a detective in at least 40 productions. Whether he is a detective in this one I didn't find out, as a drunken brawl broke loose in the saloon, and what with guns and cowboys running wild, I decided it was no place for a peace-loving soul, so left them to fight it out—for the camera.

SPEAKING of brawls the white light of publicity has been thrown on Hollywood night life.

Conditions that exist after sunset in the film colony have long been hinted at, never exposed to the public. The screen itself may talk but the boogey man keeps mute the voices that could tell a lot if they only dared and would.

CLARA BOW

It has been said that after 9 o'clock in the evening, Hollywood boulevard is as dark, deserted and quiet as a St. Louis airdome now that the talkies have come in. This is true. The yokelry of Hollywood indulges its dissipations at home. Behind the doors of the palaces of the movie magnates such goings on are going on.

This fact has never before been published, but Clara Bow, the untamed red head, is a checker addict. She is an inveterate and incurable player. Her passion for checkers has often led her to stay up until midnight and after, even when she knew she had to be at the studio the next day.

Adolphe Menjou is a music drunkard. Not only does Menjou play the piano; he also sings, and night after night he sits in the music room, chording and crooning, while his patient little wife, the beautiful Kathryn Carver, sits and listens, not daring to say a word.

GEORGE BANCROFT (here is another secret) has a mania for surf swimming at night. His home, on the beach at Santa Monica, is but a few steps from the shore line and there are neighbors (not too close) who say that the oddly-white figure of a man has been seen to scurry from house to sea and back again on many occasions. Bancroft, if questioned, will not deny his passion for nocturnal natatorialisms, if there is such a word.

Maurice Chevalier, the recent arrival from Paris, is a normal and peace-loving citizen except on three nights of the week, these being Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. On Tuesday night there is a program of boxing at the Olympic Auditorium, on Wednesdays a card of wrestling at the same place and on Friday night are the fights at the Hollywood American Legion stadium.

RICHARD DIX is a bridge fan of the most rabid sort. He has been known to stay up until 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning, indulging this appetite for cards.

MARY BRIAN

Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, are the worst night hawks of all. Years and years of trouping in vaudeville and engagements in New York musical shows got them in the habit of considering midnight to be noon. Each night they sit by candle light, or its Hollywood equivalent, conversing with one another in that slow, honeyed drawl that has made them famous, plotting and planning new gags for their acts.

Mary Brian, of all members of the Hollywood film colony, is the only one of whom gossip of carryings on at night is never heard. Mary is the exception to prove Hollywood's rule of never getting to bed until around midnight.

"It bores me so to stay up," Mary smilingly explains.

Inventor Offers Big Sample Free

An amazing new product has been invented by O. E. Mothershead which makes it possible for any man, woman, or even a child, to repair worn-out shoe soles in 3 minutes. The cost of repairing a pair of shoes by this remarkable new method is less than 10c. Actual users claim even better results than the old way which costs ten times as much. Re-Sole is simply spread over the old sole like butter on bread. It fills up holes, hardens and covers the sole with a tough, smooth surface that looks like leather and resists the hardest wear. It is waterproof, flexible and retains the comfort of the old shoe.

Mr. Mothershead is making an offer whereby anyone may secure a full size sample of this astonishing product (enough to resole 20 shoes) without cost. Simply write him at Suite 485FQ, Garver Bldg., Des Moines, Iowa. Mr. Mothershead is also making an attractive offer to agents by which they can make $10 to $15 a day on this fast selling new product. Be sure to write him today.

MUSICAL London is agog—that seems to be the proper word—in its anticipation of the world premiere of Eugene Goossens' first opera, "Judith," a musical setting for Arnold Bennett's play of that name, which is based upon the Bible story of Judith and Holofernes, and which will have its first performance at Covent Garden late this month.

Immediately thereafter Goossens will return to the United States to appear as guest conductor with the San Francisco summer symphony, in concerts at San Mateo, Cal., and for five weeks as conductor of the Hollywood Bowl concerts in which he has become the dominant popular figure in the last few years. After that Rochester and his symphony orchestra, varied by guest appearances with the foremost orchestras in the country which are to culminate in his five weeks is guest conductor of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra next February and March.

"Judith" is Gossens' first opera. Bennett's characteristic drama gives the young composer a splendid opportunity to express dramatic values in his own correspondingly modern musical idiom. It was through operas that Goossens, who first held a baton over Sir Thomas Beecham's operatic productions, made his way to his international position as an orchestra conductor.

University City Teacher Successful Chicken Raiser

A. T. Dunham, Instructor in Manual Training, Puts Schoolroom Lessons to Practical Use by Building Ranch.

A teacher who puts his school- lessons into actual practice around his home is A. T. Dunham, teacher of manual training and mechanical drawing at University City High School. At his home, on West Big Bend road, in Webster Groves, Dunham runs a successful chicken ranch, where ability with tools comes in handy.

Dunham learned to like chicken when he was growing up on a small Missouri farm, near Rolla. About the time he was graduated from the Missouri School of Mines and the war broke out. At the close of the war there was a vast overproduction of ore of all sorts, mining jobs were few and far between, so Dunham turned to the schoolroom as a means of putting his training to use. Four years ago, however, he bought the two and a half acres, formerly part of the old Reavis estate, where he now lives.

After remodeling the house a bit, he turned the garage into a chicken house. To this he made additions, until now he has a 50-foot building. With no hired help and only a boy to aid him, he built a 10 by 30 Missouri poultry house. Just across the way is an old house owned by a neighbor, a much better building than that in which many persons live. But it has been abandoned for dwelling purposes, and now is used as a brooder house.

A large poultry house full of young chicks was burned a year or so ago, but Dunham soon built another. He has constructed his own incubators which work as well as any high-priced machines. He has one in his basement, each with a capacity of 600 eggs. To buy them would have cost him at least $60 apiece.

"The actual cost, by making them myself, was about $35 for the two," Dunham says.

The first year he bought 350 White Leghorn chicks, out of which he saved 160 pullets for laying purposes. The next year his flock of layers numbered 250, while last winter it was about 400. Now he has 1600 young chicks and expects his permanent flock to consist of about 700 birds next fall. The chicks now on hand were all hatched in those two home-made incubators, which are turning out still more.

Out of the 1600 early hatched birds he lost only 60. This he attributes to the use of a new device which he built early this spring. It consists of a hardware cloth bottom to a pen 5 by 6 feet. The hardware cloth runs three meshes to the inch and is nailed to the sides a foot from the floor. All the droppings fall through, the young chicks never get wet feet, they have just the right ventilation and their feed is always clean. In the middle of the pen is a coal-burning brooder.

While Dunham sells eggs mostly, he also has a steady market for broilers, which he supplies dressed and ready for the skillet. Sometimes it is necessary to kill and dress as many as 30 in a day. The young roosters and cull hens which have quit laying also are sold.

When the hens quit laying they soon get fat and make desirable table fowls. All eggs sold are infertile and never more than one day old. Dunham makes a specialty of this. Most of his customers prefer white eggs, he says.

In addition to employing his skill with tools around his poultry houses, Dunham has built much of the furniture in his home. There is a complete dining set of oak and walnut, a writing desk and various other bits on which a dealer would put a fancy price.

PART EIGHT.

SALE OF HAMPDEN HALL APARTMENT BRINGS $800,000

14-Story Structure at 4402 McPherson Avenue Is Purchased by D. S. Kelly, Financier.

CLEAR WEATHER STIMULATES TRADE

Business and Apartment Property Transactions Reported by Scott Realty Firm and Others.

By Berry Moore.

Total annual rentals derived of this type, was the purchase yesterday of Hampden Hall a 14-story apartment at 4402 McPherson avenue, by D. S. Kelly, financier, for an announced consideration of $800,000. Negotiations were handled by the real estate sales department of the Laclede Bond & Mortgage Co., which recently refinanced the building.

Erected three or four years ago, the structure is thoroughly modern and is one of the handsomest of its type in that part of the city. It comprises 56 apartments, alternating in five and six rooms, with two and three baths. Two high-speed passenger elevators and two freight elevators serve the building. A garage for 60 cars in the basement is available in connection with the elevator.

Marking a resumption of operations on a large scale in buildings from the apartments and the garage approximate $116,000.

Embraces Entire Half Block.

The site has a frontage of 130 feet on McPherson, 125 feet on Newstead and 130 feet on Pershing, or a total frontage on the three streets of 385 feet, embracing an entire half block. The building occupies the entire site. The location is only two blocks north of the St. Louis Cathedral at Lindell boulevard and Newstead avenue.

The transaction is the largest so far recorded this month. It is the first transaction announced by the real estate sales department of the Laclede Bond & Mortgage Co., formed several weeks ago as an adjunct to the company's loan business. The concern, which is loan correspondent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., has been a factor in real estate in St. Louis as an underwriter of loans for building projects.

Another West End feature of the week was the sale of the Chesterfield Apartments at the northeast corner of Waterman avenue and Union boulevard, purchased by Shell E. Allen. The building comprises 24 apartments. It is one of the most prominent corners in the West End. Negotiations for the property were handled by the Jefferson Realty Co. and C. E. Brockett.

Trading Notably Buoyant.

Trading in realty, retarded by adverse weather conditions through the spring, was notably buoyant the past week, exemplifying the magic of a little sunshine. The volume of operations was swollen by transactions in business corners in the outlying parts of the city, as well as in apartments, which reflected and augmented demand for holdings of these types.

The district including Southampton was noticeably the center of activities in Southwest St. Louis. A record number of improved business corners and apartments in that part of the city changed hands as reported by the Oreon E. & R. G. Scott Real Estate Co., Cain-Hartenty Realty Co., Southampton Investment & Building Co., Doerflinger Realty Co. and H. A. O'Rourke. The apartment house section of Clayton just west of Skinker road, was also a buoyantly strong section of the market.

Sale of the business property at the southwest corner of Kingshighway and Winona, to Clarence E. Owen, for $125,000 was announced by the Oreon E. & R. G. Scott Real Estate Co. This is a three-story building, comprising three stores and 16 apartments, from which annual rentals of $16,-000 are received. Arthur J. Kirchner, represented by the Cain-Hardesty Realty Co., was the grantor in the transaction.

Other Deals by Scotts.

Oreon E. & R. G. Scott also negotiated the sale of three large apartment buildings at 6715-24-26 S. Clayton road to Elmer A. Meyer for a reported price of $250,000. These are 24-family apartments, with estimated annual rentals of $30,000. The Ada Building & Investment Co. was the grantor. In connection, Oreon E. & R. G. Scott announced the sale of a two-story apartment at 4739 St. Louis avenue for $27,500.

NEW WENZLICK PARK TO BE OPENED TODAY

Subdivision on Pernod Road, East of Watson Road, Includes 42 Acres.

Wenzlick Park, a new development of the Wenzlick Realty Co. on Pernod road east of the Watson road, will be ushered in with a grand special sale of lots beginning today. The tract, which comprises 42 acres, is one of the most attractively situated in Southwest St. Louis, with the topography of the ground lending itself to a subdivision for apartments, flats or homes.

Cost of concrete streets, curbs, alleys, sidewalks, sewer, water and electric mains of the highest type, which will complete the surface improvements, will be included in the prices at which the property is sold. Prices, which are regarded as relatively low for this part of the city, have been fixed for the lots, with a view to their quick disposal. The new addition, accordingly, it is believed, will offer not only an opportunity to obtain a homesite at an attractive price, but also may involve investment advantages in view of the fact that this is one of the fastest growing centers of South St. Louis.

The Board of Education recently purchased a tract of 22 acres lying just to the east of Wenzlick Park as a site for a grade school and for a Junior High School, which will replace the six portable buildings of the Mallinkrodt School. The new development is just northwest of Southampton.

Henry Ziegenhein, son of the late Mayor Ziegenhein, will direct the sales force.

GANNONDALE LOTS TO BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION

A. R. Schollmeyer announces that he will sell at public auction to the highest bidders for the Apex Realty & Mortgage Co. representing the owners, 19 lots, in Gannondale, University City. The sale will be held Saturday at 2:30 o'clock on the ground. The terms of the sale are cash, but the agents have made arrangements to finance individual purchasers of the lots for a nominal fee.

Gannondale is located in the center of University City, two blocks north of Delmar boulevard between the Hanley and North and South roads. There are over a million dollars' worth of beautiful homes built and occupied by owners in this subdivision, and all public improvements such as concrete streets, sidewalks, sewers, water, gas, telephone and electric lines are in and paid for, and the remaining unbuilt lots are so improved that purchasers can start building immediately.

The Hon. Eugene Ruth, Mayor of University City, James Rohan, president of the Land Title Insurance Co. and Francis R. Lowther will speak briefly. Refreshments will be served.

Drozda Completes 6 Residences.

LAKE FOREST HOME SITES ON MARKET

Natural Beauties to Be Preserved on Tract at Hanley and Clayton Roads.

Home sites in Lake Forest, private residence park, comprising the former Crow tract at the southwest corner of Hanley and Clayton roads, have been placed on the market.

The tract, comprising 57 acres, was inherited 64 years ago from Edward J. Gay by his daughter, Mrs. Sophia M. Crow. It remained in her possession until its sale, a few weeks ago, to a local syndicate known as the Lake Forest Development Corporation.

The new owners will endeavor in every way to preserve the natural beauty of the grounds. It has great forest trees, picturesque ravines and slopes and a lake 800 feet in length fed by springs. Cascades, sunken gardens and rock ledges will be developed by landscape artists.

Drives are to be laid out, and lighting, gas, water and other facilities installed. In the choice of homesites, elevated points, hillsides and lakeside areas will be available.

The tract fronts 1152 feet on Clayton road, with a depth on the east line of 2275 feet. It is just west of Hampton Park, one of the finest of home subdivisions.

The Lake Forest Development Corporation with J. W. Leigh, sales agent for the property, has opened offices in the Railway Exchange building. In the sale of the property Mrs. Crow was represented by her grandsons, Alexander Crow and Wayman Crow.

Industrial investment in St. Louis increased $1,117,000 last month, when nine new manufacturing companies were brought here and eight existing concerns increased their facilities, according to the monthly report of the Industrial Bureau of the Industrial Club of St. Louis, issued yesterday by George C. Smith, director of the bureau. The 17 companies represent 15 distinct lines of business.

"In order to provide for these new industries and expansions," the report states, "48,100 square feet of new construction and 135,- 200 square feet of old factory space will be required. Employment is provided for 507 additional factory workers.

"One of the more important businesses entering the district is the Youngstown Tank & Boiler Co. of Youngstown, O., with a plant for the production of steel tanks on a schedule of 500 tons per month. Another dry ice plant, the Western Dry Ice Co., has started production with plans for a sizeable expansion; and a new automobile truck body manufacturing company, the Traffic Body Co., is in operation.

Leads Country in Dry Goods.

Two consolidations were important. The Monsanto Chemical Co., through an exchange of stock, acquired the Rubber Service Laboratories Co. of Akron, O., and its subsidiary, the Elko Chemical Co. As a result of its physical consolidation with the Carleton Co., which it has controlled for several years, the Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co. is now said to be the largest manufacturing and distributing company of dry goods and allied lines in the country.

"Principal business barometers for May, 1929, as compared with May, 1928, may be summarized as follows: Building permits decreased 28.89 per cent; bank clearings decreased 3.69 per cent; debits to individual accounts decreased 3.77 per cent; industrial failures (liabilities) decreased 5.71 per cent; barge line tonnage increased 3.45 per cent; postoffice receipts increased .37 per cent; water consumption decreased 3.13 per cent; loaded freight cars handled by the Terminal Railroad Association increased 9.77 per cent. CHURCH CORNERSTONE TO BE LAID TODAY

Zion Lutheran Congregation to Hold Ceremony at Benton and Twentieth Streets.

Zion Lutheran Church will lay the cornerstone for an addition to its school and parish house at 2:30 p. m. today. Zion Lutheran Church and parsonage occupy the entire block from Twentieth to Twenty-first streets on the south side of Benton street, with the school and parish house located on the north side at Twentieth. A few years ago the congregation purchased the remaining properties in the block on the north side of the street, utilizing the Twenty-first street corner for the erection of a church office and the building next to it for a kindergarten and sexton's dwelling. The addition now under construction will fill the space between the school built in 1909 and the kindergarten building. The addition will provide four bowling alleys and a playroom in the high ceilinged basement, four additional classrooms on the ground floor and a gymnasium hall on the second floor.

The addition, with the former parish house, will provide in the basement, boiler rooms, toilet and shower bath facilities for boys and girls, a large playroom, rooms for Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops, a lunchroom and four bowling alleys; on the first floor, seven large schoolrooms to accommodate the parochial school, which has an enrollment of over 300; a principal's office, school library and check-room; on the second floor, a kitchen 18 by 36, which the women are equipping, a dining room seating 300, and the large auditorium seating 800 with a stage 19 by 32 feet, having dressing rooms adjoining. The auditorium will be equipped for basketball and other indoor sports.

The cornerstone will be laid by the pastor, the Rev. Louis J. Sieck, the Rev. Joseph Frenz of the neighboring Bethlehem Lutheran Church delivering the address. A feature of the ceremony will be the singing of 300 parochial school children, under the direction of E. H. Thuernau, teacher and musical director of the congregation.

Announcing LAKE FOREST

CLAYTON ROAD AT HANLEY

The old homestead of the Crow Estate at the southwest corner of Clayton and Hanley roads comprising a 57-acre grove of majestic forest trees now being developed as a highly restricted residence park.

Beautiful rock-edged drives, lighting, water, gas and closed sewers are being installed. Widest possible choice of high elevations, ravines, sloping hillsides, lake frontage or an exclusive peninsular site. Adjoins beautiful and exclusive Hampton Park on the west.

After All, the Purpose in Placing a Want Ad Is to Get Answers

By reaching far more readers in every district of St. Louis every day than any other newspaper, the Post-Dispatch affords advertisers the largest answer-producing medium in St. Louis.

And this newspaper also has the most responsive want ad readers because it has carried a greater number of separate classified advertisements than all the other St. Louis newspapers combined for a quarter of a century.

PIUS XI RECEIVES 150 U. S. PILGRIMS

Pontiff Speaks Both in French and German at 45-Minute Audience.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, June 15.—Pope Pius XI today received 150 American pilgrims of the League of the Sacred Heart under the direction of the Rev. Charles L. Mullaly, national director of the league. He congratulated them on their spiritual ardor which had brought them from one hemisphere to another to participate in the beatification of the Jesuit Father Claude de la Colombiere.

The Pontiff was pleased that the pilgrimage had been organized to celebrate his golden jubilee. He extended the pontifical blessings to those unable to make the pilgrimage and to all members of the league and their families.

The audience lasted for 45 minutes and the Pope spoke in both French and German.

The Pontiff dwelt briefly on the Lateran treaties, saying that it was a tremendous responsibility, which he had been glad to undertake.

The Pope singled out for his special blessing three American girls clad in white. The children were Ann Millea, 8 years old, Baltimore, Md.; Rita Zurmuhler, 14 years old, New York, and Christine Hertgeen, 16 years old, Roxbury Mass. He patted the head of Ann and told the two older girls they made a "very good appearance." Mrs. Millea and BERLIN, June 15.—Heavy cuts made in the Reich's army budget last April were complained of by Gen. Wilhelm Groener, Minister of Defense, in a speech before the Reichstag today at the second reading of the budget. These cuts totaled 7,500,000 marks (about $1,800,000).

The General declared that such reductions could pass once, but not again.

"I fully understand the necessity of cutting expenditures," he said, "but I maintain that the defense of the country is equally urgent."

Goener asserted that the states victorious in the World War had done nothing toward disarmament. He sought to show that it was absurd for the allies to declare they could not disarm until they were sure of not being attacked by Germany. In this connection he declared France, Poland, Belgium and Czechoslovakia had a total of about 76 divisions, whereas Germany had only 10.

"Who, I ask, needs security?" he said. "I can't leave unmentioned that besides these troops the other powers also possess aviation squadrons, heavy artillery and powerful reserves of trained men and war materials of a kind we do not possess at all."

Replying to a question as to why it was desirable to maintain any army at all in view of the restrictions imposed by the treaty of Versailles, Gen. Groener replied: "Because this little army at least prevents our friendly neighbors from doing as they please in the border regions and hinders our war-thirsty neighbors from simply walking roughshod over our neutrality."

Social-Democrats and other speakers replied sharply that the army expenditures could and should be reduced still further and that any attempt to instill again old regime ideas would be firmly resisted.

A plea was made for extending the suffrage to Reichswehr soldiers who, under the present laws, cannot vote.

Accountant Who Audited Books Appears in Case Against Mrs. Evelyn Gardner.

Mrs. Evelyn Gardner had "more to say about running the office of the Davis Boring Tool Co. than anyone else," Roy C. Fischer, an accountant who audited the firm's books, testified yesterday in a deposition given in a false arrest and assault case filed against Mrs. Gardner by Emery E. Davis, former president of the company.

Davis has blamed Mrs. Gardner, who was treasurer of the company, for the decline in the firm's business which led to receivership and sale of the company in 1927. He has sued her for having him ejected from her Arcade Building office where she is a business consultant.

$50 ALIMONY DENIED WOMAN WRITER WITH OWN INCOME

$15-a-Week Payments Sanctioned; Judge Says Equality Should Prevail.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Judge William N. Gemmill does not sanction the payment of large alimony to women who stand on the same economic level with their estranged husbands. He refused to grant the $50 a week demanded today by Mrs. Regina M. Hendricks but reduced it to the $15 her husband, George E. Hendricks, was willing to pay out of "sentiment" for their marriage.

The pair had been married little more than a year. Mrs. Hendricks sought a divorce on the grounds of cruelty and evidence indicated she is a wage earner as a business woman and a magazine writer.

"Where the woman has an income of her own," Judge Gemill decreed, "she cannot expect her husband to support her. They entered into the marriage as equals and they must come out of it as equals."

Farmington, Mo., Man Has Tamed 7-Foot Reptile on Daily Egg Diet.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FARMINGTON, Mo., June 15.—If "an apple a day will keep the doctor away," an egg a day fed to a seven-foot blacksnake will keep thieves away, is the opinion of Howard Sides, whose automobile is the home of such a reptile.

Sides captured the serpent while traveling around St. Francois County several months ago and it has become quite tame to the owner, who is safe in parking his car anywhere, any time. It is fed a hen egg every evening, swallowing it whole. By muscular contraction it afterwards breaks the egg which can be heard to "pop."

As a result one tiger has been slain and entire villages are being organized to hunt for the marauders."

MRS. STANLEY M'CORMICK LOSES SUIT, MAY APPEAL

Court Dismisses Her Petition to Be Made Sole Conservator of Incompetent Husband.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Mrs. Katherine Dexter McCormick today lost her fight in Circuit Court to be appointed sole conservator of the person of her husband, Stanley H. McCormick, incompetent heir of a $35,000,000 estate. Judge Michael Feinberg dismissed for want of jurisdiction her petition appealing from an adverse decision of the Probate Court.

Newton D. Baker, counsel for Mrs. McCormick, noted exceptions to the Circuit Court ruling and indicated that the McCormick family controversy would be taken to higher courts.

Probate Judge Henry Horner several months ago declined to name Mrs. McCormick her husband's personal conservator, holding that conservators had already been appointed in his resident State of California. Her petition was opposed by Harold and Cyrus McCormick and Mrs. Emmons Blaine, brothers and sister of Stanley McCormick.

CARL SHELTON REMOVED TO BENTON, ILL., AS PRISONER

Former Gang Leader, Facing Theft Charge, Fails to Get $45,000 Bond.

Carl Shelton, former Illinois gang leader arrested today on a charge of interstate transportation of a stolen automobile, was removed late yesterday from the East St. Louis jail to the Franklin County jail at Benton for safe keeping pending the action of a Federal grand jury.

Shelton's removal followed his failure to furnish $45,000 bond. He is alleged to have been in possession at one time of a stolen automobile used by robbers in holding up a truck load of shoes valued at $24,000, near Troy, Ill., last May. The car, recovered, was found to have been stolen in Detroit. Mrs. Shelton, who described herself as a farmer, denied complicity in the holdup and denied she had any knowledge of the stolen car.

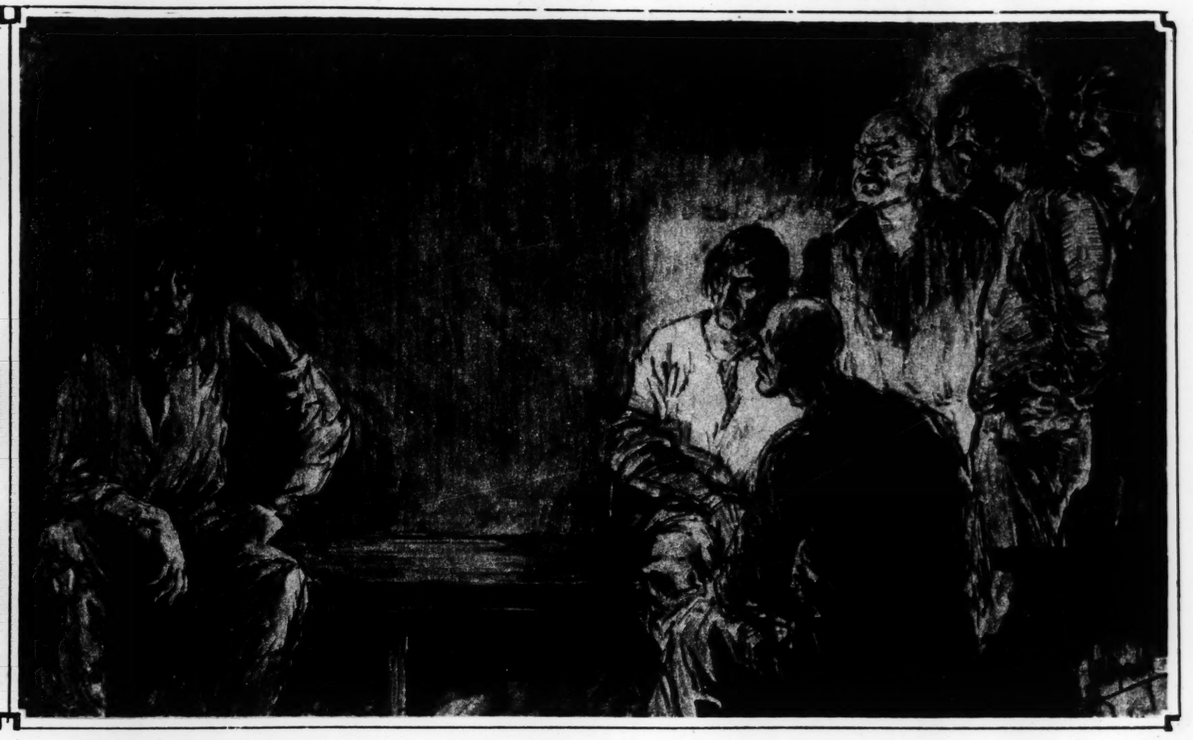
House in which Dreyfus spent most of his imprisonment on Devil's Island and which Bellon also occupied.



"When I left there were only ten . . . and soon there will be only nine, for one of the ten has been sentenced to death by his fellows."

DEVIL'S ISLAND IS STILL a PLACE of HORRORS

Says Former Prisoner Who Has Just Been Released.

After Spending Eleven Years in the French Penal Colony Through a Judicial Error, Henri Bellon Gives a First-Hand Account of Its Inner Workings.

A FRENCHMAN, Henri Bellon, has just returned to Paris after eleven years spent on Devil's Island as the result of a judicial error.

It was on this desolate isle off the coast of French Guiana, a literal hell-hole of heat and fevers, that Captain Alfred Dreyfus, also a victim of a miscarriage of justice, spent many long years.

Bellon, who was wrongly convicted of betraying a French spy operating in Switzerland during the war, declares that conditions on Devil's Island are as terrible as ever. He paints an appalling picture of the terrible heat, the ferocious quarrels between the sun-mad convicts, the tragic failures of their efforts to escape, and the frightful loneliness of the place. Even the convicts call it "The Island God Forgot."

By HENRI BELLON

I SUPPOSE the world has forgotten Devil's Island since Captain Dreyfus was pardoned thirty years ago, but this disgrace to civilization is still functioning in the same old way.

Imagine a rock 4000 feet long and 1000 feet wide, with a few stunted cocoanut trees growing in crevices and heat that drives men insane. Add to that cruel guards, rotten food, the desperate character of the "lifers" imprisoned there, and one has a slight idea of the hideous existence that a few damned souls and their equally damned keepers lead on this cursed isle. I have seen the sun so hot that it cracked a rock as large as a house into two pieces. The heat has burned everything on the island black as ink.

You must keep in mind that the principal penal settlement of several thousand men is on the mainland, some miles back of Cayenne, the capital and port of French Guiana; only a few traitors and particularly desperate murderers, all serving life sentences, are kept on Devil's Island.

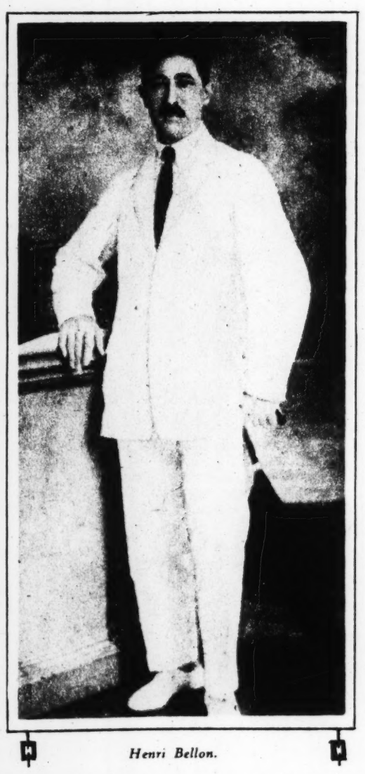
When I arrived, having been sentenced to life imprisonment for an act of treason of which I was completely innocent, there were 36 convicts there. When I left there were only 10, all the others having died or been allowed to go to the penal settlement on the mainland, and soon there will be only nine, for one of the ten has been sentenced to death by his fellows. This man betrayed a gang who were trying to escape. They discovered his treachery, and decided to kill him. He will be found pinned to his cot some morning soon with a long knife plunged through his heart. I would not give a penny for his life.

I HAD the strange fortune to be placed in the same cabin where Dreyfus and later Ullmo were imprisoned. Ullmo was the young French naval officer who, having fallen under the influence of opium and a beautiful adventuress called "La Belle Lison," stole all the French secret naval codes from the Captain's safe on board the destroyer "Carbine" and tried to sell them to a foreign power, and later to the French Naval Ministry itself.

This cabin, like the others, consisted of a room 18 feet square, separated by iron bars from another room. When Dreyfus was there this second room was occupied by a watch consisting of one guard and three trusties, all armed with revolvers, who were changed every 24 hours. Some of the old guards were still there in my time, and they told me how they had watched Dreyfus day and night. The bed in his cell was fixed to a wall, as it is even today, and every night they used to chain Dreyfus' feet to a stout iron bar. The hut is surrounded by a palisade 18 feet high, so that absolutely nothing can be seen from within. Every time a boat passed near the island the officer was put in chains for fear an attempt would be made to rescue him. I myself saw in the prison log book the orders to shoot down Dreyfus rather than allow him to be rescued. He could only go out for a walk over the rocks when accompanied by his four guards with drawn revolvers. His only pastime was to walk to the farthest end of the island and gaze at the horizon. He built himself a crude stone bench, which is still there. Poor Dreyfus had a terrible time. On the slightest provocation he was given the worst punishment, as well as covered with insults. It is all written in the prison records. I read it with my own eyes.

The Dreyfus case eventually created such a scandal in France that conditions on the island were slightly improved, and although Ullmo's crime was just as serious as Dreyfus' alleged offense, he was allowed more privileges.

ULLMO could receive money and parcels from home, have a little garden and even raise chickens. But after 13 years of this the ex-naval officer became desperate and tried to starve himself to death. A notorious bandit named Deboe, who had belonged to the Bonnot gang of motor bandits, and Dr. Rousseau, the kindly prison doctor, nursed him back to health over a long period of months. A saintly old priest, Father Fabre, also took pity on Ullmo and obtained for him the benefit of the law of 1873 which states that after five years of good conduct on Devil's Island a convict can be authorized by the governor of the colony to go to Cayenne to live. Ullmo had to wait 13 years for this permission. He received a terrible sentence for a youthful crime for which perhaps he was not entirely responsible. For five years now he has been working in one of the biggest commercial houses in Cayenne, liked and respected by everyone. The best people of the colony do not hesitate to shake hands with him. He has certainly atoned for his crime. There are terrible marks of suffering on his face.



Henri Bellon.

ONE of the most notorious persons on the island now is the traitor Richard, who betrayed the French secret service to the German army of occupation during the war and caused Lieutenant Jacquet and his assistants to be shot. This Judas was saved from the firing squad by the armistice. For some strange reason he does not repent, but actually boasts of it to the other convicts, who have a disgust for him. There are one or two Italians and Spaniards there, too, but I never saw an American or Englishman.

Escape? Do not believe that many men ever escape from that hell-hole. Many get away, but they do not really escape. They are either captured, or drown during a storm, or are eaten by sharks, or swallowed by quicksands along the coast. On the contrary, it is easy for the convicts at St. Laurent-de-Maroni, the mainland camp, to get away through the brush, like Dr. Bougrat, now in Venezuela.

I will tell you the story of the convict who is going to be murdered some bright morning soon. He was the leader of a group of six men who were lodged together in one cabin, and decided to escape. With great effort and patience they dug a tunnel and built a boat in this tunnel. At the last moment the leader persuaded all his comrades to intrust him with their money, which was a grave error on their part. He really did not wish to escape at all. The moment the boat was launched he upset it, pretending this was an accident, and as all the food was lost this made the departure impossible. He even pretended to drown. Afterward, he told his comrades with tears in his eyes that he had lost the money, too. They believed him for a time, and then accidentally discovered that he had tricked them. He had not lost the money. All the gang have sworn to kill him, and his passing out is only a matter of days or weeks.

It invariably happens like that. The worst, the strongest or the most vicious of a group trying to escape knifes or poisons the others in order to steal the little bit of money they have saved up in various ways—and to have more food for themselves on the long and desperate dash to freedom. This has happened scores of times.

The boats they make secretly in an attempt to escape are constructed of the inner membrane of cocoanut leaves, which is very flexible and when bound closely together with wire makes a strong framework. It is then covered with bits of old shirts, sheets, any cloth they can lay their hands on, and then oiled. An extra sheet is taken to use as a sail, cocoanuts being fastened all round the gunwales to keep the boat afloat in case it springs a leak. This contrivance is very primitive, but safer than the pirogues, or hollowed-out tree trunks, sometimes used. The wretched convicts who dream of escaping never calculate the chances against them. When they are picked up and brought back they are generally sentenced to five, ten or fifteen years of hard labor, in addition to their original term. I think the men who have escaped from the island during the past fifty years could be counted on the fingers of one hand.

I FOUND that the "chiourmes," or guards, are a hundred times more vicious than the convicts. They glory in calling themselves "man hunters," and in boasting of their killings. I know one who met three convicts sent by the governor to carry food to some gold diggers and rosewood choppers working 20 days' march in the interior. He thought it was a good opportunity to hold them up and rob them of their money. After he had taken 500 francs from them he noticed they had a little left. Letting them pass on in their canoe, he shot them in the back, killing all three. He stole the rest of their money and provisions and returned to the colony and bragged about it.

Another brute has the habit, when he has a bitter grudge against a convict, of ordering the wretch to take a spade and shovel and follow him into the brush. There the convict is made to dig a hole, and when it is large enough the guard remarks, "That is about your size," and shoots him down like a dog and buries him. I know of at least fifty cases of this sort, and so does everyone in the colony.

Do not think that I am trying to paint the convicts as angels. The majority of them are thieves and murderers, the very dregs of the human race. They amuse themselves in the penal settlement by drinking, gambling, fighting and their vices, and when they tire of these they rob and murder one another. It is very common to find a convict nailed to his plank bed in the morning with a big knife through his heart, and the murderer is never discovered, as it is against their code to tell. A man who talks to the guards is killed in his turn. Although the men are ruthless in their dealings with one another, they respect the free citizens and also the freed convicts living in Cayenne. In Cayenne everyone sleeps with doors and windows open, or unbolted. Strangely enough, it is one of the safest places in the world.

I hardly have to add that the average convict leaves the penal settlement a human wreck, burning up with fevers, all humanity crushed in his heart, and more vicious than ever.

LOVE TRIALS of Mr. Lewisohn

Another Phase in the Acrimonious Struggle Between the Noted Author and His Wife Who Claims She Was Slandered in His Latest Book.

Mrs. Mary Arnold Lewisohn.

Thelma Spear.

Ludwig Lewisohn.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

SOME 4000 miles from here on the left bank of the Seine in Paris the American novelist, Ludwig Lewisohn, is enjoying what he says is the first real happiness he has ever known in life. He tells about it in a book published not long ago called "Mid-Channel."

He tells of the sense of intellectual freedom which he finds in Europe, of the stimulation and enthusiasm which he is able to bring to the writing of his novels. And he details his great love for a woman whom he calls Thelma.

It is this book which has caused his wife, Mary Arnold Lewisohn, to file a libel suit the other day here in New York. She wants $200,000 damages from her husband and the publishers, Harper & Brothers. She objects violently to certain statements in the book.

This is the climax to a struggle that has gone on for more than five years now between the Lewisohns, husband and wife. It has been charged with the bitterest acrimony and the deepest passions. What Mrs. Lewisohn says, in effect, is that when her husband achieved success and recognition he sought to discard her for a young girl from Vermont. Lewisohn, on the other hand, maintains that his wife seeks to hold him to a love that never existed, that she is persecuting him in an effort to perpetuate a union that for the 16 years it existed caused him untold suffering and distress.

Lewisohn's troubles were at least temporarily at an end when he put an ocean between himself and his wife. But her latest action will almost of necessity again draw him into the conflict.

It was Lewisohn's first autobiographical study, "Up Stream," that won him wide acclaim and a large popular sale. In it he sets forth his struggles, as a Jew, to attain recognition in American universities. It is a frank study. The leading characters in it are thinly disguised. Many of the characters are easily recognizable to those who know the whole background. It is thus that he introduces his wife:

"BUT I met Mary that year. Bread came somehow. I wrote stuff for the Times and she wrote verses for it. I sold some poems to Collier's. We had each other. . . . I recall September days full of a soft, gray drizzle. The lights of the street lamps trembled in a thousand rays through the wet air. But we, under one umbrella, recked little of the world. The weather cleared and brightened as October came. We lingered on Riverside Drive and heard the rustle of the leaves under our feet and waited until the sun set in a bronze haze over the palisades. We sat on a bench under the bare poplars with all the stars of heaven for our own. We were, of course, aware of the necessary briefness of this period, but we dwelt with all our might in the days and hours—numbered days and hours—that were given us. The windfalls grew fewer and fewer, the weather colder and colder. With a brave and lovely brightness in her eyes Mary took me to the boat. For the present we were defeated and I had to seek refuge at home."

The book is a powerful and impressive account of one man's struggle with life. It achieved an almost instantaneous success. Lewisohn got hundreds of letters from interested readers. One that came to his desk in the office of the periodical of which he was associate editor at that time was from Miss Thelma Bowman Spear of Burlington, Vermont. It was a letter of sincere praise, of warm interest in the author. Miss Bowman was at that time studying music in New York. Out of this first letter grew a correspondence and out of this a friendship that soon deepened, according to "Mid-Channel," into love.

BUT although there had been some talk of the Lewisohns separating, Mrs. Lewisohn was unwilling to give up her husband passively to another woman. She made every effort to hold him. She even appealed to old friends of his past. Apparently, she realized that these tactics were of no avail. Then she took action.

In the Supreme Court of New York she brought suit for separation with a demand for $100 a week alimony and counsel fees of $1000. Under the laws of New York if a separation is granted, and is not set aside, no divorce can be obtained. The action is thus virtually final.

Mrs. Lewisohn charged that her husband beat and choked her after he had found her reading one of his letters to Miss Spear which, she said, ran as follows:

"I have now commemorated our love in golden prose. As soon as the novel is ready I shall raise such a lurid hell here that she will be glad to get . . . . ." and Mrs. Lewisohn added that she believed the sentence concluded with "a divorce," but her husband did not let her read that far.

She charged also that Lewisohn "has been associating with Thelma Bowman Spear and has publicly stated that he intended to divorce the plaintiff and marry Miss Spear." The complaint was a long one, part of it concerning Miss Spear being stricken out by order of the judge.

Lewisohn in his turn prepared with the assistance of his attorney an answer. It was a remarkable document. It had the same tragic conviction and bore the same profound sense of injustice that have marked most of Lewisohn's writings. In part he said:

"We have here a man and a woman who, after many years of a childless marriage, have lost all liking, all respect, all kindness for each other. The woman calls the man untruthful and not to be believed. She accuses him of adultery and brutality and does so quite sincerely. The man with profound sincerity and studied conviction considers the woman to be of a moral obliquity that fills him, as it has filled him for years, with genuine terror and despair.

"It is possible that these two people misjudge each other, but that misjudgment has now become so deep-rooted, so intertwined with all their thoughts and emotions, that there is no remedy for it this side of the grave.

"In brief, this woman, who by her own admission and by the clear implication of every word written in this action can give the man nothing of all those priceless gifts which a beloved and respected wife can give, uses her merely legal power—a power which no lawgivers could have contemplated as being used in this fashion—to reduce the man to a state of chattel slavery."

Further, he set forth that at the time of the marriage he was 23, young and inexperienced, that his wife was 19 years older than he, that she had been previously married and was the mother of four children, the eldest of whom, he says, "is only three years my junior." His experience of life at the time of their marriage was too small, he states, to enable him to estimate the effect of a marriage "between people so wholly different in age, temperament and racial antecedents."

Although a Jew, his emotion, he stated, was so much stronger than his discretion that he was willing, upon her solicitation, to become a Unitarian.

AFTER some delay the law took its course and Mrs. Lewisohn was granted a separation with alimony. There was really nothing left for Lewisohn. He feared that any satisfactory life with Miss Spear was impossible in America. Not long after the separation was granted he sailed for Europe. Miss Spear and her mother went along.

Then came rumors that they had been married. Mrs. Lewisohn demanded an investigation. The report had supposedly come from Mrs. Elias Spear, Thelma's mother. They were rumored to be on a honeymoon in Vienna. But Charles Recht, Lewisohn's lawyer, issued a denial.

"It isn't true," he said emphatically. "I do not deny that Lewisohn and Miss Spear are in Vienna, and it is equally well known that Lewisohn desires to marry her. But I can say positively that they are not man and wife."

Lewisohn meanwhile had had recourse to his pen. He wrote a novel called, ironically, "Don Juan," which has a plot that parallels more or less closely the circumstances of his own marital difficulties. It tells the story of a man married to a woman whom he no longer loves. The woman refuses to divorce him and thus virtually ruins his life. In answer Mrs. Lewisohn wrote a novel called "Don Juan's Wife," in which she gives her side of the whole affair.

When the Modern Library edition of "Up Stream" was published in 1926 critics at once noted that Lewisohn had altered all the references to "Mary." The passage quoted before reads in the first Modern Library edition as follows:

"Then I met Mary. She was forlorn and so was I. What seemed to me the pathos of her fate harmonized with my own misfortunes. And out of similar tastes and similar temporary emotions there arose a passionate friendship which, for a time, hid from me the unbridgeable chasms of character and origin which were always so fatally to divide us. . . . Bread meantime came somehow. I wrote stuff for the Review of Reviews and articles for the Times. I hardly knew what to do and so, all through a lovely autumn, I let both time and thought stand still. Yet every now and then there smote upon me a sense of Mary's foolishly conventional outlook and terror that I was bartering away my youth and life. . . . I made less and less effort to earn money; the weather grew colder and more inhospitable. I hoped that later and alone the madness of any further common adventure on our part would reach Mary's mind. . . . She took me to the boat. . . . Deliberately I sought refuge at home."

AND whereas in the first edition he had merely recorded the fact that Mary came to Charleston, South Carolina, where he was living with his parents and they were married, the later issue reads:

"Mary, furthermore, insisted that we must be married to save her honor and her very life. I was a gentleman still and a Southerner. I was sorry, helpless and confused. I tried to hope that my mother would be less lonely. I tried to hope many things to still the fatal monitions within me. . . .

"We all settled down together in an old house overlooking the bay. I think that in spite of youth and inexperience and their faults, I tried to make the best of things. But Mary's responsibilities to her family robbed her of the power, even though she had had the will, to be my wife or—despite her age—the daughter of my parents. It was perhaps not all her fault that she was a burden and unhelpful; it was absurd that, under these circumstances, she had neither humility nor true kindness, but was as exacting as a bride of eighteen. She was a middle-aged woman who had insisted on marrying a man not much older than her oldest child. She acted like Dora Copperfield. . . . Something indomitable must have been in me that I did not go under . . . a strength and a faith. . . ."

It should be added that in a still later Modern Library edition there is this announcement:

"The Modern Library announces, with this definitive edition, the final form of 'Up Stream' corrected to correspond with the original text published by Boni & Liveright, 1922."

The tone of "Mid-Channel" is entirely different from that of all of Lewisohn's other autobiographical writings. It is imbued with a note that is almost that of ecstatic happiness, although there is still the complaint that modern life has no place for the Jew and, on the positive side, an espousal of the cause of the Zionists.

Several times in this new work he makes the assertion that the only true marriage is one which unites two people who love each other devoutly, even though their union must be one of which church and state can take no cognizance.

He speaks very hopefully of the possibilities of happiness in marriage. He writes:

"I HAVE found out in these seven years that, until I met Thelma, I had wholly missed the experience of marriage and had therefore, in both speech and writing, passed a number of judgments which I now repudiate. I am still of the opinion that, except in their strictly economic aspects, marriage and divorce should be as completely withdrawn from social control as religious practice or philosophical opinion.

"I do not think that happy marriages are plentiful, nor do I think, above all, that a happy marriage is to be had for the asking. It must be tended, moulded, built. But I believe with all my heart that a happy and continuous union between a man and a woman, founded upon passion and voluntary loyalty, upon tenderness and understanding and loving-kindness, is a realizable ideal and is the most fruitful and beautiful estate for such a being as man. . . . But let no cheaply triumphant conservative praise God for a converted sinner.

"By marriage I mean, of course, an inner grace. I mean nothing legal or ecclesiastical. Where this inner grace is gone, they who stay together are as abject as they are defiled."

The trouble he encountered in America before he escaped to Europe is touched on only briefly. There are no direct references to Mrs. Lewisohn.

Nevertheless she has been again stirred to legal action against the man whom she can still claim as her legal husband. The courts once again threaten the happiness which Lewisohn feels he has at last won to after a long, difficult struggle.

WITH a new oil field being developed just beyond the city limits on one side and new airplane factories going up with the speed of oil derricks on the other, Wichita is experiencing what these cities of the Southwest enjoy most—a boom. It is proud of its rapid growth and is beginning to think seriously of itself as the largest city in Kansas. The biggest news of the day is bound to be the latest oil strike or the latest aviation development that furthers the city's ambition to be the aircraft hub of the universe.

Wichita's marked activity in the air, and particularly the rapid expansion of its biggest aircraft manufacturing concern, has operated of late to focus much outside attention upon this rising metropolis of the plains and upon J. H. Turner, vice president of the Travel Air Manufacturing Company, who came here 30 years ago with a working capital of $7.30 and, after amassing a fortune of somewhere around a million in the coal and building materials business, became the city's principal aviation spark plug. They have much to say of Turner hereabouts, of his work for Wichita industry and civic betterment. He is a favorite feature topic of the local newspapers. But an interesting fact about J. H. Turner not generally known even in Wichita, where nearly everybody calls him Jack, is that he constitutes the one surviving link between the thriving, booming Wichita of the present and a dead town of the past which in its day was the most picturesque colony this part of the West ever knew. That was the old English colony of Runnymede which, nearly 40 years ago, lived its brief span of life, then languished and died on a barren plain 75 miles southwest of here.

RUNNYMEDE is only a memory now and a tombstone. A lonely grave in the middle of a great wheat field is the only remaining marker of the townsite. Not a trace of a building is to be found, not even the ruin of an old foundation protruding from the sandy soil. The town is dead and buried, as completely so as ancient Troy, but in 1889, when this part of Kansas was young, it flourished, a little splash of Old World color on a drab New World frontier.

Settled largely by young British remittance men—sons of English gentlemen—Runnymede was a gay town while it lasted. The young Britishers were a happy-go-lucky crowd. They played polo, raced horses and rode after the hounds. They drank better liquor and smoked better cigars than the cowtown bars of the locality afforded. They laughed and danced and sang the songs of Merrie England. They were jolly English gentlemen who played at farming in a land where farming was a hard game. Old-timers of Harper and Kingman Counties remember them as the happiest crew of impractical agriculturists who ever put plow to prairie sod.

That is not to say that they actually put plow to sod personally. Most of them didn't. It was not the custom in England for landed gentlemen to labor in the fields. They hired farmhands to do the plowing while they followed the races and chased foxes. The only difference in Kansas was that they chased coyotes instead of foxes. They built their own race track, converted Western cow ponies into polo ponies and laid out a two-mile steeplechase course over the rolling hills along the nearby Chikaskia River.

IT WAS the only steeplechase course in the State and the horsemen of Runnymede were the only ones in a State full of horsemen who rode in costume. They even had an old tally-ho coach to which they hitched four horses and, on Saturday afternoons, would drive into the town of Harper, 12 miles away, with trumpeters riding on top.

Hard-fisted pioneers of the region were alternately amazed and amused at this show of pomp and panoply. Having learned by bitter experience how hard it was to make farming pay in a new country, they predicted early bankruptcy for the light-hearted colonists. And that prediction was fulfilled. After some two years the colony began to decline. Its inhabitants became discouraged and drifted away. Within another two years virtually all were gone. Most of them went back to England and Ireland, whence they came. Only a few remained in this country and these are now scattered. The merry town of Runnymede was left to the jackrabbits and the crows.

Ned Turnley, an English settler who came to Kansas in the early '80s, conceived the idea of promoting this British colony on the plains. Some say it was merely a scheme to sell land and that Turnley never had any real expectation of the colony's permanence. It is suggested that it may have been partly due to the fact that Turnley was trimmed himself when he first came to Kansas. Old-timers relate that when he went out to buy cattle the Western cowboys adroitly stationed him between two hills to count the cattle as they came through. He discovered later he had paid for many more than he received. The cowboys had driven the herd around the hill out of his sight and run them through a second time.

Mrs. Mary E. Slack, who practiced all the amenities of an aristocrat in a strange environment.

He horrified his gentle relatives by opening his coat and revealing two six-shooters and an ugly dirk in his belt.

That may or may not have had something to do with the Runnymede venture. Anyway, about 1885 Turnley bought 19,000 acres of sand-hill land along the Chikaskia River, some 12 miles northeast of Harper. He made several trips back to England and succeeded in selling his proposition. If the colonists wanted to buy land in America he would sell it to them and teach them how to farm it. If they didn't want to buy he would take them along anyway and, for a consideration of $500 a year, teach them how to raise wheat the American way.

The idea took hold very well. English gentlemen seized upon it as a good way to make wayward sons settle down to business and learn some useful occupation. There were 18 in the first group which came over with Turnley, and in the course of a few months these were joined by 150 or 200 more. Many whole families came to seek New World opportunities, and numerous Englishmen already in America gravitated to the settlement to be near other natives of their homeland. New arrivals in the colony were welcomed with lively celebrations. With much fun-making they were initiated into the method of living on the American frontier, where all newcomers fully expected to find Indians in war paint. They were outfitted with ponies, saddles, pistols, knives and all cowboy regalia. These formidable trinkets they wore on all state occasions. There is no record of any emergency in which they needed weapons, but they went about with little arsenals strapped on their belts. It contributed to atmosphere, and one of the favorite diversions was that of getting photographed as desperadoes for the edification of relatives back in England. Only at dances and other evening functions, of which there were many in Runnymede, were the weapons laid aside. On these occasions the men appeared in full dress and the women in dainty evening gowns which caused the neighboring settlers to stare with awe and admiration.

FOR a small town, Runnymede boasted an extraordinary quota of picturesque characters. James Elvin, a land dealer and long-time resident of Harper, recalls some of them with many a chuckle. There was the "White Rabbit," for one. He was a white-haired, white-bearded storekeeper who usually carried a chip on his shoulder, and thus let himself in for a lot of torment at the hands of the youth of the village. His barn was the nesting place of a great number of pet pigeons, of which he was very proud. One day some of the boys shot two or three of them, but before they could retrieve their game the "White Rabbit" dashed out and seized the birds. He went to Harper at once to have the boys prosecuted. But the Prosecuting Attorney liked to drink with the Runnymede boys and didn't want to cause them any trouble. He told the old man he would prosecute, but the dead birds would have to be saved as evidence. He would let the White Rabbit know when the case was to come up. Time went on and there was no word from the prosecutor. The birds began to spoil and the storekeeper sent an urgent appeal to the prosecutor to hurry up. But he didn't hurry, and finally the White Rabbit had to bury his evidence and drop the case.

Mrs. Mary E. Slack was another celebrated character. She was the widow of a wealthy land holder and even on the hard frontier remained an aristocrat to the last. It was said that during her entire period of residence in Runnymede she never dressed herself nor did her hair. She and her two sons are buried in the Harper Cemetery.

There was H. G. Hoblin. He bought a farm and started out to be a rancher, but he couldn't resist the lure of the chase, the banquet and the ballroom, and weeds soon swallowed up his ranch. He finally traded it to Colonel Todhunter of Lexington, Missouri, for a stable of race horses and polo mounts. While Hoblin lived in Runnymede, his mother and sister came over from England to pay him a visit. He bought a new carriage and a pair of high-stepping horses to meet them at the train in Harper. He drove into town through 12 miles of mud, in full dress and high hat, and then horrified his gentle relatives by opening his coat and revealing two six-shooters and an ugly dirk in his belt.

Although they were regarded as peculiar and improvident and the Harper residents watched them with open-mouthed astonishment when they drove their tally-ho into town, the Runnymede people were not unpopular with the American settlers. The neighbors thought they were a good sort, because they were sociable and generous with their liquor. They also commanded a great deal of respect because they were mostly educated. So much literacy was not to be found on the whole frontier as was concentrated in one little village of two streets.

Most of the Runnymeders got remittances from home and never felt the pinch of poverty even though they did fail at farming. Some, however, were forced to make a living with their own hands. Among them was J. H. Turner. He and his mother, two brothers and a sister joined the colony in the early '90s and the Turner boys worked on farms. One of the brothers eventually went back to England, where he is now a wealthy manufacturer. Another went to Brooklyn and the sister to Florida. The mother lived with J. H. in Wichita until her death a few years ago.

WHEN the town started to decline, its death followed speedily. For a time it was virtually a ghost town, its homes and business buildings deserted. These were two or three stores and a hotel—the Runnymede Arms. A year or so before the break-up the livery stable had been destroyed by fire, in which Richard Watmough, a dashing horseman, lost his life. It was not long until all the houses had disappeared, for about that time the Cherokee Strip in Oklahoma was opened and there was a demand for any kind of building materials. The 30-room Runnymede Arms Hotel was moved—every stick and stone of it—to Alva, Oklahoma, where it is still being operated. An Episcopal Church was moved to Harper. Smaller build-

Chicago University Starts a Course for Policemen

Chief August Vollmer, of Berkeley, California, Will Head the Department Which Proposes to Introduce Chemistry and Anthropology Into Crime Prevention and Detection.

August Vollmer.

CHICAGO

HEY are going to train policemen in the science of their profession here at the University of Chicago. Furthermore, they are working out a plan to put the whole range of scientific discovery at the disposal of the police forces of America. Indirectly, the research chemist and the anthropologist in his laboratory will be working with the actual man hunters.

Next October, when the fall term opens, Chief August Vollmer of the Berkeley (California) police force will become Professor August Vollmer of the Chair of Police Administration. It is the first professorship of its kind ever to be established in this country.

While Chief Vollmer's force is comparatively small—it numbers only 23—he is one of the best-known police heads. For he has introduced some startling innovations and he has succeeded in putting the business of policing the city of Berkeley on so efficient a basis that it is notable for its comparative absence of crime. Every member of Vollmer's force is a college graduate. Every applicant must take an examination and pass with an intelligence quotient of 133 or higher.

Vollmer's work at Berkeley, where he has been Chief since 1905, has been so successful that he has served as consulting expert in the reorganization of police forces in San Diego, Los Angeles, Havana and Detroit, and recently directed a reorganization of the Kansas City force.

This new member of the faculty will not add an incongruous note, as might be expected. In fact, his appearance is in general rather academic. He looks a little like the late Woodrow Wilson.

And while the course, "Police Administration, Credit 4 hours," may at first seem a little strange in a university curriculum, it is not so when considered in relation to the ambitious project which is now going forward at the University of Chicago. Under direction of the Local Community Research Committee, professors and students here have undertaken to study life itself, with Chicago as their particular laboratory.

THESE professors and students—graduate students in the social sciences for the most part—are after facts, and they are going after them in the most determined way possible. As one instance, Prof. John Landesco is making a study of organized crime. He has gained the confidence of gangsters such as Lombardo, Capone, Saltis and others. And he is convinced that he is gaining from these men an accurate picture of their respective rackets.

Reform is not the primary motive of the Community Research Committee in instituting courses such as the one in police administration. The heads of the university have no intention of rushing down to the city hall in an effort to reform the Chicago police force. Political conditions being what they are, it is conceded that that might be a very difficult assignment. But it is hoped, according to Prof. Leonard White, of the field of public administration in the political science department, to work out plans and methods for an ideal police department.

That will be Vollmer's job. He will be given ample space for a laboratory and sufficient funds with which to equip it to his own needs. And his course is being given the widest publicity.

While his formal education stopped at high school, Vollmer has the literature of crime and crime prevention and detection at his fingertips. In the course of a casual conversation he cites references from Spanish, Dutch, French and Italian sources. At the very outset of his career he determined to master his subject.

He has always kept his force well ahead of the criminal in the use of modern methods. All the police travel in machines, and the Berkeley cars are said to have been the first in this country to be equipped with radio for communication with headquarters. He long ago employed a ballistics expert of the University of California in the identification of bullets. In collaboration with Dr. J. A. Larson he developed the "lying machine," which has been used in more than 10,000 cases and has been found to be an effective means of proving guilt. Sudden changes in the rate of respiration, pulse and blood pressure betray guilt when a suspect is questioned concerning the crime which he committed.

VOLLMER will have extensive resources at his disposal here at Chicago University. He will be able to co-ordinate certain scientific researches so that they will be of value in the field of crime detection. An example is the piece of research now being carried out to determine the exact differences between the hair of various races.

Under the direction of Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole of the department of anthropology certain positive results already have been obtained. It has been found by weighing experiments carried to a thousandth of a milligram that certain positive differences exist in the weight of the hair of certain arbitrarily-chosen racial groups. Thus, the hair of the Nordics, the blue-eyed, blond type, is lightest, that of the Alpine group, light hair and hazel eyes, next lightest, and that of the Mediterranean classification, dark hair and dark eyes, heaviest. Negroid hair was found to be even lighter than that of the Nordics. Now an effort is being made to narrow down these classifications.

The application of this to criminology is seen at once. It will be a part of Vollmer's job to condense such researches as this into manuals that will be available to police departments all over the world. This is the type of aid that will be given. No effort will be made to work on special cases with particular police forces.

The work that Vollmer and others will do is to be related even more closely to practice through the City Managers' Association. This association is now establishing headquarters near the university. Active co-operation is planned. Thus, if a city should request information concerning a model police force, Vollmer could instantly provide it.

Others in similar and related fields of criminology are to be offered posts at the university. Last year A. L. Dixon, assistant secretary of the Home Office, executive of the English police system, gave a series of lectures at the university which were largely attended by Chicago police.

Already numerous applications have come from those who want to take work under Vollmer. Professor White has received a great many letters from young men bitten with a desire to be super-detectives. This type will be discouraged. Several police executives have already indicated that they will enroll in the fall. And during the winter term Professor Vollmer will have a seminar which will be restricted to graduate students and police.

NEW YORK.

NEW page in musical history is being written by the pupils of the Lincoln School in New York, who recently demonstrated their musical skill by composing a symphony and then playing it on musical instruments made by themselves. Before an audience which included many educators of note, the child symphonists, ranging in age from 8 to 12 years, played Symphony No. 2 in G Major, which is the second symphony composed and mastered by the 128 pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of the upper elementary school. Lincoln School is the "laboratory school" of Teachers' College, Columbia University, and the highly unusual methods of teaching music, introduced there by Mrs. Satis N. Coleman, director of creative music at the school, are expected to produce a complete revolution in the methods of musical pedagogy.

Mrs. Coleman conducted the orchestra and 11-year-old Jules Seidman, who came from Russia as a refugee five years ago, was the concert master. The motives and themes were composed by pupils of the fifth and sixth grades and this material was arranged in symphonic form by Mrs. Coleman. The instrumentation consisted of psalteries, marimbas, flageolets, reed-flute, ocarinas, pan-pipes, violins, orchestral bells, drums, trumpets and triangles. The marimbas, pipes, drums and flutes were made by the children. The musical versatility of the children was demonstrated by the fact that most of them played on more than one instrument during the course of the performance.

The first movement of the symphony, an allegro moderato, consisted of three themes, interludes and a coda, arranged in sonata form. The second movement was an andante. Its theme grew out of the imagination of an 11-year-old boy, who set out to describe in music the feelings of a lad who has lost his way in a dark wood. Considerable realism was obtained by means of the weird notes of the ocarina. Themes originated by seven children went into the third movement, a minuet which gave effective play to the psalteries, flute and orchestral bells. In the final movement the players swung into an allegro con spirito made up of tunes composed by eight children.

THE symphony was highly lauded by educators and musicians and it definitely establishes the success of Mrs. Coleman's highly original ideas in the teaching of music. Mrs. Coleman's idea of a children's school for creative musical expression originated 15 years ago when she was directing a private studio in Washington, D. C. Herself a musician of considerable experience here and abroad, she recalled her own early beginnings as a music student and concluded that the conventional methods of teaching music were unsound. She had the conviction that all children, like primitive peoples and savages, have a natural love for music, but that it is usually stifled or misdirected by the fact that a child in taking music lessons usually gets everything but contact with music. Routine exercises, scales and the study of dull technicalities make the child's introduction to

Received Telegram From Brother She Thought She Had Buried

A Body Floating in the Mississippi Was Identified as John McCaslin, Who Had Disappeared.

PARIS, Tennessee.

MRS. J. E. ROBERTS had the body of her brother, John W. McCaslin, removed from a pauper's grave in Memphis. She had the body buried again on a lot belonging to her husband and herself. She and her other sisters and brothers paid some of the deceased's debts. And she and her brothers and sisters received their shares of the insurance money. Then Mrs. Roberts received something else. It was a telegram from the supposedly dead J. W. McCaslin, sent from Dawson, Georgia, asking for $10.

J. W. McCaslin disappeared, as far as his relatives were concerned, on last January 8. On February 18, Mrs. Roberts read that a man's body had been found in the Mississippi River at Memphis. From the description of the man, Mrs. Roberts believed it might be her brother. She went to Memphis and insisted the body be exhumed.

"It was a case of two men having the same identifying marks upon their bodies," says Mrs. Roberts, explaining the mistake. "When I read of the finding of the body in the river I thought it might be that of my brother. So my other two brothers, T. T. and Rice McCaslin, and I went to Memphis. There, with my sisters, Sue McCaslin and Mrs. Frank Buss, who live in Memphis, we secured permission to have the body exhumed.

"I stood at the head of the grave as the attendant went down into the grave and conducted the examination. I told him where to look for scars, and he said, he found them in every instance.

"THEN we had the body removed to the morgue, where all of us, including several friends of my brother, identified the body as that of John by scars and by the teeth. The teeth seemed just like John's. In fact, everything about the man, by which identification could be made, coincided with my brother's characteristics. All except the clothes. They were different from any we knew. I thought he had been murdered and his clothes purposely changed.

"After this identification we had the body taken to a lot belonging to my husband and me, and had it buried again.

"Well, one day last month I received a telegram from Dawson. It purported to be from my brother and asked for $10. I informed the telegraph company that my brother was dead, and the telegraph company started an investigation. And the investigation showed that the sender of the telegram really was John.

John McCaslin.

But McCaslin, Who Had Joined the Army, Turned Up Again in Georgia, Asking for Money.

"John, we learned, had enlisted in the army on January 8, the date we had fixed as his disappearance. He was sent to Fort Benning, near Columbus, Georgia. He had gone to Dawson with a soldier also stationed at Fort Benning, a soldier whose home was in Dawson. John had wired me for money so he might get back to camp.

"When John sent the wire his soldier friend was with him, and when I said that my brother was dead, John was held.

"WELL, when I learned the truth of it all my brother, T. T. McCaslin, and I went to Dawson. We immediately identified John and then we took him with us to a hotel, where we told him the whole story of his supposed death. We had all the newspaper clippings covering the case and we let him read them.

"At first he seemed to be embarrassed, then he turned pale. When he finished reading them he broke down and cried.

"He told us that on the day he enlisted he was discouraged and despondent. From the time of my mother's death, a few months before his enlistment, he had been drinking too much and had fallen into bad company. Then he became terribly dissatisfied with himself and decided to enlist. After he got to camp he determined he did not want us to know he had entered the army, so he did not write us. When he wired me for money he was away from camp, and thought I would not find out about his enlistment.

"After he had told us his story, my brother and I rode with him to Columbus, Georgia, and I telephoned to his Captain and explained why he was late in returning to camp."

Insurance that was held by John McCaslin was divided among his brothers and sisters. Mrs. Roberts says she is willing to refund the insurance money she received, and she is certain all the other heirs also will be.

"I regret," she says, "the mistake I made and all the trouble that followed, including my insistence that my brother had been murdered and that his death should be investigated. But I was acting as a true sister."

Mrs. Roberts is content to let the body of the unknown man, buried on the cemetery lot of herself and husband, remain there.

The work that Vollmer and others will do is to be related even more closely to practice through the City Managers' Association. This association is now establishing headquarters near the university. Active co-operation is planned. Thus, if a city should request information concerning a model police force, Vollmer could instantly provide it.

Others in similar and related fields of criminology are to be offered posts at the university. Last year A. L. Dixon, assistant secretary of the Home Office, executive of the English police system, gave a series of lectures at the university which were largely attended by Chicago police.

Already numerous applications have come from those who want to take work under Vollmer. Professor White has received a great many letters from young men bitten with a desire to be super-detectives. This type will be discouraged. Several police executives have already indicated that they will enroll in the fall. And during the winter term Professor Vollmer will have a seminar which will be restricted to graduate students and police er's death, a few months before his enlistment, he had been drinking too much and had fallen into bad company. Then he became terribly dissatisfied with himself and decided to enlist. After he got to camp he determined he did not want us to know he had entered the army, so he did not write us. When he wired me for money he was away from camp, and thought I would not find out about his enlistment.

"After he had told us his story, my brother and I rode with him to Columbus, Georgia, and I telephoned to his Captain and explained why he was late in returning to camp."

Insurance that was held by John McCaslin was divided among his brothers and sisters. Mrs. Roberts says she is willing to refund the insurance money she received, and she is certain all the other heirs also will be.

"I regret," she says, "the mistake I made and all the trouble that followed, including my insistence that my brother had been murdered and that his death should be investigated. But I was acting as a true sister."

Mrs. Roberts is content to let the body of the unknown man, buried on the cemetery lot of herself and husband, remain there.

Children Who Make Their Own Instruments and Play Their Own Music

Achievements of Pupils at the Lincoln School in New York Pronounced Remarkable by Educators Who Heard Them Perform.

NEW YORK.

NEW page in musical history is being written by the pupils of the Lincoln School in New York, who recently demonstrated their musical skill by composing a symphony and then playing it on musical instruments made by themselves. Before an audience which included many educators of note, the child symphonists, ranging in age from 8 to 12 years, played Symphony No. 2 in G Major, which is the second symphony composed and mastered by the 128 pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of the upper elementary school. Lincoln School is the "laboratory school" of Teachers' College, Columbia University, and the highly unusual methods of teaching music, introduced there by Mrs. Satis N. Coleman, director of creative music at the school, are expected to produce a complete revolution in the methods of musical pedagogy.

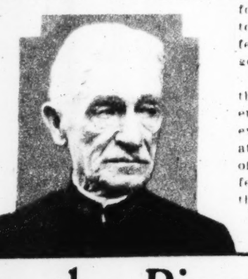
Mrs. Coleman conducted the orchestra and 11-year-old Jules Seidman, who came from Russia as a refugee five years ago, was the concert master. The motives and themes were composed by pupils of the fifth and sixth grades and this material was arranged in symphonic form by Mrs. Coleman. The instrumentation consisted of psalteries, marimbas, flageolets, reed-flute, ocarinas, pan-pipes, violins, orchestral bells, drums, trumpets and triangles. The marimbas pipes, drums and flutes were made by the children. The musical versatility of the children was demonstrated by the fact that most of them played on more than one instrument during the course of the performance.

The first movement of the symphony, an allegro moderato, consisted of three themes, interludes and a coda, arranged in sonata form. The second movement was an andante. Its theme grew out of the imagination of an 11-year-old boy, who set out to describe in music the feelings of a lad who has lost his way in a dark wood. Considerable realism was obtained by means of the weird notes of the ocarina. Themes originated by seven children went into the third movement, a minuet which gave effective play to the psalteries, flute and orchestral bells. In the final movement the players swung into an allegro con spirito made up of tunes composed by eight children.

THE symphony was highly lauded by educators and musicians and it definitely establishes the success of Mrs. Coleman's highly original ideas in the teaching of music. Mrs. Coleman's idea of a children's school for creative musical expression originated 15 years ago when she was directing a private studio in Washington, D. C. Herself a musician of considerable experience here and abroad, she recalled her own early beginnings as a music student and concluded that the conventional methods of teaching music were unsound. She had the conviction that all children, like primitive peoples and savages, have a natural love for music, but that it is usually stifled or misdirected by the fact that a child in taking music lessons usually gets everything but contact with music. Routine exercises, scale drills and the study of dull technicalities make the child's introduction to music a drudgery which, to the youthful mind, has no connection with music itself, with the not uncommon effect of making the child actually hate music.

On the other hand, she had observed that primitive peoples, instead of starting their musical studies with a highly-evolved instrument, like the piano or violin, invariably played a very simple instrument, entirely within the range of their powers. With unusual insight, she came to the conclusion that the best way to encourage a love for music among children was not to burden them promptly with technicalities which had no meaning to them, but rather to let them recapitulate the musical experience of the race by starting with extremely simple instruments which would enable them to understand everything they worked with.

In 1918, Mrs. Coleman opened a studio in New York. Her unusual work came to the attention of the Lincoln School, which is keenly interested in every new idea relating to teaching, and the following year Mrs. Coleman became a faculty member.



"It is not our aim to turn out finished musicians," Mrs. Coleman says in describing her work. "We strive for artistic effects, to be sure, but perfection is not our goal.

"We are giving this instruction to enrich the child's experience, to create an appreciation of music and to feed the sheer joy that children find in musical expression. By making his own instrument the child learns that there is music in the common things. Music becomes a reality which he can fully understand. And he feels the pride of craftsmanship and loves the instrument because he made it."

Little stress is laid upon technical training in Mrs. Coleman's classes. The children are not confused with a study of notes and bars and staffs. They are taught to experiment for themselves, in the early stages, with such simple devices as glasses filled with water, which, when struck, give forth a musical tone. Under their teacher's direction, they discover for themselves what man, somewhere in his evolution, discovered about sounds.

The experiments continue and then the children are given a psaltery to play. This primitive, yet very musical, instrument had become obsolete until Mrs. Coleman designed one and had it manufactured in quantities for her pupils. The children are not taught musical notes, but instead have their strings numbered. They learn the names of the strings, A, B, C, etc., and the corresponding numbers, 1, 2, 3, etc., and when they compose tunes that they like, they are taught to write them down by using the appropriate numbers. Later on, of course, they are taught notes, which are merely the symbols for the letters of a piece. In this way the children are not confused by first learning symbols before they know what is being symbolized. The children come into intimate contact with musical sounds and then, as they develop in musical understanding and are able to appreciate the definite need for musical scales, they learn their notes easily.

"THE wish to play and the habit of finding joy in music are the things which make the child musical, and not the technical skill that is drilled—and sometimes beaten—into him," says Mrs. Coleman. "In 1926 I wrote a symphony for the pupils. But last year, in discussion, they decided that they wanted one of their own. So I told them if they would give me the tunes I would build a symphony for them. The resulting Symphony in F Major, given last year, was the first made by the children and the first of its kind in the history of music. I do not consider it a fantastic hope that out of this movement may grow a real American music—a musical culture that will be partly native and partly the melodious simmering of the American melting pot. If children, as part of their elementary education, are taught music in such a way that it can become a very definite reality to them there is no reason why their natural love for music, fostered in this way, will not make us a musical nation in the best sense of the term."

The psychological value of having the children make their own instruments has not been overestimated by Mrs. Coleman. The more complicated instruments they do not make. Bells and ocarinas are too difficult to construct. Some classes have made cellos, but these instruments were found to require too much time in the making. The seven violinists in the orchestra happen to be pupils who are also studying that instrument outside of school. All the children, however, make some instrument. The Pipes-of-Pan is one of the simplest, and the manner in which the children go about making one illustrates Mrs. Coleman's methods. Before making the instrument she tells them the story of Pan, of his love for the beautiful nymph, Syrinx, and how she was changed into a cluster of reeds by the side of the river just as Pan was about to overtake her in flight. His discovery of the tone made by his breath passing over the reeds that had been broken by his grasp, and his invention of the musical pipes as consolation for the lost Syrinx, seem real to the children.

So successful has Mrs. Coleman's method been that she has been giving summer courses to teachers attending the Columbia Summer School, and the movement is spreading to other states. This summer she will go abroad to lecture at the International Conference on Education, to be held in Denmark, and will also lecture on her methods at Vienna and Lausanne.

Captain Good Quits the River After 50 Years

No Ship He Commanded, in a Career That Began at 17, Ever Had an Accident.

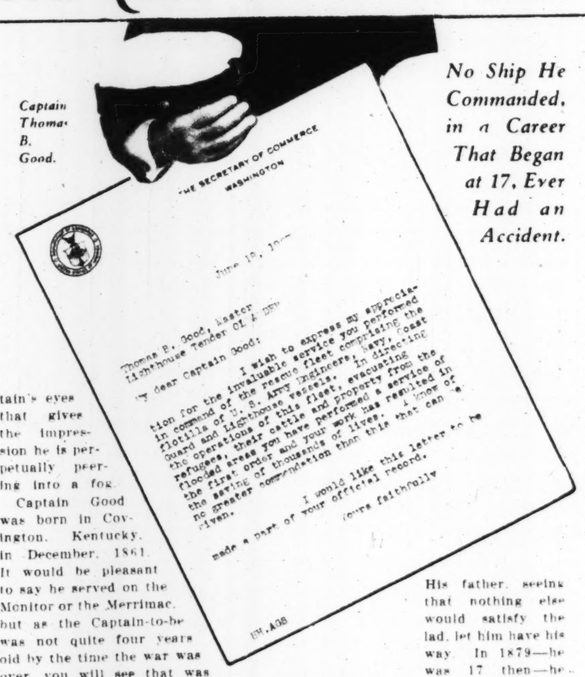
By JULIUS KLYMAN

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

HAVING worn out two Government river boats and broken in a third, having spent a half-century on the Mississippi River, the last 30 years as its chaperone, Captain Thomas B. Good has decided to retire. He will now proceed to live a normal life; he will take to sleeping in a stationary bed, to living in a house, to enjoying the pleasure of stepping out of his front door without taking a sounding. From now on No. 7 Hortus Court, St. Louis, will be his home in fact as in name.

Tom Good retires on about three-quarters' pay and high praise. (Note the letter from Mr. Hoover.) It seems the Captain deserves it—the letter, the pay, the praise. For it has been his job, through the past three decades, to steam up and down the temperamental Mississippi between the mouth of the Missouri and New Orleans, watching the guide lights and the danger lights, charting the ever-changing channel, erecting new signals and moving old, engaging the keepers of the lights and checking their work. And, every now and then, stopping in the middle of it all to take command of some rescue flotilla and go about the business of flood-time relief.

Strenuous work, at time dangerous work, but Captain Good seems to have weathered the years in excellent style, despite a few unexpected duckings in the fickle yellow torrent. Sixty-seven years of life he has put behind him, "lucky, the last 50 years, to be at home with the family 10 days out of a month." But his some six feet of height remain straight and slender and stalwart, there is a snap in his walk and a military—or maybe it's a naval—precision to his carriage. There are deep lines in his face, and many of them, but his blue eyes are alert and, contrary to the general report concerning old sailormen whose business it has been for years to look into the distance, I find nothing about the Captain's eyes that gives the impression he is perpetually peering into a fog.



Captain Good was born in Covington, Kentucky, in December, 1861. It would be pleasant to say he served on the Monitor or the Merrimac, but as the Captain-to-be was not quite four years old by the time the war was over, you will see that was quite impossible. Tom Good's grandfather kept a ship-chandlery shop on the Cincinnati waterfront. His father was Captain of a packet running from points on the Ohio down to New Orleans, and during the Civil War was employed by the Northern Government to construct and operate iron-protected river boats.

BUT, in 1870, Tom Good's father moved to St. Louis to manage the Mississippi Valley Transportation Company, or the "Barge line" as the rivermen knew it.

Tom Good had several brothers and sisters, and their father wanted all of them to stay just as far away from the Mississippi as possible. But young Tom preferred the river to schooling. His father, seeing that nothing else would satisfy the lad, let him have his way. In 1879—he was 17 then—he got aboard a river boat as cub pilot, an apprenticeship in learning his trade.

Guiding a boat on the Mississippi was a particularly difficult job in those days. In its hereditary manner, the river's channel was always twisting and turning from the course you had followed in your last trip, and there was no such complete system of light guides as the cub pilot was to install in the years to come. Piloting on the river meant frequent soundings and an ever alertness to swing the pilot's wheel swiftly and certainly to avoid some new danger.

In those days there was no mechanical aid to help you in turning your wheel, as there is on the modern river boats. The pilot steered, as Captain Good told me, "by main strength and awkwardness," climbing onto the spokes of the wheel itself to get more and speedier action when the necessity demanded.

Tom Good picked up the work quickly, I take it, for after he had been at his job a year he got his pilot's license. A brief apprenticeship, yes, but there were extenuating circumstances. For one, Captain Tom Pol, the master of the towboat Fearless, had a cargo of barges to get under way, and while Captain Pol had a master's license, he didn't have a pilot's. Furthermore, there were no stray pilots about. Captain Pol thereupon chose the Apprentice Good as his man, took him to the Federal Supervisor of river goings-on, stationed here at St. Louis, and asked the gentleman, one Peter Vandervoort by name, to examine young Mr. Good and see what he could see.

PETER VANDERVOORT, after due consideration, informed his applicant that he would grant the license if Tom Good would listen to three words. Tom Good was willing. Said Peter Vandervoort: "Stop in time."

Tom Good never forgot it. And no boat that he captained ever had an accident.

Pilot Good stayed in the barge service until well into the '90s. He got his master's license in the '80s; he got a marriage license in 1885. He and his wife made their honeymoon trip on one of Tom Good's towboats, St. Louis to New Orleans and back again. Ten sons were born to them, four of whom are living. One of them, Elmer, is a river Captain, sailing out of Baton Rouge on a Standard Oil towboat.

In 1894 Tom Good left the barge service. He moved to Memphis and took his place as pilot on the steamboat Kate Adams, a passenger vessel. In two years they made him her master. He captained her for another two years and a half.

Then the Goods returned to St.

BUT how in the world did you ever take me for Lester? That's what gets me. Yes, I know you ain't seen either of us for three years, and taking into account how much we favor each other, it'd be natural enough if you wasn't to be just sure which one of us it was. Coming on me suddenly this way, sitting by a mountain shack, a hundred miles from nowhere, you might well've hesitated. But there's the point: you never did. No, there you come, around the corner, give me one look, hold out your hand as if before you thought, and, "Why, good heavens! Hullo, Lester," says you. "Where's John?"

And all the while, me John!

Well, then, you say, where's Lester? Well, Lester's all right. Look here, I know you, and I'd trust you with my last cent. Only you know how things go. And they might still get Lester for that, I s'pose. The law's that way. The law would never take into account that no fatal harm ever come to no one through it (as it turns out—oh, yes, I've heard)—no more'n it'd take into account that Lester is—well—different. No, let's leave Lester where he is, if it's all the same to you.

But your taking me for him, without so much as a quiver; that's the queer thing. You never mistook us in the old days, nor anyone else. Why, anybody in town could've said in a wink this one's Lester or this one's John. How could they? You know better'n I do. And yet they do say that no matter how much twins favor each other, yet if you're used to 'em there's something different.

ONLY look here. I can say it where another couldn't. You know as well as I do that there was a difference between Lester and me. As a boy I was stronger'n Lester. If there was a kite in a tree, I was the one to climb the tree. If we had to go anywheres after dark, I went first. Or when it come to making a living I was the one to undertake it. Mind, I ain't complaining. I was glad to do it.

You never knew why Lester was scared of lightning, did you? But you knew he was. Yes, for I remember 'twas you and Tom Lake come with me that night the herring factory was struck and we found Lester jammed so tight under the woodshed floor, to home, we had to pry off a plank to get him clear.

Course, I always knew he was scared of lightning. Many and many's the night I been waked by a tempest, to find Lester in bed with me, and the touch of him cold as ice. I remember seeing him there by the flashes, sitting bolt upright and his eyes staring open. And every time it come he'd beg me to look—look all around—look. Look at what? Couldn't say. Only look. "D'ye see anything, John? Not anything 't all?"

He made me feel queer enough, I tell you, with that high-pitched, unnatural voice.

WELL, one time he told me. It was a Sunday afternoon, and we was lying on the beach looking at the clouds. Once in a long while it come like that. It's hard to explain. I don't know's you'd understand anyway; you never was born twin with another. But sometimes, when everything was dead quiet and nobody else about and nothing to do, a funny kind of a dreamy softness-like use to come over us; it was 's if all I wanted to do was to take hold of Lester's hand and lay there and kind o' forget. And if I had a secret, or if Lester had a secret—did you ever see the mist coming off the ground of an early morning—that easy? Oh, doggone it, I don't know how to—it just sounds foolish. But anyway——

Well, anyway, Lester told me why he was scared of lightning. It wasn't he was scared of being struck. No, he says he even wished sometimes he could be. It was something else. As far as he could make out it must've been some dream he'd had, several times, he thought likely. He was in the dark, trying to go somewheres, creeping on his hands and knees. There come a stroke of lightning that run right down through his body like an ice-cold flame. And just then, right before him on the ground, he seen the face of a woman. He seen her there where he could've touched her with his hand, and her eyes was wide open, staring at him—dead—dead as a doornail.

He wasn't himself; you'll just have to understand that. Maybe it's the electricity in the air. Maybe it's something else. I've read something in a book since I was here, and I've got to thinking maybe 'twas something come down to him—something our ma might possibly have got scared by before me and Lester was born. That happens.

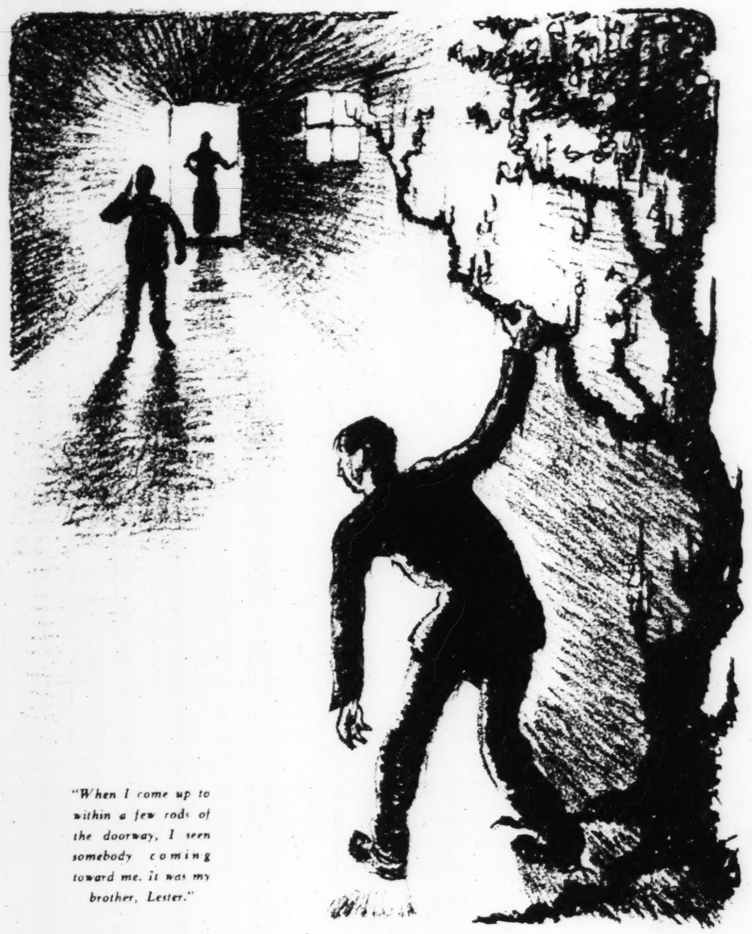
BUT in that case, you'll say, why wasn't I burned with the same iron? Well, there you are. I been reading, and all that business is queer enough, if you only knew it. You can only say that when me and Lester divided up, that was one of the things that went into his share. And what a share! Dear me!

And when he come running to me in the tempest that evening—you know the evening I mean—and tell me what had happened (what he thought had happened), it seemed to me the world had ended for us two. I don't need to go over it again, that "crime" of Lester's. You know it as well's I do; you know well's I do he wasn't a responsible creature that night, and as far as I'm concerned that's enough.

But he was like a kid, too horror-struck and remorseful to do for himself. He was pitiful. I told him I'd take care of him. We had a good house and a nice piece of land, remember? I locked the house and hove the key away; I remember it shining now in the light where the moon come through the cloud, going over into the long grass behind of White's. Everything I had in the world but my brother went with that key.

I told Lester to come, and we started down across the bog towards the "Y." We was unlucky, though. We met Ellis—Constable Ellis. He squinted at us, and you could see the old man didn't know what to do. When we'd passed him, he turned and commence to follow us. We run. Lester was crying, he was so nervous, and I was at my wit's end, I tell you that.

The freight was at the "Y," same's I thought, but seeing Ellis was on our trail, we didn't stop. We walked and we run all the way to the junction that night, getting there about 4 in the morning. It was still quite dark, and we had no trouble stowing away in an empty boxcar.



"When I come up to within a few rods of the doorway, I seen somebody coming toward me. it was my brother, Lester."

THAT boxcar landed us in the hills here after two days and nights (and thank God it wasn't more) without a drop of water or a grain of food. Lester seem to suffer from it. I honestly don't remember a pang of hunger or thirst myself, but it seem's if Lester would kill me. It seem's if his horror and hopelessness was more'n I could bear, I was that worked up over it all. Even about his "crime." It wasn't his; it was my own; we'd both done it. I tell you it was just the same as it was them times when we lay watching the clouds together; same's if all the time was washed out, back to the time we was unborn babes, and both in the same boat, so to speak.

Well, the first thing we done when we got clear of that boxcar was walk into a strange mountain town and buy dinner at a bakery. We set at a table in the rear, eating buns and drinking coffee, one cup after another. We looked bad enough, I guess, with our faces pinched up white and a three days' growth on 'em, our clothes dusty and bagged. It was hot in that bakery; there was a swarm of flies on everything, and the milk in the coffee was turned a mite, but I tell you, what with the food, the relief, and the newness of all the sights, it was as good as a banquet in the Adams House.

"Now," I says to Lester, "we're all right. Look here. We start from today. We was born today, Lester, and life's all ahead of us. See?"

A pink spot come in his cheek; he give me a funny look, half-scared, half-hoping, and his coffee slopped, his hand was shaking so.

"Is that right?" says he. "Honest, do you believe that, John?"

"Sure!" says I, as bold as brass. After a minute the pink went out of his cheeks and he give my foot a nudge with his.

"I WISH that girl'd quit watching us so," says he, under his breath. "She's done nothing else ever since we come in here."

She'd gone from the counter when I got a chance to look. She was back directly, though, and a couple of customers with her—customers, I noticed, that didn't buy. Within five minutes there was a dozen people in that little bakery, and if one went out two come in.

Lester begin scratching his wrist. You could always tell when he was getting nervous, the way he always scratched his wrist.

"For pity's sake," says he, "let's pay and get out of here!"

"Don't you mind," says I. All the same it seem to me the place had got as close as an oven. One man come in and give us a long look and walked out at a brisk rate, and I could've swore he had a badge on underneath his coat. Lester wouldn't leave me be.

"It's nothing, nothing," I tell him. I wished I could believe it. The air of them people set me thinking. If Constable Ellis had traced us to the junction it was perfectly possible for him to have found out where every car in that freight was billed to. And there's always the telegraph.

"The files are bad here," I says to Lester. "If you're done we might's well move along." And I call the girl and paid.

"Is that right?" I asked her, in a sharp way, for in place of looking at the money she kept her eyes going from one to the other of us, her mouth half-open and her face as red as a beet.

"Count it," says I. But she never. And I didn't trouble to ask her again. Just that minute I hear someone coming into the door behind me, and my heart stopped beating. You know the way Ellis walks, from that bad leg of his. Well, it may not've been the least like it, but I never turned to look. I took Lester by the elbow and I says: "Come on, quiet," and I walk him straight away through the bake-room and out the back door. I never stopped to think; never stopped to reckon what chance in a thousand there was of old Ellis turning up in the flesh in that little out-of-the way village in the mountains; no sooner'd we got into the sunlight outside that door than I just started out to run, dragging Lester with me. And I had to drag him, too.

"No," he keep saying. "Th'ain't no use, John; no use, no use."

"You never mind about the use," I kept telling him.

I don't know. There was a fence and a big dump of empty cans, and there was a woman hoeing potatoes in a backyard. She had on a gray-and-white check, and she showed against a line of clothes with one bright-red shirt amongst a lot of white ones. It's funny how that sticks in my mind. The only other thing I remember seeing was a mountain covered with woods, standing up against the sky in front of us, and then all of a sudden a smell of corn growing and a rustle breaking around us like tide-rips. That's where we come, into a field of it along the foot of the mountain.

"LAY down," I says to Lester when we'd come a dozen rows or so.

"Th'ain't no use," he kept it up, without any life to his voice. "I'm going back and have it over with, John."

"You go back, Lester," says I, "and I'll kill myself."

He laid down beside me.

By and by Lester begin to talk. He laid with his hands behind his head and his eyes staring up at the corn leaves. His whole life come out. He was no good, he says, and he knew it. He had queer ideas and imaginings that scared him, and it wasn't alone in time of tempest any more.

I can hear him going on, monotonous and dreamy, letting it all come out under the green corn rows. He knew he wasn't the same as others, and he couldn't keep his mind off his queerness. He said he had a terrible drawing toward women—not any one woman—just women. Yet he was scared of them. He was scared to be left alone in the dark with a woman or a girl for fear he'd find her dead. That was what seem to get in the way of everything he undertook. So he might's well be dead himself; better, he says, for then he wouldn't be a drag on me no longer, nor a shame nor a torment to himself.

With that I hitch up and put an arm around his shoulders, good and tight, and, "Now it's my turn to talk," says I.

"All this you been telling me is a lie," I says.

"No," says he, "it's every word the truth."

"NO," says I, "it's a lie. For it's all just in your mind, and it's wrong. And what's just in your mind, and wrong, that's a lie. And I won't have it. I won't stand for it, Lester; not in a brother of mine. Now—do you hear what I say? Look here. No, in the eye. I'm stronger'n you, I'm steadier'n you, I'm braver'n you. Not what you say, but what I say, is what goes. Get that? Well, it's a lie, and I won't have it. Right here and now I declare war on it, from this identical minute I take sides—with you—and against that—lie. I take responsibility for you. What strength I got is yours—yours—understand? I give you everything I got, soul and body. There!"

You know, if either of us'd thought of it, I sounded as queer as a loon myself. I was trying so hard to make Lester believe me that I believed myself. I was blowing like a beached haddock when I got through, and so was he.

"You hear what I say?" I give him a hard shake. "I say that that—thing has gone and got out of you—now—from now on!"

The same look come into his face that I'd seen in the bakery—hoping, yet scared to hope.

"You—you think so?"

"I don't think so; I know so."

"Honest?"

"Honest!"

Poor Lester! It seem's if I could've killed anybody that undertook to spoil that hope in his face. I seen him roll onto an elbow and turn an ear.

"What's that?" says he.

"Nothing," says I. "Nothing but some dog barking somewheres."

"No, but hark!"

WELL, I had to listen. By and by it come to me there was more dogs'n one, and that they wasn't barking like farm dogs. They was baying. Same as you'll hear the surf way off on an outside beach; that's how I hear 'em. I don't know.

But as I went groping across the glade to try and pin on Lester I seen one of them call that the first flash. It blind white for a second, all over the sky at once, and wasn't any shadows, just smooth, staring white. And not three yards away from stands that dog. He may brown, but in the light looked gray, grizzle-gray; dog, with drooping ears and perfectly motionless, look the right of me. And all us them pale, thin trees.

EVER believe a could actually end? Mine did; that for a fact. I was of that dog I could And yet I was so set in than my one thought after Lester. Lester's that dog's seen him; him." And as the dark and the thunder with it, one long jump at that where he had been. heavens, it was black. If I'd ever got him, what done I don't know.

I never got him. He out. And there was I ing around, stone blind, my hands every which trying to call to Lester Branches hit me, stone under my feet; I trip thing and down I come arms over the trunk of tree. And then the light

I'll call that the second It was by far the longest three; or maybe there bolts'n one. If that's last must've struck close

The important work of his life now was before the tender's new master. Up and down the river he sailed, two weeks on the down trip, four weeks on the upstream voyage. Trip after trip, year after year. In winter, only so far north as Cairo, Illinois, at the Ohio's mouth. Cairo, and then maybe home by train to St. Louis for a few days. And all too often threatening ice, and resultant disappointing telegrams to Mrs. Good and the little Goods, saying it was impossible for the skipper to leave his boat while danger impended.

In 1903, the Joseph Henry worn out, they gave Captain Good a new ship, the tender Oleander, with steel hull and superstructure of wood. And only last year, after 25 years of hard work, the Oleander, weary in the service, was replaced by the U. S. Willow, steel from stem to stern and from bottom to top deck.

went for that light. When I come my brother Lester.

I couldn't say so much's a word.
I stood and waited till he come and looked at me. He give a sigh.

"Thank heavens!" says he. "I was beginning to worry, John. Another ten minutes I should've set out to look for you."

He slapped me on the shoulder and laughed. I wouldn't have known him, somehow.

"Hungry?" says he. "I bet a cent you're hungry. You hit the right place, John, old boy, don't worry. There's a woman here fries bacon, and she's got a tub of coffee on the stove. Come along.

"Come along!" says he again,
seeing I never moved. I tell you,
I didn't feel like moving for a cent. I couldn't make him out.

"Didn't you see it?" I manage to say at last.

"See it?" He give a laugh. "I guess I did. Say, some dog! Some dog! I thought sure for a min-

John."

"Dog!" says I. "Dog! I don't mean the dog. I mean—didn't you see the face? In the lightning? The face of that—that—that dead woman?"

He look at me for a minute, and it seems to me he was kind of embarrassed. He put his arm around my shoulders and started walking toward the lighted door.

"No," says he in a queer, sober voice. "I never seen it this time,
John. And, what's the funniest part, I wasn't once scared of being —being just going to see it, either. I been thinking. You know, John, old boy, I almost believe—talking the way you did, and acting like you did—I'll be darned if I believe you didn't cure me."

I couldn't help it; he seem like a stranger. And I as dumb, all the while, as dumb.

"No," says he, "somehow or other I seem to get ahold of myself after what you said—and even more the way you says it.

"DO YOU know what I was thinking of all through that tempest. John?
Well, I was figuring to myself the chance, say, if there was a thousand men out in a thousand different thunder squalls—
what chance in a million would there be of any one at all of 'em seeing a dead woman by a stroke of lightning? And here was I, just one single man, out in one single tempest. What chance in a million? In a hundred million?
Well, 'twasn't hardly enough, I should say, when I come to think of it, to be very badly scared about. Wasn't that right, John?"

He give me a look, kind of side-wise, kind of sheepish, and more color in his cheeks'n I'd ever seen there before.

Captain Good Quits the River

Louis and Master Good joined up with the Government. For a brief time his work was that of inspection. But, before long, he was back at his old job; he became pilot of the Lighthouse Tender Joseph Henry, the guardian of the Mississippi from New Orleans to the Missouri's mouth. And, to duplicate his experience on the Kate Adams, he presently succeeded to the Joseph Henry's captaincy.

The important work of his life now was before the tender's new master. Up and down the river he sailed, two weeks on the down trip, four weeks on the upstream voyage. Trip after trip, year after year. In winter, only so far north as Cairo, Illinois, at the Ohio's mouth. Cairo, and then maybe home by train to St. Louis for a few days. And all too often threatening ice, and resultant disappointing telegrams to Mrs. Good and the little Goods, saying it was impossible for the skipper to leave his boat while danger impended.

In 1903, the Joseph Henry worn out, they gave Captain Good a new ship, the tender Oleander, with steel hull and superstructure of wood. And only last year, after 25 years of hard work, the Oleander, weary in the service, was replaced by the U. S. Willow, steel from stem to stern and from bottom to top deck.

WHEN February of this year rolled around, Captain Good, with his 30 years of Government service behind him, was eligible for retirement. But the lighthouse service asked him to stay on a bit; the time was not auspicious for his leave-taking. Now the department has arranged its personnel so he may take his rest, and he takes it. His last official trip, made late last month, was aboard the Willow, of course. He took his boat from St. Louis to New Orleans, and returned by train. He had a passenger. The passenger was Mrs. Good. She had shared his first trip after their marriage with him; she was determined to share his last. So Captain Good asked his superiors' permission, and he got it in short order.

Rivermen and lighthouse officers will tell you that the Mississippi never before was patrolled as it has been since Tom Good became the lower river's custodian. Where there were some 300 signal lights before, now more than 900 point the way by day and by night. And the Captain has so well chosen his light-keepers—whites and Negroes, men and women—so well planned their work, so well arranged the bringing to them of their supplies of kerosene and wicks and all the other things necessary to keeping their lights burning, that during the flood of 1927—the worst, says Captain Good, he ever experienced—not a solitary light was reported to have failed.

SO WHEN Captain Good retired, John C. Gotwals, superintendent of lighthouses for the fifteenth district, stationed in St. Louis, wrote to his officer, in part: "Your intelligent and skillful supervision of aids to navigation on the Mississippi has become a tradition. The dependence of all of the great and growing navigation on your skill has been a large factor and almost the basis of the increasing use of the river. You have indebted all river people to you in this respect, as well as for substantial help you have given at times of flood and other emergencies. The standard of quality you have set in your work, and the ideals of service you have set up, can well be the motto for this lighthouse district."

I asked the Captain how he thought he'd get along on dry land, away from his old friend and enemy. Would he miss that inconstant, muddy flow, now placid, now maliciously turbulent?

"Miss it?" The Captain shook his head. "No."

But Mrs. Good, seated strategically behind him, winked at me and shook her head.

A hamlet called Runnymede now stands about two miles south of the old townsite, but it has no connection with the Runnymede of the old days. The old townsite is now a part of a farm and its main street is green with rows of growing wheat. On an elevation at the east end of what was once Main street is the grave of Thomas S. Hudson, a former resident. The tombstone gleams white in the sunshine, keeping silent vigil over the grave of a man—and a town.

Lightning

"Say!" says he, then. He looked at me fairer, seeing I didn't answer. "Say, what's wrong with you? What makes you look that way, John? You hungry?"

"I—yes," says I, "I—I guess so. Hungry."

That minute we got to the doorstep, and out come a woman to stand on the sill, in the light. She's a good-looking, red-cheeked, youngish woman with straight, black hair and good-natured eyes.

"Sakes," says she to Lester, "I'm glad you warned me, or else I'd think I was beginning to see double in my old age." She put her hands on her hips, threw her head back, and give a little laugh. Then says she to me: "You empty, too? Soaked on the outside and empty on the in, eh? Well, well, both them things is curable diseases."

Her voice died off and I seen her eyes'd shifted beyond us.

"There they come now," she says.

I look around and I seen a crowd of lanterns coming up the road, and I hear a whining of dogs.

"Land!" I hear her saying, as if to herself. "Just as good I got the coffee early. They telephoned they'd be here like about ten."

YOU could see she was uneasy, or, not so much uneasy as embarrassed. Her eyes shift back to us, and it was at Lester she looked, not me.

"Well?" says she.

"Well?" says Lester, almost like he was mocking her.

I don't know what he'd told her or who she thought we was, but anyway she was ill at her ease.

"Well," says she, flushing redder and redder and still looking at my brother, "I tell you, why don't you boys just clear out and wait a spell? Right there to the left in the brush you'll find a path leading up the spring. It's quiet there and out of the way. I tell you, frankly, these folks is all right; still, they never been crazy about strangers hereabouts. Specially so as they're all het up just now with this word that Warty Edmonds' gang, that held up the mail Tuesday, is working this way over the mountain. If you boys come through town today it's a wonder to me they didn't round you up and give you the third degree. They're that het up. Mercy! here they come. That's right. That's best. You just wait above the spring a spell till I call you. I'll give 'em some coffee, and 'twon't be long. That's the boys."

She followed us, though, and come a few steps into the dark. And still it was Lester she looked at, and Lester she spoke to.

"You'll be back, though?"

"Sure we'll be back," says he, and give her a long look.

"Remember?" says she.

I mistrusted her, somehow. When we come to the spring I was all for playing it safe and going on while we could. I told Lester I didn't like the look of it: it had too much the look of a trap for me. It was funny; I was the timid one that time, and Lester was the bold.

"No," says he, shaking his head hard. "She's all right."

"All right, or all wrong, I wouldn't take a chance," says I.

"I WOULD," says he. He give me a kind of laugh and a dig in the ribs. "Don't you worry," says he. And for all my arguing he wouldn't budge from that. When the woman called in the dark, I stayed where I was, but Lester went. And he was right.

No, he ain't around here now. He's married now and gone a good ways from these parts, and doing well, I hear; surprising well, for Lester.

Me? Well, maybe some day I'll be setting out on my own again. First I'd kind of like to find that woman. She ought not to be left out that way without a Christian burial. And me being the one that seen her, seems like I was the one——

Bayless, darn you! What makes you look——

Darn you, Bayless! Don't you look at me cross-eyed that way. She was there. What the name of creation d'you suppose! You suppose I'm another simpleton like Lester, born to see things that ain't? You got another suppose coming, then; that's the joke on you. No, no fooling, Bayless, she was there, and she must be there still, somewhere in them woods across there. See them woods across there? Well, I got to find her or I don't believe I'll ever get her face out of my mind. Sometimes in a thunder tempest—even now——

Bill (breathlessly): "Nan, I've been taken into the sales department!"

Nan (very happy): "What was it you said, young man, about scrubbed hands and clean shirts not counting?"

Real cleanliness gives him a better chance!

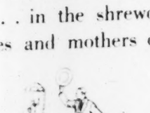
Wives know. Husbands in many ways are still little boys. They're frequently careless about details that are really important. The matter of personal appearance, for instance.

Many a man has been helped to a bigger job by extra cleanliness of the all-around and every-morning kind.

Thousands are held back, on the other hand, because they don't see their half-clean hands and "slightly soiled" collars and shirts as others see them.

Is there anything finer (or more practical) that wives may do, or mothers with grown-up sons, than to encourage a more cordial attention to cleanliness among their men folks? . . . in the shrewd little ways that only wives and mothers can manage?



Send him forth in "shining armor"

Business is a battle now-a-days, and our warrior needs every advantage he can muster. No two-day shirts and no family-imposed feeling that he can't have a fresh one, every morning.

Clean socks, of course, and handkerchiefs. And clean underwear to go with that on-top-of-the-world feeling that he gets in the bath. Nothing adds more to the morning's store of self-confidence and self-respect.

When he's tired out and cross

In the morning, especially if he's inclined to linger and be late, the stinging shower or cold tub is fine. For real cleansing, the hot bath naturally is best, and for aching muscles. For sleeplessness, however, and to soothe tired nerves, the tepid bath is recommended . . . first a good lathering and then a good "soak".

Here's something else to do, when you're particularly anxious that his sleep should be refreshing: put clean sheets on the bed. Is there anything more welcome to the tired, distracted body? . . . that induces sleep more surely?

Keeping him happy . . . though at home

Business usually takes a man "out and around" more than a woman. He meets more people, men and women. He goes to more places, most of them cheerfully clean. Is it any wonder then, that he is a bit disheartened when he comes home to a house with dingy curtains? . . . or finds you in untidy clothes?

Clever wives have found a direct relation between a schedule that keeps woodwork clean all over the house, curtains fresh, kitchen-scrubbed, bathrooms spotless (and wives themselves pretty, by dinner-time) . . . and husbands who truly enjoy being at home.

That is true. Real cleanliness makes friends everywhere. And for everyone.

It makes friends for mother . . . nice people whom otherwise she might never meet.

It makes friends for brother and sister among their school and playmates.

It makes business friends for father . . . works every day to help him get ahead.

It becomes more important every day, because every day living is becoming more crowded, our contacts wider and closer.

Yes. It's worth giving conscious time and effort to real cleanliness, every day of our lives, because it improves our health and happiness in so many ways.

ALL ABOUT FASHIONABLE WEDDINGS

Changes in Procedure—The Rejected Suitor no Longer a Feature.

P. G. Wodehouse.

FASHIONABLE Weddings!

What pictures, what memories the words conjure up! The bride with her set, determined face. The bridegroom, trying in vain to break the jiujitsu hold of the best man. The ushers, endeavoring to persuade the distant connection with the ticket numbered Z-19 that she is not entitled to a ringside seat. The maids of honor, whispering that poor dear Hildegarde never did look well in white, but charitably reminding one another that she has a sweet disposition and that it is rather her misfortune than her fault that her hair is that curious shade.

Many changes have taken place of late in the procedure of smart weddings, and if the Book of Etiquette on which you rely to steer you through the difficult waters of social life was published more than three or four years back, you are liable to do the things that you ought not to do or to leave undone the things that should have been done.

This remark applies not only to the ordinary wedding-guest, but even to the officiating clergyman. Owing to the ever-increasing popularity of divorce and the confusion caused by the fact that our divorce laws differ in different states—so that the dissolution of a marriage is recognized in one state but not in another—it is now the custom in the best circles for the clergyman to provide himself with a species of chart or war-map, which he consults at the critical moment of the ceremony.

I was usher at a wedding recently, both the parties to which had previously made several false starts in the matrimonial handicap, and when the bishop who was officiating solemnly addressed the groom with the words, "Wilt thou, Twombley, take this Genevieve to be thy wedded wife; in sickness and in health, in Pennsylvania and in Massachusetts, in Nevada, Colorado, and all points west?" there was not a dry eye in the church.

It is not the fashion nowadays to have detectives at wedding receptions. It was a pretty custom, and it is a pity in some ways that it has died out, for there were few things more cheering to the thoughtful guest than the spectacle of an earnest and persevering sleuth arresting the bride's rich uncle from the West, as nearly always happened.

BUT the growing hideousness of wedding presents has made the passing of the detective inevitable. No sane bride and bridegroom would deliberately put obstacles in the way of the removal of the ghastly things given them by friends who had not the presence of mind to leave the country before the wedding invitation reached them.

The practice now is to encourage in every way the looting of the present-room, and many kleptomaniacs have, as a consequence, emerged from the cloud under which their unfortunate failing had placed them. They are now invited everywhere, with the tacit understanding that they do not shirk their merciful work. I for my part can think of no prettier sight than that of a young bride smiling encouragement on one of these helpful persons as he staggers from the room beneath the weight of a pair of massive ormolu vases, or of a young bridegroom thoughtfully helping his guest to wedge a silver loving-cup into his overcoat pocket.

Some of the very smartest people go even farther and enlist professional aid—a custom that has led to a considerable uplift among the members of the underworld, who are rapidly acquiring tone as the result of being invited to so many fashionable weddings in order to steal the presents. Indeed, this growing familiarity with our best families has led to an epidemic of the broad A among the personnel of the Hudson Dusters that has been something of a puzzle to our local constabulary.

Curiously enough, the rejected suitor has ceased (almost as completely as the detective) to be a feature of the best weddings. A few years ago a bride thought very poorly of herself if she could not muster among her wedding guests half a dozen or more discarded suitors. Occasionally, this would lead to a pretty and spontaneous effect, as when young Clarence de Peyster blew his brains out with one hand while shaking the bride's hand with the other at the Bootle-Bartholomew wedding reception. The incident was the talk of the town for quite a time, and undoubtedly did much to establish the newly-married pair in the secure social position they now enjoy.

At the home wedding, you are closer to the refreshments.

But too few rejected suitors are like poor De Peyster. It is, perhaps, asking too much of a young man to commit suicide simply in order to make a wedding reception go off well, but at least it is not unreasonable to expect him to exhibit a decent gloom. It is the failure of the modern rejected suitor to do this that has led to his exclusion from most wedding receptions nowadays. He has developed a habit of thanking the groom publicly in a loud voice as his benefactor.

Everybody will remember the painful scene at the Mumbleby-Packsmith wedding, when, just as Sigismund Mumbleby, the well-known clubman and owner of the Bronxville National League checkers team, was insisting on replying in the affirmative to the obviously skeptical query of the presiding clergyman as to whether he really intended to take this woman (many years his senior and far from prepossessing in appearance) for his wedded wife, the voice of a Mr. Phipps, from the back of the sacred edifice, cried in tones of sincere self-congratulation, "There, but for the grace of you, my friend, goes Henry Murgatroyd Phipps!"

Of recent years the popularity of the home wedding has grown till it now threatens to make the church wedding a thing of the past. I, personally, am a strong advocate of the wedding in the home. It has numerous obvious advantages; principally, of course, the fact that you are closer to the refreshments.

IT IS not, however, without its drawbacks. I cannot impress too strongly upon young people who are thinking of being married in the ancestral apartment of the advisability of disconnecting the telephone before the ceremony begins. Nothing looks worse than to have the bridegroom, just when the cue is coming for his big line, called away by an imperious summons from an exflame of his in a musical comedy chorus. It requires more tact than the average bridegroom possesses to enable him to resume the proceedings without having caused a certain uneasiness among his assembled friends and relations.

Another drawback is the fact that in the modern apartment house the walls are as a rule remarkably thin. It does not conduce to the dignity and empressement of the ceremony when the clergyman's address is punctuated with such remarks — muffled, no doubt, but always clearly audible—as "Nits and gnats," "Queens and Fish-hooks," "Thirty-mile!" "All pink!" "Three janes and a pair bullets"—and other ejaculations … arable from our great national … game. Nor is it a situation … free from embarrassment when, … as the hired violinist is striking … "The Voice That Breathed … Eden," somebody on the floor … turns on his radio with "The … Drag."

The practice of holding rehea… of the actual wedding ceremony … that is finding increased favor in … advanced days. It has many … advantages, notably the fact … enables the bride to lessen the … ble shock to her betrothed by … istering her relations to him in … doses instead of in one enor… lump. Nor is it a situation wholly free from embarrassment when, just as the hired violinist is striking up "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden," somebody on the floor above turns on his radio with "The Varsity Drag."

The practice of holding rehearsals of the actual wedding ceremony is one that is finding increased favor in these advanced days. It has many obvious advantages, notably the fact that it enables the bride to lessen the inevitable shock to her betrothed by administering her relations to him in small doses instead of in one enormous lump. It will be found that by the time he has become inured to her various aunts and cousins, he is in a more favorable position for bearing up against her Uncle Paul from Junction City.

But I could write forever about weddings. There is no more fascinating subject. Whether it be the first wedding of a this year's debutante or the latest of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, it cannot fail to stir the emotions of the most stolid readers. It is a turning-point in two lives.

And let all patriotic Americans remember that every wedding that is solemnized has in it a possible—even a probable—impetus for the great America First movement, turning as it does the minds of the contracting parties from the effete attractions of Europe—since Paris has cut the American quota—to the more bracing charms of Reno.
